PAUPERISM IN NEWBURYPORT.

The following facts and remarks from the Newburyport Herald, are worthy of attention by every tax payer.

If the abstract of the returns of the poor, just issued by the State, is correct, and we do not doubt that it is, Newburyport has well earned the reputation of being the pauper city of the commonwealth. The whole number of persons relieved or supported as paupers during the year 1853, in the county of Essex, was 3597, of which Newburyport alone—who can believe it?—had one-third. One-third of all the paupers of the county among the 13,000 inhabitants of this city! The towns having the largest numbers were, Newburyport 1290, Salem 578, Danvers 373, Lawrence 343, Lynn 204, Andover 134, Haverhill 122. No other place had one hundred. It will be seen that about one in ten of all our population, men, women and children, natives and foreigners, have been upon the town as paupers in the last twelve months—a period of unexampled prosperity, when labor was in demand, and every person who could and would work received good wages. This is almost incredible.

Of these 1290 persons, 520 had a legal settlement in the town or commonwealth, 546 were natives of England and Ireland, 770 were foreigners, 41 were insane or idiots, 860 became paupers from intemperance, and the total cost to the city was $10,000.

The two last items are worthy of remembrance by every citizen, that the poor tax is two-ninths of the whole city, county and state tax, and that nearly three-quarters of that is from rum. The Maine Law may be right or wrong in the abstract—it may be proper or improper to prosecute liquor dealers; but is it right that a city where one-tenth of the people are paupers should pay $7000 per annum to support the poor, made paupers by dram drinking and rum selling? If it is, we have nothing more to say of the matter; if it is not, what are we to do about it? If $7000 of property should burn every year that the city had to rebuild, we should look after the incendiaries; if the School Committee should exceed the appropriation $7000, we should call them to an account for it, yet $7000 is but one item in the liquor bill, that the city pays every year.

There are three aspects in which we may view the great preponderance of paupers, reported from the city, and it seems to us that our authorities would do well to compare notes with the other large cities and towns, and be able to answer the questions,—first, does the greater number of paupers here arise from a greater amount of poverty than is found in other places; or, second, does it arise from a greater willingness on the part of the poorer classes to receive help from the public treasury; or, third, does it arise from greater liberality on the part of the overseers, in furnishing help to all the poor and needy. If the last is the true reason, which we think may be the case, then is our city deserving of credit for greater care and liberality of the poor, instead of the disgrace under which we labor, apparently, on the face of the returns, of having a greatly disproportionate amount of actual poverty and want.

The following paragraphs from the same paper, are connected with the same subject.

We learn that bills were last week found by the Grand Jury now sitting in Salem, against a large number of liquor dealers in this county, including no small proportion of those in this city. A crowd of witnesses were down yesterday, and the complainants, whoever they may be, are making pretty thorough work of it. In the present condition of the liquor question this operation will do little towards suppressing the sale. The dealers will be irritated, pay the fines, and the business will go on as ever. No one can believe that the sale will be stopped just now; and that being the case it would be vastly better until the judgment of the Supreme Court is had, for the Mayor to look after and reform or stop all such as render the places nuisances, than to have this indiscriminate taxation that can accomplish no good end.

A petition is now before the Mayor and Aldermen, asking the appointment of a City Agent to sell spiritous liquors. If one shall be appointed who shall sell pure liquors for mechanical and medical purposes, and do it legally, it will be a good thing.

A DARTMOOR PRISONER.—Died in Beverly, Mr. George Smith, aged 67. The deceased was one of the Dartmoor prisoners. During the war of 1812 he was taken from on board the brig Levant, Capt. Haskell, of Salem, by the British naval 20 gun brig Forrester, Commander Kennedy, sent to Nassau, NP, and remained there till August. Left there in the frigate Surprise, Sir Thomas Cochran, commander, for the Chesapeake; was a prisoner in the fleet during the attacks on Washington and Baltimore; sent thence to Halifax, and from there to Plymouth, England, and thence to Dartmoor, in December, where he remained until July, 1845, when he left in the cartel ship Mary of Leith, Monroe, master, and arrived at Boston in August.

THE LATE S. S. PRENTISS.—The House of Representatives has directed the payment to the widow of Sargeant S. Prentiss, late of Mississippi, any balance which may be due him under a resolution of the House, passed February 6, 1838, providing for pay and mileage while contesting a seat in the House.

The verdict in the case of the explosion at Ravenswood, was, with regard to the cause of the explosion, that it proceeded from the careless use of a spirit lamp for heating grease used in the manufacture of cartridges; and that the building was in charge of a female, not competent by age or experience to the position in which she was placed.

FRIDAY, FEB. 3, 1854.

SOLDIERS OF 1812.

There is an effort now making to procure pensions for all the surviving soldiers of the war of 1812, and the widows and orphans of such as have died.

We hope the effort may be successful; for the pay of a common soldier is a miserable pittance. The Boston Mail says:

It is hardly reasonable to suppose that men, for the poor stipend of eight or ten dollars per month, would have risked all the soldiers risked, and suffered all the soldiers suffered, in that unequal struggle. They must have been actuated by a feeling of patriotism which was not to be measured by any conditions under which they were, or could be, enlisted.—It was not a war, on their part, of usurpation; it was not entered into by them for the purpose of plunder. It was strictly a war of defence—a war which appeals, not to the selfish or mercenary spirit, but to the most exalted feelings of the human heart.

It is a pity to spoil so much patriotic romance, nevertheless a great part of it must be spoiled, if that distance be taken away, which lends enchantment to the view. Uncle Toby's recollections of the war of 1812 are quite fresh; and he remembers the drums and fifes of that day, the bass drums and bugles, the latter being then novel instruments here. He remembers the performers as well as the instruments, and could call them by name were it needful. Some of them, (peace to their ashes,) were as good fellows as ever whistled, and many of them were dreadfully addicted to occasional drinking, which being formed into a habit of drunkenness, damaged them essentially as musicians, and almost spoiled them as men.

The rendezvous for the army was open all day, late in the evening, and along into the night. Liquor was always very plentiful and very free in the neighborhood, and the Flag of our glorious Union flaunted from the chamber windows, and floated from the flag staff on the top of the rendezvous. One of the buildings where it was kept, was a large one, long since burnt down,—and it looked, in the midst of the neighboring grog shops, something like a King's Ship convoying a fleet of West India Merchantmen.

In these places, in the town of Portsmouth, or in the shops, as the soldiers marched round town, daily, new recruits signed their names, enlisting as soldiers, many of them during the war; and it is no romance, but "a sad and o'er true tale," that of all the men who thus enlisted here, very few if any were free from liquor, and most of them were even then considered drunkards. Far be it from Uncle Toby to say or feel that they were not patriotic—farther still to say that they were sinners above all men. No indeed; they were the poor, despised victims of a vicious and foolish custom—despised too by men of no better lives than themselves, only they were richer, and stood higher, and kept or were kept more out of sight in their sottishness.

What he does mean to say, however, is this: that these poor fellows, so far from giving up any business, relinquishing any prospects, or risking any change for the worse,—really gained many substantial benefits by their enlistment. Their uniform, coarse though it was, clothed most of them better than they had been clad for years. Their regular and substantial ration of bread and meat was a great improvement on their previous irregular, fitful and uncertain meals. The small ration of bad potato gin which they had as soldiers, was not so mischievous as their previous unlimited potations; and their eight or ten dollars a month, pittance though it was, exceeded their average earnings for a long time before.

The militia who were here ordered out, and the Sea Fencibles and some others who enlisted here for seaboard defence, cannot be justly included in the above remarks, which apply only to the regular soldiers enlisted here at that time, amounting to two or three hundred.

Having said thus much by way of correcting a great error, now let us repeat our desire to have the projected pension law succeed, not because the men were patriots, but because the country owes them and their heirs a just debt. The regular soldiers had some bounty lands, of which the Mail truly says:

A few took possession of their lands, and endured all the hardship of pioneers in a new settlement, before the property could be made available. Others parted with their rights for a song, and others still surrendered them altogether, as too remote to be worth looking after. As a general thing the bounty lands did not subserve the purpose for which they were granted, and were totally inadequate to meet the debt of gratitude which the country owed to the soldiers who risked their lives in its defence.

We perceive that the soldiers of the war of 1812 have just held a convention at Philadelphia, in order to memorialize Congress for an extension of the pension act. They ask that it may be made to apply to the disabled soldiers, and widows and orphans of the soldiers of that war. They ask that they may be placed on the same footing with Mexican volunteers in regard to bounty of lands. All this we consider no more than reasonable, and proper, and just.

This is the true ground; and we cannot but think the motion will be successful.

"MUSIC IN PORTSMOUTH" AGAIN.

As we stated some time in July last, there were those interested in the letter published in the New York Musical World and Times of July 9th, 1853, who would not let the matter rest till every exertion was made to discover the author. Accordingly, in the course of a correspondence between one of the gentlemen in this city whose name is signed to the note below, and Mr. Oliver Dyer of New York; the latter stated that he would, if desired, make public the facts in the case. This induced the forwarding of the following note to Mr. Dyer, which, with his reply, we take from the New York Musical Review of this week. Messrs. Oliver Dyer and R. S. Willis were publishers of the Musical World, at the time the scandalous letter appeared; Mr. Dyer has since retired from the concern. But read the correspondence, and see whether it throws any light upon the matter.

From the New York Musical Review, Feb. 2, 1854.

ANOTHER MATTER SET RIGHT.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Jan. 23, 1854.

MR. OLIVER DYER:

DEAR SIR: For reasons connected with public justice, individual reputation, and personal veracity, we respectfully request you to publish in the New York Musical Review, what you know of the authorship of a letter signed "Karl Meinerth," which was published in the Musical World and Times of July 9, 1853. Yours, &c.

J. W. CLARK, T. H. MILLER,
THOS. P. MOSES, SAMUEL N. PLUMER,
THOMAS W. MILLER.

REPLY.

"What I know" of this matter is this: A short time after the publication of the letter referred to, a slightly-built young gentleman, about five feet eight (or ten) inches in height, wearing (with other unobjectionable garments) a black dress coat and white felt hat, called at the Musical World office, and told Mr. Willis (I had no conversation with him) that his name was C. Meinerth; that he was the author and writer of said letter; that its publication had exasperated some of the citizens of Portsmouth; that his (Meinerth's) fashionable patrons thought the writing such a letter most ungentlemanly; that, in short, he had got into a bad scrape, from which he was very desirous of being extricated.

In order to extricate himself, Mr. Meinerth said he had denied, point blank, that he wrote the letter, and had also started a rumor that some enemy had written it for the purpose of injuring him. He now wished, he said, the Musical World to back up his assertions—in other words, lie him out of the scrape he had lied himself into. The Musical World declined to perform the part Mr. Meinerth had assigned it in the programme. He then wrote an article in which he himself denied being the author of the letter; said article was refused a place in the Musical World. Mr. Meinerth (if I remember rightly) subsequently sent another denial from Portsmouth, which was also rejected. O. D.

It may not be out of place to republish here, one of the notes which Mr. Meinerth left at our office for publication, immediately after the objectionable letter appeared. It was first published in the Chronicle of July 11th, 1853.

Messrs. Editors Chronicle:—Permit me simply to state through your paper that the article in the last Musical World and Times is not from my pen, although my name is signed (wrongfully Karl, I write always Carl,) to it. It needs scarcely this my statement, as it is evident, that no man with common sense will ever believe that another man with common sense would write such an article for publication with his name fixed under it. Notwithstanding, I will endeavor to give every one interested in the matter, clear evidence of the forgery. CARL MEINERTH.

So Mr. Meinerth and Mr. Dyer are at issue on this point—the authorship of this piece of silly trash. The people generally who are acquainted with the facts in the case, were convinced on the subject before, as Mr. Meinerth acknowledges the entertaining of similar notions, which he has before put on record in the Portsmouth Journal of Dec. 4, 1852. We see no excuse for the publication of those articles in the Journal or the Review, except for the purpose of criticism; unless, indeed, the editors thought the worst thing they could do for the writer was to give him publicity.

OLD ENGINES.

A practical man makes a suggestion, in regard to one of the old engines, which is entitled to consideration. It is simply to deposit one of these old but very good engines, at the city farm, where there are buildings of great value. If these buildings should take fire when there was such a snow as has lain there within the last month, our engines from the centre of the city could not be conveyed thither, in season to save any thing. A building to hold the engine would cost but a trifle; and until it is built, it might be otherwise housed.

There are excellent men to use an engine, living in that neighborhood, who might compose a company,—and in case of a fire in the city, horses are at hand to draw the tub to the place of danger, if the travelling is fit.

ORDINATION.—At St. John's Church, in this city, on Friday last, Jan. 27, Mr. Andrew Oliver was admitted to the holy order of deacons in the Protestant Episcopal Church, by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Chase. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Burroughs, rector of the parish, assisted by the Rev. Wm. E. Armitage. The sermon was preached and the candidate presented by the Rev. Thomas R. Lambert, chaplain, U. S. navy. Mr. Oliver was for several years a member of the bar in Boston.

CITY COUNCIL.—In the Board of Aldermen, the Committee on Bills reported the Snow Ordinance with amendments, which were adopted, and the bill passed.

In the Common Council—no quorum present. [When the snow has ceased falling the above ordinance will probably be passed.]

CITY LYCEUM.—On Thursday evening, at the Cameneum, Rev. Mr. Armitage gave a pleasant and beautiful lecture on Childhood—its Charms and its Claims: in discussing which he plead ably for naturalness and ease in children, and for a steady, rational and moral culture by parents, without undue precocity in the juveniles, or hot bed forcing by the seniors.

The lecture was favorably received, and deservedly so, except in one particular, viz. that it was somewat apologetic.

PUBLIC HOUSES.—The Hotel on Market Square in this city, formerly known as the Granite Eating House, has been much improved within a year. Col. Wm. S. Hadley, the proprietor, has enlarged and decorated his accommodations, and run up a new sign, "Granite House." At nine o'clock Wednesday evening, a company numbering about eighty, sat down to a capital venison supper at the "Granite." The bill of fare was eaten through with gusto. No liquors were served on the occasion. The Col. is hard to beat, in hotel-keeping generally, and especially in getting up a feast.

The "City Hotel," formerly Mansion-House, has been leased by Mr. Stephen Day, formerly of Newport, N. H., who is henceforth to be known as mine host of the "City." Messrs. Fernald still carry on the extensive stables conected therewith, as heretofore.

DEATH OF A PORTSMOUTH WOMAN.—Died, in Portland, Me. Jan. 31st, Sarah A., widow of Col. Charles Hayes, late of Bangor, 49. She died at the residence of her daughter's husband in Portland, Mr. Attorney Shepley. Mrs. Hayes (says the Boston Courier) was a native of Portsmouth, N. H., and she has been so much connected with hotel-keeping—at the Bangor House, and other respectable places of sojourn—that she has left "troops of friends" who will sorrow over her departure. She was connected with the great house at Gorham, N. H., on the line of the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railroad, at the foot of Mount Washington, from the time of its establishment, and her excellent qualities served to make the house what it was—one of the best and most comfortable hotels in the country. Mrs. Hayes had passed through a variety of domestic misfortunes, the last of which was the loss of a favorite son. She was truly "a noble lady," and it may faithfully be said—

"None knew her but to love her,
None knew her but to praise."

THE LAST OF EARTH.—The remains of the late Capt. Eben Knight were brought to this city yesterday, accompanied by Mr. Allen and Alderman Murphy, of New York city, and deposited for burial. The remains were brought round Cape Horn by the ship Messenger, which arrived at Philadelphia after the remarkably short passage of 82 days.

PORTSMOUTH SHIPS.—The question is raised, Do the Kittery carpenters tell falsehoods, when they certify that their ships were built in Portsmouth? We answer, No: They begin their certificate at the Custom House by dating it, Portsmouth, N. H. Jan. 10, 1854, (for example,) and then go on to certify that the good ship A. B. was built, within the District of Portsmouth, &c. Now as Kittery and Eliot, Berwick and Newmarket are all within the district of Portsmouth, they all come truly within the term Portsmouth ships.

MAINE SHIPS vs. PORTSMOUTH SHIPS.—Two or three wharf-loads of New Hampshire white oak, may now (and frequently) be seen at the North End, waiting transport to Belfast, Me., to be wrought into Maine ship-frames.

SHIP MODELS.—Some controversy has arisen relative to the origin of the ship models now in use. The invention has been claimed by some of the oldest New York builders, but after proper investigation it has been awarded to Orlando B. Merrill, Esq., of Newburyport, who is now living, at the age of 90 years, and made the first water line model, on the plan now in use, in the year 1794; previous to that time, there were used only skeleton models, composed of pieces showing the ribs, &c. of the ship. The Herald has received from New York the following paragraph for publication:

At a stated meeting of the New York Historical Society, held at its rooms in the University of the city of New York, on Tuesday evening, June 7, 1853:

Mr. De Peyster presented the original ship model, made by the inventor, Orlando B. Merrill, of Belleville, Mass., in 1794, now 90 years of age. The model was given to David Ogden, of New York, in Feb. 1853, who presented it to the New York Historical Society.

Extract from the minutes,

ANDREW WARNER, Rec. Sec'y.

☞ Mr. Frazer, a celebrated tenor singer, is to give a concert at the Temple next Monday evening. We have never heard him, but he comes highly recommended by some of the ablest political, literary and musical papers in New York and elsewhere, from which recommendations we select the following, from the Musical World and Times.

Mr. Frazer, formerly of the Seguin Troupe, closed his series of interesting Ballad Entertainments, at the Stuyvesant Institute on last Saturday evening. Mr. Frazer is a fine ballad singer and exhibits much taste in his selections. He prefaces each song and ballad with a history of their origin, a sketch of the writer and composer, or with interesting anecdotes of Vocal and Musical celebrities. His lectures are got up with much care, and contain really new and interesting matter. His elocution and manner are pleasing, and he throws just enough of the dramatic into his singing, fully to enlist the attention and sympathy of his audience, without displeasing by over-action. We commend his entertainment to our friends.

☞ In another paragraph to-day, we copy from a Boston Commercial report, a statement that the stock of Flour is small. But per contra, the Boston Traveller of Thursday evening says, "We understand that there are not less than one hundred and sixty thousand barrels of flour now in the hands of dealers in this city."

This does not look like a great scarity; being more than a barrel each, for every man, woman and child, or enough to last them about a twelvemonth. Of course three quarters of all this quantity is for sale.

CONGRESS.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 1.

SENATE.—Mr. Slidell's resolution, with regard to injunctions of secrecy on the Senate proceedings, after being amended, was adopted.

A resolution of inquiry, as to the propriety of constructing a National Foundry in Philadelphia, was also adopted.

The Vermont Senator case was debated, Mr. Williams of New Hampshire supporting the view of the majority of the Committee in favor of Mr. Phelps, and Mr. Bayard taking the opposite ground.

Mr. Phelps got the floor, but yielded until to-morrow, and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Considerable discussion took place in the House on the Erie Railroad difficulties, and as to the disposition of the bill to punish mail obstructions, but nothing was done.

The House then went into committee on the Deficiency bill, but without coming to a conclusion, adjourned.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 1.—Fire.—The Missouri Iron Works at Wheeling, Va., were entirely destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is about $60,000.

Slavery Case.—The Deputy Marshal from New York has arrived at Norfolk, having in custody a fugitive slave who was taken from a vessel below New York.

Loan Bill.—The Maryland House of Representatives has passed to a third reading the bill authorising the city of Baltimore to loan five million dollars to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. The bill previously passed the Senate.

FROM ST. THOMAS.—Captain Frisbee, of the schooner Eliza of this port, writes from St. Thomas, under date of January 14th:

"The cholera is raging violently here, with from fifty to sixty deaths daily. It is, however, mostly confined to the blacks. Happily for us mariners, there has not yet been a case among the shipping. The small pox prevails to some extent, and a few cases of fever. I learn that vessels from this Island are not at present admitted to the ports in Porto Rico."

BREADSTUFFS, PROVISIONS, &c.

In Boston, the prices of Flour have been quite unsettled, and the stock small. Previous to the last steamer's news, common Western had sold for $9 50, extra 10, extra Genesee 11 50. After that news, the Atlas of Wednesday says:—There is very little desire on the part of holders to realize, and some of the leading extras are not offered at less than $12, which is equivalent to withdrawing them from the market.

The Courier of Thursday, speaking of the previous day, says:—The demand for Flour to-day has been very quiet; market unsettled and prices entirely nominal. Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

A CHANT.

BY A TEETOTALLER.

Hence away, loathed Melancholy,
Friends around again we see:
Banish care, and let's be jolly,
Eating Muffins, drinking tea.

Round the social board we'll cluster,
(That which names from tea I mean,)
And wash down the festive "buster"
With deep draughts of Black and Green.

What care we for Beer-Elings' prices?
Or the bitters of the vat?
Adam's pale ale never rises,
There's no strychnine, boys, in that!

What to us the size of bottles?
Pint or quart, who cares a jot?
While we to tea confine our throttles,
Ours will always be a Pot.

(Only mind, lest "Fine Young Hyson"
Be a synonyme for "sloe;"
And beware the aqueous poison
Which from filthy Thames doth flow.)

Jovial boys, come pass the Sally
Lunn, nor let the crumpet stand:
Round the jocund kettle rally,
And silence for its song demand.

Water from its dumpy level
Shall elevate each thirsty soul;
And if dull care approach our revel,
We'll drown it in the sugar bowl.

Thus we'll pass each festive season,
From all indigestion free:
And enjoy the feast of reason,
Coupled with the flow of tea.—Punch.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $40 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by this Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green St.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Sold by Dr. Tobias, 240 Green street, New York.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in the United States and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDER REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginsing and Malva with great success.

THE GUESTS:

And what the strange Old Man does in the Old House every Christmas night.

The angels bend in heaven's arch to-night,
And sprinkle snow-flakes on the City's streets;
The wind moans round the chimney-tops in fright,
And sprightly hail taps every one it meets.

The lamps that stud the white and pearled way,
Glare like mad demons through the blinding storm;
Shop-windows watch the snow sprites as they play,
Or throw their rays upon some passing form.

'Tis Christmas night; and while from street to street
The echo hurries, like a startled mouse,
And phantom laughs are mingling with the sleet,
An Old Man sits within an olden house.

The house is quaint, odd-fashioned, and antique;
Grim Time has passed his palm across the roof,
And left it wrinkled. 'Tis so sad and bleak
At twilight play the children keep aloof.

There's not a sound in all its sombre halls,
And brooding Silence sits upon the stair;
One can most see the "quiet, as it crawls"
Along the entry through the biting air.

Why sits the old man in the big old room,
Watching the hearth-light o'er the mouldings climb?
The man and chamber in its ghostly gloom,
Seem things forgotten in the flight of Time.

Why sits he thus beside the wide-mouthed hearth?
Does he call up sweet forms that, like the leaves,
Have mixed with flowers in the wombed earth?
Or does he hear the hail upon the eaves?

The jingling sleighbells in the street below,
The cobbles that shot droppeth down the flue,
The huntsman wind that whistles to the snow,—
Are these the noises that he listens to?

Or does he catch the echoes of the Past,
Like fine vibrations of a distant bell?
Do mem'ries fall upon him thick and fast
As hail without upon the snowy swell?

I Wot not either; but the Old Man seems
A link between this mortal life and death,—
A dreamy pilgrim to the Land of Dreams,
His life, a feather balanced on a breath.

He bends his head; he hears the panels creak;
Then by the chimney leaves his cushioned chair;
And, with a joy his moistened eyes speak,
He draws three seats beside his own with care.

He holds his hands out, as if to grasp
Some other hands; he sighs and smiles and sighs:
Now stands as if within some loving clasp,—
His eyes intently gaze in other eyes.

And now he points his phantom guests their seats.
He heaps fresh fuel upon the fire-place;
And all is still, save one quick heart that beats
In yonder clock, within its coffin case.

O, what a queer Old Man! and does he see
Ethereal spirits seated in those chairs?
Do souls come back from God's eternity
To mingle with us and our daily cares?

I do believe it! and 'tis grand to feel
That, when the zephyrs fit our revered hair,
Some friend's hand does it; and at every meal
The loved are near us, round us like the air.

But see! he smiles, O! sure some airy one
Has twined a sunbeam round his parted lips;
He hears a voice, a voice from him alone—
We hear it not, nor see the ghost that trips

Around the arm-chair of the dreamy man.
A lip intangible his own lip nears;
It tells so kindly on his thin cheeks wan
The old man weeps—and slumbers in his tears.

And every year when holy christmas comes,
He draws those chairs within the hearth-stone gleams,
And fondly all his viewless household sums,
Then falls asleep 'mid kisses, tears, and dreams.

New York, 1854. T. B. A.

GEN. HOUSTON IN PROVIDENCE.—On Monday, Gen. Houston, U. S. Senator from Texas, was in Providence, and visited the State Legislature. In the Senate, at the desire of members, he made a few remarks. In the evening he delivered a lecture on "The Indians of North America." The Journal awards the distinguished Senator high credit for the very able, feeling, and statesmanlike manner in which he treated his theme. The lecturer made the following declaration, the truthfulness of which we apprehend cannot be impeached:

"From early boyhood I have lived on the borders of civilization, and have seen much of Indian life and character; and never knew an Indian treaty violated, but that, when sifted to its bottom, it was found that its first violaters were the white men."

The General is opposed to the organization of territorial governments in Nebraska, as will be seen from the following paragraph from the Journal's report:

"He alluded to the excitement now springing up in the country in reference to the Nebraska territorial bill. He was on the committee which reported it, but was himself warmly opposed to it." (Applause.) It was a violation of the faith of solemn treaties.—Eighteen tribes of Indians live within the limits of the proposed territory, and are owners in fee simple of the soil, and they cannot be displaced without the commission of great national crime. His remarks upon this point were warmly received, and there was not a single person in the audience whose sentiments on this interesting question did not accord with those advanced by this distinguished Senator."

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.—At Exeter Hall, London, Rev. Dr. Cummings lately lecured on the 'Signs of the Times.' He said that the Prophet Daniel had prophesied 1300 years would be the duration of Mahommedan power, but it did not follow that Russia would plant the cross of St. Sophia. On the contrary, he thought that the 12,000,000 of Mahommedans might become Christians! The events of the year 1848 had been clearly alluded to in prophecy, and he calculated that 1864 would bring about the fulfilment of the apocalyptic prophecies, and the commencement of a better age—the good time coming!

For the first time in a great many years the Mississippi is frozen over opposite Alton. The Missouri is closed hard and tight at St. Charles, and teams have crossed during the last few days in safety.

Morning Chronicle.

SATURDAY, FEB. 4, 1854.

THE TWO POPES.

The last Boston Pilot contains a leading editorial article under the above title, the object of which appears to be, to prove that at this day, the Pope could not be an effective spiritual head of the Church, if he were not also a temporal prince. Among other things, the writer says:

When the Pope, as Prince is hurt, the Pope as Bishop is hurt also. You cannot separate the two. When Mr. Mitchel's friends, the Reds of Rome, hang the Prince, Pius IX, to the cross of St. Peter's Church, assuredly the Bishop, Pius IX, will hang there too.

Bogota, Prussia, Baden, Holland, Sardinia, England, Ireland, and other countries have, within our own day, furnished abundant proof that if the Pope were not a temporal sovereign, he would not be a free agent. Outside pressure, or coercion, whether from kings or from popular strength is inadmissible. The moment you admit it, you make the Pope, as it were, the head of a national church,—a sectional church. In ages of Faith, and in ages of persecution, the Pope might safely be a subject. But this age, and the few last ages, belong to neither class.

Here it is, plain as daylight. Outside pressure, by kings or people, on the pope, is inadmissible; and the pope's temporal and spiritual power must be one and indivisible.

Now let us see how beautifully this union of the Church and State did its work under Cardinal Bedini, who is now in this country, very appropriately clothed, like the pope his master, with both political and priestly power.

He comes here as the Pope's Nuncio, to visit the Roman Churches,—and he comes also charged with a civil embassy of some sort from the Pope as Civil Ruler of Rome, to our President. Germans and Italians in this country express their indignation at him for alleged cruelty. Our Senate cries out shame; Mr. Cass says he is a very proper man, and Mr. Everett says he has met him in genteel circles round Boston.

Now let us see what the Italians say, who know all about the man and his antecedents.

The Italians of New York held a meeting on Monday and adopted an address to be submitted to the people of the United States, setting forth in plain language, the conduct (as they allege) of the Nuncio while he was the civil Governor there. They charge him with having entered Bologna as a spy and emissary of Pius 9th, in order to corrupt the Swiss troops commanded by Gen. Latour, and his life was saved from the popular fury only by the aid of that General, who found means to privately remove him from the reach of the people.

They also charge him with having entered Bologna triumphantly in '49, amid the smoking of Austrian cannon and supported by Croat bayonets, as "Extraordinary Pontifical Commissary of the Four Legations." They say that he arrived there in the most exuberant spirits, and in concert with the Austrian Commandant established the state of siege; he published a proclamation, wrote with his own hand the lists of proscription, imprisonment and death, and approved the disconsecration and shooting of Ugo Bassi in the name of the Pope.

The address gives a list of about fifty individuals who were executed or condemned to the galleys in the city of Bologna alone, in the three months from September to November, during the stay of Bedini, and denounces him as the instigator, co-operator and inhuman spectator of the patriots' massacre. It is signed by seventy-seven Italian names.

Following the address is a postscript, in which is quoted the following paragraph from "The History of Italy from Sept. 1, 1848, to Dec. 31, 1850," by Angelo Pinto:

"Father Ugo Bassi, surprised by the Austrians on the road, was conducted in heavy chains to Bologna. There, in mock forms, brought before a drum-head trial, he was summarily condemned to death. Before he underwent the fatal punishment, he was disconsecrated by the Ecclesiastical authority; and, on the 8th of August, a double vengeance was consummated on the Monk of Bologna; for the iron of the priests and the lead of the Austrians co-operated in the sacriligious homicide."

A note explains that the word disconsecration signifies skinning those parts of the hands, forehead, and crown of the head, which were touched in the ceremony of consecrating a Roman ecclesiastic. The Chief of the Ecclesiastical Authority was Bedini.

The postscript also contains a declaration from one Giorgi Guiseppe, a native of Bologna, who swears that he was arrested in Mantua for participation in political affairs, and that he was consigned to the care of Austrian General Marziani, who kept him in prison twenty-two months without examination. He then petitioned M. Bedini to interfere in his favor, but his petition was returned with the following words written upon it: "I am astonished that General Marziani has not yet had you shot."

Besides the abovementioned address to the people, which we find abridged in the Boston Journal, the New York Herald contains an address to Bedini, signed by the same 77 Italians, and closing as follows:

Bedini! We never have thought of taking your life. Our soul has always been very different from yours. We well know that if you were dead, the heads of the Hydra would reproduce themselves. Live then! but, like Cain, everywhere accompanied with the maledictions of three generations—the past, the present, and the future.

We conclude by expressing our gratitude to all those who, partaking of our resentment, have given you, in different places in the United States, public expressions of reprobation. Like us, they know that the three most conspicuous Italian friars, zealous for liberty, were Arnaldo de Brascia, who was burnt alive by order of Pope Adrian IV.; Girolamo Savanarola, hung and burnt at the command of Pope Alexander VI.; and Benedetto de Fojano, starved to death at the express order of Clement VII.; and that it was reserved, in this age of progress, to have a Pope in Pius IX., who should sacrifice by means of you, the fourth great patriot in the person of the friar Ugo Bassi.

Now we ask our readers, what they think of such a holy government as these Italians describe? and also whether it is wise to trust civil power in the hands of a hierarchy?

The Manchester, N. H. Union Democrat comes out in decided opposition to the Nebraska bill of Mr. Douglas. It says:

We trust the bill in its present shape, may receive its quietus in the Senate—and at once. We don't want any more agitation. Senator Douglas violates a cardinal principle of the Baltimore Platform by reviving this controversy. He may find it profitable—or he may not; but he may as well understand now as ever, that the country will demand of him some stronger guaranty of fidelity to the second Compromise, than infidelity to the first.

We do not see the N. H. Union Democrat, but cut the above from the Lowell Advertiser. Must there not be some mistake here? Is the Union Democrat against the Nebraska bill? We had some how got the idea that it was bound to follow whithersoever the patriarchal institution led the way. Senator Douglas certainly lays down, in his speech, the position that the great compromise of 1850 repealed every previous guaranty of freedom, and deems all those men agitators who do not swallow his new dose without winking. And now,—can we believe our eyes?—the Union Democrat calls Douglas himself an agitator. Well, Republics are ungrateful.

COMPETITION IS THE LIFE OF BUSINESS.—A year or two ago the Congregationalists undertook to raise a subscription of $50,000, to aid in the erection of places of worship in the new settlements, and elsewhere. They succeeded in raising the amount, and something additional. Next the New School Presbyterians, emulating this example, and desiring to surpass it, undertook to raise $100,000 for similar purposes, and are approaching the accomplishment of their object. The Old School Presbyterians follow suit, and are about to raise $100,000 for church extension. Thus, these three denominations, differing in name, but not much in doctrine, will make up an aggregate of a quarter of a million dollars, in the course of two years or so, for the extension of church accommodations in connection with their respective organizations. Although denominational zeal may have something to do with all this, yet it cannot be doubted that it will result in much good.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

AN UNEXPECTED VISITOR.—On Friday afternoon a gentleman made his appearance at the Wells School, and rapping at the door of one of the rooms, was ushered in by the Master. The stranger asked if visitors were allowed to enter, during school hours, and hear the recitations. The Master expressed himself as very happy to receive visits from any one who felt interested in the school system, and after some further conversation the stranger was requested to say a few words to the pupils, which he did in a very appropriate manner. The children were highly pleased, and the Master still more so, for the best of advice was given to the pupils—and all were somewhat puzzled in regard to the stranger. The gentleman, however, did not leave them long in ignorance, for, on taking his departure, he handed his card to the Master, who was somewhat surprised to find that his guest was Dr. J. V. C. Smith. Our new Mayor intends to make himself acquainted with what he is not already posted up in, and in his visits to the various departments, we trust he will find as much cause for satisfaction as he expressed after a visit to the Wells School.—Boston Evening Gazette.

MARRIAGE ON A RAILROAD.—A few moments after the express train from Boston to Albany, crossed the State line on Thursday afternoon, the passengers were agreeably surprised at witnessing the marriage of Mr. Wart Arnold, of Canaan Four Corners, to Miss Mary Brazee. The ceremony, (says the Troy Whig) was performed by the Rev. Mr. Shaw, and the passengers presented a purse to the groom for the purchase of a piece of plate for the bride. The happy couple took leave of their fellow passengers at the next station, and returned in the next train with many wishes for a happy termination of their journey.

The members of Rev. Wm. Wright's Society, in Chicopee Falls, lately gladdened the heart of their Pastor, not only by a visit, but by "aid and comfort" in the shape of cash contributions to the amount of $84. Several valuable books, a barrel of flour, and (to show that they were aware that "man cannot live by bread alone") a receipt for one year's subscription to the "Springfield Daily Republican,"—all, and especially the last, worthy of general imitation.

ERIE, Feb. 1.—Governor Bigler arrived here last night. This morning he addressed an immense concourse of people, advising them to commit no violence on persons or property, and assuring them he sympathized with them, and that the rights for which they have been contending are in the hands of the government where they will be protected. He goes to Harbor Creek to-morrow.

ADVANTAGE OF A VICIOUS HORSE.—The barn of Mr. Edwards in Dorchester, near Milton Village, was entered Friday night, and a quantity of agricultural tools, besides several bags of grain, peas, &c., carried off. An attempt was also evidently made to steal the horse, the blanket having been torn off; but the animal having always a peculiar dislike to allow any other than his owner to enter his stall, defended the property of his master in defending himself.

LOCAL.

☞ The remains of Mr. John Shute, formerly a resident of this city, and who died in South Boston on Wednesday, are to be interred in this city on Sunday morning,—funeral services by Rev. Charles Bryant, at the Pleasant Street Church.

C. C. P.—The February term of the Court of Common Pleas for Rockingham County, commences on the 14th inst., at Exeter.

The next term of the Court of Probate will be held at Exeter on the 12d inst.

☞ We are informed that a movement is about being made by the Pleasant Street Christian Society in this city, to build a new Church somewhere in the central portion of the city.

ORGANS AND ORGANISTS.—Messrs. Barton & Cobb are building an organ for the Methodist Church in this city; and have orders, we are informed, to put a swell into the organ at the Middle Street Church. It is also designed to fill up the fine instrument in the Universalist Church at an early day, by putting in some pipes now lacking. The Pleasant Street Society, it is understood, are to devote the proceeds of their Fair to be held the 14th instant, to aid in building a new organ.

For organists—Mr. Moses is temporarily engaged at the Middle Street Church, till his departure for New York; a lady, formerly pupil of his, is organist at the Stone Church, another at the Universalist, and still another at the Pleasant Street Church; and a young gentleman, formerly under his tuition, is organist at the Episcopal Church. The lady who has just resigned the instrument at the Methodist Church, was also a scholar of his, as were the two young ladies who last played the Middle Street organ, and the gentleman who played at the Universalist Church till he resigned in favor of Mr. Parkinson. Mr. P. has received some instruction from Mr. Clark, who still presides with his well known ability and skill at the splendid instrument in the orchestra of the North Church. The beautiful organ at the Hanover Street Chapel has lain silent on some occasions, recently, and we do not know that it has been regularly played since the lady organist there changed her name.

NEW YORK MUSICAL REVIEW AND CHORAL ADVOCATE.—We have before spoken of this valuable semi-monthly publication, by Mason Brothers, of New York. The publishers are, we believe, sons of the distinguished Lowell Mason; and are enterprising and energetic men. The Review is finely printed, in quarto form of 16 pages, well filled with matter of interest and importance. Terms only $1 a year.

We like the Review for the manly way in which it stands up for American talent—taking the ground that in this as well as all other departments of science or art, this nation is inferior to none. It is time the undue deference which has been so long paid by Americans to foreign music and musicians, should be done away. Let both native and foreign compositions and musicians stand on their own respective merits—and Americans will not suffer by the comparison. We knew of an example confirmative of this, not a thousand miles from Portsmouth, and not a hundred years since.

☞ For a fine poetic vision, by T. B. A. see first page of this day's Chronicle. It appeared first in the N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

FLOUR.—One writer in the Boston Journal of Friday evening contradicts the Traveller's statement, that there are 160,000 bbls. of flour in that city. He does not, however, state how much there is! The editor says, the railroads are constantly pouring in supplies—some eight to ten thousand barrels per week being received in the city by the Western, Fitchburg, and Boston & Maine roads: and the Portland Advertiser says:

"Flour is still pouring into Portland from Montreal. By the piles on Atlantic wharf, and in the storehouses, it would seem that none hereabout should be in want for bread."

THE SCHOOL-MATE, a monthly reader, No. 4, vol. 3, for Feb. 1854, is just received from the publishers, Merris Cotton & Co. Boston. $1 per annum.

POSTAGE TO CANADA.—It is not generally understood in the United States, that the postage on letters coming to Canada is ten cents, and that any sum paid in stamps or cash less than the full amount of postage (10 cents) is lost. For instance, the party in Canada receiving a letter on which even nine cents has been paid in the United States, must pay the full postage of ten cents.

MURDER OF A FEMALE.—A Miss Poor, of Alleghany city, Pa., whilst walking through the streets on Sunday evening, 22d inst., was felled by a blow on the head from a person in disguise. She lingered in a state of mental alienation for some days, and then died.

HEAVY VERDICT.—Mrs. Landreaux has recovered a verdict of $20,000 against the New Orleans Railroad Company, in the suit for damages in the death of her husband.

PREPARATIONS FOR WAR IN FRANCE.—New York, Feb. 3.—The Paris correspondent of the New York Staats Zeitung, under date of Jan. 12, writes as follows: "More than one incident proves that there is no disposition to step out of the way of war, but rather very intention to be ready for it. The War Minister has published a decree, by which an additional levy of 80,000 men is ordered.—The fitting out of a third fleet is also decreed. It is to be called the Reserve Fleet, and will be stationed at the harbor of Brest, where it can be made available for any exigency on either the Baltic Sea or the Atlantic Ocean.

In the meanwhile small squadrons of equipped vessels are constantly leaving for the East, and within a day or two an order went off by telegraph, to all the port commandants, to put transport ships in readiness. In fact it is publicly reported that a transport of 70,000 men will shortly sail for Constantinople. The larger portion of this force will consist of French troops, the remainder of English. The rendezvous is Candia.

An expedition of 30,000 African troops is also spoken of, and Gen. Bosquet has been sent to organize it from the French soldiery in garrison there.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH OF PROPERTY STOLEN AND RECOVERED.—A Mr. John Peters of Greensborough, Gilbert county, N. C., on Saturday afternoon, was induced by a prostitute to enter the groggery of John Lane, corner of Centre and Anthony streets, New York, where he had been but a short time when a row was got up by some parties who were in the place. Officer Martin happened to be passing at the time, and hearing the disturbance, endeavored to get into the groggery, but found the door locked. It was, however, opened soon afterwards, and on his entering, Lane requested him to arrest Peters, who, he said, had created a difficulty. Peters then said that he had about $100,000 worth of notes, money and stock in his pockets when he entered the place, and that all of it, together with his watch, had been stolen. Lane was then arrested, and while the officer was taking him to the Police Court he was seen to put something into the outside pocket of Peters's coat. This proved to be the watch which the latter had lost. Lane was conveyed before Justice Osborne, and there searched, and in a pocket, artfully concealed, were found notes and checks to the amount of $50,000, and certificates of stock to the value of $50,000 more. Several hundred dollars in bank bills which Peters had with him have not been found. Peters is an officer in a gold mining company in North Carolina. Lane was committed to prison to answer the charge.

AUSTRALIAN REVENUES.—It is said that the duties on liquors imported into Australia during the past year will net five millions of dollars, which will give an average of nearly six gallons for every inhabitant. The tax upon miners by government for digging, amounted, for six months ending June 1853, to $2,000,000. This tax will be taken off.

The Rockport Railroad Co. has been organized, and a vote has been passed authorizing the Directors to transfer, sell or lease the road to the Eastern Railroad Co. The charter was obtained last year, to connect with the Gloucester Branch Railroad.

CONGRESS.

THURSDAY, Feb. 2.

SENATE.—In the Senate the Printing Committee reported against the establishment of a Government Printing Office.

The House bill granting five years additional time for a location of bounty lands issued for war services in 1812, was passed.

Mr. Clayton's Sandwich Islands resolution was adopted.

A resolution offered by Mr. Bright, calling for the Koszta correspondence was also adopted.

The bill providing accommodations for United States Courts in Massachusetts, was passed.

Mr. Phelps' Vermont case was then brought up, and after Mr. Butler had spoken to the question, was postponed until Thursday next.

After a short executive session the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—In the House, an amendment to the Deficiency Bill, appropriating $40,000 for completing the Custom House at Louisville, was agreed to, as was one offered by Mr. Benton, appropriating $100,000 for a Custom House at St. Louis, and another appropriating $12,500 for a Custom House at Wilmington, Delaware.

The Committee rose without concluding the business. The report of the Directors of the Philadelphia Mint was received, and ordered to be printed. Adjourned.

BENTON AND DOUGLAS.—The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune relates the following:

Some one asked Col. Benton to-day, why he had never pitched into the Little Giant.—"Mr Douglas, sir, Mr. Douglas, sir, said the Colonel, "Ah he reminds me of a story. A man having a fractious bull, and desiring to kill him, was unable to reach him in his prancing and leaping. An old negro standing by, asked his master why he was so anxious to hit the bull? 'Let him alone, Massa, and by and by he jump up so high he break his own neck in the fall.'"

NEBRASKA.—The telegraphic correspondent of the New York Tribune writes from Washington on the 31st—

There is nothing talked of now but Nebraska. A distinguished representative says it is ascertained that there is a majority of seventeen in the Senate in favor of the bill, and if a vote was taken in the House to-day, it would be found that there was a majority in its favor of from eleven to thirteen. He says about four Southern Whigs will vote against it—three from Missouri. That is his opinion. My opinion is, it will be defeated in the House. Some of the Hards are hesitating how to vote.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—We are informed by a gentleman from Niagara Falls, that a German laborer, name unknown, was killed near that place a few days since, under the following circumstances:

He was employed with others in blasting rocks, in "Devil's Hole," on the line of the Falls and Lewiston Railroad, and having been for a long time accustomed to the business, had acquired a recklessness and hardihood which is too often the result of familiarity with danger. It is said that he was accustomed to stand near the place where the charge had been prepared, and ward off or dodge the rocky fragments that came lying about him. This foolish trifling is what cost him his life. He had arranged the charge, applied the match to the train, and stood near awaiting the explosion. A large portion of rock came whizzing toward him—he dodged as usual, but—as fate would have it—thus placed his head in the path of the angry projectile, and it was torn to fragments.—Bufalo Express.

AFFAIRS OF NEW MEXICO.—The St. Louis Republican of Jan. 27th contains advices from Santa Fe to Dec. 25th. The Legislature assembled on the 5th of Dec. The Governor's message was read by him in English and then by the Chief Clerk in Spanish. The revenue of the Territory from taxes has been only $3,836 36, during the year. The terrible cruelties inflicted on Mrs. Wilson by the Indians seem to have excited the most lively indignation in the Territory. Two brothers of Mrs. Wilson are said to be still in captivity among the Indians, together with many hundreds if not thousands of whites—particularly women and children—who are stolen and kept with the hope of reward for returning them.

Up to Dec. 54th, the weather had been very mild; on that day a little snow fell. Kit Carson and others from California had just arrived at Santa Fe. They reported meeting an hundred thousand sheep on the road to California. They met Lieut. Whipple, with a train of wagons near Fort Webster, on his way to Santa Barbara; also Capt. Ewell and a company of dragoons, on their way to the White Mountains. The Osages were becoming troublesome by their thefts.

FIRE IN NEW YORK—RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.—New York, Feb. 3.—The large building, No 293 Bowery, was burnt last night with its contents. It was occupied by McDonald & Brothers, piano forte makers, and several other tenants. Loss about $25,000.—During the fire the roof and floors fell in, burying four firemen in the ruins. They were all rescued alive, but badly injured.

LADIES TRAINS.—It appears by the following paragraph that the regulation of the French Court that ladies on gala occasions should wear the old fashioned and awkward trains to their dresses, does not meet with general favor:

"The new Lanteau de la Cour required to be worn by ladies at the French Court is even more unpopular than was anticipated. Husbands don't like it on account of the expense, and wives shrink from the dancing masters' drill, without which the wearers of the costume cannot hope to avoid appearing ridiculous. The empress alone has train bearers; but other ladies must concentrate all the powers of their minds upon their trains to escape a catastrophe. At the reception of New Year's night there were not more than 200 ladies present out of 800 invited."

At one of the levees at the Palace of the Tuileries, the train of the Empress measured at least 10 feet in length, and was borne by two ladies richly dressed.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

RECIPROCITY AND THE FISHERIES.—The St. John New Brunswicker preserves its opposition to all compromise with regard to the fisheries, and states that "there can be no doubt that public feeling in New Brunswick with reference to reciprocal trade with the United States has undergone a very material change since the question was first agitated, and there is not now a tithe of the anxiety or the desire for its accomplishment which then existed. As regards the fisheries, public opinion may be said to have changed very decidedly, inasmuch as there is now a strong feeling against any concession of our unrivalled fishing privileges, unless for the most ample equivalents, whilst with many there is a decided opposition to a concession, however small, upon any terms whatever.—Boston Courier.

THE MAINE LAW IN IOWA.—The Supreme Court of Iowa, at its present session, decided the liquor law of that State to be constitutional. In the case which came before them, the defendants pleaded that the law was unconstitutional; the indictments should run against the house where the liquor was sold, rather than against the individual who sold it; and according to the State law, but one specified offence should be charged, whereas in the pending indictments several offences were alleged. The Court overruled all these objections, and the case was decided against the defendants.

A NEW BRANCH OF STATISTICS.—A correspondent of the Franklin County (Vt.) Herald, while stopping at a hotel in one of the most populous towns of Vermont, took pains to count the oaths which were spoken in his hearing. The names of the Deity were spoken on Monday, 136 times; Tuesday, 297; Wednesday, 148; Thursday, 369; Friday, 191; Saturday, 205, and Sunday, 331. The prevalence of this vice is a disgraceful feature of the age.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Secret, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's office, 240 Green

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who transacted more business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Febrifuge than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE.

N. B.—BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS, and observe the following Promissory Note, with the fac simile signature of the proprietor, on every genuine box:

AMERICAN PSALMODY.

We extract the following well timed remarks on American Psalmody, from the New York Musical Review,—clipping at random from a much larger article.

We have a class of musical critics and amateurs, who let no opportunity pass to sneer at and ridicule all American music. They seem to think that, in order to build up a reputation for musical erudition and acumen, it is necessary to admit no excellence in any thing that does not bear the name of some great composer. At least, it must emanate from a foreign source, and come from afar; for, with them, "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country." Often these men are really quite ignorant of musical science, and otherwise incapable of forming an intelligent musical opinion; yet they are ambitious to make a show of musical knowledge, and as the world admits the claims of certain great composers, they are safe in going all lengths in favor of such, while it would be mere hap-hazard business, on their part, to commend the work of any others.

Perhaps another motive for such a course may be found in a desire to flatter and propitiate the German musical interest, which is not small among us, and a large portion of which is arrayed against American composers, from a selfish fear that it may be discovered that we are not utterly dependent upon Germany for every musical idea, and the importance of these same Germans be thus somewhat diminished.

More musical progress has been made in the course of the past quarter of a century, and is now making, in the United States, than in any country in the world. Every candid and intelligent observer of musical events, will admit the truth of this statement. In this branch of the fine arts, America may not yet, as she has done in sculpture, have produced the greatest master of the age; but she has done much, is doing more.

Our present purpose is more especially with this despised "American Psalmody;" despised, not by those whose estimation is of much importance, it is true, but by some who have opportunities of reaching the public ear, of which they industriously avail themselves, and who, therefore, deserve notice. We propose to inquire if there be any good in it, or whether it be deserving the contempt it receives from the sources named?

The object of music is to afford pleasure, while it improves the taste, thereby increasing the taste for further gratification. Our ultimate objects might be named; but these are first and chief, so far as music in itself is considered. Sacred music, and especially music as employed in worship, has a more limited but higher purpose, viz: to assist religious feeling.

Music is not good merely because it is in accordance with the laws of musical composition, or at least, this is but negative goodness; nor is it worthy of praise in proportion to its difficulty, ingenuity, or intricacy. Just in the measure in which it adds to the happiness of the human race, is it possessed of true merit.

Examining the compositions of the great masters by the standard here set up, we find them entitled to that first rank which is universally conceded to them; for they gratify in the highest degree the most cultivated and discriminating hearers.

Much of their music, in its more elaborate and difficult forms, requires a high state of education for its appreciation, and hence is not so well adapted to popular usefulness as less learned music which does not require such high cultivation for its enjoyment.

Let us try American Psalmody by this test, and see if it be utterly lacking.

That this American Psalmody pleases is abundantly shown by the fact that it prevails. The people use what they like; they like this Psalmody, as is proved by a sale of 350,000 copies of Carmina Sacra; of 50,000 copies of The Shawm in four months; and similar significant facts.

Strains from Handel, Haydn, Mendelssohn, have been presented to the people in tune-form, but have never attained that acceptation which many works of American composers enjoy.

Moreover, in this same tune-form, specimens of the work of nearly all composers of all nations have been presented; and of these, a majority of such as have become most popular, and best stand the test of time and use, are the works, in whole or in part, of American composers. "Missionary Hymn," "Retreat," "Hebron," "Boylston," "Rock of Ages," "Coronation," "Fountain," "Ariel," "Ortonville," "Zephyr," "Rest," "Heber," are in more extensive use at this day, and are more useful and beloved than they have been at any previous time within the ten to fifty years since their first introduction. Some of the class of tunes of which these are representatives have reached other lands than our own, too; and it is said of one of those named, that it has been sung by more different nations, in more different languages, than any other piece of music ever written.

So far, then, a portion, at least, of our American Psalmody stands the test; it pleases. Does it, however, also improve the taste, and thus increase the capability for gratification? The consideration of this point we must defer until our next number.

Captain Degroot, the popular host of the Prescott House, New York, has sold his interest in that elegant establishment to Mr. Allerton, for the round sum of one hundred thousand dollars.

SOMETHING QUEER.

Some time ago we published a paragraph stating that some clergymen in St. Louis had read in the "Shepherd of the Valley" what they thought was a challenge for any protestants to meet and refute Brownson, the Romanist, if they could. These clergymen, about thirty, sent Mr. B. a letter, offering Dr. Rice as their champion; and Brownson then declined, giving some reasons which we copied at second hand, and on which we made some comment, as to his extravagant assumptions.

We have just read both letters in full, from the Boston Pilot, and now copy from Brownson's the most important part of it.

I could not, permit me to say, consent to meet your chosen champion in the way you propose, without, in some measure, compromising the rights of my religion, conceding that the question between Catholics and Protestants is a debatable question, and granting that Catholicity and Protestantism, in some sense, stand on the same level, a concession to heresy and error, and an indignity to truth, of which, I trust in God, I shall never be guilty. Moreover, during the last nine or ten years, I have published in my Quarterly Review a series of elaborate articles in defence of my religion and in refutation of yours. These articles remain unanswered, and so far as I am aware, no Protestant has seriously attempted to answer them.

There; is not that a most ingenious way of making a distinction without a difference, and so dividing the hair 'twixt south and southwest side? To debate a thing orally, says Brother Brownson, is to confess that it is debatable; but to discuss the same thing in elaborate quarterly books, for ten years together, is to confess nothing. Such logic may do among the Romans; but the Yankees laugh at it.

The extraordinary assumptions, and still more extraordinary reasoning of the author, may probably be the chief reason why Brownson has not been more frequently answered. And as to being serious;—when a man begins an argument by assuming that he and his side are right, and that every body else is wrong, —it is impossible for his opponents to meet him seriously, unless they have serious thoughts of making up a purse and sending him to an asylum for lunatics.

It is said that many of the private soldiers on board the San Francisco, talked of the matter with professional recklessness, saying they might as well be drowned as shot, and catching pigs by the legs, as a sea swept them overboard, exclaiming to the last, "there was no use in going to sea without provisions."

We see this delectable scrap sailing round in the papers. It may do to tell to the marines; but the sailors don't believe any such yarns. A man swept overboard by a sea might catch a pig by the legs, if he was going the same way, but he would hardly have time or breath to make speeches. But perhaps the yarn only means that the pigs were going overboard, and not the soldiers; in which case no bravado could be more empty or ridiculous.

The New York and Great Western, more familiarly known as the Broad Gauge Railroad, will alone cost over seven million dollars. It will be the great trunk road from New York through Ohio, to St. Louis, of one continuous gauge. It is believed that it will be ready for running the cars in less than two years from this time; when through trains from St. Louis to New York city, upon a six foot gauge (without passing through Erie) may be run, without a single change of cars.—Boston Post.

That's a consideration worthy of attention. Some men work hard, gain a sceptre, and then find it barren.

GERMAN MUSICIANS.—Willis's New York Musical World and Times of Saturday, Feb. 4, contains a letter from the Principal of a Female Collegiate Institute, who has been endeavoring to secure the services of an assistant, to teach music, among other things. In a postscript he remarks:—

"I am sorry to say, most German musicians with whom I communicate, either verbally or by letter, are utterly destitute of truth and conscience. A liar, with the talents of a Lind, would not be accepted as a gratuity."

The Times' editor, however, who spent some time in Germany among musicians, thinks his correspondent's experience in this matter is as "unusual as it is melancholy."

TABERNACLE CHURCH.—The last service in the venerable Tabernacle, in Salem, Mass., previous to its removal, is expected to take place on the first Sabbath in March. The society are to build a fine new house in its stead.

PROGRESS.—Samuel Whittemore advertises in the Concord, N. H. Statesman, under caption "Beware of runaway women," that his wife Martha has run away from him "because she cannot wear the breeches at all times, and refuses to return till she can wear them!"

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The Soft Committee at Tammany Hall and the Soft Shell Young Men's Democratic Union Club have both endorsed the Nebraska Bill.

A PLAIN STATEMENT.

The Nebraska Bill.—The Richmond Enquirer says:

"We speak not without authority, when we assert that in respect to the proposition for the repeal of the Missouri restriction, the administration occupies no neutral or adverse ground. The amendment to the Nebraska bill, which restores to the south the rights that were surrendered by the compromise of 1820, has the express and emphatic sanction of the President, and the whole power of his administration is pledged to its support. The south could expect nothing less of President Pierce. The least abandonment of the highest ground, in respect to the constitutional rights of the south, would not only be inconsistent with the uniform tenor of his past course, but would involve a violation of the generous confidence which the south reposed in the character of Mr. Pierce."

Here then, is one measure on which Mr. Pierce's administration plants itself, viz.: the repeal of the Missouri Compromise of 1820. This was Mr. Clay's famous compromise, and was considered at the North to be so unfavorable to the interests of freedom, that most Northern members of Congress who voted for it lost their places. We shall look with some interest at the yeas and nays on the question, when Congress takes the test votes.

The Boston Congregationalist calls the movement an "infamous attempt of Senator Douglas and others to repeal the Missouri Compromise," and says "there is a sublimity in the impudence of this scheme of villany, that almost produces discouragement."

But we think the Congregationalist is too easily discouraged. We remember well the feelings of disappointment and indignation in this community when the Missouri Bill passed; and also a repetition of the same feelings at several successive strides of the slave power. We should neither be discouraged, frightened nor surprised, to see the bill, after a long and stormy debate, pass both Houses, receive the president's signature and become a law. We have been so accustomed to see the pretensions of slavery advance, and to see northern politicians wilt away before them, that we are only surprised when they don't wilt.

But there is another power besides that of law and politics. We mean moral power: and this, slavery has not and cannot have. The thousands who saw this truth in 1820, have multiplied into hundreds of thousands now: and when slavery, by the vote of northern or southern politicians, shall have diffused itself as widely as possible over this country, it will then be morally as weak as ever,—and in the estimation of all sober thinkers, it will still remain a calamity, a disgrace and an injury to every nation that sustains it.

FOREIGN ITEMS.—There have already appeared in France 417 almanacs for 1854, each one averaging 10,000 copies.

A munificent manufacturer in Leicester, England, has undertaken to provide underclothing—shirts, stockings, and drawers—for a thousand Turkish soldiers.

It is asserted in a French publication that the Empress Josephine's mantua-maker's bill for the first ten months of 1806, mounted up to 175,837f., $35,000!

We learn on excellent authority, says an English paper, that Mr. Mitchell, the London manager, has concluded an engagement with Madame Goldschimdt (Jenny Lind) to appear in concerts for six months during the approaching season. The preliminary terms are stated at £25,000.

Destructive Fire in London.—On the night of Saturday, January 7, a destructive fire broke out at Cheapside, in which are the residences of some of the most wealthy persons in the metropolis. The fire raged for eight or ten hours, and the property destroyed was valued at $400,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—The Committee on the San Francisco Fund met to-day and divided the fund as follows:—To Capt. Creighton, of the Three Bells, $2000; Capt. Low of the Kilby and Capt. Stoneffer of the Antarctic, each $1000; Capt. Pendleton, of the ship Lucy Thomson, $250; Capt. Matthews, of the steamer City of New York, $500 and a service of plate; and to Lieut. Murray $500. The balance is to be distributed among the officers and crews of the three rescuing ships. The whole sum collected is $10,000. Capts. Creighton and Lowe were received by a committee of the town meeting at the Girard House this evening, and were addressed by John O. Montgomery, who eloquently thanked them for their conduct. They will be publicly received at Independence Hall to-morrow, when the testimonials will be presented.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.

CAUCUS OF FRIENDS OF THE NEBRASKA BILL.—In accordance with a call for a meeting of Senators friendly to the Nebraska and Kansas bill this morning, the following Senators assembled in the reception parlor of the Senate Chamber. Mr. Toucey of Conn., was president of the meeting. Messrs. Norris of N. H., Thompson of Pa., Bayard and Clayton of Del., Pratt of Md., Mason of Va., Badger of N. C., Toombs of Geo., Fitzpatrick and Clay of Ala., Adams of Mass., Slidell and Benjamin of La., Thompson of Ky., Petit and Bright of Ind., Atchison of Mo., Johnson and Sebastian of Ark., Mallory of Fla., Dodge and Jones of Iowa, Gwin and Weller of Cal. The meeting was conducted with great unanimity, and it was determined that no question should be allowed to interpose until a vote was had on the bill, and that while every liberality would be extended to-day all factious opposition would be put down. Thirty Senators were present, being a majority of the whole Senate, as there are four vacancies. Several Senators who were absent, such as Messrs. Hunter and Dixon, are known to be in favor also.

AN AGED MISER.—A man named Beaving died at Chilcompton, Somersetshire, aged 96. He denied himself of almost every necessary, either food, fire, or clothing. A fortnight since he was visited by a lady, who gave him a shilling, as he told her he was perishing from cold and want of food. He had the tale for any one who went to see him. After his death there was discovered hid about the cottage nearly £200, principally in guineas, and half guineas, several suits of clothes rotten from lying by—and a quantity of coal, which was bought by him twenty-one years since, but which he was too niggardly to burn. There was also found a will, wherein he bequeathed £300, which it seems he had put out at interest, with his other money, &c., to some relatives in America, leaving a poor old relative, who had rendered him every assistance in her power, without a shilling.—Sherborne (Eng.) Journal.

WARRANT OFFICERS OF THE NAVY.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 28, 1853.

DEAR SIR:—By the printed proceedings of the United States Senate, I find that the forward officers of the navy, viz: the boatswains, gunners, carpenters, and sailmakers have petitioned Congress for an increase of pay sufficient to enable them to live above want, which their present small pay does not permit them to do; for it does not average $650 or $700 per annum; and out of this meagre allowance they have to pay exorbitant rents, because their duties call them in the immediate neighborhood of the great commercial cities, where rents are always high; and when on duty at sea they have to maintain, as it were, two families—themselves on board ship, and their families at home. Again they are required to appear as officers, and dress as such, the government having prescribed for them a uniform, which they are strictly enjoined upon to comply with.

Let me now propound the question to any reasonable man who is at all conversant with the cost of living on our seaboard, and ask how it is possible for these officers to meet their necessary expenses with a compensation of only $700 per annum? With safety I think the assertion can be made that not one of this class of officers is clear of debt, unless aided from other sources.

To show in what estimation the services of these officers are held, allow me to give you the language of one of the oldest commanding officers of the service—an officer whose intelligence, active and efficient services well qualify him to be a competent judge. He says:

"I have been called upon to say what my opinion is in respect to the compensation received by the warrant officers of the navy, and I cannot in justice refuse to give the views I entertain in regard to them. Boatswains, gunners, carpenters and sailmakers form a very important class of officers. As the immediate leaders of their respective crews, if able and disposed, they are capable of performing great service, and sometimes by their exertions overcome difficulties which would appear to those not conversant in the calling almost impossible. The good or bad qualities of these officers may also be said to make a sensible difference in the discipline of a man-of-war; coming more in contact with the ship's company than the commissioned officers, they have an opportunity of knowing them better. The thoughts, actions, peculiarities and capabilities of the crew to become capable men, contribute largely to infuse into a ship's company a tone and spirit which a commanding officer might desire to produce.

With such impressions of the usefulness of this class of officers—and that, too, when they have no promotion as a reward for long and faithful services, and when every other grade of mechanics and artizans are demanding, from the necessities of the times, an increase of wages—it appears to me that their pay is not in proportion to the services rendered, when compared with the compensation given in private employ.

To command able and respectable men, their pay should be sufficient to place them above want; and it is admitted that the present pay is not enough to support them and bring up a family, even in the most economical mode possible of doing so."

Such being the general estimation in which these officers are held by those high in command, why should they be kept down upon a compensation entirely inadequate to meet their actual wants?

A fair and impartial inquiry by the naval committees of Congress as to the services and value of these officers, will, I am sure, result in the introduction of a bill allowing them just what their position prays for. L.

ARRIVAL OF THE ARABIA.

A despatch from Halifax, dated Feb. 4, 12.30, says:—The Steamship Arabia has just arrived, from Liverpool Jan. 21, one week later.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

The Boston Medical and Surgical Journal of this week opposes the habit of shaving the beard. It argues:

First—That the bodily vigor is wasted and life shortened by the unnaturally increased action of the beard-growing power.

Second—That the chemical condition required for health is disturbed by the over-draft of certain indispensable chemical elements.

Third—That the process of warming the system, which is essential to its healthy state, is interfered with by direct action on the brain, the source of power, and on the breathing organs.

Fourth—That consumption, as an heirloom, is handed down by this cause from parents to children, girls and boys being equally their father's heirs.

The Journal classes the practice with the barbarous customs, which it describes, of New Zealand, Nootka Sound, Bengal, China, and other unenlightened rigions.

We have observed, for some time that the Medical press, both of Great Britain and America, are agitating this subject powerfully, and any person of observation must daily notice that the habit of shaving is fast yielding before a better knowledge of the laws of life. Gentlemen should read the number of the Journal alluded to.—Boston Journal.

Prof. Emmons, state geologist, of North Carolina, speaking of the coal fields of Deep River, says—

"It may be said that I am holding out false lights; but I abide my time. Somewhere on Deep River there remains to be built a city greater than Lowell. Deep River has the water, the coal, the iron, the copper, the corn, the wheat and the cotton. Lowell, of my honored native state, had the water only; and there arose by the industry of a few men a great city. If the old line can't build one, somebody north of Mason and Dixon's line will, and call it after his own name."

CRITICISM.—The Greenfield Democrat indulges in some hard thrusts at Boston newspaper criticism, in which small men are sometimes made great, and says:

Mr. ———, "a nice young man for a small party," reads a lecture before the Mercantile Library Association, which cannot be heard half way across the hall, and in which there is neither originality of thought, or felicity of expression. As soon as the audience get a taste of the entertainment to which they are invited, they begin to travel, and before he is half through the house is half emptied. The next day we are gravely assured that the address was a "splendid production," that it was delivered with "masterly eloquence," and that the audience "hung entranced on the speaker's lips," etc. And when Howardji Curtis with his richly musical voice delivers his "prose poem," stored with beautiful word pictures, keen satire, and genuine humor, or Henry Ward Beecher unfolds his store of original thought to an audience which sit out twice the usual time and then reluctantly leave the hall when he breaks off, as if the echoes of his eloquent words still lingered in their ears, the critics can say no more! Their stock of praise is exhausted, and Curtis and Beecher repose on the same shelf. The only variations I can discover in their tune is, that if the individual to be alluded to is Bostonian, the rule is, the greater the noodle the higher the praise.

THE EMIGRATION OF 1853 TO CALIFORNIA.—The St. Louis Republican says:

No complete list, we believe, has been published of the emigration to California for 1853. A day or two since we were furnished with the original record kept at Fort Kearney of all the emigrants passing that post during the year. The most of them passed in the month of June, and the aggregate up to the 15th of August, presents the following result:

Number of Males,	9,909
" Females,	2,252
" Children,	3,058
" Horses,	5,477
" Mules,	2,190
" Cattle,	105,792
" Sheep,	48,495
" Wagons,	3,708

Of this number, as we understand the register, 1,661 males, 761 females, and 1,085 children were destined for Oregon, making 3,507.

WHEREAS, Donald Kennedy of Roxbury, Tanner, (having had a difficulty with us in regard to the sale of a Medicine which he calls his discovery, and certainly as we believe to injure as in the sale of our long established and well known medicine, "Dr. Ordway's Blood Purifier,") has published a gross libel against us in a paper called the New Hampshire Gazette, and has requested other papers to copy said libel, we take this measure to inform the public that for the purpose of testing our rights, we have commenced an action against Kennedy, and attached what property of his we could find; and furthermore, that while we desire peace, and the friendship of the public, yet we shall strictly hold publishers and all others responsible for any publications after this date injuriously affecting our reputation, either morally or as business men.

CONGRESS.

FRIDAY, Feb. 3.

SENATE.—The Nebraska bill was taken up. Mr. Chase of Ohio commenced his remarks by moving to amend the 14th section of the bill, by striking out the words declaring that the Missouri Compromise was suppressed by the principles of the acts of 1850, known as the "Compromise Acts." After referring to the present slavery excitement and charging the responsibility of it upon the compromises of 1850, Mr. Chase proceeded to combat the assertion that the Missouri Compromise was superseded by that of 1850, declaring it to be, historically and in fact, without foundation.—The Senator from Illinois, Mr. Douglas, he said, had in his speech of Tuesday last, informed the Senate and the country for the first time that the Missouri Compromise was superseded by the acts of 1850. Who had ever before that time supposed or heard or thought of that idea? No man! It had remained for the Senator to make the discovery. The Senator had invoked the spirit of the dead to sustain him in that idea. He had referred to the statesman who reported the Compromise bills in 1850, but that great statesman in his report, in his speeches, in his conversations, in or out of committee, had never even hinted that the Missouri Compromise was superseded. Never! Not a word nor line to that effect from the Senator can be shown.

Did any man from the North or the South, during the long debate of 1850, ever allege that they would supersede or repeal the Missouri Compromise? Not one. The compromise acts were passed in 1850. They were denounced at the South. Did any defender of them, either North or South, put his vindication of them on the ground that they affected the repeal of the Missouri Compromise? Did any objection to them, either at the North or at the South, place his opposition on the repeal of the Missouri Compromise? Not one. No man, either North or South, defender or opponent of the compromise of 1850, ever even lisped such an idea. The question had so stood at the last Congress.

The Senator from Illinois then reported a bill for Nebraska, with no provision on the subject of slavery, and no proviso declaring the Missouri Compromise superseded by the acts of 1850. The Senator in his speech urging the passage of the bill, never said one word upon this subject. It was then well understood that the Missouri Compromise did apply to Nebraska, and no one thought that it had been repealed by the Compromise of 1850. The President of the Senate, in a speech on the last day of the session, asserted that he had always disapproved of the Missouri Compromise, and had ardently wished its repeal, and on that occasion he used these words. It is evident that the Missouri Compromise cannot be repealed. So far as that question is concerned, we might as well agree to the admission of this territory now, as next year or five or ten years hence.

Mr. Chase then referred to the remarkable fact that neither the first bill nor the substitute afterwards reported on the 4th of January, contained any intimation that the Missouri Compromise had been superseded. On the contrary it was maintained, by implication, that it was in full force on the 16th of January.

The Senator from Kentucky, Mr. Dixon, submitted an amendment which came square up to a repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and the amendment was incorporated into the new bill reported by the Senator from Illinois on the 24th. On that day the tree of Upas was first planted.

Mr. Chase proceeded at much length, occupying the time until the adjournment.

HOUSE.—The House went into committee of the whole upon the private calendar, and after the committee rose a communication was laid before the House from the President, covering the correspondence between the State Department and the American Charge at Austria, with reference to persons claiming the protection of our government. One of the documents relates to the case of Simon Toussig, claiming to be an American citizen, formerly residing in Methuen, Mass., but now detained by the Austrian authorities. Toussig has addressed a letter to the American Charge, stating that in 1853 he obtained a passport from the State Department, and went to Austria to conduct back a helpless family—a widow and five small children—to their residence in Prague. The police obtained possession of his passport and refused to return it to him, that he might return home, saying: "You are an unlawful emigrant, and ought to be punished; you cannot become a citizen of any country before you get leave of your sovereign." He appeals to our Charge for an interposition of his special authority.

The efforts of Mr. Jackson, the American Charge, to obtain Toussig's release, were unavailing, and he writes to Mr. Marcy in his behalf. On an investigation of Toussig's claim to American citizenship, the Secretary of State ascertained that the passport with which he left the country was obtained by fraud and perjury, he having declared on oath, before a Notary in New York, that he was born in Iowa.

Mr. Marcy, therefore, declines to demand his release as a matter of right, though he directs our Charge to extend to him such assistance as can be properly given. The documents were ordered to be printed. The House then adjourned until Monday.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

THE EMPEROR ALEXANDER.—About the year 1806 or '7, an American Supercargo at St. Petersburg, took a walk one evening on the banks of the river Neva, puffing his cigar in real Yankee style, and while indulging in this luxury, he was accosted by a gentleman who was passing by, who asked him if he knew he was violating the municipal laws of the city. He replied he was not aware of it, and asked wherein he was violating the laws; he told him in smoking his cigar in the street; he immediately threw his cigar into the water, and finding the gentleman rather communicative, commenced a walk with him, conversing on various topics, but our supercargo could not help noticing wherever they went, the people all lifted their hats to his companion, which induced him to say that he must be greatly beloved by the people, as he observed they all lifted their hats to him as they passed. His companion replied he did not think they had much love for him, but the respect they paid was probably in consequence of the office he held, for, said he, "I am their Emperor."

A FEMALE SOLDIER.—The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says that there is now before Congress a petition from Mrs. Elizabeth C. Smith, of Missouri, who, in 1846, under the assumed name of "Ben. Newman," volunteered in the Mexican war, where she served faithfully for ten months, when her sex was discovered and she was discharged from the service. "Ben" has since married, and now applies for her pay and bounty land. As the law applies to soldiers and not to men this female soldier may be successful.

SALT.—In Syracuse, N. Y., during the past year, 5,404,453 bushels of salt were manufactured—about four-fifths of which was fine salt. This was a much larger quantity than has been made during any year of the last ten, except 1849, when about five million bushels were manufactured. During 1853, 92,491 bushels of Onondaga salt reached tide water, 1,055,723 were received at Buffalo, 2,724,264 at Oswego, and 14,685 bushels at Whitehall.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it were in 50 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers it warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS.—The Subscriber (late Assistant of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared at his Office and forwarded by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any, persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other of ever before offered to the public.

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attections of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by its operation.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETIZER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

THE SUBLIME IN CHURCH MUSIC.

The New York Musical Review of last week has an article with the above title, worthy of notice.

A spirit of refined selfishness is making it fashionable to praise God by proxy. "Let the people praise thee, O God; yea, let all the people praise thee," is read from the pulpit in solemn and impressive tones, and a veiled chorus of four respond, "Yea, let all the people praise thee," while "all the people" are comfortably seated below, quite satisfied with themselves if their paid representatives in the gallery perform this duty for them in a strictly artistic manner. The result is, that we are left in ignorance of the grand and devotional effects produced by the union of several hundred voices upon a plain church choral.

There is for us more solid satisfaction in joining such a choral performance than there is in listening to the greatest solo artist we have ever heard.

The editor, in noticing the performances of a choir of sixty singers, at Dr. Alexander's church, in New York, closes as follows:

The effect was truly stupendous. One of the gentlemen who took part, and who, with three others, does the singing for an up-town fashionable church, remarked as he came out, "Quartet singing for purposes of devotion is a humbug." We agreed with him, as we have no doubt you would have done, reader, if you had been there. These congregational effects in church music are beginning to be appreciated in other churches, we are glad to know; and when there are as many singers in the United States as there are readers (to secure which, music must be systematically taught in our schools,) then may we hope for a realization of the sublime in church music.

LINEN.—The New York Journal of Commerce says that the impulse recently given to the manufacture of linen goods in this country, is attracting no little attention in Europe, and will soon be the exciting topic in manufacturing circles all over the world. While hand labor was necessarily employed in spinning and weaving linen fabrics, Russia, Ireland, and Scotland, the first two especially, had no fear of successful competion in their peculiar line from the rest of the world. But it has now been found that flax drawn through a hot water can be as successfully twisted by machinery as cotton, and the human hand must therefore give place to the machine with its fifty steel fingers. The success of labor saving machinery once established, its introduction to this country was a matter of course, and there are now ten or a dozen new mills in process of erection or actually completed, for the prosecution of this work. Singular as it may appear, we are not producing such a supply of flax as is necessary to stock these mills. One now in operation in Fall River, Mass., will need twelve or fifteen hundred tons per annum. A large portion of the flax raised is thrown away, the object being to save the seed, which is used for making linseed oil, and is also exported. A new invention to separate the gluten from the fibre of flax, (which was formerly a tedious process of "rotting,") has been patented, and "rights" have been sold throughout the country. This new process is simply the alternate application of steam and cold water, or the repeated immersion and drainage in and out of hot water, by which the gluten is separated in a few hours. The whole plan is very simple, and easily understood, and may yet lead to a large export trade in this article.

England now obtains large supplies of flax from Russia, and our own infant linen mills are obliged to import their chief supplies.—The crop of flax has been considered exhausting for a light soil, and not well adapted to a rich soil, on account of its liability to grow too rank and lodge. If the latter difficulty can be overcome, and the people taught the process of cleansing the fibre for market in a few hours, and at a small expense, we may yet find the flax trade one of the most important in the commerce of the country.

We are gratified to learn, by a dispatch from the Hon. J. W. Edmands, Representative in Congress, to the Boston Atlas, that the Secretary of the Treasury has so far modified his schedule, in his proposed alteration of the tariff, as to take manufactured linens from the free list, and that he proposes to make it subject to a duty of twenty five per cent.

A writer in the N. Y. Tribune states that, at the present time, there are nearly as many spindles in the State of Massachusetts alone as there were in all Ireland fifty years ago.

AN INCIDENT.—A gentleman and lady called on a clergyman of our acquaintance one evening lately, for the purpose of getting married. They were a smart, well dressed couple, and appeared to belong to the upper class. The clergyman performed the ceremony with more than ordinary satisfaction, as he anticipated a very liberal fee. The knot being securely tied, the bridegroom stepped forward with a patronizing air and laid upon the table a bright quarter of a dollar.

The clergyman wished them much joy and prosperity, and having lighted them to the door, took the fee from the table and joined with his family in a hearty exercise of the mirthful organs over the incident.

An hour after, the bell rang at the clergyman's door, and a gentleman passed to the hands of the servant a gold eagle, saying, "give the minister this, and present the unfortunate——quarter to the printer!"—Manchester Mirror.

THE NEBRASKA BILL.

Present appearances indicate that this bill will go through the two houses with a rush.—A Washington correspondent of the Richmond Enquirer writes thus on this business:

The policy of the South at this juncture is plain and unequivocal. The North is split and divided into factions—each bidding for Southern support, and each depending upon it for existence. Let Southern men know this, and realize it; let them demand, without noise, but with the calm firmness which belongs to a just cause, the observance of their rights, and they cannot fail now to secure them.

This is worthy of general republication. It is a sorry picture of our politics, but the likeness is too exact to be mistaken.

Both committees of the New York Democrats—the Hards and the softs—met on Thursday, and passed resolves in favor of the bill and in favor of the Compromise of 1850. In the latter committee a resolution declaring that "the people of the territories should determine the question of slavery for themselves" was sustained by a vote of 23 to 14, John Van Buren being among the minority. The first resolution of the Hard Shells declared "that the state of Missouri, having presented to Congress a Constitution 'republican in form,' was entitled to admission into the sisterhood of states, and Congress had no right to impose upon her admission the condition that slavery should thereafter be prohibited in certain portions of the territories. Such a condition has never received or deserved to receive the approval of the Democracy.

ANOTHER CHANGE IN THE NEBRASKA BILL.—Washington, Feb. 6.—The advocates of the Nebraska bill had another caucus on Saturday, at which it is understood that they resolved to modify the bill, substituting the repeal of the Missouri Compromise in express terms, for the clause declaring it superseded by the compromise of 1850.

☞ This is much better; for it is true, whereas the other pretence was false. The binding force of the Missouri Compromise is, by this amendment, virtually acknowledged, and its repeal is demanded in order that slavery may be introduced where now it is prohibited by law. The Representatives from the North who intend to follow the lead of Senator Douglas, cannot stand behind the compromise of '50, but must stand up and face the music.

For the Morning Chronicle.

NEBRASKA.

Messrs. Editors:—One remark in your article of Monday morning upon the Nebraska bill, seems to strike me as particularly worthy of consideration at this time, when bitter party feelings are being aroused upon the subject of Congressional legislation for the territories. This is, that the moral power of slavery will be as weak as ever when it shall have diffused itself as widely as possible over the country. For I believe you might have added with truth that the natural tendency of the increase of slave territory would be to weaken the system, and especially would its increase in the regions included in the larger part of Nebraska and Kansas have this effect. Look at the migratory population of this country—at the people who settle our western wilds,—are they Northern or Southern people—or if this is not a fair illustration, I would ask from which section of the country the new state of Texas receives yearly her largest admission of emigrants? No one will deny that the free states have sent a larger number of settlers to Texas than the slave states, with all the difference in distance and protection to the peculiar institution in favor of the South. If I had time, I might advance many arguments to prove that slavery is not a migratory, but a stand-still institution, which obtains its utmost strength and power from concentration, instead of diffusion. The great evil in the matter was the legalization of slavery by any congressional enactments,—this was inconsistent with the federal character of our government; and was in fact taking taking the power in this matter from the hands of the people of the several states and territories, which Congress had no right to do. But there was doubtless a sufficient excuse for the course of legislation which gave us the Missouri compromise, in the face of the then existing state of public opinion throughout the country in regard to the matter. Senator Douglas's bill puts the question on its natural and legitimate ground, and gives the people in States or Territories a right to say what their institutions shall or shall not be. That is, as I view it, Congress ceases to assume the rights of the people, but puts upon men the responsibility of forming their own laws and institutions. If this course had been taken in 1820, we should have avoided many compromises and much union-saving patriotism, and we believe that slavery would have been weaker than it is at present. But it is not now too late to take the right stand.

A CONSTANT READER.

☞ The Boston Chronicle of Monday says, on Saturday flour sold in that city for $10 per barrel. There is a plenty of it, and there is no good reason why even this price should be sustained. From present indications in less than one month dealers will be glad to sell for $7.

UNITARIANISM DENOUNCED.

The New York Herald states that "the chair of chemistry in Columbia College being vacant, Dr. O. W. Gibbs presents himself as a candidate to fill it. He is presumed to be a very desirable incumbent in every respect save one: he is a Unitarian. On this ground, several of the members of the Board of Trustees oppose his appointment; demanding that all the officers of that institution profess some form of religious belief that may be safely inculcated upon the mind of youth."

The Herald then gives the following editorial definition and description of Unitarianism.

Unitarianism is the gap which separates common sense Christianity from infidelity with all its consequences. It is the first step from the great principles of Christian belief to unbelief. Unitarians reject the divinity of the Savior, and regard Jesus Christ as a mere philosopher, lawgiver, or a man of genius. Modern infidelity in France and Germany invariably began thus; one has only to refer to the writings of Socinius, Spinosa, Bayle and Hobbes to perceive the analogy between the early infidels of the last century and the Unitarians of the present day. With the exception of one work of Voltaire's, which was written in pique, and deeply regretted by him in his serious moments, the tendency of his whole philosophical writings is decidedly Unitarian. We can well remember the first importation of Unitarianism into Boston some thirty years since. It had a partial success, and became in turn the parent of all the eccentricities in religion and philosophy which have since spread over the country; of abolition, of woman's rights, of spiritualism and all the other isms which attract young enthusiasts. Looking therefore at the history of Unitarianism and its operation on the public mind, we are not surprised that there should be a strong opposition among the trustees of any collegiate institution still adhering to the original faith of our fathers, to tolerate the introduction of the short and easy guide to infidelity professed by Dr. Gibbs.

We are no more surprised than the Herald, that a Trinitarian College should shut out a Unitarian Professor. But we cannot help being amused, as most Unitarians will be, with the Herald's notions of the importation of Unitarianism, its partial success, and of its being the mother of abolitionism, &c. The Herald is good for news, especially for full reports; but in theological matters it can hardly be considered first rate authority; and the above extract will not greatly help its reputation for accuracy.

A BLACK ROBBER.

In the Boston Police Court on Saturday, says the Boston Courier—

A distinguished black man, named George Lattimer, was charged with having picked the pocket of Mr. Thomas Townsend, in the Boylston Market, on the 17th of January last, of a wallet containing $700 in bank bills.—About $75 of the money was found concealed in a lamp at Lattimer's house, in Avery street, and the pocket-book was also found upon the premises. He waived an examination, and in default of bail in the sum of $2500, he was committed for trial. It is said that he has confessed the robbery to the officers. He had recently purchased a splendid "repeater," and it has been noticed that he has been "living high" for sometime past. He has always been an over-bearing, impudent fellow, and was early spoiled and induced to habits of laziness by the Abolitionists, who took him round the country soon after his escape from slavery. It will be recollected that he was mobbed some years ago, in consequence of a violent speech which he made in Faneuil Hall. He has been found out at last.

The Boston Chronicle says:

Many will remember the time when he was quite a "lion" here, under the patronage of Garrison, Phillips and other sympathizing friends of their peculiar views. There was none to aid him on Saturday. He has for a long time borne a bad reputation. He has been employed as a waiter at some of our hotels, and has a wife and several children.

Well; black thieves sometimes get their due, as well as white ones. The fact that none of the Boston people aided this thief on Saturday, seems to be creditable to their justice. They befriended the man when he was threatened to be re-enslaved, and actually bought his freedom,—but they could not uphold him when punished as a thief, according to law.

Every honest man must rejoice when rogues are found out: and in case of such poor black scoundrels as Lattimer, there is not much danger in saying so. But in case of greater and whiter rogues, who have more influential friends, and much higher pretensions, it is quite unsafe to attempt unmasking them, however black their cases may be.

The American people warmed up into a blaze of indignation when an English lady, Miss Cunningham, was imprisoned at Florence, for endeavoring to convert the subjects of the Grand Duke to Protestantism. But the imprisonment of Mrs. Douglas, at Norfolk, Va., for teaching slaves to read, is taken quite calmly. Like Mrs. Jellyby, our sympathies run warmly for "Borrioboola Gha" Missions, but oppression and imprisonment nearer home are things "not in our line."—Albany Evening Journal.

SHIP BUILDING AT BATH.—The Bath Mirror gives a list of 30 ships which are building or to be built and put afloat this season.

These 30 ships will average 1300 tons each, making 39,000 tons built in one year, at a single port, or twice the amount built in 1853. The Bath District put afloat last year 49,119 tons of shipping.

ELECTION OF MAYOR.

Messrs. Editors:—You will probably remember the discussion that arose last March in regard to the election of Mayor. At that time the old City Council had a fair whig majority, while the then incoming council was tied as to the political opinions of the members. The difficulty was to decide which council was to elect the Mayor in default of a choice by the people. The out going council decided, as they should have done in honor, though there may be doubt as to the letter of the law, that their successors should choose their own chief magistrate. Some parties, to prevent a like occurrence, again petitioned the legislature to amend the City Charter, so that a plurality might elect, on the first ballot, and the law was passed. The 4th section of the law is as follows:

"Sec. 4. This act shall not be in force unless the inhabitants of the City of Portsmouth, at legal meetings called for that purpose in the several wards, shall, by a majority of the voters present and voting thereon, by ballot, determine to adopt the same."

If there was cause for the passage of the amendment to the Charter, there certainly is need of a vote as to its adoption, so that if the plurality vote is desirable, the next election of Mayor may come within the provision of the law. This cannot be the case if the vote is taken upon the subject, at the time of the election of the Mayor. Would it not be advisable to have the meetings called to test the opinion of the voters in this city on the subject? *

☞ Mr. Frazer's Concert, on Monday evening, at the Temple, was not fully attended; but those who did attend, heard a powerful tenor singer, who rendered the standard songs in a correct and confident style of execution, and was received with frequent applause. Many of the songs were old favorites. The descriptive introduction to each piece, added much to the pleasure of the entertainment.

☞ Rev. Mr. Moore will lecture at the Temple this evening, before the New Lyceum, repeating his elegant lecture on The Language of Words and the Language of Sentiments, which he delivered before the City Lyceum a few weeks since.

☞ The Thermometer at the Navy Yard, on Sunday morning, stood at 12 below 0.

DANGEROUS BUSINESS.—The Boston Advertiser states that on Sunday forenoon about 11, as officer Taylor was passing the iron tube manufactory of Messrs. John J. Walsworth & Co., 18 and 22 Devonshire street, he perceived that the lower part of the building was filled with steam. He succeeded in getting the doors open, but did not dare venture in. A few minutes afterwards, Mr. Finley, pressman at the Waverly Magazine office, happened to come along, and seeing that there was danger of an explosion, entered the building, found the boiler of the steam engine red hot, and steam issuing from a hole made by the forcing out of a stop-cock. He succeeded in raising the safety-valve, and opening the doors of the furnace. After the steam had in some measure blown off, the fires were raked out from under the boiler, and thus an explosion was prevented, which must have soon occurred but for this timely discovery. It appears that the engineer of the establishment had built up a large fire under the boiler and left it without any person to take care of it. The engine is of forty horse power, and had the boiler exploded, it would have caused immense damage to the buildings, and perhaps loss of life.

This engine carries several power presses for printing newspapers, and seems to have been keeping Sunday after a careless fashion.

Finley, who took out the fire, and another man named Perkins, who aided him, ran a great risk, and deserve a proper reward.

FROM HAYTI.—By the arrival of brig Maria, at Boston, we have accounts from Cape Haytien to Jan. 14. The crews of many of the vessels in port had suffered from yellow fever, but the sickness was abating. Coffee was coming in in large quantities and was selling at 114 a 112 dollars, Haytien currency, with a downward tendency. At Gonaives the whole Custom House force had been Bronsonized by the Emperor, probably because they could not be trusted to withstand a bribe.—Hereafter, in order to pass muster every article in the vessel must appear on the manifest. During the Christmas and New Years fetes, a holiday of some two weeks duration, which time the inhabitants cease from labor, and dance and feast, the supply of American provisions on hand were all exhausted, and the cargoes next to arrive would pay well.

Rev. Isaac Kimball, pastor of the Lutheran Church at Athens, N. Y., ran away with Mrs. Elizabeth Payne, a devoted member of his flock. The husband pursued and overtook the parties—the clergyman endeavored to make himself scarce—and not succeeding, finally compromised the matter by paying to the injured husband the sum of $100, and walked off with the woman. The Albany Knickerbocker says:—

Kimball is a man between 45 and 50 years of age, and has a wife and six or seven children; some of them are married. The runaway wife was married to Payne about 13 years since, and had lived contented and happy with her husband, although they never had children. She is a woman about 36 years of age, with nothing particularly attractive in her appearance.

CONGRESS.

SATURDAY, Feb. 4.

In the Senate, Mr. Fish presented the proceedings of the meeting of citizens of New York city, with resolutions against the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. He moved that they be read.

Mr. Douglas said he had no particular objection to the reading of the resolutions, but all had read them before. If every memorial was read at length, the whole time of the Senate would be so consumed. To read them would be a departure from the usual course.

Mr. Fish—I move that the papers be read.

Mr. Seward—I ask for the yeas and nays. The yeas and nays were refused—the motion to read it lost, and the proceedings were laid on the table.

Mr. Sumner presented petitions from New Hampshire, and Mr. Brodhead from Pennsylvania, against the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. Laid on the table.

After some other business, the Nebraska bill was taken up, and Mr. Dixon of Kentucky advocated the bill, and spoke in defence of slavery.

Mr. Wade of Ohio moved that the bill be postponed until Monday. Agreed to—yeas 23, nays 17. After an executive session the Senate adjourned.

MAINE.

On Saturdry last the Maine Senate elected William G. Crosby, Whig, Governor of the State of the present political year. The vote stood for Crosby 16, and for Anson P. Morrill 15. Nine Pillsbury democrats voted for Crosby. The Portland Argus, (dem.) says:

Mr. Crosby is therefore Governor of Maine for another year—and that, too, not by the aid, but in spite of, the coalition. We should have preferred to see Albert Pillsbury in the Executive chair, as he should have been.—But it is due to Gov. Crosby to say that he is a gentleman of ability, has performed his duties in all the relations he has occupied to the public with fidelity, and is a well-educated, generous-hearted man. If we must have a whig for Governor, we are well content that it should be William G. Crosby.

The Portland Advertiser (whig) says:

Probably there was never before an election at the result of which so many parties have cause to rejoice. The Morrill men and free-soilers rejoice that they defeated Pillsbury—and the whigs, over the election of their candidate for Governor—the Pillsbury men, that they have defeated somebody, that things "are not so bad as they might be," and that the Maine Law is safe! In fact, we never before knew anything so generally satisfactory to all parties, always excepting that learned, lucid, and very consistent opinion of the Supreme Court!

BOSTON MARKET, Feb. 5.—The market for Flour and Grain has been very quiet since the favorable advices by the Arabia. Nothing doing in Western and Southern. Canada has been sold to some extent at $8 50 a 8 75 per bbl. Corn continues rather unsettled. Several lots of white and yellow have been sold at $1 a 1 03 per bu. Oats are in fair demand at 56 a 57c per bush for Northern.

FOREIGN NEWS BY THE ARABIA.

Liverpool dates to Saturday Jan. 21.

TURKISH WAR.—We have by this arrival further accounts of the battle of Citale, confirming the Turkish successes. It appears that the Russians were concentrating their forces at Citale in order to attack Kalafat on the 13th, but on the 6th 15,000 Turks marched out of Kalafat, attacked and stormed Citale, resumed the conflict with the Russians in the field on the 7th, and renewed the attack on the 8th, ending in the evening with the total discomfiture of the Russians, who confess to having had one thousand killed in the affair besides 4000 wounded including therein their Generals, Auress and Tuinout.

On the 9th, the Turks having remained over night in the field beyond Citale, attacked a reserve of Russians and drove them back upon Krajova with loss of some of their cannon; and an immense slaughter on both sides.

On the 10th, the Turks having razed the Russian fortifications, returned to Kalafat.—The Turks were commanded in the action by Selim Pacha, Zellinsky and Mehmed Pacha. One of whom, Mehmed probably, is reported killed.

On the 5th of January, the whole of the allied fleet were in the Black Sea.

Two ships had been sent with the following to the Russian Governor of Sebastopol:

"To the Governor of Sebastopol: Conformably with orders from our Governments, the British squadron in concert with that of France, is on the point of appearing in the Black Sea. The object of this movement is to protect the Ottoman territory from aggression or hostile acts. We apprize you thereof with a view to prevent all collisions tending to disturb the amicable relations existing between our governments, which we are desirous of preserving, and which no doubt you are equally anxious to maintain. To this end we should feel happy to learn that you, animated by these sentiments, had deemed it expedient to give the requisite instructions to the Admiral of the Russian forces in the Black Sea, so as to obviate any occurrence calculated to endanger peace. (Signed)

STRATFORD DE RADCLIFFE, BARAGUAY D'HILLIERS."

It was at first intended to send a portion of the allied fleet into the Black Sea, but a rumor having reached Constantinople that the whole Russian fleet had sailed from Sebastopol, it was resolved to order the entire fleet there.

It was further rumored that Russian ships were off Erzeroum, probably expecting to intercept the Turkish convoy, which, under the protection of the allies, carries 15,000 men into Asia.

Merchantmen at Constantinople on the 9th, report not having seen the fleets, consequently they are supposed to have sailed towards Batoum, where it is surmised that the Russians have also gone.

Around Sebastopol and the Coast of Crimea the Russians are erecting batteries and have extinguished all lighthouses.

December 31.—The Porte made the following modifications to the note of the four powers:

1st. Instead of "evacuation of the Principalities as soon as possible," say within fifteen or twenty days after the acceptance by Russia.

2d. The renewal of treaties to be with special reference to the integrity and independence of Turkey. The Porte will ameliorate her administrative system alone, and spontaneously on its receipt at Vienna, the English, French, Austrian and Prussian representatives met and drew up a protocol, stating that the Porte's terms were good and satisfactory, and were immediately sent off by a courier to St. Petersburg, where he would most likely arrive on the 19th. The Porte's demand is that the note shall be definitely accepted or rejected within 20 or 30 days of the date of the Czar's letter of acceptance. This demand is on its way to St. Petersburg.

On the 12th inst., the British and French Minister at St. Petersburg also communicated to the Russian Minister of Foreign affairs the announcement of the entry of the allies into the Black Sea. The Czar's reply was not known when the Arabia sailed, but all Europe is anxiously awaiting it, as indications had already transpired that he would withdraw his Ambassadors from France and England, and formally declare war. Nothing else is looked for.

England is actively recruiting the coast volunteer artillery and coast defence guard.—Ten thousand is the number required.

Exertions are apparently being made to man the navy, and more ships are fitting out, but apparently no land forces are in contemplation of being raied.

Government agrees to send two steamers under Captain Inglefield to renew the Arctic search.

The greatest activity prevailed in the French Navy Yards, the operatives being ordered to work on Sundays and every ship possible to be fitted for sea immediately.

A levy had been made of all seamen between 20 and 40 years of age, and all the Newfoundland fishermen are drafted into the fleet.

Stores for 40,000 soldiers are ready for shipment at Toulon.

The Roman States are suffering great scarcity of food, especially at Fanenza and Ravenna.

LIVERPOOL MARKET, Jan. 21.—Provisions have advanced a little; cotton is said to be "languid" but not essentially changed in price.

Breadstuffs—There have been large arrivals, but all seemed to meet a sale until Tuesday the 17th, when the markets became languid, but then became more animated, wheat having met with good speculative and moderative consumptive demands, at 3 a 4d advance on the week. Flour in good demand at 6d a 1s advance. Indian Corn, fair business at unchanged rates.

Richardson Brothers quote Western Canal Flour 43s 6d a 43s 9d parcels at 44s; Philadelphia and Baltimore 44s 3d a 44s 6d; Ohio 44s 6d; Sour 38s 6d. White Indian Corn 50 a 51s; yellow and mixed 49s a 50s, closing active. All prices are buoyant. Most circulars corroborate the above.

Dennistown & Co. quote flour 1s; white Wheat 3d over those quotations.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

MR. GADSDEN'S OPINION OF SANTA ANNA.—Mr. Gadsden, on his return from Mexico, visited Charleston, S. C., where he communicated to the editors of the Charleston Courier a good deal of information respecting the treaty just negotiated by him with Mexico. This information, which has been published, is perhaps the most reliable of any which has been given to the public on the subject. The following extract from the Courier's statement will give the reader Mr. Gadsden's idea of Santa Anna:

"Gen. Gadsden has brought with him an admirable engraved portrait of Santa Anna, in gorgeous apparel and military costume. Gen. G. reports him in appearance (and especially in forehead) and manner, to be not unlike Daniel Webster, and a man of great address and untiring industry and energy. He always found him prompt and courteous. Whatever of evil there may have been in his early habits, he thinks he has entirely corrected them; and, as a public spirited statesman, he is now devoting his energies and talents to the affairs of State and the interests of his country. He has already suppressed, by decrees, the hitherto great passion of his people for gambling, and no one has been more successful than he, in his measures for arresting highway robbery. He has many of the high qualities of the General and Civilian, and the vicissitudes through which he has passed, and the difficulties he has surmounted, show that he is no ordinary man."

A letter from Havre, France, states that the Minister of Marine had ordered into active service all seamen who have not served four years, and who have been on leave for more than a year.

Thirteen hundred barrels of flour, and seven hundred and eighty-four kegs of butter were received over the Atlantic road at Portland, on Wednesday evening last.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United states, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Linimeut, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal thereon, within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"PATENT OFFICE,

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully,

Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents."

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the Islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. MOTT'S PILLS.

"He should be most honored who relieves the most distress."

When the head is racked with pains,
And dizziness creeps o'er the brain;

Are just the cure for all such ills.

These Pills have long held a conspicuous place in the practice of medicine, for the cure of the many ills to which females are subject. They are composed of entirely vegetable ingredients, and are a Safe & sure remedy for Female Diseases occasioned by imprudence and exposure. In every instance these Pills have proved succesful. The thousands of females who are subject to so much suffering can be permanently cured by the use of the above medicine.

The 'Lowell Coal & Gas Burner,'

IS now taking the lead as a Coal Burner, in all places where it has been introduced. It is so unlike all other Stoves, and so superior to them, that the whole truth would hardly be beleived, except by those who have used them. One ton of coal burned in this Stove will generate as much heat as two tons consumed in any other Stove extant.

The subscriber having secured the exclusive right to manufacture and sell this in this place, respectfully invites all interested to an examination of it at his Ware House, 15 Daniel street, where it may be seen in operation day and night.

PAUPERISM IN WORCESTER.

Several days ago, we saw and published a statement, that the city agent in Worcester, Mass., sold, during the last quarter, liquor the amount of $250.98.

On this statement, we remarked that as Worcester has a population of 17,000,—if the unlicensed sale of liquors is not extra large, Worcester must be a temperate city. It would be worth while to know something about that;—with the number of paupers there, the crime, arrests, &c., for purposes of comparison.

Acting on this suggestion, the Worcester Cataract says:

The reason why our liquor agency is no more profitable, is because there is so much competition. There are sources of revenue which the city has been able to monopolize. But in the liquor trade it has made a signal failure. It is found by experience that private individuals can make it more lucrative, in violation of law, than the city can, with the law on its side. But if we should be so fortunate as to have an efficient Police, with a Mayor and Board of Aldermen as backers, we doubt not that our liquor agency would do a very good business, and become a source of profit, instead of loss to the city.

The number of paupers, wholly supported by the city, the past year, was nine hundred—about one nineteenth of the whole population. There have been also six hundred and ninety partially supported. Our police records show nearly five hundred commitments for crime. But the number of commitments furnish no reliable guide in determining the amount of crime. A great many of our rogues go "unwhipt of justice." It would involve too much delicacy to state the reasons.

HORACE GREELY ON BEARDS.—The New York Tribune discourses eloquently on the advantages of permitting the beard to grow. The editor says:—

Up to this moment there are hundreds of thousands of employers, merchants and others, who will not have about them men wearing the natural and healthful covering of the face—the beard. We have known recently an applicant in every sense competent, fail to get employment in the office of a corporation, the Board of Directors, in their sapient deliberations, rejecting him because he wore a beard which was essential to his health! Perhaps as we write, the majority of fogies retired from business or old in its traces, are of the same opinion. The same men fifty years since shaved their heads like Bedlamites, and wore horse hair wigs because it was the fashion.

But we say to young America in counting houses and workshops, never touch your beards with a razor. Despise the dictates of fashion, and let the hair of the face grow silken and soft, only trimed by the scissors. Your health will be improved; your teeth will be sounder; your liability to colds and bronchial and lung affections will be sensibly diminished; your convenience will be daily consulted; your manly beauty—no despicable thing, as it is the type of what ought to be the dower of every man—will be indefinitely increased, and the true and poetical contrast to female loveliness be once more secured, which is impossible under the starved, scraped, and wiry caricatures which shavelings now present.

A LEGISLATIVE ANECDOTE.—A writer who is giving sketches of the New York Legislature, has the following "first rate notice" of a member of the Senate of that state:—

The leader of the Senate is Mr. Dickenson, of Chemung—hailing from Elmira. He is a rusty, frosty old farmer, about sixty years of age, and a devotee of Wm. H. Seward. He was in the Senate many years ago, but learned very little of parliamentary tact or experience. The best thing floating concerning him—and there are more jokes rife about him than would fill a number of Punch—is his peroration many years ago in reply to Senator Hunter, of Westchester. The latter had been defending Martin Van Buren, and had compared him to Curtius, who leaped into the abyss to save his country. Dickenson took copious notes, (!) and of course pencilled this allusion down. He was observed to walk over to where Gulian C. Verplanck was sitting, and whisper. Verplanck afterwards confessed that he said as follows:—"Now look here Gulian you know I'm no mythologist or polygamist, or any other learned man, while you are. Tell me, did there ever live such a man as Mr. Curtis, and did he leap into a fiery (as the Senator would have it) this?" Verplanck, scarcely able to keep his face straight, assured him it was all right, and forthwith Dickenson commenced his reply to Hunter. When he came to his peroration, he thus took up the allusion to Van Buren—"And now, Mr. President, in regard to this Mr. Curtis of whom the gentleman from Westchester spoke, who leaped into the fiery this to save his country. I can't see the point of the comparison with Mr Van Buren; for, whereas this ere Mr. Curtis leaped into a fiery this to save his country, the people of this state have pushed Mr. Van Buren into the fiery this to save theirs!" It is needless to say that an explosion followed from president, members, and lobbies, which came near playing Samson with the pillars of the Capitol.

An Indiana paper says that of the one hundred and ten newspapers published in the State, all except ten advocate the prohibitory liquor law.

Morning Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 8, 1854.

THE MISSOURI COMPROMISE.

We shall have no tears to shed over the repeal of this provision, if it should happen to be repealed. It did not lay down a principle, but it rather relinquished one. Maine knocked at the door of the Union, and sought admission as a free state; but was held back until she could be coupled with the slave state of Missouri. After much wrangling, northern votes enough were found to pass the measure, and the line of 36 deg. 30 min. north was fixed as the northern boundary of slavery.

In the Texas boundary bill, which formed a portion of the Compromise acts of 1850, was incorporated the following provision:

"Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to impair or qualify anything contained in the third article of the second section of the joint resolution for annexing Texas to the United States, approved March 1, 1845, either in regard to the number of States that may hereafter be formed out of the State of Texas, or otherwise."

The third article here referred to is as follows:

"The new States of convenient size, not exceeding four in number, in addition to said State of Texas, and having sufficient population, may hereafter, by the consent of said State, be formed out of the territory thereof, which shall be entitled to admission under the provision of the federal constitution. And such States as may be formed of that portion of said territory lying south of 36 deg. 30 min. north latitude, commonly known as the Missouri Compromise line, shall be admitted into the Union, with or without slavery, as the people of each State asking admission may desire. And in such State or States as shall be formed out of said territory north of said Missouri compromise line, slavery or involuntary servitude, except for crime, shall be prohibited."

In the face of documents so plain, Mr. Douglas pretended that the compromise of '50 repealed that of '20. The subsequent move to repeal it, however, contradicts that strange assumption, and brings up the plain question, Repeal, or not?

We should vote not to repeal. We see no reason why all the territories should be opened to slavery. We would give it no more than its pound of flesh anywhere. But when fairly outvoted, as we should expect to be, we should acquiesce, though we might never approve.

What we most despise in this whole matter, is the conduct of those of whatever party, who with the act of slavery in their hands, continue to prate of liberty with their tongues.

We believe there is no pretence in this present movement, that the Union is in danger; certainly no one has yet intimated that the Nebraska bill will save it. The last act in that farce was played in 1850—and the shouts of laughter among the lookers on have scarcely died away.

The design of the present movement must be, either to extend and strengthen the slave power per se, or else to help somebody's chance for the presidency. Whether either of these effects would follow, is uncertain. The Tribune says, if the southern whigs vote for it, the whig party will be broken up. We can imagine worse calamities than that; for we suppose the men who compose that party north and south, would still compose a part of our great national democracy, and could vote for somebody, even if they did not belong to any healthy organization.

We think on the whole, that the parties are more in danger than the Union, from the present agitation, of which Mr. Douglas seems to be chief engineer. He must look out, or he may run himself off the track.

BEDINI, the pope's Nuncio, has gone home in the steamer Atlantic, which left New York last Saturday. The anti-Romanist foreigners, including German Catholics, Italians, &c., made the Union too hot for his comfort.

Fearing that in the present state of the public mind his presence at the wharf of the Collins steam ships might be followed by some popular disturbance, M. Bedini, attended by a committee of Catholic clergyman and others, went down to Staten Island in advance of the steam ship. He was taken on board the steam tug Active at Staten Island and transferred to the Atlantic, whose engines were stopped for the purpose of receiving him.—The embarkation was attended with no excitement or demonstration of any kind. In fact it was not generally known that the Nuncio was in the city until he had left. We are informed that the Active was chartered and placed at the disposal of M. Bedini by the special deputy of the United States Marshal, acting under instructions from Washington.

Our government did well and wisely to smuggle him off quietly. Nevertheless, we are glad he came among us; for his visit has brought to light an anti papal element of great strength; and also exhibited a great deal of trimming, among the great partisans in Congress, to catch Roman votes. It is worth something to find out what people are, for then we know how to take them. M. Bedini's mission here has been accomplished.

The insurance companies in New York ask 13 times as much for insuring a theatre as a private house.

Lent begins this year, on the 1st of March. Good Friday will be the 14th of April; Easter Sunday, the 16th.

BOSTON POLICE.

The new mayor and his aids the police, are putting the small fry of offenders over the road of penance. On Saturday in the Police Court, says the Courier,—

John Agin, grocer, was charged with an assault upon Catharine Welch, wife of John Welch. His defence was that the assault upon the woman was committed by her drunken husband. An inquiry was then instituted as to where Welch got his liquor, which resulted in showing that it was purchased at Agin's store. Upon this, he was arraigned upon three new and distinct charges of violating the "Maine Law,"—1st, selling half-a pint of gin to Catharine Welch on the 29th of January; 2d, selling half-a-pint of gin to John Welch February 3d, and the 3d, selling a glass of gin on the same day to the same party. This was a crusher to the unfortunate Agin. The evidence of his guilt—as well for the assault as for the violation of the liquor law—was made satisfactory to the Court, and the defendant was sentenced as follows: for the assault on Mrs. Welch, three months in the House of Correction; for the first violation of the liquor law, $10 and costs, and bonds in $1000 to keep the peace; second violation, $20 and costs, and on the third violation, $20 and costs, and three months in the House of Correction. Agin appealed from these sentences, and in default of bail was committed.

The ministers of Maine are endeavoring to break up the practice of burying the dead on the Sabbath.

So says the Manchester Mirror, on we know not what authority. If true, the "Ministers of Maine" have undertaken a hopeless, as well as a useless task. No human power can prevent people from dying on Friday or Saturday: and when such a sad event takes place in hot weather, we do not see how or why a burial should be postponed till Monday. And as to hastening a burial,—we do not believe that ministers would do well to hurry their parishioners into the ground, in disregard or defiance of the wishes of friends.

Besides, there is to our mind, a Christian fitness of things, in committing the dust of our friends to the dust of the earth, in the sure and certain hope of the Resurrection, on the Lord's Day, which is understood as commemorating the Rising Day of Jesus, who proclaimed himself the Resurrection and the Life. More funerals take place throughout New England, on Sunday, than on any other two days of the week. The people choose to have it so—and we can see no good reason against the practice.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Thursday evening last, as Mr. William Brown, of Exeter, accompanied by his wife, Miss Brown, and one other person, were decending a hill in Kensington, some portion of the harness gave way, causing the sleigh to strike the heels of the horse, and thus rendering him entirely unmanagable. At the foot of the hill, the horse instead of following a turn in the road, passed straight over a stone wall into the field. Mrs. Brown was taken up senseless, and remained in that condition until Friday night, when she became conscious, blood continuing, however, to ooze from her mouth and ears. She remains in a critical condition. Miss Brown was thrown from the sleigh with great violence, and had four front teeth knocked out by the concussion, and suffered some other injuries. The other parties escaped unhurt.—News Letter.

EXTRAORDINARY ENDURANCE IN SHEEP.—We see by our exchanges that Mr. Amos, of Jefferson, took from under the snow, after the late rain storm, a sheep which had been buried in the drift for 17 days. This is not a solitary instance of the kind, however. We have seen authentic accounts of animals being buried in the snow a much longer period, and afterwards recovering.—Maine Farmer.

MURDERED BY SLAVES.—Private advices from Jackson, Mississippi, dated January 22, say that a few nights since Theophilus P. Pritchard, Esq., of Satartia, was murdered by his negroes:—five, who were concerned in the murder, have been arrested, and have confessed the crime, and are held for trial. Mr. P. was formerly of Sippican, Mass., has been resident in Satartia, Miss., six or eight years, and was about 48 years of age.

SHOCKING.—We learn that a boat with two men and a woman, left one of the Islands on Sunday, to come to this city, but after proceeding some distance, they got jammed in the ice, and before they could extricate the boat, the woman froze to death! The names of the parties we could not ascertain.—Portland Arg.

This looks as if there must have been considerable ice in Portland harbor that day.

THE LAST OF THE RHINOCEROSES.—The following is from the Eastern Province News, Cape Colony, South Africa:—

On Friday last, a man by the name of Piet Cranser, residing at Mr. Bevan's farm Coega, shot on the Grass Ridge a remarkably fine Rhinoceros. The old man (quite alone,) came suddenly within a few yards of him, and fired the fatal shot; the ferorious creature immediately made a desperate rush at him, which he evaded by slipping behind a large tree, when the unwieldly animal rushed into the bush carrying all before him, and was found dead the next morning in the kloof in front of Mr. Bevan's house. This noble animal has been known in the neighborhood for 20 or 30 years, and has been fired at many years ago. The shot passed through the right ear and was found at the back of the head, and two other balls in the shoulders. This is supposed to be the last rhinoceros in this part of the Colony, and appears to have been very old.

AMERICAN STEAMERS IN AUSTRALIA.—An Australia correspondent of the Boston Post states that "the West Wind, the New Orleans, City of Norfolk, and Unicorn, are sinking money. Nobody will buy them, and they won't pay to run on the coast. The parties interested in these boats expected to make a fortune; but I am very sorry to say there is much more prospect of losing one."

LOCAL.

PORTSMOUTH AND MAINE SHIPS.

A few days ago we published from the Portland Argus, a communication dated Ellsworth, on the injustice of calling those ships built in Kittery, Portsmouth Ships In the Argus of Feb. 7, the following communication appears, from the same author:

Editors of the Eastern Argus:—In my communication to you, published in the Argus of to-day, under head of "Ship Building," by a typographical error, an undesigned reflection (unless designed by the "printer's devil,") is cast on the Boston Courier and the people of Boston; though their proverbial jealousy of the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railroad, and almost every enterprise that don't tend directly to enrich the city of notions, renders the statement, as the Argus now has it, just. Your paper reads,—"The Courier has probably been led into this geographical error by a covetous misrepresentation peculiar to the people of Boston, and made more particularly notorious by their newspaper editors, &c."—It should have read,—"by a covetous misrepresentation peculiar to the people of Portsmouth," &c. Such is the fact, and thus I think you will find it written in the original.

Please publish this correction in your next number, that due justice may be awarded to Boston and Portsmouth, and to their respective editors. With this "amende honorable," we remain, DIRIGO.

Ellsworth, Jan. 31, 1854.

This "amends" the matter by making it worse. Portsmouth editors, if others feel as we do, have no wish to misrepresent the matter, nor to set one side of the harbor against or above the other. Moreover we happen to know every ship-builder on the Maine side and if there is any misrepresentation about the matter, they share in it; for they could style their ships Kittery ships, or Maine ships if they pleased; or the owners could, if they saw fit, style them so afterward. The fact that they do not choose to do it, (inasmuch as the reputation of Portsmouth ships stands a little higher,) is a sufficient answer to Dirigo's nonsense. There is not in us, the slightest objection to letting all the world and the rest of mankind know that half the Portsmouth ships are built in Kittery. What, then, is all this noise about?

DOVER RAILROAD.—We are glad to see the call for a Meeting of Citizens to secure the construction of a Railroad direct to Dover from this city, which may be found among our advertisements this morning.

We are glad to see the call signed by such men,—and now hope to see the road itself commenced with all good speed.

WEATHER.—The Thermometer at the Navy Yard on Tuesday morning was 7 below 0.

Jack Frost does his best to freeze the Piscataqua, but the tide king forbids him, and breaks his sceptre.

The Hudson River is frozen over down to Dobbs Ferry. At Ferrytown teams are crossing over the river.

The Kennebec was frozen over at Bath, last week, sufficiently hard for people to cross with sleighs. A very unusual occurrence.

We were informed on Monday night that Portland harbor was completely closed by ice.

THE WEATHER.—Monday night was the coldest night of the season and indeed for many years in many places in the vicinity of Boston, though there was more than the usual variations in the indications of the thermometers in different localities. In Lexington the mercury stood at 11 degrees below zero; in East Lexington 15 below; in West Newton 15; Waltham 15 1-2; Somerville 15; in Milton 7 below; in West Roxbury 14; in Dedham 18 below; while in Roxbury the temperature indicated was only 4 degrees below zero, and in this city it was 3 degrees below.

Martin Lane, Esq., Cashier of the Cambridge Bank, who has kept a record of the weather for a series of years, pronounces last night the coldest one in this vicinity for the last twenty years.

Salem harbor is frozen up, nearly down to Naugus Head.

☞ A humorous note from a lawyer in the Dirigo state, respecting an error in his advertisement, shall be attended to to-morrow.

SALE OF LAWNS.—The annual sale of the Portsmouth and Hadley Falls Lawns took place to-day. The catalogue opened with 680 pieces barege de laines, printed by Messrs. J. Dunnell & Co., on imported cloths, which sold at the very low rate of 11 a 11 1-2 cents, being at least 4 cents below the previous private sale prices. The lawns opened at 11 3-4, went up to 13 3-4 for a favorite style, but settled at 11 a 12 3-4, at which range they were mostly sold. The average was about 11 5-8; last year the goods averaged about 13 1-4, and the previous year about 12 3-4. The sale is about 3 4 a 1 cent per yard below the expectations of most dealers. There was a splendid company present, comprising the elite of the trade in this and neighboring cities, Philadelphia and Boston being well represented. After the above sale, about 500 cases of English lawns were slaughtered at the same house; madder (1400) selling at 8 1-2 a 10 1-2; and steam solors at 6 1-4 a 6 1-2.—N. Y. Jour. of Commerce of Thursday.

On the 29th of December the city of Florence was wrapped in a mantle of glittering snow, several inches deep on a level, which is something remarkable for Florence. At Leghorn, and along the Mediterranean, the snow fell in even larger quantities. On the day succeeding the snow-storm, the thermometer fell to four degrees below freezing point.—And this in sunny Italy!

Forty thousand quails were sent from Wisconsin to Chicago during the month of December.

NEWBURYPORT PAUPERS.—Our attention has been called to the fallacy of the statistics furnished by the abstract of the pauper returns, prepared for the Legislature, to which we adverted some days since, and requested some light on the subject. In the first place the returns show the amount appropriated and not the amount expended. The amount appropriated by the government last year was $10,000, but the amount expended was only $8,200. Moreover we learn from the overseers that the number of paupers returned was the whole number in every family, which received even the smallest aid. Thus, one of the overseers tells us of a case in his ward, where three families were furnished with two feet of wood only, and yet the whole number in the families were returned as paupers, though the children, some dozen in number, were at work earning their own living.

It should be noticed also, that though the whole number of paupers is reported at 1290, yet the total expenditure averages only a little over $6 a head, rather a small amount of relief to constitute a pauper.—Newburyport Herald.

Well; if the Overseers of Newburyport choose to call such persons paupers, we have no objection; except that it makes confusion when we attempt to compare that place with others, as to morals and economics.

Now if the Herald will obtain and publish the number of paupers living in the Alms House, in connexion with the population, we can make something like a fair comparison of that place, with Portland, Lowell, Salem, and this city.

We suspect there must be some similar fallacy in the pauper statistics of Worcester, on our first page to-day. Will the Cataract please to notice, and either correct or confirm, as the case may be.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—A letter from Havana of Jan. 31st, states that the apprentice system is about to be carried out on the Island on an extensive scale. Numerous vessels are on the way to Cuba, with cargoes of negroes, and others preparing to depart. A large Spanish naval force was stationed at the Island, and a British and French fleet were expected soon. Another letter says that all is consternation at Havana. The whole fleet has been in a state of preparation for some expected event, provisions, water and coal having been put on board the different war vessels and steamers.

CONGRESS.

MONDAY, Feb. 6.

SENATE.—Mr. Sumner presented the petition of the New York Geographical Society, asking for the establishment of a common international standard of weights and measures, and also for a common meridian line.

A bill for the relief of Elizabeth Smith, who enlisted as a soldier in the Missouri regiment, and served eight months in the Mexican war, was passed.

Mr. Shields, from the joint committee on the wreck of the steamship San Francisco, made a report, recapitulating the facts of the disaster, and submitting resolutions requesting the President to have three gold medals prepared, to be presented to the captains of the Three Bells, Kilby, and Antarctic respectively; also, providing that a sum not exceeding $100,000 be appropriated to the officers and crew of the three vessels.

Mr. Gwin objected to the passage of the resolutions, and said he would hereafter offer a minority report.

The Nebraska bill was then taken up, when Mr. Wade of Ohio made a strong and spirited speech in opposition to it, speaking till the adjournment.

HOUSE.—A memorial was received this morning from Governor Davis of Oregon, asking additional appropriations for the expenses of the Kaguse war in that territory prior to its organization.

A bill was passed granting to the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad Company the right of way through the Jefferson barrack grounds.

After the transaction of other unimportant business, the House adjourned.

FIRE AT NEW ORLEANS.

On the 4th inst. at 3 P. M., the steamer Charles Belcher, just arrived from Nashville, caught fire, and in a short time was totally consumed, with her valuable cargo of cotton, tobacco, and Western produce. Many passengers, who were in the cabin, escaped barely with their lives, but fifteen or twenty negroes perished in the flames. The fire spread to the steamer Natchez, just arrived, and which, with her cargo of 2000 bales of cotton, was entirely destroyed. The steamboats Mohegan, Grand Turk, Leah, and Luna, were also destroyed. They were valued at $300,000, and were mostly insured in Western offices. The remainder of the property destroyed was mostly insured in New Orleans and in the Crescent office. The total loss is estimated from $700,000 to $1,000,000.

On the morning of the 5th, there was another fire in Chartres street, which destroyed two valuable stores, and damaged two others.—Loss estimated at $100,000.

FIRE IN BOSTON.—On Tuesday morning at 2 o'clock, a fire broke out in the press-room of Thomas J. Smith, corner of Water and Devonshire streets, which, together with J. B. Chisholm's Job Printing Office were consumed, with most of their contents.

Mr. Smith had four Adams presses, and worked a number of papers, among which were the Chronicle, American Union, New England Cultivator, Christian Freeman, Boston Cultivator, Uncle Sam, Investigator, Congregationalist, and several others.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—Richmond, Feb. 4.—A very destructive fire occurred at Petersburg, Va., yesterday, entirely consuming the stores of Morrison & Marble, Messrs. Kerr, Barbara Turnbull, and Stone's. The loss is estimated at $75,000. Partially insured.—During the fire there was a tremendous explosion of gunpowder, but no person was seriously injured.

Mr. Chamberlain's boarding-house in this city and the store of Hartwell & Co., were also consumed by fire last evening.

FIRE.—At Lowell, between twelve and one o'clock on Saturday morning, the millinery store of Mrs. M. Brown, on the north side of Merrimack street, took fire. The store was one of a long block of "ten-footers"—light wooden buildings. They were originally built one story, with flat tarred roof. Recently a new roof had been put on above the old one, and leaving considerable space between. The fire soon burned through to this opening between the two roofs, which extended the length of fifteen stores. The flames spread on the old tarred roof with great rapidity, and it became at once evident that the whole block must go. The work of clearing all the stores was then commenced, and was so promptly executed that it is believed most of the goods were saved. The entire block soon became a total wreck. The buildings were insured for $4000, in the Lowell Mutual. They were nearly all milliner shops.

FIRES.—New Orleans papers of Monday state that the loss of life and property by the burning of the steamer Georgia seems to be larger than stated by the telegraph. The Georgia was from Montgomery, Alabama, and had on board about 200 passengers, mostly planters, who, with their slaves, were emigrating to Texas; 67 passengers are missing—mostly slaves. Among the missing is Thomas J. McLanathan of Bristol, Connecticut. J. B. Hubbard of Bristol was saved. The catastrophe occured at 11 o'clock at night, at the Lake terminus of the Pontchartrain Railroad, where the steamer had just arrived. The Georgia had 1030 bales of cotton on board, which was lost, with 200 bales which had a few hours before been landed on the wharf from a steamboat from Mobile. The railroad warehouse and about 100 feet of the wharf were burned, containing a large quantity of pork, flour, lard and other produce. The loss of property cannot be less than $120,000.

BAY FROZEN.—The Ellsworth Herald states that Belfast Bay, at Belfast and Searsport, was frozen over so that the steamer Ocean could not touch there in going up to Frankfort on Saturday.

Gilbert's Polypodium.—The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

"ORDER REIGNS IN WARSAW."—Under this suggestive head the New York papers of Friday publish the reception of a telegraphic dispatch by the officers of the New York and Erie Railroad from Erie, saying that the tracks on both roads were completed, and arrangements were making to run both freight and passenger cars regularly to and from Erie each way. The track laps at Erie, and facilities for changing freight there will be made convenient. The Governor says he does not apprehend any difficulty hereafter on the road. The Erie troubles may now be considered at an end.

There is in the poor house in Mason, N. H., a maiden lady, whose age, as near as can be ascertained, is one hundred years. She has her mother's wedding-dress in perfect preservation. It is of the most beautiful silk, including five yards; is clean and nice; and weighs a quarter of a pound to the yard, the whole weighing 1 1-4 lbs. She says the dress cost forty dollars when it was new.

The Indiana Sentinel says that at least $2,000,000 of the capital of Indiana merchants which would otherwise have gone to Philadelphia, will be diverted to New York or Boston, in consequence of the Erie riots, and the countenance they have received from the city of Brotherly Love.

Nebraska embraces the whole of the unorganized Territory of the Union—the extent of its boundary is over three thousand miles—its area about five hundred thousand square miles—capable of being formed into a dozen states, each as large as Ohio.

Dr. Bird, editor of the Philadelphia North American, and the author of Nick of the Woods, a novel, The Gladiator, a tragedy, and other productions, has died of a brain fever, induced by mental labor.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Mosquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc. which street, New York.

I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous illnesses arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

THE LADIES' FRIEND.

PROF. MOTT'S PILLS.

"He should be most honored who relieves the most distress."

When the head is racked with pains,
And dizziness creeps o'er the brain;
When sleep forsakes the aching eyes,
And health on fevered pinions flies,
When indigestion throws its shade
Like shadows where our graves are made,
Professor Mott's reviving Pills,
Are just the cure for all such ills.

These Pills have long held a conspicuous place in the practice of medicine, for the cure of the many ills to which females are subject. They are composed of entirely vegetable ingredients, and are a Safe & sure remedy for Female Diseases occasioned by imprudence and exposure. In every instance these Pills have proved succesful. The thousands of females who are subject to so much suffering can be permanently cured by the use of the above medicine.

Observe that each box has the fac simile of the proprietor, CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, upon it. The above Pills can be found at 45 Hanover street, and No 1 Cornhill, Boston.

N. B.—Persons residing out of the city can have them forwarded by mail (free) to any part of the country, by enclosing one dollar in a letter, directed CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, Boston, Mass. d6?1wly

BAYARD TAYLOR AND THE ARABS.

A New York paper speaks of him in this manner:—"Fresh from his travels in the east, and carrying into his descriptions of scenery and character, something of the vividness and fervor of a poetic mind, he spoke as none other could, of the race who are descendents of the man, 'whose hand was against every man, and every man's hand against him.'—The style of the lecture was easy and flowing, and the manner of delivery graceful and impressive. He told a traveller's story in a poet's language, and gave the clearness and brilliancy of his own mind to the scenes he depicted."

Mr. Taylor says the Arabs have suffered much from the misstatements of travellers, who are prejudiced in their opinions. They are not lean, black eyed ogres, with flashing scimeters, ready to cut off the heads of all whom they meet, as we have been led to believe. Layard and Buckhart are the only tourists who have done them justice. Nor is their country the desolate region we are accustomed to regard it. Whatever we may say of the purity of our sky, that of the East far surpasses it. The colors of the landscape have an indescribable glow, as if from a furnace. The green of the palm groves is almost insupportable to the eye, and the sands of the desert form as it were a floor of shining gold. The colors of the desert are too bright for desolation. After fifty days travel in the desert, he left it, cheered with the beauty and fascination of the scenery. God has breathed his sweetest breath upon the desert. The Arabs are wanderers on this sea of sand as the sailor on the ocean.

The Bedouins, or Arabs of the desert, still retain the patriarchal habits of the time of Moses, have never been subdued, and have undergone little change. They are brave, fearless, generous, and subject to great extremes of hate and love. As a race, they are passionately fond of poetry, music, and the dance. The sense of honor is held in high estimation among them.

The lecturer gives the traits of their character very fully—their virtues, which are many, and their faults, which are prominent. They are dignified and hospitable; fierce though not blood-thirsty. They lie and cheat, and respect those who can out wit them in a bargain.

Their language is characterized by great peculiarities. It is a language of metaphors, and bears a resemblance to the Hebrew.

They are a musical people; he never heard a discord in their songs. They laugh in harmony. The sound of the muezzin is one of the sweetest ever heard. Art is rare among them. Their religion forbids them to make an image. Their architecture is original.

The lecturer closes by saying that the Arab race has past its culmination, and is fading away. The advance of Christianity will be the death blow to Mahommetanism.—a religion perhaps good in its time—and with it will perish, as a race, the Arabs. The one is like a crescent moon, from whose horns the pale light glimmers on the landscape; the other is like the noon-day sun in its blazing glory shedding its light and genial heat on all.

JOHN MITCHEL STILL IN TROUBLE.—When John Mitchel, the Irish patriot—after his circumnavigation of the globe, stopping a few years (en route for New York) at Van Dieman's land, and a few days at San Francisco—when he first landed upon this island, and opened his mouth on political matters, we thought that he would get along very well. We had only one serious misgiving, and that was, that he might possibly upset his wagon, in collision with Archbishop Hughes driving in the opposite direction. We were afraid that this collision would happen very soon; but in this we were mistaken. John Mitchel has escaped the disasters of a shock with the head of Popery on this side the Atlantic, but has come most fatally into a sudden smash-up against the head of Puritanism. We were right, therefore, in our apprehension, though wrong in the specification. Poor Mitchel has got into loggerheads with the Pope, Henry Ward Beecher, and from the effects of the first brush it is plain that in a very short time not even the tail of the great comet from Australia will be visible to the naked eye. Such is the invariable fate to the theorizers upon popular principles from the schools of European republicanism, when they come into this practical country of popular liberty to teach us their beautiful schemes of political reformation. They go up like a rocket, making a prodigious fuss, leaving behind them a stream of fire, and a grand display of white, red and blue lights with their explosion; but then it is all over, and they disappear in darkness and are all gone. Kossuth, Kinkel, and Gavazzi, were of this class, and very striking illustrations; but the most striking of all is the case of John Mitchel. He went up like a rocket, and has come down like the stick.—N. Y. Herald.

Since the discovery of gold in California, 600 vessels have gone round Cape Horn and never returned. A few of them have been lost, but the greater number of them have been employed in the Pacific trade.

Morning Chronicle.

THURSDAY, FEB. 9, 1854.

For the Chronicle.

THE NEBRASKA QUESTION.

TWO SIDES.

That "every day brings something new," was most manifestly shown by "A Constant Reader," in the Chronicle of the 7th. We had seen, as we thought, many views of the remedies for the extension, and the forces which may be used to effect the entire abolition of slavery in our land, yet, not until February the 7th, A. D. 1854, had we been told that, in order to weaken this monstrous evil, we must strengthen it, and to remove the blackening sully from our escutcheon was to spread it all over its face.

Says A Constant Reader, who, by the way, has not, we think, given proper heed to your teachings:—

"If I had time, I might advance many arguments to prove that slavery is not a migratory, but a stand still institution, which obtains its utmost strength and power from concentration, instead of diffusion."

It is to be much regretted that he could not devote some part of his time in giving to your readers a few of the many arguments which he has at hand, and make some effort to show proof, thatto concentrate this institution is to weaken it.

He has made an abortive attempt at proof in one argument he has adduced, viz:—that the population of our territories is made up mostly from our Northern and free States! Granting this, what less security does it afford slavery? We say, and without fear of contradiction, that slavery, in its home and abroad, finds a more servile and crouching support from the North and its emigrants at the South, than from the South and those there who have been born and bred under its influence and taught in its morality.

Has A Constant Reader watched the course of the two great political parties for the last dozen years, upon this issue, as well as he has your valuable journal? Has he seen how the bare proposition of Annexation of Texas was met with the universal indignation of the whole North, and how, after the cue was got from head-quarters, the Democratic party of the North changed from the most bitter denunciations ever bestowed on a policy, to warm laudations and a support as vile as their opposition was worthy and ennobling; how the Mexican War was first deprecated, then justified. How the Fugitive Slave Bill received the execration of the whole North, its adherents threatened with political destruction, getting in its passage but three whig votes, and, we think, 21 democratic votes from the free States; while now the fingers on the two hands will count its opponents in both Houses of Congress. How, previous to '50, four fugitives from slavery had been arrested in Boston under the law of '93, and had been allowed to pass through a court, the way opened by spectators, and after '50, Webster telling us that the interests of the cotton-trade were most effectually subserved by an observance of this infamous statute; a poor fugitive slave was hunted, arrested by a cheat, arraigned, tried and found guilty of the heinous crime of loving liberty; the State laws disregarded and trod upon, and fifteen hundred merchants giving their signatures to the City Marshal signifying their readiness to aid in this inhuman business; the victim chained, surrounded by armed police, led by the chief magistrate of the city, the procession going from a chained Court of Justice in the still hour of midnight, walking over the very spot where the first victim of the Boston Massacre—a negro—fell, and landed on board a vessel awaiting its human freight, to be thrust into all the horrors, degradation and ruin of the vilest bondage that exists on the face of the earth. Has he seen these things; seen these reverses in the public sentiment, this apostacy of leading politicians, this fawning of the North to slavery, and then ask us to believe that slavery has anything to fear from the North.

It has been contended by some apologists for slavery, that the increase of slave territory does not necessarily increase the number of slaves; but that it multiplies only the slave-owners. A statement less founded in fact could not be made. That the new States and Territories may not have slaves at the precise period of their being allowed legally to have them, is, though true, unimportant; but it is important that the people who are having their conscience panaceas and sedatives continually poured into them, should have an additional ingredient in these mixtures in the shape of one or two stubborn facts. In the case in hand, one like this: that the State of Virginia has, for the last eight years, exported into the southern States, including Texas, 80,000 slaves per annum; and but for this business of slave-breeding, the Old Dominion would have been a free State long ere this. How does diffusion work here?

Why cannot A Constant Reader be induced to give to the world his "many arguments." Why not try to undeceive the country upon this question; for if he is right, the whole country is wrong. Why not go to Washington, call about him there southern Senators who have spent their life-time in acquiring territory, and in strife for an increase of slave power either by merciless wars or tricking treaties, and tell them that they have been committing suicide, and that if they desire to retain or strengthen their power, not to increase its area, but to keep it within its present confines. Then turn round to those noble advocates of freedom, and what was the North, and tell them to change their route—go back the other way—and that if Nebraska or California, Pennsylvania or Ohio, desire to hold slaves, shout huzzas, and clap your hands with great joy, for the hour of triumph is at hand.

There are other portions of A Constant Reader's article which deserve notice, but one at a time is sufficient for your space and the reader's patience. H.

ANOTHER COALITION IN MAINE.

Every Simon Pure Politician, who has any horror of Coalitions, will please to turn away from this paragraph, without reading any further. The regular democrats of Maine have now coalesced with the regular whigs; the wild cat and coon have formed a savory league.

At Augusta, on the 7th inst., the Legislature elected the following gentlemen as Councillors:—Wm. Baxton, Thaddeus Weeks, Gideon Tucker, Charles A. Everett, Samuel P. Shaw, Horatio A. Johnson, Theodore C. Woodman, all old line whigs, and Allen Jackson, wild cat, Secretary of State. This result was brought about by the union of Crosby whigs with Pillsbury democrats.

What sort of coalition will be formed for the choice of U. S. Senator, it is not easy to say.

Some of the opposition papers have revived the old story that Hon. Harry Hibbard was formerly a whig or federalist. Every body who knows anything about it, knows that the story is totally false. We have known Mr. H. personally ever since he was sixteen years old. He was then one of the few democratic boys of old Dartmouth, and as zealous in the cause as he has been from that day to this.—N. H. Patriot.

This is doubtless correct: the opposition youngsters have probably confounded the name and history of Harry Hibbard with the name and story of Henry Hubbard. The latter gentleman was a federalist in the days of the Hartford Convention; but Mr. Hibbard is too young a man to have ever belonged to that party.

AN ERROR CORRECTED.—Perhaps there is no better test of temper, than the making and correcting of errors, especially errors in printing. Some men "go into fits," or "fly off the handle" in utter desperation, because some botch of a boy has made them immoral instead of immortal, by his own sin of omission.—Others take the matter more coolly, considering that "he must be a rare horse that never stumbles." Others still, with finer humor, join in the natural laugh at the ludicrous, and turn the error to grand account. One of the latter class, a "limb of the law" in Maine, sends us the following corrective note, to which we have duly attended, by picking up the fallen letter, and letting it stand, as every tub should, on its own bottom.

To the Publishers, Editors, Printers and Devils of the Morning Chronicle:

DEARLY BELOVED FRIENDS:—I notice that in my advertisement, which may be found on the first page of your paper, one letter of my name has tumbled down and laid prostrate for several days. After a long deliberation and a series of profound and painful cogitations upon the subject, I have concluded that this mishap is to be ascribed to one of two causes—to wit: First, As we are told that "coming events cast their shadows before," and as the time for which that advertisement is paid has expired, it may be that in the fall of that letter is foreshadowed the significant fact that, unless the owner calls at the Captain's office, his whole name will fall from the columns of the Chronicle. Have faith!—Promises, although not legal currency, are better than nothing. I have an earnest desire still to remain before the public, and I intend (when I get ready) to "pay the printer."—Second, The letter may have fallen by accident. If that is the case, please lend the poor fellow a helping hand, and place him once more on a respectable footing.

Done at Kittery, this 7th day of February, in the year eighteen hundred and fifty-four. S——— B. A———.

FROM NEW ORLEANS—THE WILL OF JUDAH TOURO.—New Orleans papers of Jan. 31st are received.

R. D. Shepard, the residuary legatee of Judah Touro, announces that he will, in accordance with the will of Mr. T., pay over to the city authorities of New Orleans, a sum of from $200,000 to $300,000, for the purpose of establishing the almshouse named in the will, and in improving and embellishing Canal street.

DAMAGES TO A SAILOR.—Judge Sprague, of the U. S. District Court, has decreed that Capt. Levi Hotchkiss, of ship Harvard, should pay $470 to Stephen Whately, one of his crew, for cruel treatment to him on the voyage from Calcutta to Boston, and also to pay costs of Court.

On Tuesday morning the thermometer stood at Lewiston Me. at sunrise, fourteen below, in Portland at eight.

LOCAL.

MORE MUSIC.

The Messenger of Wednesday evening, copies the correspondence between Mr. Oliver Dyer and some musical men in this place, respecting the "Karl Meinerth" letter, and says,

Having given our readers the letter referred to in the above correspondence, and Mr. Meinerth's denial of its authorship, we feel that justice to the citizens of Portsmouth who were assailed in that letter demands our insertion of this correspondence. We learn, however, that Mr. M. denies the statements of Mr. Dyer, and is confident he shall yet exculpate himself from the charges made against him. If he does so, we shall cheerfully state the fact to our readers.

Since the above was in type, we have received the following from Mr. M.:—

Editor Messenger—I have decided to take no notice of the scandalous articles concerning me in the paper, as the public will be soon informed with the truth in the proper way. But if you (and so any other paper) cannot refrain from republishing them, I beg you to ask the public in my name for kind suspension of judgment, and the press from drawing inferences or making insultory remarks, (as I reserve me the right to demand satisfaction for any injury resulting). The press—if a public, and not a personal organ—has no right to draw inferences and make premature insultory remarks in a personal matter: it has to give facts, the judgment should be left with the public, else it is an insult upon the public, by announcing it incapable of judging itself.

I repeat here most earnestly, that I never wrote a letter for publication like that published in the Musical World and Times of July 9, 1853.

Portsmouth, February 8, 1854.

CARL MEINERTH.

In the last paragraph of Mr. M.'s note, it will be seen that he does not deny writing the letter, but only denies that he wrote such a letter for publication. We will, according to his request, suspend the expression of our judgment, exactly at this point, until he shall make, or at any rate have time to make, some effort to clear himself from the imputation of falsehood, contained in Mr. Dyer's revelation.

While we are thus waiting, we will remind him and the public, that our first publication on the subject was made by Mr. Meinerth's request, and contained his own card; and that we afterwards published his longer statement.

Mr. Meinerth now says "the press has no right to draw inferences and make premature insultory remarks," &c.—and reserves the right "to demand satisfaction for any injury resulting." Every man has this latter right. But did Mr. M. think of such rights, in others, when he wrote his essay on "Music Used and Abused," in the Portsmouth Journal of Dec. 4th, 1852?

Men who write for the public eye, should be careful what they say, especially when they write to injure others, lest they themselves fall into the pit which they dig for their neighbors.

For the Morning Chronicle.

TEMPERANCE.

Messrs. Editors:—Permit me to say a word through your paper, to the good mothers in Portsmouth. It is understood that at Exeter a petition was got up and numerously signed by the ladies in that place, calling for a meeting, to see what could be done to stop the fearful tide of intemperance. The gentlemen of course responded to the call, and at once adopted a plan which, if report is true, has succeeded beyond all expectation, completely closing up the grog shops. If the same measures are taken here, we may expect the same result. Will not the ladies move in this matter? They should certainly be interested, and if they knew all that might be known, they would certainly feel interested, painfully interested. I can assure the mothers in this city that many of their children are contracting habits which, if revealed, would wring their hearts with anguish.

Let me gives these mothers one of the "life scenes" in Portsmouth, by way of illustration.

Ten days ago, about 7 o'clock, P. M., four boys between the ages of twelve and fifteen might have been seen on their way to the evening school. One of them has a pint bottle concealed in his clothes. As they are approaching a place where liquor is sold, they are seen talking earnestly, but in a subdued voice. By putting their fortunes together the amount is found to be six cents. Two of the boys stop outside, while the other two go in and call for a pint of gin. One of the little outsiders, not feeling just right, abandons his companions and goes to school. Presently the two boys come out, and joining their other companion pass along. Now they turn into Fleet street, and finding themselves alone, each one takes a drink from the bottle. Pursuing their way along, they again find themselves alone between State and Court streets. Here they take another swig. They now throw away the bottle and proceed to school. In the course of the evening two of the company become so intoxicated that they are sent home. One of them is taken home to his poor but worthy widowed mother, in a state of intoxication. Another by vomiting freely did not get the full effect of the gin, and the other partook more sparingly, so that two of the trio went home without being suspected by their parents. The parents knew nothing of the matter until a week had passed, when they were informed by a friend.

Now who are the parents of these children? They are among the respectable citizens of this city, strictly temperate in their habits, and would sooner cut off their right hand than allow their children to grow up in intemperate habits.

Mothers, let me assure you that you little know to what your children are exposed from the dram-shops. It needs no prophet to predict with certainty, that one after another of you will find, to your surprise and horror, that your own sons have contracted such habits of dissipation as to be entirely beyond your control.

You, mothers, without stepping out of your proper sphere, can shut up these shops. Say that they shall be closed. Call for a meeting of the citizens, and see that your husbands and sons attend. And before the meeting try and infuse into them the right spirit; and you will find your power is irresistible. *

Another correspondent says: "On one of the coldest nights last week, a man and his wife were found drunk in their miserable hove—one foot of the woman being frozen so badly that amputation will probably be necessary."

PORTSMOUTH & DOVER RAILROAD.—At a meeting of citizens, held pursuant to a call, at the Court House, on Wednesday evening, to consider and adopt measures for the immediate building of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad, Capt. Ichabod Goodwin was chosen Chairman, and Edward N. Fuller, Esq., Secretary.

There was an attendance which indicated the interest felt in the enterprise. The weather was of the worst possible description—in fact the streets were nearly impassable. Albert R. Hatch, Esq. stated that the meeting would doubtless have been well attended, had the weather been propitious, and that several persons not residents of this city, but much interested in its prosperity, would doubtless be present if the meeting were adjourned to some future evening, and, on his motion, it was adjourned to Monday evening next.

CONGRESS.

In Senate, Feb. 6.—The Nebraska Bill.—At the close of Mr. Wade's speech the question was put on Mr. Chase's amendment to the Nebraska bill, namely—to strike out the words declaring the Missouri Compromise line superseded by the acts of 1850. The vote stood as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Allen, Cass, Chase, Everett, Fish, Foot, Hamlin, Seward, Smith, Stuart, Sumner, Wade and Walker—13.

Nays—Messrs. Adams, Atchison, Badger, Bayard, Bell, Benjamin, Bright, Brodhead, Butler, Clay, Dawson, Dixon, Dodge of Iowa, Douglas, Evans, Fitzpatrick, Geyer, Houston, Hunter, Jones of Tenn., Mallory, Mason, Norris, Pettit, Sebastian, Shields, Slidell, Thomson of Ky., Toucey, and Williams—30.

Mr. Douglas moved to strike out the words 'which was superceded by,' an insert 'which is inconsistent with.'

Mr. Cass said he would vote for this amendment. He could not vote for the words declaring the supercedure. It required an act of Congress to effect a supercedure of law.—It was clearly proper to say inconsistent with.

Mr. Badger contended that the two phrases were equal, and expressed the same thing.

Mr. Cass—I would much rather say at once that the Missouri compromise is unconstitutional, and would prefer saying so directly in so many words.

Mr. Douglas said that by to-morrow he hoped that they would agree upon the proper words to express what they all meant. If no one else desired to speak, to-morrow he would say a few words.

Mr. Stuart said he would vote for the bill, but he did not believe the Missouri compromise superceded by it, though it was clearly inconsistent with the act of 1850.

Messrs. Cass, Badger and Stuart, continued the debate until after 4 o'clock as to whether there was or not any difference between the two phrases. The bill was postponed.

Washington, Feb. 7.

Senate.—Mr. Bright presented numerous petitions in favor of a Railroad on Pennsylvania Avenue.

Mr. Jones, of Iowa, moved to take up the bill granting alternate sections of public land for twelve miles wide, to aid that territory in the construction of Railroads therein. Agreed to. The bill was explained. The road is to be 300 miles long, and the quantity of land granted is one million of acres.

A bill was passed granting to Minnesota alternate sections of land twelve miles wide, to aid in the construction of a railroad.

The Nebraska bill was then taken up. Mr. Douglas moved to amend the 14th section by a bill striking out those words in reference to the 8th section of the Missouri act, which was superceded by the principles of the Legislation of 1850 commonly called the Compromise measure, and is hereby declared inoperative, and to insert in lieu thereof the following:—"which being inconsistent with the principles of non-intervention by Congress with slavery in the States and Territories, as recognized by the legislation of 1850 commonly called the Compromise measures, is hereby declared inoperative and void; it being the true intent and meaning of this act not to legislate slavery into any Territory or State, nor to exclude it therefrom, but to leave the people perfectly free to form and regulate their domestic institutions in their own way, subject only to the Constitution of the United States.

Mr. Everett said he desired an opportunity for expressing his views on the bill, and to explain the grounds on which he had not been able to give his entire support either in committee or in the Senate, to the bill as reported, or as it would read if amended as now proposed. He had no purpose to enter into any elaborate discussion on the territorial question: that was a great subject, and to discuss it properly would require more time in preparation and examination than his other duties afforded him since this bill was reported. His position as member of the committee induced him to give the reasons why he could not vote for the bill. He had not been able to understand what the effect of the amendment would be, nor the bearing it would have on the bill, and he would be glad, in order to get a little time to examine it, if the bill would be postponed until to-morrow.

Mr. Douglas objected, saying it had been openly avowed by the enemies of the bill, that their policy would be to postpone it day after day, and it became the friends of the bill to resist it. After further discussion and the adoption of several amendments offered by the Committee of Indian Affairs, Mr. Douglas moved to strike out all the appropriations contained in the bill, which was agreed to and the bill postponed. Adjourned.

House.—The House went into Committee of the whole on the deficiency appropriation bill.

An amendment offered by Mr. Clark, appriating $10,000 for the collection of agricultural statistics, and procuring of seeds, led to a long debate, which at times assumed a sectional tone. The amendment was adopted.

An amendment appriating $530,000 to purchase the New York assay buildings was also adopted.

Other amendments were acted on, when the Committee rose and the House adjourned.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

Mr. Gilbert, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, Charles Bryant.

INTEMPERANCE IN GREAT BRITAIN.—The Birmingham Journal has an interesting article on drunkenness in Great Britain. The editor says, that while in courtesies of private life, in the outward decorum and in the popular taste for rational and refined amusements the advances of late years have been immense, in regard to indulgence in intoxicating drinks the proofs of improvement are not so unequivocal. Taking the ten years, from 1841 to 1851, the account stands as follows: In London in 1841 the convictions for intoxication numbered 5245, in 1851, 3544; but its decrease is confined wholly to females, who in 1841 numbered 4034, to 1211 males, while in 1851, 2366 females to 1218 males. In Edinburgh up to 1850, drunkards were only detained until sober, since that time they have been taken before the Courts; in 1841 the convictions were 1352; in 1851, 1880; in Glasgow there is a two fold increase of drunkards since 1841.

In Dublin the increase has been enormous since 1841, namely, from 10,601 to 18,753 in 1851, exhibiting a sad abandonment of the pledges given to the great apostle of temperance, written in sand and apparently washed away in whiskey. In Birmingham, Bristol, Manchester and Newcastle, the improvement has been extraordinary. In Liverpool, however, convictions have increased from 10,572 cases in 1841 to 18,522 in 1851. This is in part ascribed to Irish emigration. The following is a summary in the several divisions of the United Kingdom:

In England	48,908	70,097
In Ireland	17,669	37,637
In Scotland	5,280	27,643

It appears, therefore, that in Ireland with a decrease of population of twenty per cent., convictions have more than doubled; in England the increase is not believed to be more than the increase in population.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Cramp, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Chafes, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that region, where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and as nutritive, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

THE LADIES' FRIEND.

PROF. MOTT'S PILLS.

"He should be most honored who relieves the most distress."

When the head is racked with pains,
And dizziness creeps o'er the brain;
When sleep forsakes the aching eyes,
And health on fevered pinions flies,
When indigestion throws its shade
Like shadows where our graves are made,
Professor Mott's reviving Pills,
Are just the cure for all such ills.

These Pills have long held a conspicuous place in the practice of medicine, for the cure of the many ills to which females are subject. They are composed of entirely vegetable ingredients, and are a Safe & sure remedy for Female Diseases occasioned by imprudence and exposure. In every instance these Pills have proved successful. The thousands of females who are subject to so much suffering can be permanently cured by the use of the above medicine.

Observe that each box has the fac simile of the proprietor, CHAS. V. ARNAULT, upon it. The above Pills can be found at 45 Hanover street, and No 1 Cornhill, Boston.

N. B.—Persons residing out of the city can have them forwarded by mail (free) to any part of the country, by enclosing one dollar in a letter, directed CHAS. V. ARNAULT, Boston, Mass. d621wly

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fatal disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE.

N. B.—BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS, and observe the following Promissory Note, with the fac simile signature of the proprietor, on every genuine box:

THE FISHERIES.—Mr. Sabine of Framingham, who has been writing a long document on the subject of the fisheries, has sent an estimate to the Gloucester Telegraph of the cod, mackerel and herring fisheries of the American seas. The number of American vessels engaged in the business is 3,160; British 3,075; French 580. The capital invested is: American, $3,820,015; British $3,900,175; French $1,255,000; while the value of the annual products is, American, $4,018,030; British $8,690,000; French $1,840,000. Mr. Sabine adds: "It will be seen that while the capital invested in the British possessions is about the same as in the United States, the value of the annual produce is more than double. I should have guessed at a result something like this before entering upon a calculation, item by item, for the figures agree with my personal observation for a series of years. So much for cheaper colonial vessels, so much for boats instead of vessels, so much or proximity to and ownership of fishing grounds, and the exclusive use of the narrow traits and the shore and boat fisheries."

THE GREAT ITALIAN MEETING.—The anti Bedini demonstration, held on Monday evening at the Stuyvesant Institute, New York, was large, respectable, and enthusiastic. Every corner of the hall was occupied by Italians of both sexes; we also noticed quite a considerable number of Americans. The meeting was organized by the calling of Mr. Felix Forresti to the chair. Signor Gazani, late member of the Roman Republican Constituent Assembly, was chosen Vice President, and Signor Filippo Manelta appointed Secretary. Several eloquent speeches were then made by Messrs. Forresti, Gazani, Manelta, and others, in Italian; M. Malespina, in French, and Mr. James Brooks in the English language. Letters were read from General Avezzana and Colonel Forbes, and resolutions were adopted expressing the sense of the meeting towards Cardinal Bedina, whose cruel deeds were recounted in long extracts from various Italian papers of the years 1849 and 1850, with a list of 133 victims who met death that prelate is accused of having occasioned. The proceedings were characterized throughout by an enthusiastic and manly spirit, and did not conclude until a late hour.

A FREEMAN IN BONDAGE!—We have before us a letter written in Louisville, (Ky.) jail, by Edward Derby, a young man of color, aged about twenty-two years, who was born in this State, and some years since lived with Capt. S. W. Updike, of this city. He is the son of Rufus Derby, of Geneva, a colored preacher, who was also born in this State.—The letter is dated Jan. 19 and states that the writer had then been in prison sixty days; that he had written a great many times to his father and others, from whom no answer had been received. The letter in our possession beseeches most earnestly that something may be done to establish his freedom and prevent his being sold into slavery. The jailer, he says, begins to doubt the truth of his claim to freedom, because none of his letters have been answered, and he implores his sister, to whom this letter is directed, to get some one to act promptly in his behalf. On the receipt of this intelligence, the first that had reached his friends, letters were despatched to the jailer at Louisville—whose humanity we have before had occasion to commend in a case exactly similar—and to Charles Hall, Esq of Wheatland, who is now residing at Louisville. No time will be lost in forwarding conclusive evidence of Edward's right to freedom, and we shall no doubt soon be able to announce his deliverance from his "house of bondage."—Rochester Democrat.

A letter from an officer of the U. S. ship Vincennes, at Simon's Bay, Cape of Good Hope, says the city of Cape Town contains between 40,000 and 50,000 inhabitants. It is well built, being laid out with streets crossing each other at right angles. The streets are Macadamized, and very fine roads have been built at little expense, by putting all drunken people and deserters from the shipping at work upon them. The inhabitants are of various shapes and colors—Dutch, English, Malays, Negroes, Coolies, Germans, Lascars and Hottentots, with others unknown. Dutch is spoken in the street, as much or more than English. The Malays are numerous, and carry on great numbers of little retail shops of various sorts; a great many, too, are fishermen. The Lascars are a fine looking set of fellows, but the Negroes appeared to me lower in the scale of humanity than ever, when compared with the East Indians.

FEMALE MEDICAL COLLEGE, BOSTON.—The plan of having public lectures at this institution is judicious and economical, as it does not at all interfere with the regular course to the pupils, there being two lecture rooms. The State government would do well to have the female teachers attend a term in this institution, to become qualified to teach Physiology and Hygiene in the public schools, in accordance with the act of the Legislature, passed in 1850. There are now attending the course advertised, a large number of young ladies from a Female Seminary in a neighboring city.—Boston Journal.

There arrived at New York during the month of January:—Steamers 15; ships 92; barques 65; brigs 75; schooners 39. Total tonnage 188,795. The number of passengers arrived by sea during the same time 17,426, and the amount of gold and gold dust $4,667,199.

Morning Chronicle.

FRIDAY, FEB. 10, 1854.

A MEDLEY OF OPINIONS.

The present agitation of the slavery question in Congress, by Senator Douglas's Nebraska Bill, brings out all sorts of views.—The citizens of Worcester, Mass., have petitioned against the bill; but the Boston Courier remarks:—

The petition of our Worcester neighbors may be drawn up in any kind of language which they may choose to present, and it may be signed by the best men in the country, but it will avail nothing. It has been decided in high places that the Missouri Compromise is to be annulled, not withstanding that it was considered, at the time of its adoption, to be a concession from the North to the South, and though it was reaffirmed in the bill which annexed Texas to the United States. The Nebraska bill of Senator Douglass is the greatest cheat and fraud which the world has ever witnessed. There is no consequence at all to be attached to the arguments of those who say that the people of a territory may have slavery or not, as they please, when they go into a territory which has been preserved against slavery by solemn compact, and carry their slaves there in violation of the organic law of the State. We are happy to understand that we coincide with the views of the National Intelligencer, the New Orleans Bulletin, the Raleigh Register, the Louisville (Ky.) Whig journals, and such other papers Still it is of no use to say anything against the Nebraska bill in Massachusetts, so long as Senator Douglass is the Mordecai who sits at the King's gate, and who, while he possesses the power, transposes all the ideas of justice which were represented by his illustrious predecessor.

Per contra, the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia North American says:

Much bitterness of feeling exists between the Cass and Douglas cliques relative to the Nebraska bill. Mr. Cass considers the measure ill-advised, but will vote affirmatively after a speech re-affirming the doctrines of the Nicholson letter, and arguing that the Missouri Compromise was always unconstitutional. He will give slavery some heavy blows, contending that it cannot go to Nebraska if the Compromise is repealed, until the legislature positively legalizes it. This will draw the Southern fire, and open a wide field of debate by the South. It is evident now that the debate will be protracted, giving ample time for northern sentiment to express itself through public meetings and Legislatures.

Mr. Benton characteristically says that he is determined the responsibility for the repeal of the Missouri Prohibition shall rest on the right shoulders. He tells northern members that the South itself dictated the terms of that compact, getting Missouri and the territory south of 36 30, and giving the North the prohibition of slavery north of that line. Now, he says, the South, in common honesty, must stand to their part of the bargain, if required. But that if the North wants to give up what they obtained, the South cannot be blamed for taking back the territory for slavery. Accordingly he waits for an indication of the wishes of the North.

This view of the case alarms the Northern men who had inclined to favor the repeal, and shows them a gulf of political annihilation just before them.

THE SAN FRANCISCO CALAMITY.—The Military Court of Inquiry, called to examine into the causes of the loss of the San Francisco steamer, is in session at New York, and has much time and business before it.—Lieut. Swords was examined on Tuesday, and the questionings towards him, and his answers thereto, took up the whole day. It appeared by his evidence that the San Francisco was overloaded, and that she was not of sufficient capacity for the business and voyage which her owners undertook for her to perform.

It seems to be a poor business for the United States to be sending troops round Cape Horn, when we own a pretty fair strip of land quite across the continent. We think it not the best of policy to transport our soldiers from Maine and New Hampshire to California and Oregon, when they might be enlisted on the spot for half the cost of transportation, including the loss of time.

But if they must be shifted off, from this side to that, why might not the general government at once survey and lay out a National Road over Mr. Benton's proposed route which the buffaloes have trodden; establish military posts at proper intervals; set up the telegraph poles; and let wagons pass over the route till the Railroad track is laid.

Soldiers that are soldiers would not fear an overland march through a prober climate and at a proper season. But soldiers are not sailors; and our late essay at shipping an army in a transport, round the Cape, is so unfortunate, that we should think it would not be tried again, very soon.

There is now preparing for the American press a historical work, relating to the trial of Queen Caroline, of England, in which Henry (Lord) Brougham, as counsel, first brought himself into celebrity. In this work will be published the death-bed confessions of the countess of Guernsey, the principal lady of the queen's household, which will shed a new light upon that interesting episode in English history.—N. Y. Post.

The countess's deathbed confessions were published in newspapers in this country thirty years ago, and, whether implicitly to be believed or not, were unquestionably interesting. She was one of the king's bad bees, according to her confession.

It is stated in the Irish papers, that there is a considerable decrease in the amount of remittances from America.

LIQUOR CASES.—Several cases for violation of the liquor law were examined before the Police Court, in Newburyport, last week, and the accused parties in all of them, discharged, no evidence appearing against them. We understand that the complaints were made by gentlemen of standing and veracity, who were positive that the charges could be sustained; but when the witnesses were brought on to the stand, not one of them was aware that liquor was kept upon the several premises, or that they themselves were in the habit of drinking. Now what is to be done in such cases? Responsible parties demand warrants—the Court has no authority to refuse to grant them—witnesses are summoned, who are said to have a perfect knowledge of the case—but not one word can be drawn from them to convict the accused parties. As far as our observation extends, this is the history of most of these cases which have been brought up under the new law. The Court is accused on the one hand for neglect of duty, on the other, for granting the warrants and subjecting the county to so enormous an expense, and thus the matter stands.—Herald.

We cannot answer the question, what is to be done? put above, by a writer in the Newburyport Herald. But from the statements therein contained, it would appear, that either those worthy gentlemen who hang round the bar-rooms are total abstinents, or else that their memories are as short as their conscience seems elastic. In the meantime drunkenness causes many costly arrests, and paupers are multiplied.

PROMPT PUNISHMENT.—Justice, though often-times slow, is sometimes speedy. The Salem Observer mentions the following instance:

"The trial of William Havey for a felonious assault, furnishes a notable instance of law without 'delay.' The alleged assault was committed on Sunday evening last, between ten and eleven o'clock. The party assaulted came before the Police Court on Monday morning and made a complaint, upon which a warrant was issued and Havey arrested, and ordered to find sureties for his appearance at a future day, for examination. In the mean time, the witnesses in the case came before the Grand Jury, which happened to be in session, on Monday afternoon. A bill was found upon which the prisoner was arraigned on Tuesday morning, was tried and convicted on Tuesday afternoon, and on Wednesday morning was sentenced to the State Prison for two years. Before this time he is probably at work hammering stone for the State."

NATIONAL POLICY.—The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce is a very intelligent writer, and his communications are perused with interest, as the author represents the Southern sentiment in the federal city with an ability and persistance quite remarkable. His last letter shadows forth the effects which are expected to follow the political movements in the Senate. We put a few of his suggestive sentences in italics. He says the Nebraska bill will pass the Senate, and it is still believed that it will pass both Houses. Some of the Southern members and Senators are persuaded that the measure is impolitic, and will, in the end, prejudice the slaveholding interests, but still they will, for the most part, support the bill.

It is objected to the Nebraska bill that it will establish a principle of extensive application, and will invoke the application of the same provisions to Oregon and Washington. Certainly it will. That is its main object. The principle was established in 1850, now it will be confirmed in 1854. Next year it will be declared that the ordinance of 1787 is inoperative, and that the slavery resolution in the Oregon Bill, which Mr. Polk hesitatingly signed, is superceded.

Therefore, if slavery be a universal necessity, it will be allowed universally to prevail. But, probably, it will be found that its limits will be fixed by climate and commerce—by laws above the action of Congress.

The political effect of the passage of this bill will be important, and, on the whole, highly favorable. It will put an end to the old parties, and "crush out" the coalition of the democracy. It will organize parties into two divisions, and both of them based on the slavery question. One party will be the non-Intervention party, and the other the Abolition party. It is not quite certain which will finally prevail. But the struggle is, at length, seriously begun. All that has ever happened on this question, all the combats from 1820 down were mere child's play, in comparison with what we shall see next Fall, and next year, and for years to come. There will be no more compromises. The old ones will be contemned and set aside. Non-intervention on one side, and abolition on the other, are the only two principles upon which the contract is to be made.

PORTLAND HARBOR.—The Advertiser of Thursday, in correcting the report mentioned in the Chronicle, that Portland harbor was frozen, says:

There has been no day this winter but during which vessels could reach our wharves unobstructed by ice. The docks where the water is still and shallow, and the upper part of the harbor, have been frozen over; but in the lower part no ice has made that has not gone to sea with the ebb tide, thus leaving the lower wharves, and the channel to the upper wharves, open; and vessels have arrived and departed daily from these wharves.

I. O. OF O. F.—According to the report to the R. W. Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of the United States, there are in the United States 2949 lodges. For the year ending June 30th, 1853, there were 23,551 new members admitted. Present number of members 200,000. Number of members relieved during the year 23,000. Number of widowed families relieved 2375. Number of members buried 1583. Amount of revenue for the year $1,299,229. Amount paid for relief, burial of the dead and education of orphans, $491,322. The amount of revenue for encampments was $95,618; amount of relief for the same $30,927. This swells the aggregate of receipts to $1,386,847, and the grand amount of relief to $522,249.

THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS for Rockingham County, will commence at Exeter on Wednesday next, 15th February.—There are on the civil list of actions continued, 478, cases continued on the sessions docket, 19, State trials continued, 19.

☞ Mr. Thomas P. Moses of this city, has just received from the New Hampshire Agricultural Society, their Silver Medal for Landscape Drawing.

SLIPPERY WALKING.—Householders and shopkeepers do well to throw off the ice in front of their premises wherever it can be done easily. Where this is impracticable, a liberal sprinkling of coal ashes or saw dust will make the walk safer, if not neater. This throwing of ashes in the street, we know is forbidden by a city ordinance: but then we do not think it is a finality. The people had better consider it suspended for the present, by the necessity of the case.

☞ Potatoes were sold yesterday on Market Square, by a farmer for 90 cents per bushel. Those who have them for sale, had better bring them in now. They will be cheaper in the spring.

☞ The late storm deposited a superabundance of snow on the track of the Portsmouth & Concord Railroad, impeding the trains so that the 5 P. M. train, on Wednesday, from Concord, had not arrived here at 7 o'clock on Thursday morning.

BEDINI.—The Boston Pilot of this week contains what is said to be a good likeness of Bedini, the Pope's Nuncio, who has just left this country. He looks like a well fed, self-complacent man.

The Winnipisceogee Lake Company held a meeting at Meredith Bridge on the 6th inst., and chose the following Directors:—Benj. Cole, Woodbury Melcher and Charles Lane, of Meredith Bridge; William Walker, Jr., of Concord; John M. Brackett and Moses Varney of Wolfboro'; and John Coe of Centre Harbor. Benj. Cole was re-elected President, Charles Lane, Clerk, and John T. Coffin, Treasurer. The usual dividend of six per cent. was declared. The Company is on a good basis, annually paying not only a six per cent. dividend, but investing considerable surplus in repairs and better arrangements, and in buying lands for its own use. The "Lady of the Lake" will commence making her trips again about the first of May, under the direction of the great favorite with the travelling public, Capt. Walker.—Manchester Mirror.

HORSE TAMING.—On Tuesday afternoon, several hundred persons were drawn together, on the vacant space in front of the Bank of Washington, to witness the novel performances of a gentleman who has acquired some reputation as a tamer of animals. A cartman having a restive horse, very much disposed to kick in the traces, brought it forth to have it operated upon. The tamer tapped on a drum and kindly invited the horse to follow him, which the creature did, to the wonder of the spectators; and, after being thus exercised for some minutes, the horse was again put between the shafts, and trotted off in good order.—Washington Sentinel, 1st.

MAINE STATE PRISON.—Twenty-one convicts have been received during the past year—the number discharged by expiration of sentence, is 19, by pardon, 6. The number remaining is 69, four less than the year previous, and eighteen less than April 1, 1851.

The following is a list of the crimes for which the present convicts are sentenced:

Larceny,	45	Rape,	2
Arson,	2	Adultery,	2
Burglary,	2	Assault with intent to ravish	3
Forgery,	1	Robbery,	1
Murder, sentence commuted	1	Shopbreaking and larceny,	3
Murder,	1
Murder, 2d degree,	1
Manslaughter,	5	Aggregate	69

EMANCIPATED SLAVES.—Thirty-four negroes, emancipated by the will of William M. Colgin, of Taylor County, Ky., who died about sixteen months since, passed through the city yesterday, on their way to Shelby County, in this State, where the executors of Mr. Colgen have purchased a home for them. By the will of their master they were given $4000 in money, and horses, wagons, farming utensils, &c., sufficient to give them a fair start. They travel in their own wagons. As they passed through the city their appearance attracted a great deal of attention.—Cincinnati Gazette, 2d.

A CHAPEL FOR THE POOR.—We learn from the Worcester Spy that Ichabod Washburn of that city is about to erect, at his own expense, a substantial brick chapel, for the free use of the public for religious worship. The building is to be 40 feet by 80 feet; and in one portion of it there is to be a dwelling house for the Minister at Large, who is to supply the chapel, and who is to be supported by the Evangelical churches of the city.

The London Morning Post, a High Church and High Tory organ, has confessed with sorrow that "in a short time a church-rate will not be levied in a single parish in the kingdom."

"A Place for Everything, and Everything in its Place."—The New York National Democrat says:—

We understand that for the special benefit of Captain Rynders, one of the soft shell leaders in this State, the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Guthrie, has created a new office, to wit, that of Assistant Surveyor of the port of New York, at a salary of $2000 per annum.

BAPTIZING.—The Salem Gazette states that notwithstanding the mercury was from five to eight degress below zero on Sunday morning, several converts to the persuasion of the Second Adventists were baptized by immersion—a sufficient opening in the ice being found between Phillips' wharf and Hathorne's Point.

On Sunday, 5th inst., at midnight, Commander James B. Cooper, of the U. S. Navy, died at Haddenfield, N. J. at the advanced age of 93 years. He was the last survivor of "Lee's Legion," so celebrated during the war of the Revolution.

In the Sandwich Islands the small pox is raging fearfully. Not far from 2000 members of the church in Oahu have died since last May, and the number out of the church is much larger than of those in it.

It is a supposition generally conceded to be true, that cords of wood given to the poor are re corded above.

CONGRESS.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 8.

SENATE.—In the Senate several memorials from Quakers and others were presented against the Nebraska bill.

Mr. Everett spoke on the Nebraska bill.

HOUSE.—In the House to-day, Mr. Cutting asked leave to present the remonstrance of the New York Tabernacle meeting against the Nebraska bill.

Mr. McDonald objected, and Mr. Cutting withdrew his motion.

The House went into Committee on the Deficiency bill, and discussed it until the adjournment.

THE ACCIDENT ON THE NORTHERN RAILROAD.—The Manchester Mirror gives the following particulars of the explosion of a locomotive on the Northern Railroad on Monday:

"On many of the railroads yesterday, the snow drifted in badly, and so it did on the Northern railroad, and when the up freight train arrived at Canaan, its locomotive, Daniel Webster, in encountering a snow-drift, for some reason unknown to our informants, burst her boiler with so much power as to wheel the engine almost end for end, and wrenched it from the cars, and threw to a great distance its engineer, Michael Mitchell, and its fireman, —— Thompson. Mitchell survived during the night, but died the next morning. Thompson is not expected to live through the day. The passenger train down was detained so that it did not arrive here till 11 1-2 o'clock last evening. Previous to the accident, however, the passenger train got off the track. The first passenger train up yesterday, on that road, did not arrive at the White River Junction, till this morning."

ARRIVAL OF THE PACIFIC.—The Pacific arrived at New York on Thursday afternoon.

The advance on Breadstuffs at Eiverpool was 1s. per bbl. on Flour; 3d. to 6d. on Wheat; 1s. to 2s. on Corn. These prices were generally demanded, but at these rates transactions were quite limited.

☞ At St. Louis, Mo. 3d inst. the Ice started a little, and crushed a number of steamboats, sinking two or three, and doing damage to the amount of $100,000 in a few minutes. The people are watching the next move with great anxiety.

GAS EXPLOSION AT NASHUA—FIVE PERSONS INJURED.—A singular accident occurred at Nashua, N. H., about 11 o'clock on Tuesday night, the particulars of which we find in the Manchester Mirror. It appears that three boarders in a house kept by Mrs. Mary Ball, returned from a concert about 11 o'clock. As they entered the house they discovered the odor of gas on the premises. Knowing that gas was not used near the premises, one of them named Charles Winn took a light and opened the cellar door, and forthwith a terrible explosion took place, raising the house from its foundations, and blowing the inside into fragments. Daniel Marshall, who was sleeping in the second story, was thrown, bed, bedstead and clothes, across Canal street, and was considerably bruised. A Mr. Leonards, who was asleep in the same story, was thrown out of the end of the building, but was not much hurt. Winn, who opened the cellar door, was somewhat burnt, but not seriously. Lewis B. Ball, the son of the woman who occupied the house, was standing about four feet from the cellar door, and thinks he was thrown to the attic. He is worse injured than any other person—being hurt in the back and his so that he cannot move in bed, and some eight or ten flesh wounds are on his face. All the furniture and clothing in the main part of the house was scattered like the chaff before the wind. The accident is said to have been caused by the breaking of the gas pipe in front of the house, which allowed the gas to escape into the cellar. The canal is near by, and the gas pipe crosses it under the bridge, exposed to the cold, and it is supposed the pipe was contracted so as to break.

FIRE AT STEEP FALLS, (Standish, Me.)—On Wednesday morning about 3 o'clock, a fire broke out at Steep Falls, Standish, which destroyed a saw-mill, grist-mill and knife factory—and about $150 worth of knives and forks, ready for market.

SAD CASE.—At Penobscot, Me., on the morning of Jan. 24th, the body of Mr. Richard Leach was found by the side of the road where he had perished during the night. He was returning home from Castine, and had travelled seven miles. Two empty bottles and one filled with brandy were found by his side.

HON. SAMUEL H. WALLEY.—We learn from the Boston Atlas that this gentleman—the Representative in Congress of the southern wards of Boston, and Roxbury, and other neighboring towns—has been confined to his bed in Washington for several days past, by severe inflammatory rheumatism. His indisposition deprives the Pacific Railroad Committee of the valuable services of one of its best informed and most active members. At our last accounts his fever had abated, and it was hoped that so unwelcome an intruder upon his peace and the use of motive power might soon be altogether banished.

ARREST OF COUNTERFEITERS.—Deputy Sheriff Cary, arrested on Saturday afternoon, Jona. Harvey, and John Harvey, father and son, on charge of passing counterfeit bills. They had been very successful in their operations during the day, having passed about forty dollars, of which thirty-one are in the hands of the Sheriff, consisting of two fives on the Casco Bank, Portland; two fives on the Fall River Bank; two threes on Montpelier Bank, Vermont; one five on Rhode Island Central Bank. They were brought before Justice Marston, Monday, and in default of $2000 bail committed to take their trial in May.—Newburyport Herald.

Mrs. Anna Royal is still editing her paper—the Huntress—in Washington. She will be 85 years old on the 11th of June next.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

CLERICAL LIBERALITY.—The Journal of Commerce mentions that on Sunday morning last, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher gave notice that a sermon would be preached that afternoon, by the Rev. Mr. Furness, (Unitarian,) of Philadelphia, at the Church of Rev. Mr. Chapin, (Universalist,) upon the subject of "Practical Religion." He said he supposed some people would think it strange that he, an Orthodox clergyman, should give such a notice; but though Mr. Furness entertained a different system of theology from him, yet he was right on this great question of human rights and human progress, and an eminently practical Christian. He added that some men live better with a bad system of theology, than many men did who had a good one, and that "some men could do more with a jack-knife, than other men could with a whole chest of tools."

Some years ago, when the present Clerk of the House at Washington was domiciled in the Quaker City, his young son, a lad of some six years, happened to be at his father's office one morning, when the "hatless prophet," George Mundy, made his appearance, and getting into conversation with the child, the latter asked him in the course of their chat:

"Why don't you wear a hat, Mr. Mundy?"

"Oh!" answered the prophet, "because there is no use in it: God's Creatures are not so furnished; sheep, and other animals don't wear hats."

Quick as lightning came the child's philosophic and clinching response:

"Are you a sheep, Mr. Mundy?"

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Heads ache, Musqui to Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $50 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could find a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficie at, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green st.

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swelling, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in addition applying for Patents, superior to those offered by others, have made arrangements by which, on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid by others,) will be paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal within 15 days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and rendered scientific matters respecting infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only have their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, and trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

H. H. EDDY, Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, and there was no Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any, that equal Eddy in the best qualities of a Solicitor. He had no superior in the Patent Office, and there were few equal to him in point of skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best and most powerful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them a favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the business connected with the Office of Patents, I have found to be in every respect equal to those of any other agent I have had in my service, and I cordially recommend you to my friends and the public.

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity, where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom.

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even more nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. MOTT'S PILLS.

"He should be most honored who relieves the most distress."

When the head is racked with pains,
And dizziness creeps o'er the brain;

When indigestion throws its shade

Are just the cure for all such ills.

These Pills have long held a conspicuous place in the practice of medicine, for the cure of the many ills to which females are subject. They are composed of entirely vegetable ingredients, and are a Safe & sure remedy for Female Diseases occasioned by imprudence and exposure. In every instance these Pills have proved succesful. The thousands of females who are subject to so much suffering can be permanently cured by the use of the above medicine.

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

TASTINGS OF PUNCH.

The last number of the London Punch has the following hits:

The Conversation of Flowers.—Do flowers converse? Yes, certainly; or else what is the meaning of "flowers of speech?" Besides, we have a standing proof of the conversation of a flower, its (s)talk!

Parsons on the Ice.—Among the skaters in the parks last week were several reverend gentlemen, who distinguished themselves by the ease and grace of their movements. A few of them made some very awkward slips, and there were several whose backsliding was so perfect as to be evidently quite natural.

The Letter of the Law.—The "letter of the law" must be x. It expresses a quantity that is unknown.

Teetotal Definition.—A Spirit Level:—Drink, that lowers man to the level of the beast.

More Effects of the Snow Storm.—(From our own Penny-a-Liner.)—We have several important additions to make in relation to the list of casualties and inconveniences occasioned by the great snow storm.

The Earl of Aberdeen was about to take some steps in the right direction, but, from the slippery state of the streets, his lordship was compelled to stay at home, and content himself with writing a kind note to the Russian embassy.

Mr. Cobden, Mr. Bright, and the other leading peace-mongers, were about to convene a meeting, at which they intended to pledge themselves to attempt, in the case of Turkey and Russia, the "arbitration" and "pacific inference" which they have advocated in so many tons of tracts. But the snow rendered it impossible for them to show that their advocacy had ever been in earnest.

Backgammon.—An absurd game which ladies play with a bonnet.

Conundrums for the Times.—When may we consider ourselves to be completely under the empire of the ottoman? When we recline on a too easy sofa, and fall asleep under its luxurious influence.

Where are we most likely to find the key of the Baltic? In Davy Jones's locker.

Theatrical Announcement.—The Theatre of War.—We are enabled to state that the appearance of Mr. Bull, so long underlined, will positively take place in a short time. He will appear in the revived drama of The English Fleet.

SENTIMENTAL GEOGRAPHY.—Anthony Van Diemen, Governor of Batavia, had a daughter, whose name was Maria. Since she was not only charming and accomplished, but also the only child of a rich papa, who was Governor of the Dutch East Indies, Maria's image was impressed on many a heart, and she had no lack of suitors. There were great men among them; but, with maiden-like perversity, Maria most favored a poor young sailor—a handsome, dashing fellow, who was very skillful in his business, but who had no pockets, or no use for any. The young sailor's name was Abel Jansen Tasman. He was devoted to Maria, heart and soul, had exchanged pledges with her, and had brought matters to so serious a pass, that the proud father determined to put the young adventurer quietly and courteously out of sight; the doing so he took to be a better and more fatherly course than the institution of a great family quarrel. That this Maria should become Mrs. Tasman, he knew very well was a thing not for a moment to be thought of. Whoever won his daughter must have wealth and a patent of nobility. She was no fit mate for a poor sailor, Tasman, however, could be easily dismissed from dangling after her.

The Batavian traders had at that time a vague notion that there was a vast continent, an unknown Austral land somewhere near the South Pole; and Van Diemen determined to send Tasman out to see about it. If he never came back it would not matter; but at any rate, he would be certainly a long time gone. Van Diemen therefore fitted out an expedition and gave to young Tasman the command of it.

Off the young fellow set, in the year 1642, and like an enamored swain as he was, the first new ground he discovered—a considerable stretch of land, now forming a very well known English colony—he named after his dear love, Van Diemen's land, and put Miss Van Diemen's christian name beside her patronymic, by giving the name of Maria to a small adjoining island close to the south-eastern extremity of the new land. That land—Van Diemen's land—we have of late begun very generally to call after its discoverer, Tasmania.

Continuing his journey southward, the young sailor anchored his ships on the 18th of December, in a sheltered bay, which he called Moodenare's (Murderer's) Bay, because the natives there attacked his ships, and killed three of his men. Travelling on, he reached, after some days, the islands which he called after the Three Kings, because he saw them on the feast of the Epiphany; and then, coming upon New Zealand from the north, he called it in a patriotic way after the States of Holland, Staten Land; but the extreme northern point of it, a fine bold headland jutting out into the sea, strong as his love, he entitled Cape Maria. For he had gone out resolved not indeed to "carve her name on trunks of trees," but to do his Mistress the same sort of honor in a way that would be nobler, manlier, and more enduring.

After a long and prosperous voyage, graced by one or two more discoveries, Tasman came back to Batavia. He had more than earned his wife, for he had won for himself golden and high renown, court favor, rank, and fortune. Governor Van Dieman got a famous son-in-law, and there was no cross to the rest of the career of the most comfortable married couple, Abel and Maria. Tasman did not take another journey to New Zealand; it remained unvisited until 1796, when it was re-discovered by Captain Cook, who very quickly recognized it as a portion of the land that had been first seen by the love-lorn sailor.

Morning Chronicle.

SATURDAY, FEB. 11, 1854.

ABUSE OF SAILORS.

We copy from the Boston Transcript, the following account of the brutalities on board ship Harvard, for which the Captain, Levi Hotchkins, has been fined 470 dollars and costs, by the United States District Court in Massachusetts. It will be seen to be a case of great barbarity.

United States District Court, Massachusetts. Stephen Whately vs. Levi Hotchkins. Libel by Whately, a seaman, against the captain of the ship Harvard, for his wages, and for abuse on board. It appeared that the libellant was a citizen of Massachusetts, and that the Captain was also: That Whately joined the vessel in Calcutta, in August last, as an able seaman, at thirty dollars per month, and when he went on board was the strongest and ablest man in the ship; that he was a peaceable and quiet man, and respectful to the officers. But it seemed that from feeling pretty hearty and strong, and perhaps a little elated at getting such fine wages, and the prospect of going home, he felt pretty well, took hold with a will, handled a certain chain a little roughly on one occasion, so as to actually dent the deck, and on another occasion handled a rope so carelessly that it came near hitting the Mate, though it is due to Whately to say that no one saw the latter occurrence, if it happened, but a young lad, a cousin to the Captain.

To all this it would seem exception was taken, and in the language of the crew, the Mate "allowed that Whately was too smart;" so to cure him of that defect, as soon as the vessel had cleared the Hoogly, the Mate, in presence of all the crew, sent Whately for a bucket. When he had brought it, the Mate told the rest of the crew to go to dinner, and told Whately to set down on the bucket.—Whately looked at the Mate for an instant to see what he meant, and perceiving from his manner that he was intending it to degrade and punish him, flatly refused to do it. The Mate then sprang upon him, struck him several times with his fist, beat him over the head with a belaying pin, and then called for the irons. When they were brought, the Mate first struck him over the head with them, cutting a deep gash in his head, so that the blood ran down on deck; then put him in irons, kicked him after he was in irons, and set him down on the bucket under a hot tropical sun, and there he was kept from noon to 3 o'clock, when he was taken into the cabin and locked in a state room.

All this time the Captain was in the cabin, about thirty feet distant, and the cabin door was open, and yet he did not interfere. What took place in that state room no one was permitted to know for the next fourteen days, save the Captain, Mate, and Whately. During all that time the window blind to it was down, the door locked, and the Mate or Captain had the key. Whatever was passed in to him was passed by the Mate or Captain.—Whateley's account of his usage there was that both berths were filled full of canvass, that the floor too was filled full of bags, so that he could not lay down the whole time that he was there, but only lean a little on the bags, that he had an allowance of only one biscuit a day, and a pint of water, and that he was chained during all that time hands and feet. The seamen, after Whately was released, looked into the poor sailor's prison, and gave substantially the same account of its condition that he did, viz.: that there was only room to stand, no chance to recline. Before the Court there was no testimony as to what passed in that prison house for that period, except that the steward said that he gave the Mate three biscuits and three quarts of water a day for Whately, but that the Mate carried it to him himself. When Whately came out at the end of the fourteen days, he was emaciated and wan, and could hardly stand. From that period he never was treated as the rest of the crew. He was allowed no forenoon's watch below, with his comrades, was kept at the wheel four, eight, ten, and sometimes fourteen hours at a time, was only allowed ten minutes to get his dinner, so that sometimes he would hardly get his meat into his dish before he was called, (the regular trick at the wheel is two hours,) and Sabbath days he was kept at work all day cleaning hen coops, scraping old iron, or on some other menial service.

During the whole voyage home the Captain and Mate were, in sailor phrase "down on him," kicking and beating him. Some of the crew testified that the Mate assaulted and beat Whately fifty times during the voyage, and a great many of those times savagely, so that the blood would run down upon deck. Three of these times it was in the presence of the Captain. One time kicking him in the face because he let go a wrong rope by mistake; another time, beating him and jumping upon him because he the Mate said he did not answer "aye, aye, sir" when he was spoken to, and another time for some other equally trivial mistake. On one of these occasions the Master said, "Ah, that is right Mr. Farnham, get the thirty dollars a month out of him, a little flogging will do him good," and on one other of the occasions the Captain cheered him on with "Ah, Mr. Farnham, that raised his wool for him." One of the seamen testified that when at the wheel he used often to overhear the Master and Mate talking over their exploits, thrashing and abusing the men, and laughing over and enjoying them. The Captain himself only assaulted Whately three times on the voyage, once for the same mistake (letting go the wrong rope,) that the Mate assaulted him for, and that he did in the facetious way of kicking him in the face, and once with a rope over the head and shoulders, for some alleged mistake. But what the Master wanted in number he made up in ferocity, for a short time before the vessel arrived, Whately being at the wheel, the Captain came along and charged Whately with being a point and a half off the course. Whately replied that he was on the course that had been given him; the Captain thereupon seized an iron belaying pin and made a most savage assault upon Whately, striking him some twelve to sixteen times, two of which blows were in the face, laying open great gashes on each side of his face, and covering the deck with blood so that it had to be swabbed up.

In addition to the foregoing he was treated to pleasant little threats from the master and mate, such as that they "hoped he would die," that they were a "good mind to throw him overboard," "that he might think himself lucky if he ever got home," &c, and when coming on this coast, he was kept in the bows from four to six hours at a time, (two hours being the regular time,) with the spray drenching him, so that when he arrived here he was frostbitten, hands and feet. As a very proper finale to the whole proceeding, the Captain, instead of running his vessel direct to Boston, hove too off Gloucester, and sent the mate ashore, to make his escape.

The Court held that the master himself would have had no right to have ordered Whately to set upon the bucket; that the captain having continued Whately's punishment by imprisonment after the flogging, thereby adopted and sanctioned the whole quarrel and made it his own; that having chosen to inflict the punishment by imprisonment in secret, the burden was on the captain to show the nature of it, and if he did not, every presumption was to be taken against him; that the captain and mate were in the wrong throughout—and decreed damages in favor of Whately against the captain for four hundred and seventy dollars and costs.

It appears from the Transcript, that Capt. Hotchkins belongs to Gloucester, Mass. and that Farnham, the mate, belongs to Wiscasset, Maine. It seems to us that the proper prosecuting officers of the United States Courts in Massachusetts and Maine, should have Mr. Farnham hunted up, and punished in some degree according to his deserts.

He and Captain Hotchkins would afford Mrs. Stowe the material for a couple of characters, when she gets ready to write an Uncle Tom of the Sea.

THE WATER CURE JOURNAL, for February, 1854, contains a very curious and instructive article on Feet, Shoes and Boots, with numerous illustrations; Mary's First Child, —by the author of "Hot Corn;" A Southerner's Impressions; A Letter from the West; Diary, by Noggs, No. 12, &c., &c.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL for February, has characteristic portraits of Herr Driesbach, Wm. Norris, and John W. Griffiths, with descriptions of character. Also an article on steamboats, by John W. Griffiths; Practical Phrenology; its value, No. 1.

Both these useful and valuable monthlies are published by Fowlers & Wells, New York.

RELIGIOUS ZEAL.—The name of General Avezzana was affixed to the address of the Italian patriots to Archbishop Bedini, and, from the character of that gentleman, it gave great weight to the document in many quarters. On Friday last, several of the New York papers contained a card, to which the name of General Avezzana was appended, retracting his signature to the first named document. The papers of yesterday contained a counter statement from the General, in which he avows: "I desire explicitly to state that I did sign and wholly approve of the abovementioned address of the Italians to Bedini, which, under the circumstances, I consider extremely moderate."

The Courier and Enquirer says:

"So far as we are concerned with the publication of the original note, we have only to say that it was handed to us personally by Madame Avezzana, with a request that we would publish it, and with a remark—elicited by enquiry on our part—that it was authorized by her husband. Madame Avezzana is an Irish Roman Catholic lady, and doubtless in the ardor of her religious feelings misconstrued the nature of the reply made by him, to her solicitations that he would sanction this note of retraction which she had penned. We state this simply in justice to ourselves, for we published the note in perfect good faith, not doubting that in so doing we were fulfilling the desire of Gen. Avezzana himself."

We consider this revelation quite valuable. It is far better than if no supposed retraction had been made. It shows the poor devoted lady to be a more ardent worshipper of her priests and her church, than of God and the truth. She no doubt supposed she was doing God service, and perhaps saving her husband's soul, by getting him to retract his charges against the clerical butcher. She ought by all means to have taken the veil. The people of this country will begin to understand by and by, what is the true nature of blind devotion, bigotry and superstition. There are, doubtless, thousands of women of foreign birth, in this country, as blindly devoted to their mother church and its priests, as Madame Avezzana, only more ignorant, who would scruple as little as she did, at any pious fraud like the one she perpetrated.

MAN FROZEN TO DEATH IN PELHAM, N. H.—A man by the name of Ferdinand Tetherly, was found frozen to death on Tuesday morning last. An inquest was held on the body, and the verdict of the jury was, that "he came to his death by exposure to the extreme cold of the previous night." It is evident that rum, that fell destroyer, had an agency in this affair, as in almost every other evil. It is dangerous taking intoxicating drink, when exposed to the cold, when the thermometer stands 20 below 0.—Lowell Journal.

THE EVENING SCHOOL.—The suspension of the evening school for a few evenings, for want of gas, has proved a serious injury to its prosperity. Many of the scholars and teachers appear to have lost their interest in the school. At the last evening there were no male teachers, and a deficiency of female teachers. Unless there is a rallying among the teachers, it will be necessary to close the school. Are those teachers who stay away willing to bear the responsibility of such a step? It is earnestly hoped that teachers and scholars will make an effort to be present this evening, and that there will be a full school through the remainder of this month. *

MR. EVERETT ON NEBRASKA.

The Senate on the 8th was occupied by Mr. Everett with a speech in opposition to the Nebraska bill. He declared that he spoke as a cordial supporter of the compromise of 1850. After describing in his characteristic beautiful language the future of Kansas and Nebraska, he stated that the hasty examination which he had given the subject while before the committee had disclosed to his mind objections to the bill, and subsequent reflection had tended to confirm them. He entertained some scruples—he could hardly say objections—as to the expediency of giving territorial governments of the first order to these territories at this time, on account of the smallness of the population, though he admitted that emigration would flow rapidly into them. He next dwelt at length on the condition of the Indian population. He then passed to the slavery question and first objected to the phraseology of the bill. He then objected to the substance of the bill. He said—

"The substance of the bill was more objectionable than its phraseology. He did not quite understand these words—'Inconsistent with the principles of legislation of 1850.'—He took it for granted that the legislation of 1850 meant the New Mexico and Utah acts. These acts he did not think established any principles applicable to any other territory. These bills were measures enacted for the territories therein named and described, and the boundaries of which were specifically laid down, and did not enact any principle for the government of any other territory in any other part of the country. These acts, in all particulars, were confined in their application to the territories they were enacted for. He did not find in these measures the enactment of non-intervention by congress with slavery in those territories, either as a principle or measure."

The speech throughout is in a conciliatory tone.

DOCTORS' DUTIES.—In the N. Y. Medical Gazette, we find the following extract from the letter of a young physician in Paris, to his father, a medical practitioner in New York:

"M—— has lately been before the court for refusing to answer questions propounded to him relative to a patient, a young lady, who, finding the Doctor in trouble, gave him full permission to answer. But he still refused, saying he could not violate his oath as a Doctor. He was fined 100 francs. He appealed to a higher court. The sentence was annulled, and he was honorably acquitted, the Judge remarking that a physician has not the right, in any case, or under any pretext, to divulge the secret of his patient."

The increase of crimal, in the State of New York during the last ten years, has been at the rate of a bout 13 per cent, while population has increased in the same time, at the rate of 28 per cent.

This has been a time during which many persons have supposed there has been an enormous increase of crime.

RECRUITING FOR THE NAVY.—Her Majesty's ship Tartarus arrived at Kirkcaldy on Friday, for the purpose of taking on board recruits—landsmen five feet seven inches high, and from 18 to 25 years of age. Her "pickings-up" in the Lang Town only amounted to some eight or nine; but she had been more successful on the day previous, at Methill, having secured 21 fine young men for the service. Such is said to be the enthusiasm in this district at present to take up arms against the Czar, that several of the recruits left their peaceful avocations instanter, without "warning" of any kind, and rushed on board the Tartarus with the greatest enthusiasm. Her Majesty's cruiser leaves for Dundee.—Edinburgh Witness.

LIQUOR LAW DECISION.—We learn from the Life Boat that Judge Hoar of the Court of Common Pleas, at East Cambridge on Monday, decided that a license to sell liquor granted by the Boston Mayor and Aldermen after the liquor law of 1852 went into effect, was inoperative. He said that he formed this opinion after considerable examination and reflection when the contrary was announced from the Boston Police Court, and had seen nothing to induce him to change it. The action was brought to recover payment for liquor sold under such a license in March, 1853, and under the decision, the sale being illegal, the payment could not be required. Judgment for the defendants. The plaintiffs appealed.

HOUSEWORK.—"It is curious," (remarks a writer in Putnam,) "that in our country, where so much of the ordinary domestic labor is, in one way and another, performed by the ladies of the family, there should be so much false pride and mean concealment about it: but so it is. The feeling of equality, though so anxiously cherished, and so prevalent in our community, is yet not deep and sincere enough to rid women of the fear, that by performing such labors as princesses of old did not disdain, they may lose caste, and be considered as inferiors by the least valuable of their acquaintances."

CONGRESS.

THURSDAY, Feb. 9.

SENATE.—In the Senate the French Spoliation Bill was taken up and debated, and finally postponed.

The Nebraska bill was then taken up, when Mr. Truman Smith spoke up to the hour of adjournment without concluding, and the bill was postponed until to-morrow.

HOUSE.—The deficiency bill was rejected by a vote of 93 nays to 57 yeas. Much commotion ensued.

Mr. Clingman moved a reconsideration of the vote, and that his motion lie on the table. Yeas 88, nays 88. The Speaker gave his casting vote in the affirmative, and the bill was effectually killed.

Amid much confusion and clapping of hands on the part of many members, the House then adjourned.

[Perhaps the reader can affix some meaning to the paragraph about the reconsideration: we cannot. If the telegraph had stated that the speaker voted in the negative, that would kill the bill—but his vote in the affirmative would keep it alive.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 20.—It is said that the answer of Russia on the declaration of neutrality has arrived. Russia refuses her consent, and demands that Denmark shall side with one of the parties.

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—Austria is said to have notified Russia of her fixed determination to maintain an armed neutrality, provided the czar adheres to his engagement that he aims at no territorial aggrandizement; if this pledge is broken, Austria would assume a hostile attitude towards Russia.

The important territory of Berar, the garden of India, had fallen to the British government by the death of the ruler without issue.

CHINA.—Tranquility prevails at Canton and Amoy; the constituted authorities have been restored. The insurgent army had, at the end of October, reached Ginkin, about 60 miles from Pekin. Shanghae is still in the hands of the rebels.

At Canton trade is dull. Exchange, 5s 1d.

At Shanghae trade was brisk, and supplies of tea were large. Exchange, 6s.

SANDWICH ISLANDS.—The news from the whaling fleet is favorable. From the 23th of August to the 7th of December, 257 whalers visited the Islands. They have taken in all, 20,857 brls. of sperm oil, 59,975 whale oil, and 3,387,500 lbs. of bone. The number of ships bound home from the islands is about 80. The average catch in the Ochotsk Sea has been three times as large during the last season as in the Arctic Ocean.

ARRIVAL OF THE PACIFIC.

FOUR DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

The steamer Pacific, from Liverpool, Wednesday the 25th ult., arrived at New York on Thursday, at 3 P. M. With no further accounts of actual hostility, the prospects of a continued war seem no less probable than at last advices.

The Pacific brings 57 passengers, among them Lieut. Palmer, of the U. S. Navy, and six American ship masters, four of whom have been wrecked, and two sold their ships in England.

The ship Antarctic had arrived out with the rescued passengers from the steamship San Francisco.

The splendid new emigrant ship Tayleur, from Liverpool, 19th, for Melbourne, Australia, struck a sunken rock in Dublin Bay, and 400 lives were lost.

Several other smaller casualities also occurred along the Irish coast.

Another famine is threatened in Ireland.—Provisions enormously high and still going upward. In some parts of Limerick the people are suffering deplorably for want of food.

The English people seeing the imminence of war, appear to have made up their minds to the necessity, and quietly accept it.

No official reply is received from the czar of Russia relative to the eastern question.—There is no abatement in actual hostilities, and the preparations for war are continued, but no further battles are reported either on the Danube or in Asia.

The allied fleets were last seen steering for Batoum, with a fair wind. The Russian fleet was also at sea.

The very latest despatch on the morning of the Pacific's sailing says, on the authority of the London Times, "that the czar has not proceeded to extreme measures, on learning of the entry of the allies into the Black Sea."

He replies by a question, "Are the fleets to observe strict neutrality, or take active part with Turkey?" The answer to the above is of little importance, as the czar's final reply to the note of Vienna must ere now be on its way to the western governments.

The above, however, had a favorable influence on the Paris Bourse.

A telegraphic despatch from Vienna states that it has transpired that the czar's final reply will be contemptuous refusal to the Vienna note; also, referring Turkey to Prince Gortschakoff for further particulars, asserting positively that Russia will not give up one jot of Prince Menschikoff's first demands.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The Times' Paris correspondent writes that the emperor of Russia's reply, though not couched in a very strong language, and demanding explanations, is of such a character as leaves but little hope of a change in the emperor's mind. It is stated that the popular excitement at St. Petersburg is indescribable, and the French government anticipates that an explosion of such a kind may take place as shall force the emperor to make a formal declaration of war before even his plans are arranged. It is believed 10,000 or 15,000 Russians have crossed the Danube.

PARIS, Tuesday.—The Constitutionnel publishes the following expressions of the czar:

"When the emperor learnt the entrance of the allied fleet into the Black Sea he displayed perfect calmness, and said to those about him 'I expected the resolution taken by England and France, and am not unprepared for it.—When battle is offered, Russia accepts. She can afford to mourn for the loss of a fleet, but not for the honor of the nation.'"

The czar has instructed his ambassadors to demand whether by the entrance of the allied fleets in to the Black Sea it is intended to take part with Turkey, or simply to observe strict neutrality. If the former is the case they are to demand their passports.

2 WEEKS LATER FROM CALIFORNIA.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.

The steamship Star of the West arrived here to-day at 12 o'clock, from San Juan, with 400 passengers and $750,000 in gold.—She brings intelligence from California to the afternoon of Jan. 16. Whilst lying off Staten Island this morning, Mr. Timothy Casey of Boston fell overboard and was drowned.

Left at San Juan, sloop-of-war Albany, awaiting despatches.

The steamer Cortes, from San Juan, and Uncle Sam, from Panama, arrived up Jan. 14.

The Golden Gate had not arrived on the 16th, nor was she on the route of the Star of the West.

The mining business had been depressed by dry weather, but heavy rains were beginning to fall. The markets were completely stagnant. The depression was unexampled.—Clear Pork was selling at $20; Mess $15 20; choice butter 29c. Coal had advanced; Lackawana was $39 per ton. Rio Coffee, 11 to 12 cents.

The U. S. sloop-of-war Portsmouth had arrived at San Francisco in 12 days from Honolulu.

Col. Fremont's claim to Tamauripossas, involving millions of dollars, had been rejected by the District Court.

The Legislature of California met January 5d. The Governor in his Message states that the amount of the state debt is upwards of three millions of dollars.

A heavy Norther blew at San Francisco on the 5th ult. The steamers New World and Cornelia both went ashore on Mad Island, but were soon got off again. A good deal of damage was done to the shipping in the harbor.

Intelligence from Lower California is to the effect that the bark Anita, with aid to Capt. Walker, had arrived. Col. Watkins had been made Vice President of the new Republic. Walker was encamped at Ensenada, and was in peaceful possession of the country. All the Mexican neighborhood had submitted and asked Walker's protection, and promising neutrality.

Further advices state that when Col. Watkins arrived with reinforcements for Walker, the latter was beseiged at Ensenada. The besiegers were afterwards repulsed. Lieut. McKibben, and a private named McCormack were killed, and five others were wounded.

The fillibustering excitement has fallen to a low point, except at Stockton, where a meeting was held, approving of Walker's proceedings, but the leaders were unfortunately arrested by the police.

THE CHINESE WAR.—The postscript to a Hong Kong letter of Nov. 27th, says that intelligence has been received from Shanghae of the capture of the whole Insurgent fleet by the Imperialist naval forces.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:
MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

A LYRIC:

By Gerald Griffin, quite famous as the author of "The Collegians," and other popular novels; an Irishman of extraordinary genius. His poetry is scarcely known to English readers, but much of it has great merit.

Gilli ma chree,
Sit down by me,
We now are join'd and ne'er shall sever,
This hearth's our own,
Our hearts are one,
And peace is ours forever.
When I was poor
Your father's door
Was closed against your constant lover;
With care and pain
I tried in vain
My fortunes to recover;
I said, to other lands I'll roam
Where fate may smile on me, love!
I said, farewell, my own old home!
And I said farewell to thee, love!
Sing Gilli ma chree, &c.

I might have said,
My mountain maid,
Come live with me, your own true lover:
I know a spot,
A silent cot,
Your friends can ne'er discover,
Where gently flows the waveless tide
By one small garden only,
Where the heron waves his wings so wide,
And the linnet sings so lonely.
Sing Gilli ma chree, &c.

I might have said,
My mountain maid,
A father's right was never given
True hearts to curse,
With tyrant force,
That have been blessed in heaven!
But then I said, in after years,
When thoughts of home shall find her,
My love may mourn with secret tears,
Sing Gilli ma chree, &c.

Oh, no! I said,
My own dear maid,
For me, though all forlorn forever,
That heart of thine
Shall ne'er repine
O'er slighted duty never!
From home and thee though wandering far,
A dreary fate be mine, love,
I'd rather live in endless war
Than buy my peace with thine, love!
Sing Gilli ma chree, &c.

Far, far away,
By night and day,
I toil'd to win a golden treasure,
And golden gains
Repaid my pains
In fair and shining treasure.
I sought again my native land,
Thy father welcomed me, love,
I pour'd my gold into his hand,
And guerdon found in thee, love!
Sing Gilli ma chree,
Sit down by me,
We now are joined and ne'er shall sever;
This hearth's our own,
Our hearts are one,
And peace is ours forever.

PATENTS.
American and Foreign Office.
AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, MASS.

DR. CONINE'S
SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.
The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that locality where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

'It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and when compared with them, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

THE LADIES' FRIEND.
PROF. MOTT'S PILLS.

"He should be most honored who relieves the most distress."

When the head is racked with pains,
And dizziness creeps o'er the brain;
When sleep forsakes the aching eyes,
And health on fevered pinions flies,
When indigestion throws its shade
Like shadows where our graves are made,
Professor Mott's reviving Pills,
Are just the cure for all such ills.

These Pills have long held a conspicuous place in the practice of medicine, for the cure of the many ills to which females are subject. They are composed of entirely vegetable ingredients, and are a Safe & sure remedy for Female Diseases occasioned by imprudence and exposure. In every instance these Pills have proved successful. The thousands of females who are subject to so much suffering can be permanently cured by the use of the above medicine.

Observe that each box has the fac simile of the proprietor, CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, upon it. The above Pills can be found at 45 Hanover street, and No 1 Cornhill, Boston.

N. B.—Persons residing out of the city can have them forwarded by mail (free) to any part of the country, by enclosing one dollar in a letter, directed CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, Boston, Mass. d621wly

The 'Lowell Coal & Gas Burner.'

IS now taking the lead as a Coal Burner, in all places where it has been introduced. It is so unlike all other Stoves, and so superior to them, that the whole truth would hardly be believed, except by those who have used them. One ton of coal purchased in this Stove will generate as much heat as two tons consumed in any other Stove extant.

The subscriber having secured the exclusive right to manufacture and sell this in this place, respectfully invites all interested to an examination of it at his Ware House, 15 Daniel street, where it may be seen in operation day and night.

Morning Chronicle.

THE STORY OF A BONNET.—Grace Greenwood, in her "Haps and Mishaps of a Tour in Europe," recently published, relates with her usual naivette an amusing personal adventure upon her return to London, as follows:

When at Paris, I had purchased one of the bonnets of the season, which, as every one knows, are small beyond precedent, without reflecting that I was bound for a country where the ladies display in nothing their characteristic modesty and reserve more than in bonnets, at least those for the ordinary promenade, retiring into profound depths of leghorn and lace, and sometimes cloistering themselves in the shades of huge "uglies."

The Parisian milliner of whom I purchased the above mentioned bonnet, who was a reduced comtess, and had her name blazoned on the plafond of the show-room, was so complaisant as to go into ecstacies over the effect when I tried it on, crying, "C'est joli! charman! parfait!" I saw that it was becoming peculiarly so; and she assured me it was not dear; so I took it, with no fearful looking for cockney indignation, surely. Well; as I descended from my chamber, equipped for my expedition into town, I noticed that the friend who was to accompany me looked a little struck up; but I concluded it was with admiration at the ton of the thing—and perhaps it was. At the station, while waiting for the train, I had a strong suspicion that a remark I overheard, of "My eyes! them is poppies," referred to a trifle, in a decorative way, belonging to my bonnet.

In the railway carriage I found myself an object of rather curious regard—but this I attributed to a certain foreign air I may have picked up on the continent, and it was not till I was walking down Regent street that I was convinced as to the cause of the sensation I had produced. "The head and front of my offending" was my unfortunate bonnet. It was stared and commented upon without mercy; shop-boys pronounced it "the last Paris stunner;" shop girls lifted their eyebrows, and said, "O, my!" and, an impudent young footman, as he passed me, looked up into my face with a shrill, significant whistle. At last, in very desperation, I rushed into a shop and purchased a black lace veil, with which I quite extinguished my "stunner," poppies and all.

In describing her London life, Grace tells a good story of her innocent quizzing of a solemn John Bull.

The manner of an English gentleman toward the American visitor is polite and considerate, but sometimes a little too marked.—At a dinner party, the other day, during a little playful discussion of Yankee character, a bland and benevolent looking old gentleman at my side informed me that he had come to the conclusion that the wooden nutmeg story was neither more nor less than a mischievous satire. For, said he, there would be such an amount of minute carving required to make a successful imitation of the nutmeg, that the deception would hardly pay the workmen.

For myself I do not believe the cheat was ever practiced. I thanked him in the name of my country for the justice done her, and assured him that the story of the Yankee having whittled a lot of unsalable shoe pegs into nutmegs, and sold them to the Canadians, was also a base fabrication of our enemies.

Mrs. Partington called the other morning, and we held quite a long political confab with her. The old lady said she didn't see much difference between Miss Ann Thropy and Mr. Phil Anthropy; she thought they were just one and the same person, comin' out in the Bloomerous custom to day, and the "crave at custom to-morrow, an if people would crave arter such things, why, she couldn't help it; and as for that Miss Susy or Susan or Suri Compromise, they talk so much about, she didn't think much of her. That Nebraska "Bill" was jest the chap to serve her out with an anecdote, as the doctors say, and she rather reckoned he would.—Nat. Democrat.

LIBERALITY.—At the burning of the Lafarge Hotel, at New York, recently, Messrs. Lanier lost all their property, and they have published a card, stat to the hotel-keepers of that city, for their prompt and liberal pecuniary assistance, they are under the greatest obligations, and that kindly and thoughtfully considering that Mrs. Lanier had not only lost every household article, but every portion of her wearing apparel, Capt. Degroot of the Prescott House, has munificently presented her with the sum of $2000.

Several newspapers in Albany, N. Y., have raised their prices a little for subscriptions and advertising. The prices now paid, generally, are scarcely remunerative, and while the cost of publication has been enhanced twenty five per centum, or more, the old rates to customers, still prevail. We do not believe the public would deny the justice of a small advance in the price of advertising, &c., on the part of publishers, if asked for in a very polite manner.—Boston Post.

CROMWELL'S CANNON.—An anecdote is related of Oliver Cromwell, which by a single incident illustrates the fanaticism of those times and the character of the man who was able to turn it to so good an account. It being usual to place inscriptions on large artillery, the following words were inserted upon some of the cannon belonging to the army of the Commonwealth, at the period when the Puritan superstition was at its height: "O Lord open thou our lips and our mouths shall show forth thy praise."

Morning Chronicle.

MONDAY, FEB. 13, 1854.

WARLIKE ASPECTS.

The news by the steamer Pacific, is not exactly pacific news, but on the contrary looks like a serious and sanguinary contest.

In a late conversation, the Emperor of Russia is reported to have used nearly the following language:

He said all Russia required was free navigation, and so long as the Dardanelles were held by a power not strong enough to refuse this free navigation to Russia, he was content, and preferred the present disposition of territory to any possible change; that had he wished to seize Constantinople he could have done so with the greatest ease when Prince Menschikoff left the Porte. The seizure of Constantinople, the occupation of the Dardanelles, and the overthrow of the Sultan, would have been an affair of a few days.

The Emperor said that since 1848 the religious element had become predominant in politics—that the emancipation of the Roman Catholic Church in Germany, which then occurred, had greatly promoted this—that the State of the Greek Church rendered his interposition in Turkey a necessity. He added, that the religious relations of the subjects of the Porte with various foreign powers had always been recognised by European statesmen, that they had been encouraged, and by no one more than by Lord Aberdeen in former days, who perceived in these circumstances the solution of many difficulties

The Emperor recurred to the aspect of the war at some length. He said, that far from desiring war a year ago, he was not even prepared for it. He was now prepared, and would act as became his personal honor and the greatness of Russia. It was the war, he frequently repeated, of incapacity, brought on by men who were timid, and, accusing others freely of duplicity, were themselves deficient in everything that was straightforward. He did not believe that England, with a "bourgeois" Parliament, could carry on a war with glory. France, he frequently repeated, had been drawn into a mess which she did not desire. The Russians had beaten all with whom they had been pitted—Frederick the Great—Napoleon.

Rear Admiral Dundas, one of the Lords of the Admiralty, made the following speech to the crew of the Thetis man-of-war at Portsmouth, Eng., on the 21st ult:

My men—I have come down, by the request of the Board of Admiralty, to make known to you that we are on the eve of a war with Russia. My object, therefore, is to prepare you for such an event; and I am sure that you will receive this announcement as becomes Englishmen and British sailors. It is my duty to inform you that the country cannot dispense with your services, however hard it may appear after being away for so long a period; yet the exigencies of the service must be paramount to all other considerations.—Instead, therefore, of your being paid off, you will be paid DOWN. You shall have a few weeks' run, after which I feel assured you will act as British seamen ever have in defence of their country. I trust you will receive this communication in its right and proper light, and I make this known to you thus early to prevent any feelings of disappointment. I have earnestly to hope that the evil may yet pass away, but we must be prepared for any and every emergency. "Pipe down."

The answer given by the Russian admiral to the captain of the Retribution, is said to have been—he had no orders to receive from a French or English admiral; and that he should leave Sebastopol or remain in it, according to the orders he received from the Emperor, or his immediate superiors. The Archduke Constantine was at Sebastopol at the time, and when he heard of the message delivered by the English captain, he flew into a passion, and declared that he would instantly give orders to go to sea, let what would happen. If the menace was carried into effect, it is not improbable that a collision has by this time taken place.

A London paper says:

It is no longer doubted, even by the most sceptical, that any moment may bring England a formal declaration of war. And in view of the imminence of the danger, it is a matter of honest gratification to see with what coolness, moderation, and absence of mock heroics, the people accept the necessity and prepare to meet it.

For some brief time it is considered probable that the war may be carried on from the ordinary financial resources of the country, without the imposition of any new impost. But with so powerful an enemy as Russia, it is impossible to carry on a "little war," and the nation is fully aware that a war-tax and a new loan must be submitted to. And judging from the present temper of the people, and the generally healthy tone of all departments of trade, there would seem to be no doubt of meeting all the exigencies of the case on favorable terms.

MAINE SENATOR.—We learn from Augusta, that on Friday Wm. Pitt Fessenden, Free Soil Whig, was chosen Senator for the vacancy now existing in the U. S. Senate, from the State of Maine, which appointment extends to 1859. The vote stood in the House:—Fessenden, 78; Lot M. Morrill, Democrat, 74. In the Senate, Fessenden, 16; Morrill, 12; John Hubbard, 3. Maine has voted against the Nebraska bill.

A man named George Ayrhart, a tailor in Philadelphia, was committed to jail on the 3d of February by his landlord for an assault, because he had resisted the ejection of his family—a blind wife, a son and daughter, a nephew and a niece—into the street in the storm. There was a dispute about the ownership of the house, and he had refused to pay the rent by legal advice. The disgrace of the arrest and anxiety about his helpless family preyed so upon his mind that he hung himself the next Sunday. How forcibly the line of Burns about man's inhumanity to man comes home to us as we read such accounts. The family has been provided for by charitable people.

MANCHESTER STATISTICS, &c.

Rev. Mr. Bartlett, of Manchester, N. H. in a late lecture before the people of that city, says:—

Official reports and statistics, furnished by Police Courts, Legislative Committees, Sheriffs and Grand Juries, prove that at the present time, in all the cities of our country where intoxicating drinks are freely sold, the sale occasions nearly the whole business of the Police Court. Thus in 1851, the Grand Jury of New York City, affirm that of 21,700 commitments to the city, nine tenths were intemperate persons; in Philadelphia the same year, of 11,000 commitments, eleven twelfths had their origin in the sale of intoxicating drinks; in Buffalo, for several years, nine tenths; in Albany County, N. Y., eight tenths; at Hartford prison in 1848, 90 per cent.; at Norwich prison 75 per cent.; in 1850 three fourths of all the crimes in Massachusetts punished with imprisonment, had the same origin. In 1849, the prisons of the State of New York received 36,000 persons for crimes committed under intoxication. Of eight murders in Connecticut in 1850, all were committed under the influence of intoxicating drinks. Other facts of a similar tenor were given

The experience of Manchester is similar in kind. We have one licensed and fifty-seven unlicensed places where ardent spirits are sold, exclusive of apothecaries' shops: amounting in all to nearly 70—five grogshops against each pulpit in the place. About 2000 barrels are said to be sold annually. It is a seed prolific in crime and misdemeanor. Go to the Police Court record. Foremost among all those cases and constituting almost one half of them, is the direct charge of "drunkenness;" next on the list is "noise, brawl and tumult," almost invariably resulting from the use of ardent spirits; next are "assaults," mostly of similar origin. These three classes of cases form the great staple of the police business. During the 13 months ending February 1st, 1854, the whole number of cases brought before the Police Court was 298; 136 of these were cases of drunkenness. Add to them the cases of "noise, brawl and assault," three or four cases of keeping open Sunday, and selling liquor without license—making 123 more—and you have 259 out of 298,—that is, 13 out of 15, due to the use and sale of ardent spirits. Any exceptional cases of assault would be compensated undoubtedly by other cases not included. Four fifths of the offences here are connected with the use of intoxicating drinks. The above facts were procured of the Police Court.

Yet this is no adequate representation of the intemperance of Manchester; for much of it never reaches the Police Court.

* * * * * * *

The lecturer said he began his investigation with the belief that it was one of the easiest things to enforce the law against the sale of ardent spirits, and ended them convinced that it is one of the most difficult, and almost impracticable. There are hindrances not within the control of the Mayor, Board of Aldermen and Common Council, for which they are not, and cannot be held accountable. He illustrated by a case occurring within a fortnight, where the city government succeeded in convicting one of the worst shops of "keeping open on Sunday." The case was as aggravated as almost ever occurs. The concern was found in full operation, with 12 to 15 men enjoying their favorite beverage, and when convicted, the fine was ONE DOLLAR; and the cost one dollar and fifty-three cents. Such a penalty for such a case is trifling with crime, and a defiance of the public conscience.

[This last paragraph relating to Manchester, seems to indicate that the Police Justice does not exert himself to enforce the laws.]

When we read the Statutes, and the powers of the city government, and the duties of the city marshal, the way seems all plain; but when we learn the actual course of a trial, the case is changed. When we find the City Marshal reporting 57 places where liquor is illegally sold, you ask, "why don't he bring them to justice?" But when you learn that the Marshal might sit in the grogshop, see a man call for gin, and drink, and pay for it, yet his testimony not be sufficient to convict the seller—a fact of which the lecturer had the written assertion of an official personage, in his possession—you see something of the difficulty in the way. * * * * *

In Concord, the law is pretty vigorously executed; but intoxicating drink can be procured. It is only driven into darker places. The only liquor that cannot be sold is spilled liquor. Put ardent spirits illegally kept, on the same ground with contraband goods and counterfeiter's implements, give the power of seizure to the city government, and we shall see different times in Manchester.

The conclusion was that we must have a more stringent law, removing the embarassments with heavier penalties, with power of seizure, in short with the substantial features of the law now pending in New York. All valid constitutional objections can be obviated. It is our right and duty to stop four fifths of the crime.

FATAL RESULT.—Mr. E. H. Stephens, late stage manager of the Bowery Theatre, New York, who was injured on Sunday night last, while wrestling with Wm. H. Hamilton, Esq. died on Tuesday night, his spine having been terribly fractured. Mr. Stephens was a single man, 39 years of age, a native of England. The coroner's verdict was, that the death was accidental, from a fall while wrestling. Mr. Hamilton is quite ill from grief, caused by the melancholy result.

ANOTHER LIBEL SUIT.—The N. Y. Mirror says that it is rumored that Mr. Fry intends bringing another action for libel against the Herald, which has recently accused him of breaking down the Italian Opera in that city. And it is further rumored that the verdict of $10,000 against Bennett cannot be collected for the reason that the proprietor of the Herald has no attachable property.

JUDGMENTS AND TRIALS.—No one, says the Boston Transcript, can peruse the journals and letters of New England without observing how universally the writers of former times regarded any calamity which fell upon their opponents as 'a judgement;' while they pronounced similar events in their own case, as merely "trials."

ANOTHER VOICE.

Messrs. Editors:—I see that an article in the Chronicle of Thursday in regard to intemperance has aroused the righteous indignation of "A Mother" in the Journal of Saturday, and I trust she expressed the feelings of many a mother in this city. I sincerely hope that any thing I may say may not diminish the feelings of horror at leading young boys into that fatal path of dissipation. But the painful question has been forced upon me, Have not the rum sellers some companions in their guilt? All who sell liquor in this city are selling without license and are consequently trampling on the laws of this State. And must I say it, those of us who would be classed among the respectable, law-loving citizens, have for various medicinal, mechanical and chemical purposes, been purchasing from those rum sellers, and even sending our children after it; thus violating that very law we would appeal to, to stop intemperance. Let us go and shake hands with our brothers in guilt and say to them that we are guilty, and will buy no more except where it is sold lawfully. And that we will not only obey the law ourselves, but that we will neglect no means to induce others to comply with the law, and if advice and entreaty fail, we will stop this business by the strong arm of the law. A FATHER.

☞ The unfortunate man who, being intoxicated, laid out of doors on Sunday night, Jan. 29, and got his feet and hands badly frozen, had on Saturday last one finger and six toes, including the two great toes, amputated by Dr. Folsom, assisted by Drs. Chase and Bennett. Sulphuric Ether was administered, thus saving him from suffering during the operation.

☞ A meeting is advertised for this evening at the Court House, for the purpose as we hope, of setting in motion the trains on the direct railroad to Dover.

This enterprise is one of the most important for the business interests of Portsmouth.

P. & C. RAILROAD.—The train on Tuesday morning, Feb. 14, will leave Portsmouth at 7:15 A. M., for the purpose of accommodating those persons who wish to attend Court.

J. W. EMERY, Agent.

QUICK PASSAGES.—The U. S. Sloop-of-War Portsmouth arrived at San Francisco, Jan. 12, in 12 days and 6 hours from Honolulu.

The schoener Minna arrived at Honolulu, Dec. 23, in 10 days from San Francisco.

These are said to be the shortest passages ever made between the two ports. We take pride in noticing the success of the above vessels, because they are the productions of our own skilful mechanics. The Portsmouth was built at our Navy Yard, and has gained for herself the reputation of being the fastest ship in the Navy. The Minna was built in 1851, by George Raynes, Esq., for R. B. Forbes, of Boston, expressly for the China trade.

It is stated that Rev. Mr. Abbott, who has been for many years the pastor of the Congregational Church in Seabrook, N. H., has been removed from his pulpit and parish, by an injunction from the court. The troubles began some two years since. A mutual ecclesiastical council advised that he should be dismissed after his salary was paid in full. The parish did not pay it, and in the mean time, an ex parte council, called by the church, declared him to be dismissed. As he continued to preach, the civil power has interfered to remove him. It is supposed that, ecclesiastically, he can draw his salary, notwithstanding, until he is paid all arrears.—Newburyport Herald.

MR. BEECHER'S LECTURE.

The Boston Post mentions a lecture by Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, at Park Street Church; and makes a brief report, of which the following is an extract.

"The lecturer said the Carolinas were not up to the 13th century in intelligence, while Mississippi was somewhere behind the pyramids. He said the north manufactured everything the south used, from hats and shoes to frying pans and sieves—that the south could not live without the north—that the south would run out if stamina were not supplied from the north."

The Post then says,—

"The audience listened respectfully, but did not appear to sympathise very warmly with the orator. We suspect the manufacturers of hats, shoes, furniture, clothes, &c., bought by the south, and the importers for southern consumption, thought that, if the south was so extensive a customer to the north as the lecturer described it to be, the north had better not quarrel with so large and profitable a purchaser and consumer."

What shall we infer from these two extracts, which really contain the pith of the report and remarks? We can make out only this: Whereas we drive a profitable trade at the South, Therefore be it Resolved, that we will shut our mouths, and would if possible shut our eyes, on any and all abominations we behold there: And be it further Resolved, that for a valuable consideration, we will make ourselves active partakers in the misdeeds of any body who will buy our hats and shoes.

AUGUSTA JAIL—ESCAPE.—About half-past five o'clock last evening, some prisoners confined in the county jail made a determined assault upon the jailer, Mr. Doe, with a view to escape. Four prisoners, it appears, were confined in one cell—Remick, sentenced at the last court, for an assault upon Marshal Jones, Chute, awaiting trial for stealing a horse and wagon in Sidney, and two others. Mr. Doe opened the cell door for the purpose of allowing them to empty their slop buckets, as usual, and Remick passed into the walk with them. Chute came to the cell door with a bundle of clothes which he said he wished to have washed, and as Mr. Doe took them, sprang upon him and endeavored to throw him down, when a severe struggle took place. Mr. Doe held in his hand a bar of iron about two feet long, used to secure the door, with which he struck Chute a number of times, until at last Chute got possession of it, and dealt the jailor a heavy blow on the head, and broke away.

In the meantime, Remick had seized the assistant at the door, threw him down, and made his escape into the street. Mr. Doe was partially stunned by the blow, and blinded by the flow of blood, but managed to get into the street and give the alarm, so that a number of persons joined in the pursuit, and overtook Chute near the Universalist Church. He drew a knife, and threatened to stab any one who approached, but was knocked down with a club, and carried back to jail. The other prisoners did not leave the cell. At the present writing, Remick is still at large. Mr. Doe's injuries, although severe, are not dangerous.—Ken. Journal.

ISTHMUS NEWS.—By advices per the steamer George Law, it appears that the Panama Railroad is so far completed as to allow the cars to run to Obispo, 17 miles from Panama, and the transit of the Isthmus is easily made in one day, the road from Obispo to Panama being in fine travelling condition. The Panama Herald of Jan. 28th says:

It will be interesting to passengers to and from California to learn that the Panama railroad is now so far completed as to do away altogether, and we trust forever, with the Cruces river navigation, which was always the most disagreeable as well as dangerous and expensive part of the route to travellers. Passengers will from this time out be conveyed from Matachin to Colon by rail, and a good road has been made from the railroad station to Cruces by the Company.

There is now no difficulty in making the trip from ocean to ocean in ten or twelve hours.

There now exists no sickness of any kind on the Isthmus.

BREADSTUFFS AND PROVISIONS.—A comparison of the prices of the principal articles of agricultural produce now, with what they were one year ago in the New York market, shows that while breadstuffs have advanced nearly 100 per cent., provisions have generally declined.

☞ Mr. George Lippard, a distinguished writer of tales and stories, who has long been sick, of consumption, has just deceased in Philadelphia. He died very poor; and was relieved, not long before his death, by the hand of charity.

A bill has been passed by the senate of New York, closing the locks and business offices on the canals of that state from 12 o'clock on Saturday night to the same hour on Sunday night. The bill, it is thought, will not pass the house.

Three men in New York have pleaded guilty to libelling Richard King, a member of the police, by publishing a handbill in which King ironically complimented for "efficiency and sagacity."

CONGRESS.

FRIDAY, Feb. 10.

SENATE.—After the transaction of private bills, the Nebraska bill was taken up, and Mr. Truman Smith resumed his speech. He quoted a speech of Mr. Webster, in which that statesman opposed agitating North and South, and declared his devotion to the Union. This was the platform on which he (Mr. Smith) stood. He was opposed to anti-slavery agitators, and pro-slavery agitators. The slavery question overshadowed all things. This bill re-enacted the fugitive slave act five times; but if it re-enacted the Missouri prohibition and the Wilmot proviso five times over, he would not support it. He was, and always had been, directly opposed to agitation on this subject. [A slight interruption to the wires prevented our getting the conclusion of the Senate proceedings.]

After the conclusion of the speech of Mr. Smith on the Nebraska bill, Mr. Weller got the floor, and said he would not speak more than an hour upon the subject if the bill was postponed till Monday. Mr. Houston said he would follow Mr. Weller. The bill was postponed, and the Senate adjourned to Monday.

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Evening Post says "the vote on the Nebraska bill, it is understood, will not be taken in the Senate under a fortnight, and it is supposed it will pass by a considerable majority."

HOUSE.—Mr. Jones of Tennessee made an attempt to reconsider the vote of yesterday, which nailed the Deficiency bill to the table, in consequence of an error in the count, there having been 89 for to 88 against.

Mr. Jones was ruled out of order, when he appealed, but his appeal was laid on the table by a vote of 134 to 35.

Mr. Houston of Alabama made an ineffectual attempt to introduce a new Deficiency bill.

The House then went into committee on the private calender, and on rising adjourned to Monday.

☞ A friend who has more knowledge of legislative tactics than we have, informs us that Mr. Clingman's motion to reconsider the rejected deficiency bill, and then to lay his motion on the table, being decided in the affirmative, must kill the bill—inasmuch as it must lie there with all the motions on the top, till two thirds of the House vote to take it up, which will not happen very soon.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7th.—From California—$1,000,000 of Gold Coming.—The steamer El Dorado, from Aspinwall, arrived today.

The steamer George Law sailed from Aspinwall, Jan. 1st, for New York, with the mails, 600 passengers, and nearly $1,000,000 in gold dust.

The steamer Uncle Sam, at San Francisco, reports passing the Golden Gate slightly disabled, but wanted no assistance.

CAPE HORN WEATHER.—Ship Botus, at San Francisco, had very severe weather off Cape Horn for 15 days. Nov. 13th, while lying to in a very heavy gale of wind, shipped a sea which split covering boards forward, causing the vessel to make more water than usual—shifting cargo, and giving the vessel two streaks list, owing to which little sail could be carried with starboard tacks on board.

Ship Winged Arrow, at San Francisco, was becalmed for 25 days on the passage north of the Equator, on the Atlantic, lat. 10 N. lon. 38 W., and did not make 100 miles in 15 days. Was off Cape Horn 13 days in heavy gales. Crossed the Equator Dec. 27, in lon. 118, and had light baffling winds most of the time afterwards.

Ship Wild Pigeon, at San Francisco, met with very severe weather off Cape Horn for 12 days—lost main yard, main-top gallant yard, split whole suit of sails, stove stanchions, &c.

STEAMBOAT BURNT—LOSS OF LIFE.—Charleston, Feb. 8.—The Girard East Alabamian learns that the steamer American was burnt on the Alabama River, on the 26th of January, by which 50 lives were lost. It is understood that a gentleman named Wood, who was moving west, was on board with a large number of negroes.

DEATH BY POISON.—The inquest in the case of the Hungarian, E. H. Meyer, found dead at the European House in Sudbury street, Boston, resulted in a verdict—"that he came to his death by taking prussic acid, while in a state of great mental dejection." It appeared by the evidence that he had been known to speak of taking his life.

DEATH FROM INJURIES.—Mr. Edmund Munroe, a member of the old firm of Munroe & Francis, book publishers in Boston, died at the Massachusetts General Hospital, on Thursday evening, from injuries received on the evening of the 24th of March last. As he was returning home from a Lowell Institute lecture, and attempted to cross Washington street near the Old South Church, he was run against and knocked down by a horse and sleigh, in which were two men, driving at a furious rate. Mr. Munroe was thrown with violence upon the sidewalk, breaking his left arm and probably injuring him internally.—He was carried to the Hospital, and has since lingered with much pain and suffering.

Mr. Munroe was a highly respectable citizen, and died at the advanced age of about 76 years. He was never married, and by a strict attention to business pursuits had amassed a handsome property.

DISTRESSING CASE OF ANIMAL MAGNETISM—Table Turning.—We are sorry to announce that Miss C., the young lady in Surrey place who was reported in this journal some few weeks ago to have suffered from trying the table-moving experiment, by means of the above agency, is much worse. Hopes were entertained that she would soon recover the use of her hands. It seems, however, that those hopes have not been realized. Her hands are now firmly clenched together, and it requires great force to separate the fingers, even for a moment, from the palms of her hands. Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:
MR. GILBERT, SIR:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. SIR JOHN FRANKLIN.—The admiralty authorities seem at last to have given up Sir John Franklin and his crews. A notice appears in the Gazette of last night, dated Admiralty, Jan. 19th, to the effect:—That it intelligence be not received before the 31st March next, of the officers and crews of the Erebus and Terror being alive, they will be considered to have died in her majesty's service.—London paper.

PELHAM.—The town of Pelham, Mass., has voted, 73 to 36, to surrender its charter, and to parcel itself out among the surrounding towns of Amherst, Enfield, Prescott and Skutesbury. A committee consisting of Mitror Gould, Isaac B. Barrows, and Grove W. Hannum has been selected to take proper measures for carrying the vote into effect.—The town was incorporated in 1742, and formerly embraced the town of Prescott within its precincts.

The inauguration of Professor Shedd, as Brown Professor of Ecclesiastical History and Pastoral Theology, at Andover Theological Seminary, is to take place on Wednesday evening next, the 15th inst., at 2 o'clock P. M. In connexion with the other services at his induction, Professor Shedd is expected to deliver an Inaugural Address.

Mr. John Taggart, of Roxbury, has invented a machine for excavating docks, and other places, which appears to be practicable, and will save an immense deal of labor. By a slight alteration of the machinery it is converted into a pile driver of great power.

Contentment lies within a man in the heart, and the way to be comfortable is, not by having our barns filled, but our minds quiet.—The contented man, saith Seneca, is the happy man.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $50 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 25 cents. Dr. Tobias's office, 240 Green

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can have avail themselves of the experience of 23 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most faithful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity, where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by expectorating the phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETIZER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

THE LADIES' FRIEND.

PROF. MOTT'S PILLS.

"He should be most honored who relieves the most distress."

When the head is racked with pains,
And dizziness creeps o'er the brain;
When sleep forsakes the aching eyes,
And health on fevered pinions flies,
When indigestion throws its shade
Like shadows where our graves are made,
Professor Mott's reviving Pills,
Are just the cure for all such ills.

These Pills have long held a conspicuous place in the practice of medicine, for the cure of the many ills to which females are subject. They are composed of entirely vegetable ingredients, and are a Safe & sure remedy for Female Diseases occasioned by imprudence and exposure. In every instance these Pills have proved succesful. The thousands of females who are subject to so much suffering can be permanently cured by the use of the above medicine.

Observe that each box has the fac simile of the proprietor, CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, upon it. The above Pills can be found at 45 Hanover street, and No 1 Cornhill, Boston.

N. B.—Persons residing out of the city can have them forwarded by mail (free) to any part of the country, by enclosing one dollar in a letter, directed CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, Boston, Mass d07lwly

"THE GOOD TIME COMING."—The London correspondent of the New York Times alludes to a new publication in the following terms:

A politico religious brochure entitled "The coming struggle among the nations of the earth; or the political events of the next fifteen years, described in accordance with the prophecies in Ezekiel, Daniel, and the Apocalypse, showing the important position Great Britain will occupy during and at the end of the awful conflict"—has made a considerable sensation here, and has rapidly attained its sixteenth thousand in circulation. The authorship has been attributed to the Rev. Dr. Cumming, one of the most eloquent and able of our dissenting ministers—and the great opponent of Cardinal Wiseman. The writer predicts the downfall of Austria, and the consequent destruction of the Papacy; Russia is to be checked in her attempt to occupy Judea; America is to send her forces to assist Great Britain in preparing for the greatest physical battle that was ever fought on the struggling earth. The Anglo Saxon race are to be finally triumphant, and the children of Abraham are to be restored to their fatherland. America is indeed to bear a large part in this terrible conflict, in which, according to the writer's showing, "the chains of civil and ecclesiastical despotism which priestcraft had forged for and fastened round the human soul" are to be broken. Blackwood thinks the pamphlet of sufficient importance to devote several pages of his April number to expose the fallacy and absurdity of the predictions.

THE INSURANCE COMPANIES.—The Transcript publishes an abstract made from the returns of the Insurance Companies of Boston, for the four years ending December 1st, 1853. The tables do not include any losses since that date. It is known, however, that during the two past months the offices have met with great losses, and we are informed that since December 1st, the disasters have been fully equal to those of any six months for many years. For the last twelve months included in the table, the twenty one companies paid out nearly five million of dollars for losses.—The sum paid within this period by the stock offices is equal to 54 per cent. on their capital stock. The total amount of loss of all kinds by the stock and mutual offices for the past four years has reached more than thirteen million of dollars. For the purpose of contrasting the years 1850, when the losses paid by the stock offices amounted to 33 per cent. of their capital stock, and the last year, when they reached 54 per cent.; we have given the amount at risk in each year, by which it is seen that during the season of the largest loss, the amount of property at risk was more than eight and a half millions less than in 1850.—We think the majority of persons will not expect to see so large an increase of marine losses as the returns exhibit. It would seem to be for the interest of all parties to have the rates of premium placed at such an advance as will be adequate to meet the losses and remunerate the stockholders.

This paragraph from the German most happily hits the attributes of wife, mistress and lady. It is just as true as holy writ:

"Who marries for love takes a wife; who marries for convenience takes a mistress; who marries for consideration takes a lady. You are loved by your wife, regarded by your mistress, tolerated by your lady. You have a wife for yourself, a mistress for your house and its friends, a lady for the world. Your wife will agree with you, your mistress will accommodate you, your lady will manage you. Your wife will take care of your household, your mistress of your house, your lady of appearances. If you are sick, your wife will nurse you, your mistress will visit you, your lady will inquire after your health. You take a walk with your wife, a ride with your mistress, and join parties with your lady.—Your wife will share your grief, your mistress your money, and your lady your debts. If you are dead, your wife will shed tears, your mistress lament, and your lady wear mourning.

THE PRINTER NOT REWARDED.—The editor of the Warren Star announced, that, owing to the high price of flour, original notices of marriages would be charged 25 cents. It is said that he has published but one original marriage since the new arrangement.

The editor of the Pawtucket Chronicle announced that he should make no stated charge, but would leave the price to be fixed by the bridegroom, not doubting, we suppose, that in the beginning of the honeymoon, the happy man would estimate in dollars rather than in cents, the privilege of making known his bliss. But alas for the gallantry of Pawtucket and the region round about, only one payment of 25 cents, and one piece of wedding cake, have rewarded the generous confidence of the printer.

COINCIDENTAL FATE OF FOUR-MASTED SHIPS.—A Pensacola correspondent states that it is a remarkable fact, that of the only three four-masted sailing ships that were ever built, on this continent, none have been fortunate. The first was the Columbus, built in British North America, and she was the only one that performed a passage. After her arrival in London, about the year 1824, she was sent back to Canada, and on her passage out was lost in the Bay of Biscay. The next was the Baron of Renfrew, a larger one yet. She was lost on her passage, at Gravelines, on the coast of France; and the last is the unfortunate Great Republic, whose career is still shorter. There seems to be a fatality about, or belonging to, sailing vessels of this rig.—N. O. Pic.

STONE AND WOODEN DOCKS.

We give place to the following communication, on a subject which we do not profess fully to understand, written by a man who is or ought to be, well versed in the practical use of ships and docks.

In his communication he dwells with some emphasis, on the fact that the Act authorizing the contract to build three wooden docks, contains and is based upon a falsehood. We have examined the Act, and also the Report of the Committee appointed to consider and examine the different kinds of docks. This committee, composed of practical men, recommended Stone Docks, and condemned all Wooden ones, giving their reasons. And when they were called upon to say which of the two kinds of wooden docks were preferable, they preferred the balance dock to the sectional: but the strongest item in favor of the balance looks to its use, in case of its expected failure, to be sunk as a coffer or box, in which to work in building a stone dock.

Yet the bill says the contract is to be made agreeably to the report—but it is really in direct opposition to it.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The following is an extract of a Memorial I sent to Mr. Norris of the Senate, and Mr. Hibbard of the House, members of Congress from this State, in Dec., 1852, to be laid before Congress:

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives now in session at Washington.

The undersigned respectfully asks that the Secretary of the Navy be requested to lay before Congress, a copy of the report, made by a board of officers, selected by the Secretary of the Navy to see to the testing the dock, basin and railway at the Navy Yard at Kittery, with the ship Franklin, and the same to be published. Also that the Secretary of the Navy be called on to state the reason a ship of the line, with masts, spars and armament on board, was not used to test the above named dock, basin and railway, instead of the Franklin, a second class ship of the line, and a mere rotten hulk, without masts, spars or armament on board, and her top sides ripped down and boarded up with pine boards. It was well known to the board of officers, that if the Pennsylvania had been sent here to test the above named dock, basin and railway, with her armament on board, it would have proved a failure, and the government would have saved over one hundred thousand dollars that was kept back until the dock, basin and railway were accepted.

The contractors agreed to take up a ship weighing five thousand five hundred tons.—The Pennsylvania will weigh about five thousand tons. The Franklin in her situation when taken up last summer, would not weigh over twenty five hundred tons. If the government wanted wooden docks, three hundred thousand dollars would build three wooden docks, and would take up such ships as the Franklin, such ships as have been on the dock at Philadelphia or ever will be sent there for that purpose, and such ships as will ever be sent to Pensacola to go into the dock there.

This would have been a saving to the government of over two millions of dollars.

Respectfully, JOHN SALTER.

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 13th, 1852.

On the 8th Sept., 1852, I wrote to John P. Kennedy, Secretary of the Navy, for copies of reports of boards of officers in testing the docks, basins and railways, at the Navy Yards at Kittery and Philadelphia. He replied to my letter on the 17th following, and declined to give me the copies. This same John P. Kennedy, with documents in his office on file, condemning these wooden docks, basins and railways, from his only and proper advisers in this business, recommended in his annual report Dec., 1852, to build a basin and railway in California, and Congress appropriated $150,000 towards the same—a mere wedge to get some millions of dollars more. Some shrewd member added to the bill—"not to be used unless the Secretary of the Navy thinks it necessary and will be useful to the public service." A previous act of Congress had passed appropriating some $600,000 to build a wooden sectional dock there, that the worms will eat up.

My opinion of John P. Kennedy is, that he was totally unfit for the office he held, and unworthy of Mr. Fillmore's confidence.

Mr. Fillmore had previously stopped the contract from being signed for a wooden dock, basin and railway in California, at a cost of some three million dollars, from information I gave him. I wrote to the present Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Dobbin, soon after he assumed his office, for a copy of the report of board of officers in testing the dock, basin and railway in this river, with the ship Franklin, and before he decided to contract for basin and railway in California, to look at certain reports on file in his office. After waiting four or five months without getting an answer, (in the mean time the frigate Columbia had been sent to Pensacola to test the dock, basin and railway located there) I wrote President Pierce August 8th, '53, requesting him to direct the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Dobbin, to send me copies of the reports of boards of officers in testing the wooden docks, basins and railways at the Navy Yards at Kittery, Philadelphia and Pensacola; that I had written to Mr. Dobbin, but he had declined to answer my letter. President Pierce handed my letter to Mr. Dobbin to be answered, and that waked him up. He replied to it the 22d following, but instead of sending me the copies of the reports as requested, he made excuses, etc. Soon after this, say early in September, the newspapers stated the Secretary of the Navy declined to contract for the basin and railway in California; and a second paragraph in the papers shortly after, (no doubt from the contractors or their friends interested) complained because the Secretary had so decided.

Congress should forthwith appropriate a million of dollars towards building a proper stone dock in California, and the government should employ suitable men to see it faithfully built. When once well and properly built, it will last for ages, with a trifling expense on the gates occasionally.

It appears that the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Dobbin, does not intend the public shall see the reports of the boards of officers in testing the docks, basins and railways, at the Navy Yards at Kittery, Philadelphia and Pensacola, if he can prevent it. The following correspondence will show he has played possum with our new representative from this State, Mr. Kittredge.

Portsmouth, Dec. 5th, 1853.

Dear Sir:—As one of your constituents I make the following request of you. I wish you to introduce a resolution in the House, calling on the Secretary of the Navy for copy of the report made by a board of officers appointed to see to the testing the dock, basin and railway at the Navy Yard at Kittery, with the ship Franklin; and a copy of the report made by a board of officers appointed to see to the testing the dock, basin and railway at the Navy Yard at Pensacola with the ship Columbia. A copy of the report made by a board of officers appointed to see to the testing the dock, basin and railway at the Navy Yard at Philadelphia with such ship or ships as are employed for that purpose. The same to be printed and laid before Congress. I wish you to send me a copy of each. Please attend to this business at as early a day as possible and oblige your ob't servant,

JOHN SALTER.

Hon. GEO. W. KITTREDGE,
Washington.

Washington, Dec. 14, 1853.

Dear Sir:—Yours of the 5th of this month has been received. I will present a resolution to-morrow as you request. Yours truly, (signed) G. W. KITTREDGE.

Capt. JOHN SALTER,
Portsmouth, N. H.

Washington, Jan. 10, '54.

My Dear Sir:—I send you a letter this day received by me from Mr. Dobbin in answer to your letter to me.

I am very respectfully yours,
(signed) GEO. W. KITTREDGE.

Capt. JOHN SALTER,
Portsmouth, N. H.

Navy Department,
Jan. 10th, 1854.

Sir:—I have the honor to acknowledge the reference to this department of the letter addressed to you by Mr. John Salter on the 5th ult, and in reply to state, that the tests of the efficiency of the balance dock, basin and railway at the Navy Yard at Kittery, Maine, and the sectional dock, basin and railway at the Philadelphia Yard were satisfactory, and that these works have been accepted by the Department.

With regard to the balance dock at Pensacola the test was not satisfactory, and the work has not yet been received by the Department, though it indulges the hope that the dock may yet be successful.

I am very respectfully,
Your ob't servant,
(signed) J. C. DOBBIN.

Hon. GEO. W. KITTREDGE,
House of Representatives,

P. S. The letter of Mr. Salter is herewith returned.

Now as one of the sovereign people I appeal to every honest man in Congress to have this business investigated. Commence with the part acted by John Y. Mason late Secretary of the Navy and now minister to France. If he has acted an honest and straight forward part in this business, give him credit for it. If his conduct has been the reverse of this, show him up in his true colors. Look at the bill that passed Congress and was approved 3d August 1848, authorizing the said John Y. Mason Secretary of the Navy to contract for building the three wooden docks, basins and railways, at the Navy Yards at Philadelphia, Pensacola and Kittery. Examine that part of the bill that refers to the plans having been approved by a board of officers appointed to examine all the plans and by the bureau of yards and docks. Then look at the report of the board signed by John Downes, Daniel Turner, James Gadsden, Geo. R. Baldwin, S. M. Pook, and directed to John Y. Mason, Secretary of the Navy. See if there is anything in this report in favor of the plans of the wooden docks, basins and railways. On the contrary see if this report does not condemn them. The late Capt. Daniel Turner, one of the signers, told the board, after they had signed the report, that they had done their country some good, for their report would stop the building of the wooden docks, basins and railways: but he was not aware of the strong under current that was running.

When this business is investigated President Pierce will no doubt recall John Y. Mason.

JOHN SALTER.

Portsmouth, N. H., Feb., 1854.

P. S. If the frigate Columbia had been sent here to test the dock at the Navy Yard at Kittery, the result would have been the same that happened at Pensacola.

LOCAL.

DOVER RAILROAD MEETING.

The meeting of citizens disposed to aid in constructing the direct railroad to Dover from this city, was held by adjournment on Monday evening in the Court House. Ichabod Goodwin, Esq. in the Chair.

The meeting was addressed by Samuel Hale, Esq., of Rollinsford, I. Goodwin, Alfred W. Haven, and Albert R. Hatch, Esq., of this city.

Voted, That in the opinion of this meeting the project of building the Portsmouth and Dover Railroad ought not to be abandoned, and that every citizen ought to make a strenuous effort to secure its completion.

Voted, That the Committee previously chosen to obtain subscriptions, be authorized to double their number.

The company present was respectable for numbers, and excellent in spirit; and if an equal interest is exhibited by our citizens generally, there can be no doubt of success.

Persons wishing to subscribe, for large lots of stock or single shares, should not wait to be called upon, as the time is short.

Find the committees, and down with your name.

THE FAIR TO-NIGHT, by the Pleasant Street Christian Society, offers great attractions. Jefferson Hall is trimmed and decorated beautifully. A stage beautifies one end, for Tableaus, as at the late Fair. We witnessed a "dress rehearsal" of some of the living pictures a few evenings since, and were much gratified with the display. The figures are good, the dresses appropriate, and the grouping excellent. A second and much larger stage has been erected on the southern side of the Hall, over the Moderator's desk and the voting-gauntlet, where, besides the piano and accommodations for singers, are placed settees—affording seats for nearly a hundred persons, for the occupancy of which a small tax will be levied. Fancy articles, refreshments of all needful sorts, and the usual side attractions will be presented in full variety.

☞ There is to be no Lyceum Lecture at the Temple this evening. But there is to be a Fair at Jefferson Hall, which will doubtless fare all the better for the attendance of a few hundred people extra.

Rev. Mr. Robie, of Greenland, is to lecture at the City Lyceum on Thursday evening.

For the Chronicle.

THE STEREOSCOPE.

In order to remove any false impressions that might possibly be entertained by those unacquainted with the merits of the case, in relation to the violent attempts of Messrs. Southworth and Hawes, of Boston, through the columns of the Boston Traveller, to injure me in my business, I will say most emphatically that I am producing what a large number of our citizens have seen and appreciated for several months, perfect Stereoscopic Daguerreotypes. Also, that I make them by a rule which has already been announced as the discovery of Mr. Dominick Peduzzi and myself the origin of which, together with a true statement of our position in this matter, is in the course of preparation for Daguerreotye artists and the public.

ALBERT GREGORY, Daguerrian.

February 14th, 1854.

ICE.—One thousand and fifty tons of ice, from the Portsmouth & South Berwick Ice Co.'s Lake, have been put aboard the new ship Express, by Messrs. Nowell, Robinson and Day.

FIRE AT EXETER.—On Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, fire broke out in the old Woolen Factory, so called, near the Great Bridge in Exeter, and destroyed it entirely, and also burnt the top of the saw-mill adjoining.

The weather was below zero, and some of the firemen were frost bitten. Loss, 6000 dollars, falling on Woodbridge Odlin 2500, Mill & Water Power Co. 1200, Exeter Man. Co. 1500; others 800. No insurance.

EASTERN RAILROAD DEPOT.—The New Depot in Boston, for this road, says the Boston Chronicle, will soon be completed. It is built entirely of wood, and is 300 feet long, 50 feet wide, and 15 feet high, with an arched roof having a rise of six feet. Iron rods, 29 in number, span across the upper part of the building, adding to its strength. The roof is supported in a novel manner, resting simply upon rafters made by nailing together nine strips of board, and thus forming the necessary arch without any net-work of timbers, as required in ordinary truss-work. The cost of the building will be about $5000. The carpenter work is done by Mr. Daniel Caldwell. The roof is to be covered with tin, and the sides of the building to be slated. It is expected that the cars will run into the new station house within a month.

CONCERT.—Mr. Aptommas, the celebrated Harpist, who has been been so successfully performing in Boston, New York and other cities, will, with the assistance of other eminent performers, give a musical entertainment at the Cameneum on Friday evening, Feb. 17th.

WRECK OF THE SHIP TAYLEUR.

Liverpool papers of the 24th are filled with the particulars of the loss of the Tayleur, a new iron ship, bound from Liverpool to Melbourne. She was a new ship of 2200 tons, and was considered a fine specimen of naval architecture. She left Liverpool on the 19th ult; nothing more was heard of her until the 23d, when one of the surviving passengers returned to that port with tidings of the catastrophe. From the various accounts, we gather the following.

The number of passengers and crew amounted in all to 670. The vessel struck on a rock called "The Nose," off Lombay Island. After striking she turned broadside on to the rock, and many of the passengers jumped on shore She remained in this position only a few minutes, when she slid off, filled rapidly, and went down stern foremost, with the top of her masts visible above water. The survivors were mustered and counted, and it was found that there were about 250 saved. The number that perished 420. The captain, and first and third mates, were saved; the second mate and surgeon, and his lady and child, perished. Only three females and two children were saved. The captain was the last man who left the vessel that was saved. The cries of the unfortunate creatures who perished whilst struggling in the water are described to have been harrowing in the extreme. Lombay Island is located about five miles from the main land, between which and it is a bay with a sandy beach, called Malahide Bay. The island is almost perpendicular on its eastern side, with about ten fathoms water at the base of the rock.

Another account makes the number on board 574, and that of those lost, 344.

A letter dated Dublin Jan. 23d, states that 296 persons were saved, the total number of persons on board 579, 263 supposed to be lost. Of over one hundred females on board, only three were saved. The crew were nearly all saved. Only three of the first cabin passengers escaped. A great many of the passengers saved themselves by means of a rope carried from the vessel to the island. The vessel went down in about twenty minutes after she struck, and many of the passengers never came up at all, but were drowned in their berths.

LOWELL POLICE.—The Lowell News of the 10th Feb. says, in the Police Court this day, John O'Neal for assault on John Goulding, who keeps a drinking house on Middle street, was fined $2 and costs—paid. John Goulding, for selling a glass of gin to John O'Neil, aforesaid, was fined $10 and costs, and put under $1000 bonds to sell no more for one year.

☞ Mrs. Brown, wife of Mr. Wm. Brown of Exeter, died on Wednesday, 8th inst., at Kensington, of injuries received on the 2d inst., by being thrown from a sleigh. She was 18 years of age, and had been married only about eight months.

HOT CORN.—A new editor of this book is announced.

This work is creating quite an uproar among our brethren of the press in New York. By some it is furiously denounced as immoral and corrupting, because the veil is withdrawn from vice, and held too plainly before the public view. By others it is vindicated as designed to teach, by its startling revelations, lessons necessary to secure reforms. Among the latter it certainly can point to able champions. Harper's Magazine commends it.—Professor Bush speaks of it as a revelation none too gross to depict the reality, and redeemed by the good intentions of the writer. In the meanwhile the work itself is commanding an extended sale.

A CARD.—Upon the appearance of Mr. C. W. Brewster's paper, on Saturday last, containing an unprovoked attack upon me, I drew up a true statement of the facts, and now hold his receipt written and signed by himself, which is, I think, a perfect refutation of his charges against me. But by the advice of several whose opinions I respect, I suspend the publication of my statement, for the present; but in the meantime, say that I have done no improper act towards Mr. Brewster, and of this think I can satisfy any candid person.

SANDWICH ISLANDS.

A friend has favored us with the Polynesian of Dec. 24, 1853, from which we copy the following Naval Item:

The U. S. Sloop-of-War Portsmouth, Capt. Dornin, is soon to sail for San Francisco.—Since the 2d of October, the Portsmouth has lain in the harbor of Honolulu, and her presence has been the occasion of much satisfaction, both to the residents on shore and to the whaling fleet.

The remark has often been made that if there is a port in the Pacific where the presence of an American man-of-war was desirable, that port is Honolulu. In the truth of this remark, we fully concur. At times, during the autumn and winter months, there are congregated here some 100 or more American ships at the same time, while others are arriving and departing daily. On board these ships, at a moderate calculation, there are 3,000 men, and an amount of American property, in ships and cargoes, counted by tens of millions of dollars. This simple statement is sufficient, without further argument, to convince any man of the propriety of sustaining at this port, a man-of-war, to protect and look after commercial interests of such magnitude. It is for this purpose, in a primary sense, that the American navy is kept in commission; and it cannot be doubted that the moral influence of a man-of-war, although she may not be called upon to act in a single case, is salutary in a high degree, and ought to be afforded by that country to her citizens abroad. In what other foreign port in the Pacific is there such an amount of American property afloat, or so many American citizens congregated? In none. If, then, American ships, American cargoes and American seamen are objects of care and protection to the American navy, we know of no point on this side of the continent at least, where a naval vessel is more constantly needed than at Honolulu.

Capt. Dornin and his officers leave behind them many regrets for their departure. Their long stay among us has been filled up with much pleasant social intercourse; while as officers, they have secured the highest degree of esteem and respect, from the King's government, as well as from residents on shore and the fleet in the harbor.

MAINE U. S. SENATOR.—The telegraph did not give the vote of the legislature quite right. It stood in the House:—Fessenden 78, L. M. Morrill 64 (not 74,) John Hubbard 3, J. S. Little 1. In the Senate:—Fessenden 16, Morrill 12, Hubbard 3. The Portland State of Maine, neutral, and the Advertiser, whig, assert that the election was largely influenced by the position of the Nebraska bill now before the Senate. Mr. Fessenden may have a chance to record his vote, but it will not affect the result. The Augusta Age says the day on which Mr. F. was elected should hereafter be known as the "Black Friday," and that "a greater outrage was never perpetrated upon the people of the State, than by this election" by a legislature "nominally democratic in both branches."

We are very sorry to hear of outrages: but we had the idea that Mr. Fessenden was one of the Great American Democracy, a respectable, worthy man, a lover of liberty, law and order. Some papers have characterized him as a whig freesoiler; but as these parties are supposed to be dispersed and crushed, we presume Mr. Fessenden goes to Congress as a Free Democrat, elected by a fortuitous concurrence of Coalitions.

The Boston Post says:

Although Mr. Fessenden belongs to a party antagonistic to the one with which it is our pride to co-operate, we are free to admit his ample qualifications for the distinguished position assigned to him by his state. As a lawyer Mr. F. has no superior within the wide circuit of his practice—as a politician he has been the acknowledged leader of his party for many years—as a member of Congress in the representatives' hall, he was conspicuous as a ready, eloquent and forcible debater—he is a ripe scholar, a gentleman of taste and refinement, and high minded and agreeable in social intercourse—in short, his attainments should make him a democrat, and knowing his great personal regard for the President, (his college friend,) and his independent and searching mind, we have hopes that before his senatorial term expires his views of politics will become liberalised, and he will discover the greatness, perpetuity and prosperity of the American Union in the success of the measures advocated by the democratic party.

We breathe freely now: for notwithstanding the outrage, we believe the Union will last another year.

PORTLAND, Feb. 12th.—A desperate Irish row took place this afternoon, in which several persons were injured, and one probably killed. The police effected several arrests—desperate attempts were made to rescue the prisoners without success. A Catholic priest aided the police to disperse the mob. The origin of the affray is said to have been a difficulty between some of the parties at a dance last evening, renewed to-day.

RAILROAD DAMAGES.—In the case of John S. Paul, baker, vs. the Boston and Worcester Railroad Corporation, which was on trial before the Supreme Court in Boston last week, the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff—assessing the damages at $2000. Mr. Paul, several years since, while driving over the crossing in Kneeland st., had his wagon struck by a train from the depot and destroyed—he himself receiving injuries which crippled him. At a former trial, the jury disagreed.

THE FRENCH CLAIMS.—The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun writes that "the bill may pass the Senate, but will not easily be reached in the House." The Boston Courier remarks, "if the bill finds as energetic and untiring friends in the House as it has experienced in Mr. Hamlin in the Senate, they may be able to save it.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

A METAPHYSICAL DILEMMA.

BY JOHN YEOMAN.

A learned professor, once making a speech
To a bevy of youngsters, attempted to teach
This nice point of mystical lore:
How a thing can be mended, and mended again,
Until of its primitive parts none remain,
And still be the same thing as before.

Then one of his hopeful disciples arose,
And said—"By your leave, sir, I rise to propose
A question; for once in my life
I bought me a jack-knife; it had but one blade;
The blade was soon lost, but another was made:
"Pray tell, was it still the same knife?"

The professor declared his assent, and the youth
With the air of an amateur seeker of truth,
And now holding a knife up to view,
Resumed—"Next the handle was lost; but ere long,
I had it replaced by another as strong:
Pray, is this the old knife, or a new?"

"It is still the same weapon; the truth is quite clear,"
Quoth the doctor; but young Academics here
Another like weapon disclosed:
"It is made of the old blade and handle," quoth he,
"Pray tell us, Professor, what knife this may be?"
It is plain the professor was posed!

"Do you know Mr. Brown?"
"Yes, my dear."
"Is he not a very deserving young man, pa?"
"Yes, he deserves a flogging, and if he ever gallants you home again, I will give it to him."

WOMAN'S READY WIT.—A minister's wife being asked the place of her nativity, replied: "I am so unfortunate as not to have any native place; I was the daughter of a clergyman."

Mrs. Partington says that flour rises so fast there isn't the least need of "emptings" in making bread.

The Philadelphia printers are of the opinion that "the craft ought to erect an imposing stone to the memory of Benjamin Franklin."

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

It it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the sick.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the Islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attention to first trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

it probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nervous, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

THE LADIES' FRIEND.

PROF. MOTT'S PILLS.

"He should be most honored who relieves the most distress."

When the head is racked with pains,
And dizziness creeps o'er the brain;
When sleep forsakes the aching eyes,
And health on fevered pinions flies,
When indigestion throws its shade
Like shadows where our graves are made,
Professor Mott's reviving Pills,
Are just the cure for all such ills.

These Pills have long held a conspicuous place in the practice of medicine, for the cure of the many ills to which females are subject. They are composed of entirely vegetable ingredients, and are a Safe & sure remedy for Female Diseases occasioned by imprudence and exposure. In every instance these Pills have proved succesful. The thousands of females who are subject to so much suffering can be permanently cured by the use of the above medicine.

Observe that each box has the fac simile of the proprietor, CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, upon it. The above Pills can be found at 45 Hanover street, and No 1 Cornhill, Boston.

N. B.—Persons residing out of the city can have them forwarded by mail (free) to any part of the country, by enclosing one dollar in a letter, directed CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, Boston, Mass. d621wly

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

THE DEFEAT OF THE DEFICIENCY BILL.—A letter from Washington to the New York Times says:

The rejection by the House of Representatives to day of the Deficiency Appropriation Bill, was a rather unexpected finale of a discreditable party game. The administration has at least two-thirds the members of that House; yet, with this overwhelming majority, friends and foes were permitted to pile on the amendments to the Deficiency bill, involving appropriations of very large sums of money for numerous objects not properly belonging to this act. The bill, by reason of the amendments which the House permitted, was made so odious, that when the responsibility was thrown upon the Speaker, (in consequence of there being a tie,) he dared not assume the responsibility of passing it, and so voted in the negative. Surely the administration must be losing strength if it is unable upon the first effort to pass an appropriation bill. Of course the bill must be reported again from the Committee of Ways and Means, and be considered de novo, ere the officers of the government can obtain the means to carry on its operations.

Among the items which were voted upon separately and agreed to, were appropriations for Custom Houses at Bath and Bangor, Me., of $20,000 each. The former was carried—86 to 74.

LIBERAL CONDUCT.—The new Presbyterian house of worship in St. Louis, of which Rev. Mr. Homes is pastor, was dedicated on the 8th inst. The house cost $70,000, and that amount had been paid out by Mr. H D. Bacon, without calling on the society for a dollar. On the Wednesday following the dedication, the church and society met to consider this debt of $70,000. Mr. Bacon proposed to the society to give $40,000 of this amount, if the society would raise $30,000. In three days the amount was raised, and thus in one week the church was set free from debt. Mr. Bacon is a son of Massachusetts.

AWKWARD MISTAKE.—A fine stone church was lately built in Missouri, upon the facade of which a stone cutter was ordered to cut the following, as an inscription: "My house shall be called the house of prayer." He was referred, for accuracy, to the verse of Scripture in which these words occur; but unfortunately, to the scandal of the Society, he transcribed the whole verse:—"My house shall be called the house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of thieves."

BIGAMY.—The Rev. Bird Parker, a colored clergyman of Chicago, was arrested a day or two since on a charge of bigamy.—Having a wife in St. Louis of his own color, to whom he had been married ten or twelve years, he took another a few months since "a few shades lighter than himself," in Indianapolis. The former made her appearance in Chicago on Monday last, and instituted proceedings against her faithless spouse. He was held to bail in a large amount for trial.

NOT BAD.—In the New York Independent we find the following from a mother:

"But did I tell you what a time I had with my little Joe?"

"No; what was it?"

"Why; I was showing him the picture of the martyrs thrown to the lions, and was talking very solemnly to him, trying to make him feel what a terrible thing it was. 'Ma!' said he, all at once, 'oh ma! just look at that poor little lion way behind there, he won't get any!'"

SENATORIAL WINE.—The correspondent of the New York Tribune says it is related of M. Bodisco, the deceased Russian Minister, that he had a sovereign contempt for the people's representatives; and thus, while he always kept good champagne for his fellow diplomatists, and treated them most hospitably, he kept an inferior sort for Senators, and his butler used to amuse himself by calling it Senatorial wine.

In the Court of Common Pleas at Newburyport on Friday, the indictment against Moses B. Wheeler of the St. Charles, for selling liquor, failed to be sustained, and he was acquitted. In addition to their acknowledgment of having purchased and drank liquor, it was made to appear that the witnesses, who swore positively, were not reliable for truth and veracity. Most of the cases from this city are said to depend upon the same witnesses, and the defendants have a more hopeful look.—Herald.

A letter from Scituate, R. I., states that Anthony B. Morse, of that town, stove dealer and tin ware manufacturer, who mysteriously disappeared in Boston, January 4th, no doubt sailed from New York for California the day after his disappearance, taking $3000 with him.

A friend once visiting an unworldly philosopher, expressed his surprise at the smallness of his apartment by saying that he had not room enough to swing a cat! "My friend," was the serene, unappreciative answer, "I do not want to swing a cat."

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT IN RHODE ISLAND.—Several papers have misunderstood the vote of the Senate of this State upon the subject of capital punishment. Capital punishment is already abolished, and the bill was to restore it. This bill was rejected by a decided vote in the Senate.—Providence Journal.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 15, 1854.

REPEAL.

A struggle has commenced in the Massachusetts Legislature, for the repeal of the liquor law. The Boston Journal contains a legislative report, signed by James S. Wiggin, in favor of repealing the law, in which he says:—

Its efficacy, if it ever had any, has evaporated—its effect subsided—and therefore, its tendency demoralizing. Among the petitioners for repeal, are citizens, of the Commonwealth, in vast numbers—all engaged in various occupations for a livelihood—who object to the execution of the law. And your committee trust that it will not be deemed out of place, to name some of these classes at this time.

1st. There are the importers.
2d. The ship owners.
3d. The manufacturers.
4th. The consumers for manufacturing and scientific purposes.
5th. The grain and hop growers.
6th. That large portion of our agriculturists who have orchards.
7th. That portion of our citizens who are engaged in the cooperage business.
8th. Hotel keepers.
9th. Land holders, or those who have estates in large cities.
10th. All that class of individuals who believe their dwellings to be their sacred castles.
11th. All who think the law unconstitutional.
12th. All that class who think, and fully believe, their constitutions require artificial stimulants as age creeps over them.
13th. Those who have been educated in the traffic as a business.
14th. All that class of citizens who are the employed of the foregoing classes.
15th. That class who use spirit moderately, as a beverage.
16th. That class of politicians who say, to a known friend of the law, "I go for the execution of the law;" to the opponent of the law, "I go against it,"—it being a well established principle, "That he who is not in favor of the law, is against it."
17th. All legislators who support it by their votes, but violate it in its use.

And lastly. Those who consume it for debasement; which latter, in the judgment of the committee, are so few in number, that an effective law can be passed which will effectually cure the crime of drunkenness, or nearly so.

With this great array of citizens enumerated, and the numbers they combine against the law, compared to those who favor it, the majority of your committee are of the opinion that the unconditional repeal of the law passed in 1852, is the prevailing desire of the people of this Commonwealth.

The report closes as follows:

Your committee are fully aware of the evils of intemperance, and deplore its existence; and are deeply sensible of the importance of some agency to cure the evil, if possible, or at least to lessen it. That the existing law has had that tendency, the majority of your committee cannot admit; and some of them believe that not only the present law, but all former laws on the subject, which ever existed, have retarded rather than aided the cause of temperance. It is an entire mistaken judgment in the minds of those who take a different view, however honestly entertained.

Your committee are aware and are pleased to say, that a vast reformation has taken place within the period of the past twenty years; but as they believe, this good result has been produced more by moral suasion than any other cause, so they believe greater would have been its progress had that agency not been impeded by legislative enactments; and your committee are of the opinion that all the most stringent enactments since the judicious enactment of 1832—and subsequently incorporated in the Revised Statutes, with amendments, in 1836—have originated as much for political effect as moral reform.

The statute of 1836—47th chap. Rev. Stat., was a wise, judicious law—quite, if not universally respected, has been fully adjudicated and sustained, not only by our own State courts, but also by the United States court; by the repeal of the present law that statute will be revived, such being the decision of our supreme judges in former years in a like case.

For these and other considerations, your committee recommend the repeal of the act of 1852, entitled "An act concerning the manufacture and sale of spirituous and intoxicating liquors," and for that purpose report the accompanying bill.

After a careful reading, not only of these extracts, but of the whole report, we conclude that the committee prefer the wise law of '36 to the foolish law of '52—but would vastly prefer no law at all, even to the wise one: and that, while they would like to see reformation promoted by moral suasion, they wish the laws so framed as to allow liquor to flow as freely as water.

Under the heads of 17th and lastly, there is a most charitable view of drunkenness, and a hopeful hint of law to cure it. We hope the committee will exhibit their project of such a law—unless on a "sober second thought," they suppose it will do more hurt than good.

Lastly, there is some fog about the paragraph beginning "Your committee are justly aware of the evils," &c. But a minority report was also submitted. They report that it is inexpedient to legislate on the subject of the repeal of the law. Perhaps that may dissipate the fog.

The Boston Chronicle, (which is somewhat in favor of the whigs, but a great deal more in favor of good liquor and a plenty of it,) thinks that a majority of the Senate are in favor of repeal, and says:

Whether a majority of the House take the same view of the question, we are unable to say, and no one can speak with confidence in regard to it. The law ought to be repealed forthwith, and for reasons which have been abundantly set forth in reports and through the press. It will be repealed, if, besides acceding to the demands of the people at large, the majority in the legislature consult political interests, and look to continued party ascendency. The members of the late coalition party are looking with no little anxiety to the action of the legislature on the subject—evidently regarding a failure to repeal the law as opening the door—and indeed almost the only one—for their return to power, and to the high places from which they were but recently expelled.

ANTI-NEBRASKA MEETING AT CHICAGO.—A great meeting in opposition to the Nebraska bill was holden at Chicago, Ill., on the 9th inst., Hon. James Curtis, a "Hard" Democrat of the strictest sort, presiding. Hon. Mark Skinner, who pronounced himself an old Hunker Democrat, made a very strong and bitter speech against the repeal of the Missouri compromise. A series of resolutions against the Nebraska bill was adopted, one of which was:

Resolved, That the passage of the bill, or any bill for the repeal or the modification of the Missouri Compromise, would tend to disturb the harmony which now exists between the North and South, create sectional distrust, and perpetual agitation of questions which have heretofore been regarded as settled by the unanimous voice of the nation.

The resolutions were adopted with only the dissenting voice of the Postmaster.

OPINION OF A THREE MONTHS' CITIZEN.—John Mitchel, the Irish exile, comes out in the last number of his 'Citizen,' in favor of the Nebraska bill, and the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. He holds that "the people in every State and Territory have a right to make their own laws, and no Congress has the power to prevent them." The N. Y. Times informs him that "if he will only take the trouble to read the Constitution of the United States, he will find it therein set down that Congress shall make 'all needful rules and regulations' for the Territories of the Union."

Any one can see how much the opinions of such a man are worth. Yet his vote, the moment he becomes naturalized by a paper process, is worth just as much as any body's One of the most worthy and intelligent naturalized citizens, who ever dwelt among us, used to say that a foreigner ought never to vote here,—but his son might; having 21 years of life here, with no old habits to forget or break off, he could vote understandingly—but a man foreign born, could hardly be expected to learn all our political systems in a life time.

Mr. B. W. Wright of Pelham, the minister who went to New York with Miss Grey, denies any criminal or improper intentions in escorting her to New York; appeals to those who have known him to avouch for previous good character; explains about the false whiskers that they were not worn nor bought for disguise; and says he does not wish to exculpate himself from the charge of acting improperly, but sincerely regrets that he should have done anything to give occasion to the reports which have been circulated to his prejudice, and to the great injury of the religious denomination of which he was an authorized clergyman.

Be it so: but then his ministerial brethren owe it to themselves and to the public, to make a public withdrawal of their fellowship from him, for "acting improperly." If any church feels the need of such ministers, it ought to understand that the world despises them.

A little son of Otis Metcalf, of Washington, N. H., was accidentally shot a few days since by his grandmother, who was explaining the operation of a revolver to an elder boy. She did not know the pistol was loaded until it exploded in her hand. The ball passed near the heart of the child and was taken out of his back. It is said he will recover.

Uncle Toby's grandmother did not play with revolvers, nor teach the young idea how to shoot with them,—but was rather disposed to say, in the words of a piece in the old school books, "Don't meddle with that gun, my child—may be it'll go off—no matter if it isn't charged." But the strong minded women now-a-days, who affect the unmentionables, must be expected to understand the whole mystery of pistols and shot guns.

HYDROPATHIC QUARTERLY NO. 1.—In acknowledging the receipt of this number from the publishers, Messrs. Fowler & Wells, of New York, it is proper to say that it is more strictly scientific and professional than the Water Cure Journal—that it contains nearly 200 pages per No.—and is $2 per annum. The matter is not inferior in interest or in ability to any similar publication.

CONTARINI FLEMING: an Autobiography, by B. D'Israeli, M. P., P. C.—This is one of the best of D'Israeli's Novels, printed in uniform style for binding with them, in a complete set. It contains a good portrait of the author, and ranks high among modern works of fiction. For sale by Federhen & Co., Boston; J. P. Morse, Portsmouth.

Letters have been received in Albany from Judge Forsyth, the absconding defaulter and forger, dated at Algiers, Africa. He states that he is seriously ill, with a disease from which he fears he will not recover, and expresses much penitence for the crimes by which he has blackened his reputation.

LOCAL.

☞ The Ladies' Fair at Jefferson Hall on Tuesday evening, was attended by a large concourse of ladies and gentlemen, notwithstanding the unpleasantness of the weather out of doors. It was fair weather in the Hall: good feelings and good cheer; pleasant looks and splendid tableaux; sweet melody and full harmony—all conspired to make the entertainment complete.

The attractions of the fair are to be continued this afternoon and evening.

☞ The Boston Post announces Mrs. Partington's new book as nearly printed. It will go off like hot cakes.

A wild cat was shot in Berwick, Me., on Wednesday.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The steamer Franklin which leaves to-day for Havre, had forty passengers engaged yesterday and $100,000 in specie. It is reported that the steamer building at Williamsburgh on the plan of William Norris of Philadelphia, intended to make the trip to Europe in six days, has been sold to the Sultan of Turkey for $250,000.

At Richmond, Ky., on Monday the 16th inst., a whole square, consisting of eighteen buildings, chiefly stores, were burnt down, but little insurance had been made on the property.

On Sunday, the 5th instant, the whole business portion of the town of Miami, Missouri, was burnt, including the Odd Fellows' Hall, four stores and three buildings.

SAD ACCIDENT AT STOWE, VT.—On the 30th ult., as a party of ten or twelve persons, ladies and gentlemen, were riding across a small bridge in the village of Stowe, Vt., one of the runners of the sleigh slipped over the side of the bridge, and the vehicle, with its inmates, was precipitated a distance of some eight or nine feet, upon logs, stakes, stones and ice. With the exception of Col. E. B. Herrick, of Morristown, none of the party were seriously injured, although a number were severely bruised. Col. Herrick was instantly killed. He was about fifty years of age, and his loss will be deplored by a large circle of friends.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—General Gadsden was confirmed yesterday as Minister to Mexico, Senator Houston alone voting against him.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Express says:

"I hear from the best authority that Ex-President Fillmore is about to be married to Miss E. P., only daughter of a gallant U. S. officer deceased, and a lady of rare talents, superior accomplishments, and large fortune."

HORSE THIEF CAPTURED.—Daniel S. Hubbard has been arrested in Dover, N. H., for stealing a horse and sleigh from Hill & Cheney of Manchester, N. H. He had traded the property off before he was arrested. He admitted that he meant to steal the horse, and was locked up in jail to await the action of the court.

POISONING A CHILD.—A coroner's inquest held in Boston in the case of Catharine Donally, the little girl who died suddenly after drinking some gin given her by Philip O'Brien, have found that the liquor also contained a quantity of tobacco, to the effects of which decotcion her death is attributed. O'Brien is under arrest.

CIDER.—The New York Price Current quotes this article thus:—"There is a good demand, especially for shipping; the sales are 150 barrels Champagne at $6 to $6,50, and 20 barrels sweet Newark at $5. Large orders are being filled for bottled Champagne Cider for the West Indies.

It is said that a man in England has recently recovered fifteen thousand guineas buried by one of his ancestors, who deposited with the yellow boys a scrap of parchment, on which was written, "the devil shall have it sooner than Cromwell!"

The N. Y. Herald in its report of a lecture of James T. Fields, Esq., at Brooklin, last Weknesday evening, on "The Preparations for Foreign Travel," says "he may be regarded as one of the most accomplished travellers of the present day."

In New York, on Friday, Maria Deysham struck her child upon the head with a hatchet, and the child died the same night of the wound. She has been arrested, and is now said to be insane.

On observing a sign, "All kinds of sinks kept here," Old Roger observed, "My dear sir, I hope you don't keep a sink of iniquity among the rest." The owner concluded to alter his sign.

PORTLAND, Feb. 13.—The weather is mild; it is thawing and raining a little. No signs of the steamer Charity, now long overdue. Fears are beginning to be entertained as to her safety.

The statement that fifty of the San Francisco's passengers, taken on board the Antarctic, had died, is contradicted. The lieutenant in command of the detachment reports but twenty one deaths.

THEODORE PARKER ON NEBRASKA.—In his sermon last Sabbath, Theodore Parker said of Nebraska:—"It contains a population of a few hundred squatters, who spend their time in drinking bad whiskey."

☞ Hon. Henry P. Fairbanks, an eminent citizen of Charlestown, Mass. died of scarlet fever, in that city, on Tuesday morning.

Flour in Chicago, on Thursday last, was selling at the following prices:—No. 1, $6 75; No. 2, $6 28; No. 3, $5 75; No. 4, $5 25.

There have been exported from Baltimore, during the present week, 31,000 barrels of flour and 55,000 bushels wheat.

Owen's hotel, in Louisville, was destroyed by fire on the evening of Friday, February 10. Loss about $50,000.

THE DIFFICULTIES AT ERIE.—The Erie Constitution of Feb. 8, rejoices over the fact that the Ericans have 'got back to the basis of law and order,' thus acknowledging that the conduct of the people of that borough has been lawless. The Constitution says:

"The four feet ten inch track is laid down from Erie to the New York State line, in accordance with the order of the U. S. Court. This is right. The gauge law was repealed, and when the Court said the law permitted the company to change their gauge and that they would protect them in it, Courts and Governments would have been destroyed if it had not been done. People look at it now calmly, and say they will not be longer the instruments in such fatal consexuences. We are not now contending so much for any particular policy as for right manner of sustaining such policy. Let us keep to regular ways, and then discuss our policy with candor and courtesy."

This is reasonable and just, and is exactly the view which the press throughout the land have taken of these difficulties. If such sentiments had prevailed in Erie two months ago, that borough would have escaped much odium, and would have avoided a heavy bill of costs for damages to the Erie and North East road. Boston Journal.

Grain—Wheat dull and nominal; sales none. Corn firmer—sales 12,000 bu mixed $1 03 a 1 04; white and yellow 1 06; round yellow 1 05 a 1 06. Provisions firm.

John Silverthorne, a drover, was killed, Friday, Feb. 10, on the Columbia Railroad, near Lancaster, Pa. He fell in attempting to leave the cars while in motion, and the whole train passed over him, cutting his body in three pieces. He belonged to New Jersey, and had been married only five weeks. Ten cars were thrown off the track, and some cattle killed.

The Essex Banner says, "a few days since several persons were bitten in different towns in the south part of the county by mad dogs, and there is no doubt 300 annually run mad and bite 50 persons, some of whom die with the disease." The Banner concludes—"Still dogs multiply." So they do this way, and noisy ones, too.—Boston Post

THE NUNCIO'S DIAMOND RING.—We see in the New York Express that the diamond ring that Monsignor Bedini lovingly presented to the Mayor's clerk, a few months since, for his civilities in showing him the public institutions of the great metropolis, was to be sold at the Mayor's office on Saturday, at auction, to the highest bidder, the proceeds to be given to the Orphan Asylum.

For the Chronicle.

THE CRESCENT CITY AT NIGHT:

Seen from the Old Cathedral at Place d' Armes.

How grand to sit in this old belfry high,
And view the city with its veins of streets!
A muffled sound, like troubled winds that die,
Mounts to the house-tops and in space retreats.
The soot-faced chimnies whisper far beneath
With heads half hidden in their smoky breath.
Now, as night spreads her counterpane of black,
And tucks it closely round the horizon,
The lamp-fringed streets are lighted one by one,
Each seems a serpent with a glossy back!
With spectral fingers quiv'ring in the air,
The churches point to where "Our Father" dwells;
Ava Maria from the tongues of bells
Floats to the zenith and the angels there.

MR. APTOMMAS,

THE GREAT EUROPEAN HARPIST,

Who has created such a sensation by his extraordinary performances at New York and Boston, will give one

GRAND EVENING CONCERT,

AT THE CAMENEUM,

ON FRIDAY EVENING, FEB. 17, 1854.

On this occasion

MADAME APTOMMAS

Will preside at the Piano Forte, and perform with Mr. Aptommas, two of their most celebrated Duetts.

MR. CAMOENZ,

The renowned Primo Basso, who has lately arrived in this country from Italy, and who has achieved such brilliant successes at the Concerts of M. JULLIEN at New York, and the Germania Society, Boston.

Will sing a choice selection of Vocal Pieces.

The Boston Transcript, Dec. 10, 1853, says:

Mr. Aptommas created quite a furore by his finished execution upon the Harp. He played a Fantasia on the themes from Moses in Egypt which was so acceptable to the audience that they insisted upon his return. It is so seldom that we are favored with performances upon this noble instrument of the excellence which Mr. Aptommas attains, that it is like opening to us a new musical sense.

☞ The Concert will commence at half past 7. In order to afford every one an opportunity of hearing him, Mr. Aptommas has been induced to fix the price of Admission, Twenty-five Cents. f15

3 DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

The steamship Africa, from Liverpool Jan. 28, arrived below New York on Thursday evening, 13th inst.

The steamship Arabia, chartered for the conveyance of the rescued passengers of the San Francisco to this country, was to sail from Liverpool for Boston on the 31st.

The Brazilian mail steamer has gone ashore near Holyhead.

The steamer Petrell, formerly running between New York and Bermuda, was burnt in the Clyde on the night of the 26th. She was insured for £12,000.

The Czar of Russia's final answer to the last note of the Western powers was not expected to be given before the middle of February. His conduct is evasive. He pretends not to regard the entry of the allied fleets into the Black Sea as a declaration of war, but has appointed Count Orloff to visit the courts of Vienna, Berlin, Paris and London, to explain on what terms he really will treat. By all this he gains delay.

There is a doubtful rumor that Count Panin has succeeded Count Nesselrode as Chancellor of Russia.

A quiet tone is observable in the Russian organs, but appearances of peace are no nearer.

On the Danube ostentatious preparations are being made by the Russians to attack Kalafat, although they admit it will cost them ten thousand men.

Omer Pacha continues to fall on the Russians whenever an opportunity offers. His tactics being to put it out of the power of the Russians to fight a great battle.

Several skirmishes have taken place.

No actions of any importance have occurred in Asia.

A report prevailed that the Russians had taken the city of Kava, but Russian bulletins say that all their troops were in winter cantonments.

The allied fleets were last seen, a part near Synope, and a part near Batoum; but they are since reported as having sailed for Varena.

The Russian squadron was off the sea of Azov.

The Emperor of Austria had ordered, in great haste, 40,000 troops to Hungary.

The Genoese intend to welcome Captain Ingraham with a public reception.

LATEST.—Vienna despatches hint that good news from St. Petersburg has reached the Austrian government.

The Shah of Persia has promised neutrality to Turkey.

LIVERPOOL MARKET, Jan. 28.—Cotton—Prices very irregular. American descriptions from low to middling upwards are fully 1-8 of a penny lower. Inferior sorts although heavy are unchanged; in some instances one farthing decline has been submitted to, the market closed dull.

Provisions—Beef, very firm with average sales. Pork steady and in moderate demand. Bacon unchanged. Lard, light stock; large sales to arrive at 56s. Cheese scarce, fine sells at extreme rates. Supplementary Naval contracts are taken for beef at 25s, and pork at 27s 6d. In the early part of the week higher prices were obtained, but had again assumed a quiet tone; speculative operations having for the present ceased.

Breadstuffs—On Friday Wheat and Flour were in less demand: some parcels ex Ship sold at two pence on wheat, and six pence on flour under Tuesday's quotations, but warehoused were not offered at any lower rates.

CONGRESS.

MONDAY, Feb. 13.

SENATE.—In the Senate, this morning, Mr. Everett presented a petition from 1400 citizens of Worcester county, Mass., against the passage of the Nebraska Bill. Also a memorial from the Society of Friends in Massachusetts, on the same subject.

Other petitions of like nature were presented by Messrs. Sumner, Seward, Clayton, Foot, Chase and Brodhead.

Resolutions were adopted calling for copies of the correspondence with Brazil, and directing an inquiry as to increasing the allowance of officers employed in the Mexican war.

The Nebraska bill was then taken up, Mr. Weller of California commencing the debate.

HOUSE.—In the House, to-day, Mr. Breckenridge made another attempt to introduce a deficiency appropriation bill, but the House refused, by a vote of 102 to 77.

A resolution offered by Mr. Clingman was adopted, calling for the original cost of Custom Houses, including expenses, revenue, &c., with a view to ascertain at what points the expenditures exceeded the receipts.

A resolution by Mr. Mace was also adopted, providing for a select committee to investigate frauds, &c., in the disbursement of money to the Collins and other mail steamers.

A resolution for inquiring into the expediency of greatly reducing or wholly repealing the duty on railroad iron was laid on the table, by a vote of 80 against 63.

A communication was received from the Secretary of the Interior, stating that the amount of land donated by Congress to schools, states, railroads, and to various other objects, amounts in the aggregate to over 134,744,000.

THOUGH BETTER OF IT.—The Manchester Mirror states that on Thursday last Mrs. Mary Whittaker jumped into the canal near the Amoskeag Mills, with an intent of committing suicide. As soon as she touched the water she began to come to her senses, and screamed loudly for help. Two gentlemen chanced to be near, and by speedy efforts rescued her. The cause of the act was family troubles; "the secret of which appears to be that there are no children in the family, and the husband regards this as a sufficient reason why he should whip his wife; while she suspects him of caring more for other women than for herself." Reflecting upon these matters she concluded it was best for her to be out of the way—but thought better of it, as soon as she found it was not warm water into which she had plunged.

MELANCHOLY OCCURRENCE.—On Monday of last week, Capt. Amos Eastman of North Conway, N. H., came to his death through the severity of the weather. He was found dead in the woods two miles from home, whither he went for a load of fuel.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:
MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

Gustave Wagner, lately in the employ of the Catawissa, Pa., Railroad Company as engineer and draughtsman, has started for Constantinople, at the request of Kossuth. He was a major in the Hungarian army, and Kossuth expects to want him, and all his old companions in arms, next summer.

FELONIOUS ASSAULT.—Daniel H. Adams of Lynn, was arrested at East Boston, on Friday, for a felonious assault on Mary Ann Cleverly, a young girl of 11 years. Adams got into the nine o'clock train on the Eastern Railroad, before the hour of starting, where no one but the girl was present.

The Emperor of France, in consequence of the increasing scarcity of silver, has ordered the immediate coinage of five franc pieces in gold. Five franc pieces in silver have long been an article of exportation.

It is stated that France annually produces nine hundred millions of gallons of wine.—The people are believed to be more temperate than those of any other nation in Europe.

The ordinary employment of avarice, is the mark of a petty mind, and it almost always happens that he who uses it to cover himself in one place, uncovers himself in another.

Four generations of negroes live in a little hut in Pittsfield, Ms. The oldest is "Old Hagar," who is 110. She fell and broke her thigh last week, but is doing well, and will probably recover.

AN OLD SALT.—The Boston Herald says that Mr. Emmons, chief steward of steamship Arabia, has crossed the Atlantic Ocean 225 times already, in the employ of the same line.

The Erie troubles are considered over.—Gov. Bigler, Marshal Frost, and the Railroad Directors have been lovingly dining together.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Cramp, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, and any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the whole fee returned if he fails within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

DR. CONINE'S
SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.
The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and acknowledged merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers even in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceeding ly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

"He should be most honored who relieves the most distress."

Are just the cure for all such ills.

These Pills have long held a conspicuous place in the practice of medicine, for the cure of the many ills to which females are subject. They are composed of entirely vegetable ingredients, and are a Safe & sure remedy for Female Diseases occasioned by imprudence and exposure. In every instance these Pills have proved succesful. The thousands of females who are subject to so much suffering can be permanently cured by the use of the above medicine.

HOW A MAN ESCAPED FROM PRISON.

It has often been remarked that "iron and stone are not strong enough to hold some men," and the public are often startled by the fact that some noted and desperate character has escaped from confinement, and is again at large! The following story concerning an escape from a New Hampshire prison, may not be uninteresting to your readers:

A young man had been confined for some months awaiting his trial, (I think, for passing counterfeit money,) when an old man—a blacksmith by trade—was put in to await his trial for a case of aggravated assault and battery, and being limited in room, the jailor put the old blacksmith and the young counterfeiter together.

The old man was one of the most shrewd and ingenious men anywhere to be found, and learning the history of his partner, seeing his youth, and knowing, from the nature of the case he must spend a season in state prison, he asked him why he did not break jail. The young man told him the thing was impossible for him, but could such a thing be brought about, by the blacksmith, he should have his gratitude, beside some more tangible proof of his affection.

It so happened that the blacksmith used tobacco, and he wished the jailer either to restore to him his own knife, or give him another that would answer with which to cut his tobacco. The jailer mistaking somewhat the character of the man, determined to give him nothing with which he could do mischief, and so handed him an old three bladed knife with both small blades broken off nearly as short as they could be, and the large blade worn about three fourths out; and yet with this, or by its aid, the old man soon managed to escape!

Having secured the knife, he first used it as a cold chisel, and taking a stick of hard wood, which was brought in to burn, he struck upon the blade and cut into the corners of those iron bars which he wished ultimately to break. He then measured the distance between the bars and cut off a stick that would drive in a little snug between them, then cut one a little longer, and so went on until a large number of these sticks had been fitted. He then fitted up a stalk and whirl for a fiddle drill, and did any more cutting which he esteemed necessary to success.

He now threw the knife into the fire, in order that he might pull it in pieces, which was easily done when heated and cooled.—Having got the back, which was steel, he ground one end on the rock of which the cell was composed, until he fitted it into the form of a drill, which, when done, he again heated, and tempered it in the water that was given them to drink. He then slipped on his pully or whirl, (previously prepared) and taking the hem of his shirt for a string to his drill bore, he was well prepared to commence action on the iron grating of the window. There were bars 1 1-4 inch square, each end of which was made fast in the solid stone, the bars running only one way, which composed the grating of the window; and with this small drill the blacksmith succeeded in putting four holes through each one of the bars, until a sufficient number had been drilled, which if removed would admit the passage of a man's body.

This drilling was a slow operation, and occupied several days; and though the bars were daily inspected, the Inspector was deceived by the bars being painted, and the blacksmith making a paste of charcoal with which he closed up the holes and cuts.

The drilling completed, the next business was to break the bars; and this was easily done by the use of the short sticks previously fitted, which were driven in between them with a billet of wood.

So adroitly had the whole thing been managed, that for some days the grate could be removed at pleasure, and still the transactions of the old man were unnoticed.

It may be asked why the men did not escape at once, if they could do so; the reason was, the old man did not care about leaving, and the young man was waiting for some clothes furnished him by the jailor.

It being Court time, the jailor being absent most of the time, thought best to separate the prisoners, and removed the young man into another apartment. Having attended Court, he received an order to let the old man out of prison, as no bill had been found by the Grand Jury, and going into his cell for this purpose, judge of his surprise to find the ma gone without the order, and that in daylight! The jailer seeing the blacksmith soon after Court, obtained from him the above particulars, which he related to the writer at the time. This was some years since, and therefore the recital may vary a little from the original, but the story is substantially as related. The young man did not escape, he soon after had his trial, and was sentenced to a term in the State Prison.

NO PARTY QUESTION.

We are very glad to hear the N. H. Patriot say the Nebraska bill is not a party question. The Patriot says:

"The measure now under discussion at Washington is not a party measure; but many of the strong men of both parties are in favor of it, and some of both are opposed to it. Why do not the whig papers in this State so inform their readers? Ah, this would destroy their scheme."

Well, it can destroy no scheme of ours, and as nearly all the whigs in this neighborhood, as well as democrats, see the Chronicle, we give this paragraph the benefit of our circulation.

In another part of the same Patriot it is said "every well informed man is thoroughly convinced that slavery will neither be less nor more in the Nebraska country by any action which Congress may take in regard to that territory."

If this be so, then we cannot see why any bill need be passed. For what purpose did Mr. Douglas bring it forward? And why does it create interest any where?

Again the Washington correspondent of the Patriot, on the same page with the above quotations, says:

The whig party in the Senate is most thoroughly de-nationalized, cut up and divided by this sectional line. Not a free State whig will vote for the bill. Not a whig from the slave States seems likely to oppose it!

* * * * * * *

Not less than two thirds of the Senate, probably nearer three fourths, will vote for the bill. I need not say, I presume, that both of the New Hampshire Senators will be of the number.

From the above extracts, taken together, we infer:

1: That the measure is useless to slavery.

2: That it is not a party measure.

3: That all northern whig senators will vote against it—and probably both the New Hampshire democratic senators will vote for it.

If we add to these inferences, the undisputed fact that the bill is intended and avowed by its author as an offering to slavery; and the assertion that nearly all the southern whig senators will, because they must, vote for it; we make a strange medley for a thinking mind to dwell upon.

On the whole, as no one asserts that the measure will or can benefit liberty, and as the Patriot says it is not a party measure,—we think it is quite safe for all true lovers of freedom firmly to oppose it. We are quite suspicious of these bills that give a license for slavery in places where it cannot go. There is an old fable about a cat who rolled hereself in the meal, and then lay down in the meal tub to catch mice. The youngsters (we mean the young mice, not young America,) were going to rush—but the Old Mother Mouse said, "I don't think there's much harm in keeping at a distance."

WHAT THE PEOPLE CAN DO.

The New Hampshire Patriot says:

"The Statesman seems to think there is no doubt that the Nebraska bill will pass both houses of Congress. Why then does it labor to get up an excitement about it? What is the use of that, so far as the bill is concerned? Every man of ordinary sense can see that people here can do nothing to defeat the bill, &c."

It seems to be a general opinion that the bill will pass. But it has not yet become a law, and therefore even "people here," at the North, may lawfully oppose its passage, and they may stop it. Political traders in Congress may indeed look with longing eyes on good fat offices, and hope to bask in the sunshine of some future executive patronage.—But they may also cast a look behind them, and seeing a black cloud of distrust rising up in the Northern sky, may possibly fear a withering flash of popular indignation.

We don't know who should discuss great questions, if the people should not. And we cannot see why people here, are not of as much consequence as people elsewhere. Democracy, in our view, is a government by as well as for, the whole people! When the day comes wherein the people here, are not at liberty to advocate or oppose any proposed law, pending as a bill before Congress, then we may be a well governed empire, like France at this moment: but every particle of the spirit of democracy must have been evaporated.

We acknowledge the receipt of valuable public documents, by the polite attention of our Representative in Congress, Hon. Geo. W. Kittredge.

BIRD'S MUSICAL ADVERTISER.—This is a temporary paper, got up to advertise and recommend a particular book. Nevertheless, it contains many true sayings, and good hints. One item notices the very common idea or saying, that companies of singers and players are more quarrelsome than others. The author suggests, that in the course of a year, a choir of 25 singers, meeting, rehearsing and performing together, might possibly clash or quarrel. And then he says, "if 25 other members of the congregation will seat themselves around the pulpit, and read together as many hymns as the choir sing every Sabbath for five years, and the 25 readers do not quarrel three times where the choir do once, we will give the society a good toned organ as large as they want—which just now is getting to be as large as "all out doors."

ANOTHER PEST HOUSE BURNT.—On Thursday night, Feb. 9, a small house fifty or sixty rods distant from the West Parish Meeting House in Concord, on the road to Sewall's Falls, was burnt. It seems that a man recently attacked by the small pox, had just been taken to this house, which had been unoccupied for some time. The sick man had one attendant—a man. All at once, during the night, the house was discovered to be on fire. The patient was removed by his attendant from the house, and wrapped in his bed as best he might be, was deposited in the open air, upon the snow at some distance from the burning building. Nobody ventured to come within range of the infection, and the building was left to the flames, and the sick man to his bed upon the snow, till the mayor and city marshal could be summoned from the main village—two or three miles distant—to the spot, when the unfortunate man was got into shelter. It was fortunate that the night was a mild one.

The building was undoubtedly set on fire by somebody who did not wish it to become a pest house. This is the second building used for this purpose in that neighborhood, which has been burnt within six weeks.—Concord Reporter.

The incendiary must be a rare compound of ignorance, cowardice and malignity. But why have a pest-house at all? Hang out your red flag, vaccinate your family, let the neighbors do the same, and nobody need to be frightened. In all our large sea-ports, small pox is common and almost perpetual. But it causes no panic.

THE COURT OF INQUIRY at New York upon the San Francisco matter, which is evidently intended to try Col. Gates, will not leave a very friendly feeling among some of the military attached to that unfortunate expedition. It will be remembered that at the commencement of the proceedings the regimental surgeon gave testimony that he remonstrated to Col. Gates against allowing the messles to be brought on board, considering the disease to be more dangerous than the small pox, which could be guarded against by vaccination—and that in opposition to this advice, a child of Col. Gates, which had the measles, was taken on board. Of the later proceedings, we take the following from the New York papers:—

The sixth day's proceedings of the Military Court of Inquiry were mainly occupied with the testimony of Captain J. W. Gardiner of the 1st Dragoons, who testified that Col. Gates did not use his authority as a commanding officer where it might have been of benefit, nor indeed at all, excepting where he was personally interested, as in the matter of the distribution of the food and water. He (Col. Gates) insisted upon an extra quantity, (at least so Captain Gardiner testifies) while the soldiers were on short allowance; and on one occasion, upon being remonstrated with by Capt. Gardiner, (as he states) on the ground that this would tend to make the men disorderly, seeing the officers so liberally supplied while they received their small share, he (Col. Gates) replied, with an oath, that he "would rather twenty of the men should die than his child should suffer."

It is, we understand, in contemplation to investigate certain allegations against Captain J. W. Gardiner of the 1st Dragoons—that officer having been charged by Col. Gates with having secreted a bottle of brandy and some biscuit for his (Captain Gardiner's) own private use and benefit.

The trial is certainly growing interesting. It is at all events no humbug, and the questions are anything but "silly ones" to the parties concerned.

POVERTY AND BEGGARY.—In Boston, on Tuesday, John Primble, a man about ninety years of age, was arraigned in the Police Court, on a charge of begging. He was feeble looking, his face was emaciated, and his trembling limbs were insufficient to bear his body during the investigation. The first officer deposed—"I have seen him (pointing to the unfortunate defendant) many times, solicit money, and seen people give him charity. I told him to go off the street and stop begging or I'd take him up." The second officer repeated a similar statement. Judge Cushing pronounced the old man guilty, and sentenced him to four months hard labor in the House of Correction! The clerk of the Court called the Judge's attention to the defendant's physical condition, and said—"your honor, I don't think he is a fit subject for such an institution."

Judge Cushing—"I don't care, then; say the House of Industry." And the old man was accordingly sentenced to confinement in the House of Industry for four months.

The Boston Courier says:

"The heartlessness of the witnesses was surpassed by the cruel and indecent indifference of the judge. The sooner the Police Court is reorganized the better. The subject is earnestly commended to the Great and General Court."

The old man is doubtless better off in the alms house than in the streets; but even the poorest person should be treated with decency by officials. He will be when the latter are gentlemen—but not otherwise.

LOCAL.

For the Morning Chronicle.

"LIFE SCENES" IN PORTSMOUTH.

Gentle reader, please bear in mind that I am not describing a scene which took place in a heathen land, among the Hindoos of India, or the Hottentots of Africa, but I introduce you to the office of the City Missionary of Portsmouth, N. H., No. 14 State Street.

On the settee you see two ragged boys of eleven and thirteen years. They have just been brought in by a policeman, at the request of the City Missionary. They are truant boys. Opposite them sits the Missionary and a gentleman connected with the press in this city. "Why don't you go to school, boys?" says the Missionary. "'Cause we haint got no clothes." I offered to give you some clothes, why did you not come after them? "We came to your house, but you was not at home." Well, have you learned the multiplication table since I saw you? Can you tell me how many are three times seven? "Twenty-one." That is right; I am glad you remember so well. How many are three times five?—"Twelve." No; you should say fifteen. Can you remember now to tell me what the present month is? (The boys hesitate.) If you are not certain, tell me what month you think it is. "December." No; it is February. If you had some clothes would you go to meeting and Sabbath Shool? "Yes, sir." Can you tell me who made the world? "The Lord." How many days was he in making the world? "Don't know." What was the first thing that God made? "Adam." Adam was the first man; who was the first woman? "Neve." What do you say? "Neve." What do you say? "Eve, wasn't it?" Yes; now can either of you tell me if Adam and Eve had any children? "Don't know?" Who taught you that Adam was the first man? "My mother." I am glad your mother taught you that. Did you ever hear of the Red Sea being divided, and the people going through on dry land? "No sir." Did you ever hear of a man making a brazen serpent, and putting it upon a pole for people to look at and be cured of the bite of serpents? "No sir." Well, did you ever hear of a person who raised people from the dead? "No, sir." Did you ever hear of a man dying on the cross? "No sir" Did you ever hear of such a man, F.? "Yes, sir." Well, what was his name? "Don't know." Do you know, J.? "No, sir." Did you ever hear about our Saviour? "Yes, sir." What was his name? "Don't know." Can you tell me, F.? "No, sir." Did you ever hear about Jesus Christ? "Yes, sir." Can you tell me of anything that Jesus did? "No, sir."

Well, boys, I think I will not have you put into the bridewell to-day, but will give you some clothes, and will try and see if you will go to school every day, and to the Sabbath School; and if you will try to be good boys, I will be your friend. The boys were then well clothed, and the missionary gave them a note to the teacher of the day-school. He also gave them Watts's Chatechism, with a note to take to a Sabbath School teacher.—The boys were then sent home rejoicing, they promising to call and see the City Missionary once a week, that he might see if they kept their clothes clean, and that they were learning something at school. Surely here is a missionary field. *

CONGRESS.

TUESDAY, Feb. 14.

SENATE.—The Senate, this morning, was crowded at an early hour by persons anxious to hear the Texan Senator, Mr. Houston, speak on the Nebraska bill. The debate on Nebraska was resumed by Mr. Houston, who did not conclude his remarks. The subject was postponed until to-morrow.

Several petitions were presented by Messrs. Seward and Brodhead against the Nebraska bill, and Mr. Petit closed his remarks in favor of the French Spoliation bill; which bill was ordered to be engrossed—yeas 26, nays 17.

A bill was passed allowing Illinois to select the residue of lands granted to aid her in the completion of her canals.

HOUSE.—The House then went into Committee on the Homestead bill. It proposes to grant every man being the head of a family and a citizen of the United States a homestead of 160 acres of land, on condition of occupancy and cultivation for a specified time.

Mr. Dawson of Pennsylvania supported the bill. In the course of his remarks, he said that not more than 150,000,000 acres of land would be required under this bill for many years to come, and if we add 50,000,000 for a Pacific railroad, we shall still have 1,150,000,000 of acres of public domain; a geographical area larger than England, Wales, Ireland and Scotland combined—sufficient in extent to make 200 states as large as Maryland, New Jersey or New Hampshire. Without the adoption of a policy such as the bill proposed, this domain must remain a wilderness for centuries to come.

Mr. Mace of Indiana, Democrat, made a long and strong speech against the disturbance of the Compromise, denouncing the Nebraska bill, and declaring that he would resist the repeal of the Missouri Compromise with all the power he possessed, and that if his constituents did not approve of his course, it would give him great pleasure to resign for them to elect some one in his place.

Mr. Skelton of New Jersey, Democrat, also denounced the Nebraska bill, and alluded with some severity to the course of the government papers at Washington in abusing and denouncing as Abolitionists and Factionists, all who opposed the repeal of the Missouri Compromise.

Mr. Meachum of Vermont obtained the floor, when the committee rose and the House adjourned.

A NOTABLE SCHEME.—The scheming politicians at Washington are determined that the 'surplus' shall no longer lie idle, if they can help it,—that is, help themselves to it.

The most specious scheme for relieving the over-filled treasury is that proposed by Mr. Olds, Chairman of the House Committee on Post Routes, to annul present contracts with the mail steamers and purchase the vessels. All this looks very fair at first sight, and as only complying with a clause introduced into the various contracts—probably by the contractors with some such ulterior view—giving to the government the right to take the vessels, at a fair valuation, whenever it may have necessity for them for war purposes. The contractors doubtless intended that this should afford the pretext now resorted to—that government should buy whenever it became their interest to sell. Those vessels have been running from three to five years, in constant, hard, wearing service, and most of them are by this time well nigh used up. Some of them, like the Georgia, have been pronounced rotten and unseaworthy—and nearly all have fallen behind this fast age of improvement and progress. We do not except even those of the "Collins line," which besides is losing money, in spite of the large bonus received for carrying the mails—and would be glad to sell out now at first cost to government. The latter is therefore asked to recall its contracts and take the ships at a fair valuation: not that the government run them on its own hook—oh no!—but that a new batch of contracts may be thrown to the hungry maws of the political beagles. The old steamships are to be bought for the navy—and as they will soon be fit for nothing, they will be allowed to rot and fall to pieces at our navy yards. However, who cares what becomes of them when they have fulfilled their destiny and added to the spoils? Truly, the public goose is a fat one, and is likely to be done very brown just now at the capital!—Boston Courier.

SACKS VS. BARRELS.—In Europe flour and grain are transported in sacks instead of barrels as with us, on account of the little space they take up when empty—and the recent demand for breadstuffs has of course created a corresponding demand for sacks. The Newburyport Herald referring to the anti-barrel prejudices of English traders and brokers, and that they will have nothing to do with our American flour in barrels, untill it has been shot into sacks, says:—"The ceremony of shooting it is continually going on at the wharves and banks of the Thames, and furnishes daily employment to a particular class of men. There is another objection the Europeans make to barrels: from lack of the occasional movement and shaking which it undergoes in sacks, the flour settles down in them, and if untouched for a long period, has to be dug out in lumps, and pulverised again by rotating in a close wire cylinder set in rapid motion."

Judge Potter, of the Manchester, N. H., Police Court, has commenced a prosecution against Rev. J. B. Davis of that city, for an alleged slander against his official course, contained in a temperance address, recently delivered by the latter.

Messrs. Potter and Davis both formerly lived in Portsmouth; and the report of the trial, if published, would be read here with great interest.

Mr. Everett spoke against the Nebraska bill. He spoke of slavery as an evil, of which we don't believe a syllable, and gave to others what he claimed for himself, purity and honesty of motive.—Ports. Va. Trans.

We give our cotemporary credit for purity and honesty of motive; and therefore conclude, as he considers slavery a good and not an evil, he is ready to bow his own neck to a yoke so easy and a burden so light, as those worn and carried by the slaves, with whose comfort and happiness he cannot fail to be acquainted.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

JAILS AND HOUSES OF CORRECTION.—The abstract of the returns of the keepers of the jails and the overseers of the Houses of Correction in Massachusetts, has been printed. From it we learn that the whole number of prisoners who have been confined in jails during the year ending November 1st, 1853, is 10,343; of this number Suffolk county furnished 7283. Of these prisoners 8839 were males, and 1487 females. But 8109 were adults. Of the whole number 295 were colored. The most universal crime seems to have been that of intemperance, for which 3407 were committed. For larceny, 1671 were committed. There were 29 murderers among the number, and 27 who were committed for arson. There were also among the inmates of the jails, 64 counterfeiters. The number of prisoners in confinement November last was 371. The average number throughout the year, 319 1-2. Four prisoners escaped from jail during the year, and were not retaken.

The whole number of prisoners in the Houses of Correction during the year was 3684, of which Suffolk county furnished 1084. This number included 2786 males and 798 females; minors 523; colored people, 169.—More than one half the prisoners (1745) were sent there for intemperance. Of the whole number, 2277 were natives of other countries. The total expenses of the Houses of Correction were $78,390; estimated value of the labor of the prisoners, $34,134 77. During the year 160 were pardoned. 16 escaped, of whom 9 only were retaken.

The following filibustero anecdote we find in the San Diego Herald, extracted from a letter from Sinaloa:

"When the filibusters boarded the schooner Neptuno, the new governor for Baja California, who was on board, thinking the visit a complimentary one, dressed himself in uniform, prepared to receive them in becoming style, and informed the strangers that he was Gov. Robelledo, 'commandante general' of Baja California. His surprise may be imagined when he found himself a prisoner instead of a governor?"

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism; when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Linimeut, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantageous facilities for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in advance of the fees to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"PATENT OFFICE, ———

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully,

Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the Islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it alone removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

THE LADIES' FRIEND.

PROF. MOTT'S PILLS.

"He should be most honored who relieves the most distress."

When the head is racked with pains,
And dizziness creeps o'er the brain;
When sleep forsakes the aching eyes,
And health on fevered pinions flies,
When indigestion throws its shade
Like shadows where our graves are made,
Professor Mott's reviving Pills,
Are just the cure for all such ills.

These Pills have long held a conspicuous place in the practice of medicine, for the cure of the many ills to which females are subject. They are composed of entirely vegetable ingredients, and are a Safe & sure remedy for Female Diseases occasioned by imprudence and exposure. In every instance these Pills have proved succesful. The thousands of females who are subject to so much suffering can be permanently cured by the use of the above medicine.

Observe that each box has the fac simile of the proprietor, CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, upon it. The above Pills can be found at 45 Hanover street, and No 1 Cornhill, Boston.

N. B.—Persons residing out of the city can have them forwarded by mail (free) to any part of the country, by enclosing one dollar in a letter, directed CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, Boston, Mass. d621wly

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but it has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

N. B.—BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS, and observe the following Promissory Note, with the fac simile signature of the proprietor, on every genuine box:

The 'Lowell Coal & Gas Burner,'

IS now taking the lead as a Coal Burner, in all places where it has been introduced. It is so unlike all other Stoves, and so superior to them, that the whole truth would hardly be believed, except by those who have used them. One ton of coal burned in this Stove will generate as much heat as two tons consumed in any other Stove extant.

The subscriber having secured the exclusive right to manufacture and sell this in this place, respectfully invites all interested to an examination of it at his Ware House, 15 Daniel street, where it may be seen in operation day and night.

"WHAT THE SISTER ARTS TEACH AS TO FARMING"—An Address delivered before the Indiana State Agricultural Society, Oct. 15th. 1853, by Horace Greely. Published by Fowlers & Wells, New York.—This is a pamphlet of 32 octavo pages, which we commend as of great interest to all farmers. In speaking of the raising of fruit,—one of the most attractive and profitable branches of husbandry, Mr. Greely says, very reasonably.

No artificer presumes that the labor and materials required for a fine table will suffice for a piano forte; nor that a steam-engine can be constructed as cheaply as a chum. But the farmer, seeing trees and plants grow around him with weed-like facility and tenacity, often indolently imagines that any tree will grow so, and plants his rare and delicate fruit-trees, if he plants such at all, as if they were oaks or locusts. But nature is inexorable in her requirement that the labor and care essential to the production of a choice fruit or plant shall be proportionate to the value of the product. You may grow Pears on yellow sand or Hickory on blue clay; but if you want choice Pears or Peaches you must devote much labor and expense to preparing and enriching the ground wherein your trees are to be set. Too many farmers, not heeding this law, or supposing that Nature may somehow be circumvented, obtain worthless fruit or none at all, and so abandon the culture in disgust and despair.

There is not now one grape-vine or fruit-tree, except of the coarsest and commonest kinds, where there should be twenty, taking one State with another; and one consequence of this is an enormous and perilous consumption of flesh as food, to an extent unknown in other countries. We are nationally surfeited with pork and tainted with Scrofula, not because we are so fond of pork, but because, for an important portion of each year, the majority of our population can get little beside. "The foolishness of preaching" will never suffice to correct this aberration; for men who work must eat, though their food be not the best; but give us an abundance of the choicest fruits and vegetables, with farmers who know how to grow them, and truly educated housewives, who delight in preparing and serving them, and we shall enjoy health, elasticity and longevity to an extent now unknown. A flesh diet is the dearest, the least palatable and the least wholesome, and all that is needed to wean men from it is the presentation of a better. To secure this, we need only farmers who will feel a just pride in having the finest orchards and gardens—who will surround, not merely their own dwellings, but those of their tenants and helpers also, with choice trees; and who will plant and keep planting until good fruit shall be so abundant that it can be no longer an object to steal it.

DOCTORS.

If we examine the life of the practical physician, we find it gilded and shining on the surface, but beneath the spangles, how much pain and hardship! The practicing physician is one of the martyrs of modern society; he drinks the cup of bitterness, and empties it into the dregs. He is under the weight of an immense responsibility, and his reward is but too often injustice and ingratitude. His trials begin at the very gates, of exhausting investigation, of Anatomy; he breathes the air of putrefaction, and is daily exposed to all the perils of contagion. View him in the practice of his difficult art, which he has acquired at the risk of his life! He saves or cures his patient, who, when he has recovered, conceives, it may be, that his constitution overcame the disease, and that the physician is only useful for form's sake.

Then, consider the mortifications he has to undergo, when he sees unblushing ignorance win the success which is denied to his learning and talents, and you will acknowledge that the trials of the physician are not surpassed in any other business of life. There is another evil the honorable physician has to contend with—a hideous and devouring evil, commenced by the world, sustained by the world, and seeming forever more destined to be an infliction upon humanity. This evil is quackery, which actually seeks falsehood, and prefers it to truth. How often do we see the shameless and ignorant speculator arrest the public attention, and attain fortune, while neglect, obscurity and poverty, are the portion of the modest practitioner, who has embraced the profession of medicine with conscientiousness, and cultivate it with dignity and honor.

With regard to the report that ex-President Fillmore is about to be married, the Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says:

"The lady is Miss Elizabeth Porter of Niagara Falls, only daughter of the late Gen. Peter B. Porter, a hero of the war of 1812, and Secretary of War under John Quincy Adams. Miss Porter is 32 years of age, and a lady of superior intellect, high cultivation and large fortune. Her brother and herself are the sole heirs of their father's great estate, including Goat Island and other lucrative property at Niagara Falls. Miss Porter has long been a reigning belle in Western New York, and has refused many an eligible parti, it is said."

Within forty miles of San Francisco, there is one farmer who planted 1,700 acres of potatoes, 2500 acres of wheat, and 2500 acres of barley. He owns one steamboat and two schooners, which are exclusively employed in bringing his produce to market. The capital invested is about half a million!

Morning Chronicle.

FRIDAY, FEB. 17, 1854.

SENATOR WELLER ON FRENCH CLAIMS.

In the United States Senate on Tuesday, before voting on the Old French Claims, Mr. Weller, of California, made the following remarks, which we invite every reader to peruse. It will be seen that Mr. Weller himself says he voted repeatedly against this bill in the House, though he had never investigated the claim as to its justice! Hundreds of men do the same act on many questions,—oppose or aid they know not what.

As the yeas and nays have been ordered on this question, I shall be driven to the necessity of making a single remark in explanation of my vote. I have been accustomed to vote against this bill. I believe I uniformly voted against it when I was a member of the House of Representatives. I never undertook the trouble, I must confess, to investigate it.—There was a very large amount of money involved in it, and there was so strong an outside influence at that day brought to bear in its favor, that my prejudices were very naturally excited against it. During the present session of Congress, being confined temporarily to my room by indisposition, I took occasion to investigate the whole subject, and read with great attention the very learned speech made by the distinguished Senator from Delaware on this subject some years ago, and I arrived at the conclusion that this was a just and equitable demand against the Government.

Entertaining the opinions which I do, no matter what the amount may be, I dare not vote against the bill, therefore I shall be compelled to stand upon the record as having voted upon both sides of the question; and all who know me know the fact that I am in the habit, from my positive character, of remaining in the wrong until most of my friends have discovered the fact before I did.

The question, "shall the bill be engrossed for a third reading?" was taken by yeas and nays with the following result:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Badger, Bell, Bayard, Dawson, Evans, Fish, Foot, Hamlin, Houston, James, Jones of Tennessee, Mallory, Morton, Pearce, Pettit, Pratt, Sebastian, Seward, Shields, Smith, Sumner, Toombs, Wade, Weller, and Wright,—26.

NAYS—Messrs. Adams, Bright, Brown, Cass, Chase, Clay, Dodge of Wisconsin, Dodge of Iowa, Douglas, Fitzpatrick, Jones of Iowa, Mason, Norris, Rusk, Slidell, Walker, and Williams,—16.

MRS. DOUGLASS.—We have read with some interest from the Norfolk papers of last week, Judge Baker's sentence, which condemned Mrs. Rose Douglass to one month's imprisonment in the city jail, for the crime of instructing negroes to read and write. The sentence, including the moral and religious remarks interwoven, is a column in length.—The judge is pretty certain religious instruction can be given orally, without any ability in the learner to read the Bible; by means of catechetical instruction, and a clear and simple exposition of Scripture. Indeed, he says, that these means have been employed with gratifying success, and that of the one hundred millions of negroes in the world, no three millions are "so intelligent, so inclined to the gospel, and so blest by the elevating influences of civilization and christianity," as the three millions of American slaves.—Then he expresses his fears that "a sickly sensibility" towards the slaves may jeopardize the safety of the masters, and winds up very queerly, by sending the schoolma'am to jail for teaching the little negroes to read. A pretty hotch potch the learned judge makes of it; fully equal to any thing Elder Foss described last Sunday night.

The Norfolk Argus understands that Mrs. D's imprisonment turns out to be a pecuniary reward; (which we suppose to mean that some Norfolk people have made the woman some valuable presents,) and the same paper "hopes the citizens will prevent, by all possible means, any attempt to aid the woman," but will crowd her off to the North, as a mischievous rebel against the Constitution.

LOST IN THE FOG.

No person, unless he has tried to navigate a boat or vessel near the coast in a fog, can imagine how embarassing it is, nor how soon he would find his supposed knowledge set at nought, if he should be called upon to try it.

The steamer Africa, from Liverpool, arrived below New York on the evening of Tuesday the 13th. The fog was too dense to proceed, and so she anchored. On the morning of the 15th, she got under way, but the fog still being thick, she went ashore on Jersey flats, about one mile below Bedloe's Island, at 10 o'clock. She went on at full speed. Her bows are 3 feet out of water at high tide, and she must discharge to be got off. She is aground the full length on soft mud. Two steamships went to her aid immediately, and at noon the Africa's mails and passengers were landed. A large number of hands were sent on board and are discharging her cargo into steam tugs and lighters. She draws 21 feet and is firmly imbedded in the mud.

A letter received in New Orleans from Minatitlan, states that the Tehuantepec road was formally commenced on the 30th of January. Sykes & Co. commenced operations at Sachel on the 25th.

A SAD STORY—BUT TRUE.

The New York Herald tells the following melancholy tale of a man who had seen better days, but who declined in morals as he indulged in his cups, until at last he died in disgrace and misery.

Ovid F. Johnson, formerly Attorney General of Pennsylvania, and a brother, we believe, of the late Governor of that State, died a few days ago, in Washington, a most melancholy death. He had been picked up from the gutter in a state of intoxication and sent to the vagrant department of the work house, where he ended his sad career. Lately he was an active coadjutor with Caravajal, in his fillibustering operations along the Rio Grande, and conducted for some time a "manifest destiny" newspaper at Brownsville, in Texas, opposite Matamoras. Attracted to Washington, like thousands of others, by the chances of making money out of his party, he attempted a monthly Democratic Review, the first number of which, full of fillibustering odds and ends, was the last. But there, among the fatal temptations of Washington, he remained, a Pennsylvania politician and a Pennsylvania drunkard; and his fate is but the fate of hundreds of others destroyed among the hells and dens of Pennsylvania avenue. Poor Johnson! A man of talents, education and society—a man who might have been the pride of his family and an ornament to his State, carried off by the fast principles of a loose morality, has perished as a drunken vagrant. What a blessing the Maine Liquor law would be to the city of Washington!

A BENIGHTED REGION.—The Boston Pilot, in answer to a correspondent, says:

An adopted citizen can be legislator, Judge, Governor, Congressman, &c. But he cannot be President, or Vice President. In the different States, the laws have varied with regard to the elegibility of adopted citizens to office, but we believe that in this respect, the laws are about the same in all the States, with the exception of New Hampshire, which is a very benighted region. Catholics are disqualified by law from holding certain offices in New Hampshire.

An effort was made in New Hampshire, a few years since, to remove the Catholic disability. One great reason why it did not succeed, was the opposition made by the Roman priests to having the children of Catholics taught to read in schools where they deemed their souls in danger. The benighted people of New Hampshire can all read and judge for themselves, except a portion of the enlightened Catholic immigrants, whose priests read for them.

Three of the crew of the Three Bells are in New York in needy circumstances. They are American sailors. Two of them belonged to shipwrecked crews picked up at sea, and shipped on board the Three Bells in order to get home. A large sum of money has been paid into Capt. Creighton's hands to be given to the sailors of the Three Bells when they get to Glasgow. But these three men do not want to go to Glasgow; and hence must lose the share to which their valor entitled them. The Journal of Commerce thinks it hard that they should not be paid. So do we. —Boston Post.

And we also. The salvors of the crew and passengers all deserved to be rewarded. Some have been amply rewarded already. So also should all salvors of life and property be carefully recompensed, in every instance where it is possible.

FINALITY.—Senator Weller (Democrat) of California, in his speech on Monday in favor of the Nebraska bill, remarked that "he was no party to the Missouri compromise, and was under no obligation to abide by it." And further, with regard to the Compromise of 1850, "he was no more bound by that than the other."

This, we suppose, is the modern use of the word finality. Anciently, (i e. four years ago) no man could be a true patriot, (nor hardly a christian) who did not kiss the book containing the fugitive slave law, and set aside all laws purporting to have a higher origin. Now alas! how changed!

THE OVERLOADED SHIP.—In the Military Court of Enquiry, now in session, Mr. Mellus, the first officer of the San Francisco, testified that he thought it questionable whether the steamer could have weathered the storm even if the engine had not broken. He testified that Col. Gates personally assisted him at one time.

CANAL EXTENSION.—In New York City, the vote on the Canal Enlargement is very small;—but nearly all are in favor of it. Out of 6700 votes of fifteen wards of the city there is a majority of 5500 for the enlargement.

BOSTON MARKET.—From the Courier of Thursday.

Coffee—Sales of Java in small lots at 13 1-2 cents, and some lots St. Domingo 10 cents per lb, 6 mos. Flour—The demand is very limited and prices are nominal; we quote Western Ohio and Michigan common and fancy brands, $9 25 a 9 50; do extra, $9 75 a 10 25; Genesee extra $10 50 a 11 per brl., cash. The sales of corn have been confined to small lots, at $1 05 for yellow; nothing doing in white; Oats, Northern, 54 a 56 cts per bushel, cash; Rye $1 20 per do. Provisions—Beef and pork continue in request at steady prices; Lard sells at 10 1-2 a 12 cents per lb in brls and kegs; Hams 10 a 10 1-2 cents; Butter inquired for at 18 a 20 cents for good, and 21 a 22 cents for choice; Cheese 9 1-2 cents per lb.

It is said that Mr. Hamilton, in wrestling with whom Mr. Stevens in New York came to his death, has become insane, in consequence of the idea pressing continually upon his mind that he was to blame.

LOCAL.

THE FAIR.—The Ladies' Fair at Jefferson Hall was densely crowded last evening; the Tableaux were excellent, and everything passed off pleasantly. It will be continued this evening, (without the Tableaux,) when all articles not disposed of will be sold at Auction. The Tables will be well supplied with Ice Creams, Oysters, Coffee, Refreshments, &c.

It was announced that the whole series of Tableaux might possibly be presented at the Temple on Monday evening next. We hope it will be done.

LYCEUM.—The lecture at the Cameneum on Thursday evening, by Rev. Mr. Robie of Greenland, was an excellent dissertation upon The Study of History, in the course of which he spoke of the rise and progress of nations that do not now exist, and traced their downfall to the small proportion of freemen, and a want of a representative saystem. The speaker entertained no fear for the stablity of our government, from the influx of foreigners, and so long as the greatest freedom in our elections was allowed, all would be safe.—The lecture was deserving of a far larger audience than that present last evening.

☞ Mr. Aptommas, the celebrated harpist, is to perform at the Cameneum this evening, with his lady and other artists. We have not heard him, but from the recommendations of those who have, we need not hesitate to announce a musical treat. Dwight's Musical Journal, Boston, Oct. 22, 1853, says of Mr. Aptommas:—

A charming feature of the Concert was the admirable harp-playing of Mr. Aptommas, a young Welshman, who had long lived in France and England, hearing the best masters, but forming his own school. There is a fresh glow of youth and health in his cheeks, and he has the appearance of a modest, earnest, genial artist. We have never before heard the harp so played; its clear, rich, mellow tones rang through the hall like a bell. Every ear craves new refreshment from his minstrelsy.

☞ The members of the Mercantile Library Association will bear in mind the meeting of the Society this evening. The question for discussion is "Should the Nebraska Bill, of Senator Douglas, be passed by Congress?"

Reported for the Chronicle.

Court of Common Pleas—Feb Term.

Exeter, Feb. 16.

No. 68, Janvrin v. Scammon, was erroneously reported as being on trial.

The case which has occupied the attention of the Court up to this time, and which will probably be given to the Jury to-night, is No. 25, Palmer and Barker v. Smith. This is an action of trespass, for directing water from the Piff.'s works.

Stickney and Tuck for Piff. Porter for Deft.

The next case in order is No. 68, as above.

☞ In Board of Aldermen last evening, the Health Committee made their annual report—which was accepted.

Sundry bills passed.

CONGRESS.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 15.

SENATE.—In the Senate, this morning, the French spoliation bill was passed by a vote of 27 to 15.

Mr. Everett presented a memorial from the Massachusetts Humane Society, asking an appropriation to aid them in their rescue of shipwrecked mariners.

Bills, granting to the states of Ohio and Iowa respectively, public lands selected in those States, were passed, as was also the bill making Palatka and Baytown, in Florida, ports of delivery.

The Nebraska bill was then taken up, and Mr. Houston of Texas resumed his speech. He had opposed this bill, he said, because of its provisions relative to the Indians, and if there could be anything in it more repugnant to him than these, it was the provision for repealing the Missouri Compromise. He looked upon the repeal of that Compromise as a measure full of evil.

When Mr. Houston had closed, the question recurred on the amendment to the 14th section, which was adopted by a vote of 35 to 10. The nays were Messrs. Allen, Chase, Everett, Fish, Foote, Houston, Seward, Smith Sumner and Wade.

Mr. Chase moved to amend the amendment as it now stands by adding thereto the following words—"Under which the people of the territories, though their appropriate representatives, may, if they see fit, prohibit slavery therein." A discussion ensued, when

Mr. Badger got the floor, and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Mr. Ewing presented a memorial from New York, setting forth that Hon. Mike Walsh, a member of the House, is not an American citizen, either by birth or naturalization.

The House then went into committee on the homestead bill, when

Mr. Meacham of Vermont proceeded to state his objections to the Nebraska bill, but was called to order by Mr. Richardson. Adjourned.

CONFIRMATIONS.—Among the confirmations officially announced in the Washington Union of Saturday are those of Messrs. Vroom, Borland, Tronsdale and Spence, respectively, as Ministers to Prussia, Central America—Brazil and Constantinople; D. L. Gregg as Commissioner to Hawaii; Messrs. Sickles and Erving as Secretaries of Legation at London and Russia.

PRICE OF PAPERS.—The New York Herald is soon to be raised to three cents single copy.

At Pittsburg, on Wednesday, Mr. McCloskey's administrators obtained a verdict against the Pennsylvania railroad for 4500. McCloskey was conveying horses from Pittsburg to Pennsylvania when he was killed, in March last, by a collision near Newton. The defence set up was that he was on the wrong car at the time of the accident.

3 DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE AMERICA.

The British steamer America, Capt. Lang, which was chartered at Liverpool to bring home Capt. Watkins and the troops saved from the San Francisco by ship Antarctic, reached Boston, Thursday at 8 o'clock A. M. She left Liverpool Jan. 31, and brings 3 days later advices from Europe.

Capt. Watkins and the U. S. troops are in good health. The soldiers will be sent to Newport, R. I.

The screw steamship Charity, Capt. Paton, from Liverpool to Portland, whose non-arrival has caused much anxiety on this side of the Atlantic, put into Greenock on the 28th ult. with decks swept. The Charity left the Mersey early in the morning of the 17th ult., and had proceeded as far as 15 west longitude, when she was overtaken by the terrific gale of the 20th and 21st.

FRANCE.—There is little of interest from France, but a more quiet tone in relation to Eastern affairs is noticeable in the ministerial organs, and some of the Paris letters surmise that the Emperor of Russia has at last reached the ear of Napoleon.

SPAIN.—The political agitation in Spain continues. We have already mentioned the banishment of several of the leaders of the opposition. The latter accounts say:

"The resignation of several officers had also been accepted. The Minister of Justice had been removed, and the Minister of Finance placed in his stead. M. Zaragoza had been replaced as Governor of Madrid by M. Quinto. On the 19th the other political arrests were spoken of. It was said that Baron de Meer will be dismissed from the Presidency of the Supreme Court of War and Marine for his hostile vote in the Senate. It is also reported that General Lersundi will be sent away."

ITALY.—There are alarming reports from the Roman States. Famine prevails in several of the legations, and tumults occurred in consequence.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.—Letters from St. Petersburg say the armaments throughout the whole empire surpass all belief. The organization of all the reserve batalions has been ordered. We learn from Warsaw, under date of the 20th, that the 1st corps d'armee of infantry, received on the 6th orders to hold itself in readiness to leave. The army of occupation of the kingdom of Poland is at present 43,000 strong; and the garrisons are occupied by an additional force of 24,000 men.

The answer resolved upon by England and France to the demand of the Czar, in relation to the objects of the combined fleet in the Black Sea, has not transpired. A Paris letter of the 29th says:

There are fresh insurrections amongst the Wallachian population, notwithstanding that the Russian Generals had shot several persons taken with arms fighting for the Sultan.

According to the latest information received from Krajova through Vienna, the Russian corps in Little Wallachia is composed of 36,000 men of all arms, with 60 guns; 28,000 of these are to co-operate in a grand attack on Kalafat. The strength of the Turks in Kalafat amounts at most to 20,000 men; a number believed by competent men quite sufficient to defend the place vigorously. The Russian party in Bucharest are firmly pursuaded that Kalafat will be taken, because the Imperial command is that that the Turks must be driven across the Danube, and in the shortest time, cost what it may.

There are reports that a great battle was fought near Kalafat on the 20th, but letters from Krajova of the 21st, make no mention of such an event. The report was probably another version of the battle of Citate.

The passage of the Danube by the Turks near Turna, and the Russians near Galatz, was unimportant, and only for the purpose of reconnoitering.

The latest accounts from the seat of war in the Principalities, are comprised in the following despatches:

KRAJOVA, Jan. 24.—Skirmishing takes place daily at Rahowa, Islas, and Turnul.

BUCHAREST, Jan. 24.—Forty-five thousand Russians are concentrated around Kalafat.—A great battle is expected there shortly.

On the 17th the Turks got possession of Turnul and Jannitsia, as also of the village of Sistobanion.

ORSOVA,—An engagement took place on the 13th, between a body of Turks and the left wing of Aurep's corps, near Islas. The Turks succeeded in maintaining the Wallachian bank. The Turks have begun to throw up redoubts between Islas and Turnou.

The Russians suffered a severe loss at Matshin on the 13th, and had a steamer disabled.

The following intelligence in relation to the movements of the combined fleets seems to be authentic:

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 15.—The combined fleets, which arrived on the 11th at Sinope, detached a division of steamers to escort the Turkish convoy to Batoum. The English steam frigate Retribution, however, having, on her return from Sebastopol, announced that the Russian fleet had quitted that port, the two squadrons made sail for Batoum.—The Turkish convoy has since returned, without any accident, to Constantinople, after having disembarked the troops and provisions at Batoum.

A despatch, dated Marseilles, 26th, says: "the Fury had met with a division of the Russian fleet, and had informed it that it must not approach nearer than thirty miles of the Turkish coast:

PERSIA.—The following is communicated from Constantinople:

"Despatches received by the Turkish government from Ahmed-Wefik-Effendi, the Ambassador of the Sublime Porte in Persia, announce that he had succeeded in defeating the intrigues of the Russian Envoy, and in deciding the Shah to renew his alliance with Turkey. The Persian Minister at Constantinople has received instructions from the Cabinet of Teheran, which support this statement, and which he has communicated to Reschid Pacha.

INDIA AND CHINA.—Advices from Burmah to Dec. 3 state that, for some days previously, rumors were afloat of a conspiracy having been detected at Rangoon.

We have the following from China:

"There has been no very reliable intelligence about the progress of the rebels since last despatch of the mail. A report, however, was brought from Shanghai by the Lady Mary Wood, that, after being defeated by the Imperialists at Sinchow, in Pecheelee, the insurgent army continued to advance, and at the end of October reached Jinkew, about sixty miles from Pekin. Pekin is presumed to be well garrisoned, and its stores of rice are sufficient for three years' consumption. Of other provinces we learn that Kiangsi and Nganhwui are now quiet.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

DODGING.—The manner in which some of the 'strict constructionists' dodge around an appropriation bill, was seen in the fate which befel the late 'Deficiency Bill' in the House. It is related of some of the immaculate Virginians, who never vote for inland appropriations, that when the River and Harbor bill of 1852 went through the House, the whole Virginia delegation, Democrats to a man, protested against the bill with superhuman energy and eloquence; yet, by a singular coincidence, they all voted for a certain $40,000 for the improvement of James River, leading from Richmond, the state capital, to the sea. Having, by aid of the friends of the internal improvement policy, got that amendment to the bill, they simultaneously rushed into the post office when the decisive vote came upon the adoption or rejection of the whole. It was passed, but their names nowhere appear as supporting or approving it.

Jeremy Diddler in Philadelphia, being sadly in want of funds, procured six dozen champagne bottles, and filling them with water, and neatly packing them in baskets, deposited the whole with a pawnbroker for the sum of $30. The suspicions of the pawnbroker being raised, the corkscrew was applied to one of the bottles, but no customary "pop" followed.—The contents of the bottle did not effervesce, of course, but it is stated that the broker foamed enough for the whole six dozen, had they all been filled with the genuine article.

PAID IN HIS OWN COIN.—The Rocheste Democrat says that M. B. Lawry, the notorious leader of the mob at Erie, was booted from an editor's sanctum the other day, and then flogged. He went to the office of the Erie Constitution to demand a retraction of some statement, and was dismissed in the above manner.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's office, 240 Green

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.
The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it actually removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S BANNER REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

THE LADIES' FRIEND.
PROF. MOTT'S PILLS.

"He should be most honored who relieves the most distress."

When the head is racked with pains,
And dizziness creeps o'er the brain;
When sleep forsakes the aching eyes,
And health on fevered pinions flies,
When indigestion throws its shade
Like shadows where our graves are made,
Professor Mott's reviving Pills,
Are just the cure for all such ills.

These Pills have long held a conspicuous place in the practice of medicine, for the cure of the many ills to which females are subject. They are composed of entirely vegetable ingredients, and are a Safe & sure remedy for Female Diseases occasioned by imprudence and exposure. In every instance these Pills have proved succesful. The thousands of females who are subject to so much suffering can be permanently cured by the use of the above medicine.

Observe that each box has the fac simile of the proprietor, CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, upon it. The above Pills can be found at 45 Hanover street, and No 1 Cornhill, Boston.

N. B.—Persons residing out of the city can have them forwarded by mail (free) to any part of the country, by enclosing one dollar in a letter, directed CHAS. Y. ARNAULT, Boston, Mass. d621w1y

Morning Chronicle.

COURAGEOUS CONDUCT.—The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle publishes an extract from a private letter, giving an account of the noble conduct of a little girl, the daughter of the writer, who was a passenger on the steamer Eagle, bound from Columbus to Augusta, and which was burnt on the river. The boat was run ashore when the fire was discovered, but the passengers landed with difficulty. The writer says:

"The children and ladies had either to come down with ropes, or to be let fall from a height of 13 tiers of cotton bales into the arms of those below on the main deck, then jump to the shore. All speak in the highest praise of the conduct of my daughter, (not ten years old;) she neither cried or screamed, but stood upon the pile of cotton, holding one of her little cousins (boys) by each hand, exhorting them not to cry or jump; nor would she leave the burning wreck until she saw them safely landed; she then, in the most self-possessed manner, asked if there was any person that would save her. One of the crew, at the risk of his life, nobly responded, 'I will!' and snatched her from the very jaws of death.—You can form some idea of the rapidity of the flames, when I tell you that in 15 minutes from the first discovery of the fire, nothing was to be seen of the Eagle or cargo but a few blackened particles of cotton. All that was done to save life was done in five minutes. I regret to have to add, that three deck hands were drowned; and the chamber maid, having got caught between the guards of the boat and a tree on the bank was literally cut in two. Not a trunk or particle of clothing was saved."

THE CALIFORNIA MINERS.—A recent letter from California says that from the best information the writer can obtain, miners do not average $26 per month nett profit. Some, to be sure, make great strikes. But these are always scattering, and every month they are growing more so. There are thousands of good steady men there, who for the last two months have not made board. It is not uncommon to have an application for a subscription to send some one home.—Boston Chron.

We have heard of one case aptly illustrating the truth of the above. A married man, industrious, persevering, prudent, and strictly temperate, went to California in the spring of 1852, with moderate anticipations, but fully expecting to return with his "pile" in the spring of the present year. He took up a claim at the dry diggings in Calaveras county, worked early and late, having a market garden besides his mining operations, and his average earnings have not been over the amount mentioned above. He has recently written to his wife that he must remain another year. A multitude of such facts might be cited to prove that mining is more uncertain and less profitable on the average than any other business.—Boston Journal.

EXTRAORDINARY DEVOTION.—The Hagerstown (Md.) Herald records the death of Mrs. Nourse, an old lady, at the almshouse in that town, and adds:—About forty years ago a son and daughter of this old lady, both insane or idiotic, were brought to the almshouse of this county. Soon afterwards the mother left her home, and those of her children who were able to take care of themselves, took up her residence at the almshouse with her afflicted and helpless offspring, and watched over them and ministered to their wants as a mother only can do, until the bodily and mental infirmities attending the aged parent, disqualified her from longer discharge of this noble duty. She was worth about ten thousand dollars in her own right, and she thus immured herself in this unattractive building; but she cheerfully surrendered all the comforts and enjoyments which such pecuniary competency afforded—severed the ties of friendship, and gave up the pleasures of society, that she might bestow a mother's love upon those who most needed it. What a proof of the intensity of that love! What a fact for the records of heaven!

KENTUCKY SLAVES IN CANADA.—The Cincinnati Commercial says that Rev. H. H. Hawkins, a colored preacher, who was formerly a slave of Gen. Taylor, of Newport, Ky., and now resides in Canada, states that there resides in Canada West 400 slaves who absconded from masters living in Kentucky, within one hundred miles from Cincinnati. There are in Canada 35,000 fugitive slaves, who are in a very flourishing condition just now, owing to the high prices paid for railway labor in the Provinces. In the town of Chatham 730 fugitives are settled. In the new town of Buxton 130 families of escaped slaves are settled, who own, altogether, a tract of nine thousand acres of land. The whole amount of land in Canada West owned by fugitive slaves is 25,000 acres.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT.—On Friday afternoon, at Thacher's Foundry, South Boston, a ladle containing about four tons of melted iron was being moved by a crane, when by some means it was overturned and the iron was thrown out. The fiery liquid ran in every direction upon the sand which forms the floor, firing whatever of a combustible character came in its way. The workmen of course ran for their lives, and all escaped injury save one, who slipped and fell into the fiery liquid, burning one of his legs in a serious manner. The wood work which took fire was extinguished without causing a general alarm, and the iron after becoming cool, was gathered up.

Morning Chronicle.

SATURDAY, FEB. 18, 1854.

BEDINI—ONCE MORE.

The Boston Pilot quotes a paragraph from the Chronicle, in these words:

"Cardinal Bedini, who is now in this country, (is) very appropriately clothed, like the pope his master, with both political and priestly power. He comes here as the Pope's Nuncio, to visit the Roman Churches,—and he comes also charged with a civil embassy of some sort from the Pope as Civil Ruler of Rome, to our President."

The Pilot corrects several errors in this statement, as follows:

I. Bedini is not a Cardinal. II. Archbishop Bedini is not clothed, so far as this country is concerned, with either "political or priestly power." III. He does not come here as the Pope's Nuncio. He was sent to Brazil, and only to Brazil, as Nuncio. IV. He did not come to visit the Roman Churches. V. He was not changed by the Pope with a civil embassy of any sort to this government. VI.—He was not sent to the United States by the Pope as civil ruler of Rome. He was sent by the Holy Father with letters setting forth the good will of His Holiness towards our government. * * * * It is true that, as the bearer of a message from one government to another, he was invested with a quasi diplomatic character, a fact which increases the national shame for what has occurred.

We are glad to make these corrections, or any corrections is matters of fact, on good authority, as the Pilot certainly is, in these matters.

As it stands now, we understand that Bedini was only a quasi diplomat, no Cardinal and no Nuncio to us. Well: then our great men at Washington made altogether too much ado about him. If he had really no public character or mission here, he had a right to protection by our laws, as any other foreigner,—but the Senate of the U. S. went out of their way to notice a police offence committed by one set of foreigners against another.

The Pilot goes on to take exceptions to the statements which we copied from Gen. Avezzana and other Italians, about Bedini, and says:

Gen. Avezzana, whose name appears with the rest, writes to the New York Freeman's Journal and the Herald, that it was placed there without either his knowledge or consent.

Not so. Gen. Avezzana's wife, an over-zealous Catholic, did that, and with pious fraud, or a pious mistake, did it in her husband's name. The General himself subsequently corrected the error, and endorsed the statement against Bedini. We believe the General and the refugees, rather than the Roman priests and editors, on these points, because the latter have much greater temptations to falsehood herein, than the former.—The Pilot confirms the statement that Bassi was put to death, but denies that Bedini had any hand in the transaction. It says:

"Ugo Bassi was a criminal, caught armed, in the act of crime, and he deserved the sentence, yes, deserved it a thousand times, for he was a priest, and knew his duty, but did not do it. * * * * It is a consolation to know that poor Bassi met his just doom as a penitent Catholic should."

The foreigners, Germans and Italians, for some reason or other, hate Bedini. The American public must judge as well as they can, whether it is mere causeless hate, or whether such a press as defends the execution of Bassi, misrepresents all foreigners who do not bow down to the Romish hierarchy.

CHINCHA ISLANDS OUTRAGE.

Some of our shipmasters and others, were at the Chincha Islands when the Peruvian officers there committed some acts of oppression and ill-usage on an officer of the ship Red Rover, and several Captains and officers beside.

These gentlemen having now returned, are about to memorialize Congress, asking for reparation and redress for the injuries and grievances then suffered, in such a decisive manner as may prevent the recurrence of similar scenes.

Memorials are placed for signature, in the Atheneum and in the Exchange Reading Room.

Military Court of Inquiry.—On Wednesday Col. Gates introduced the testimony in his defence. Capt. Pendleton of the "Lucy Thompson," Major Marchant, Lieut. Van Vorst, and Dr. Wirtz, were examined. No very material facts were elicited. There appears to be no serious attempt on the part of Col. Gates to prove that he was himself particularly active in endeavoring to promote the comfort of the troops: but simply to show that other officers were equally remisss. This is at best but a poor apology for neglect of duty, and thus far it has not been especially successful. It will be scarcely possible, however, to form a fair opinion of the case until all the evidence has been given.

Lieut. W. A. Winder has sent in the following letter:

New York, Feb. 15, 1854.

Major John F. Lee, Judge Advocate, &c.

Sir—Considering that I have been very much injured by the testimony of Major Wyse, in saying that I did no, or very little, duty on the wreck,) I respectfully request that the Court will permit me to introduce testimony to rebut that of Major Wyse, and to vindicate my character as an officer. I have but few questions to ask. I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

William A. Winder,
1st Lt. 3d Artillery.

WHICH IS CORRECT?

Having already published from the New Hampshire Patriot, as we supposed by authority, the statement that the Nebraska bill is not a party question;—we now publish, on the other hand, a couple of sentences from the Nashua Gazette, indicating that it is a party question. That paper says:

"The whigs and abolitionists are stocking [striking] hands upon this bill and are now completely identified. The democratic party now have arrayed against them merely an Abolition party, the whigs as a party having lost their identity and become merged in the abolition party."

The Nashua Gazette is an ably conducted paper of the democratic party; and we suppose must be as good authority in its own region, as the Patriot is in Concord.

We feel no anxiety at all, only a little curiosity, to know whether it is, or is to be a party question or not.

Since writing and quoting as above, we have opened the New Hampshire Democrat, printed at Meredith Bridge, in which we find the following sentence:

"In order to show that the Nebraska bill is favored by whigs and to a certain extent is a 'whig measure,' notwithstanding the Belknap Gazette says it is exclusively a 'democratic measure,' we quote the report of the speech of Mr. Dixon, the whig Senator from Kentucky, delivered in the U. S. Senate on the 4th of February inst."

This complicates the question still more. The Belknap Gazette is called a whig paper, and yet its assertion that the bill is a democratic party measure, though contradicted by its neighbor the Democrat in the same village, is backed up by the Nashua paper before quoted. And the Democrat says, that to a certain degree it is a whig measure.

If any evidence were wanting, to show how utterly mixed up and confused the parties are, here it is.

To our mind, it is a most puerile, foolish, unworthy enquiry for a grown man to make, Does our party go for this measure? The proper enquiries are, Is it right? Is it honest? Is it useful? Is it humane? If these are answered in the affirmative, let us vote for it, no matter who opposes. If in the negative, let us vote against it, no matter who advocates it.

Edinburg Review, for Jan. 1854.—This number is just reprinted, by Leonard Scott & Co. of New York. Its contents are:—1, Lord John Russell's Memorials of Mr. Fox, and the Buckingham Papers; 2, The Blind, their Works and Ways; 3, Ecclesiastical Economy; 4, Public Works in the Presidency of Madras; 5, Government Education Measures for Rich and Poor; 6, Thackeray's Works; 7, The Machinery of Parliamentary Legislation; 8, The Ottoman Empire.

STEAMSHIP CHARITY.

The screw steamer Charity, of the Portland line, reported heretofore as having sailed on the 16th, with passengers and a valuable cargo, and whose non-arrival caused considerable uneasiness, put back to the Clyde on the 28th. The Liverpool Times of the 31st, reports the following of the Charity, and also of the Sarah Sands, whose sailing from Liverpool was delayed on account of the disabling of the Charity, for the purpose of taking her passengers.

The Charity left Liverpool on the morning of the 17th. On the 20th, in long. 15, she encountered a very severe gale, in which she was greatly disabled. The captain reports that "the sails were reduced gradually until every stitch was taken in, and the ship hove to under bare poles, with engines going dead slow to keep enough way on the ship to keep her head to the sea. She was in this position and about four points from the wind, when an immense sea struck her and swept almost everything off the deck, including the funnel, three boats, taking several davits with them; the galley, companion," &c.

Much water of course went down into the cabin and engine room, causing considerable alarm amongst the passengers. The donkey engine was set to work to pump the water out. Although without a funnel the engines succeeded in raising as much steam as kept the engines moving slowly. Capt. Paton put about, and the wind being from the southward, made for Greenock, where she arrived on Saturday morning, Jan. 28, at 3 o'clock.

The Sarah Sands which should have sailed on the 30th for Portland, is detained in the river for the passengers of the Charity, who are to arrive here from Greenock to-morrow morning early. It is intended that the Charity when supplied with a funnel will steam round to Liverpool for repairs to the deck-work, &c.

To Fishermen.—More Annoyance.—A correspondent writing us from St. John, N. B., informs us that—"The bill which passed our Legislature last winter relative to the protection of our coast fisheries has now received the royal assent, and is therefore law. It enables the shore authorities of this colony to board vessels within three miles of the land, and remain on board until they depart, with other stringent provisions for the protection of the in-shore fisheries."

So it seems that those of our fishermen who visit the Bay of Fundy and the east coast of New Brunswick, in the Bay of St. Lawrence, are to have persons quartered upon them whenever they go within three miles of the shore. If this law is carried into force it will be productive of more trouble and annoyance than has yet transpired in the British waters. Our government should have remonstrated against the approval of any such laws.—Gloucester Telegraph.

Harrisburg, Penn., Feb. 15.—In the Senate to-day, the prohibitory liquor law was defeated by a vote of 16 to 15.

LOCAL.

☞ Mr. Aptommas and Lady gave a Concert on Friday evening at the Cameneum to a fashionable audience, but not very numerous. The performance on the Harp, and the duetts on Harp and Piano, were splendid; no such Harp playing has ever been exhibited here before, to our knowledge. At the close of the performance there was a general request for another, by the same company.

The request was acceded to, and Mr. Aptommas will perform again next Tuesday evening; at which time we bespeak the attendance of all lovers of good music, to fill the Cameneum as full as it can hold.

Court of Common Pleas—Feb Term.

Exeter, Feb. 17.

The morning hours were occupied by Judge Sawyer, in a very able and lengthy charge to the jury in the case on trial yesterday. The jury have not yet agreed.

Jonathan Tibbetts of Kensington, indicted for an attempt to kill his wife, having been arraigned plead nol. con. and was sentenced by the Court to five days solitary confinement and six years hard labor in the State Prison, and pay costs of prosecution.

Isaac Nute of Dover, indicted at the Sept. Term for larceny at Stratham, having been arraigned, retracted his former plea of not guilty, and plead nol. con. Said Nute was sentenced to two years' hard labor in the State Prison, and pay costs of prosecution.

Daniel Collins, of Kingston, indicted for selling liquor without a license, having been arraigned upon five separate charges, plead nol. con., and was ordered by the Court to pay a fine of $20 and costs of prosecution in each. The case State v. John Thomas of Epping, for breaking, entering and stealing goods from the store of Jonathan Prescott at said Epping, was tried. Verdict, not guilty.

POETIC GEMS.

Many fine specimens of poetry are published in the Boston Transcript, under the head of Gems. Some productions of our young poets, A. L. and T. B. A., get there occasionally. We have never felt called upon to use the head till now; but use it we must.

Two or three days ago, a little boy brought into our office a manuscript purporting to contain poetry; and said the writer wished to know if we asked any thing for publishing it. We told him No; if it was poetry we would put it into the paper, and be glad to have it; but if it was not, we would put it into the fire. On reading two or three verses, (we are sorry to say,) we threw the document into the stove, and presume it shared the fate of a dozen other things which went in with it.

Next day, nothing daunted, the boy came with another like sheet, containing the following delectable verses, which we print verbatim et literatim, and pronounce them worthy of the editor's table in the Knickerbocker, or even of Job Sass himself, when he undertakes to write poetry.

THE LADIES FARE

1 On tuesday night
i dressed with care to take my girl to the ladies fare
her tooth so sweet
i do declare her constant cry is candy.

2 In walking round
this beautiful show
i saw the ladies smiling faces go it was a pleasant sight for to see them so and all for a little candy

3 On wedensday night at the very same fare says i to my girl
what will you have my dear says she if you buy me enything here
let it be a little candy

4 Of all that ever
i saw that night was the portsmouth girls with there eyes so bright they could not on there seats set right for the thoughts of a little candy

5 On thirsday night with my mind full bent for to get a prize was my great entent
but lo when all my money was spent
i was blest with a little candy.

6 Now yong men all i pray beware of the girls you take to the ladies fare
for thers some that would two faces ware
for a slaigh ride and little candy.

Congress Saloon.—Messrs. B. Harding & Co. have fitted up the Saloon on Congress street, opposite the City Hotel; and offer to the ladies and gentlemen of Portsmouth, a full assortment of Candies, Oranges, Lemons, Figs, Dates, Raisins, Cigars, &c. They have made a very neat and inviting Saloon, and keep the best of refreshments and sweetmeats. We think they must meet with good success, for one of the first things they did on opening was to send a dish of bon bons to the printer.

FOR EXETER.

The First Morning Train on the P. & C. Railroad, will leave Portsmouth at 7-15 on Monday morning, for the purpose of accommodating persons who wish to attend Court at Exeter.

Trains will leave at the same hour every Monday morning, during the session of the Court.

CONGRESS.

Thursday, Feb. 16.

Senate.—Messrs. Sumner and Chase presented petitions against the repeal of the Missouri Compromise.

The Nebraska bill was then taken up, when Mr. Badger of North Carolina spoke in its favor, contending that the Missouri compromise had already been repudiated in principle and effect, and that the deduction that it was void and inoperative, was perfectly correct, and ought to be made. When he had concluded, Mr. Seward got the floor, and after an Executive Session the Senate adjourned.

House.—Mr. Chandler, from the select committee of the Senate on the subject of the San Francisco sufferers, made a report similar to that heretofore published in the Senate proceedings, concluding with a resolution authorizing the President to procure three gold medals severally to be presented to the captains of the Three Bells, the Kilby and the Antarctic and distributing $100,000 among the captains, seamen, and others who assisted in rescuing the passengers of the San Francisco. Referred to the committee of the whole.

The House then went into committee on the Homestead Bill.

ORDERLY DEBATE IN CONGRESS.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the Homestead bill, Mr. Olds of Ohio in the Chair. The Chairman made an ineffectual attempt to check the absurd range which is allowed debate in Committee of the Whole. Mr. Meacham, of Vermont, who had the floor, began his speech by stating that he intended to speak upon the Nebraska bill.—Mr. Richardson, of Illinois, raised a point of order, that that was not the subject before the Committe. The Chairman decided that the Homestead bill, before the Committee, being a special order, debate must be confined to that bill. Mr. Campbell appealed, and the decision was not sustained; yeas 54, nays 85. So Mr. Meacham proceeded in order. Mr. Wheeler, of New York, afterwards spoke upon New York politics.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The Senate in executive session to-day reconfirmed Mr. C. Sullivan after a warm debate.

The Southern Whig members held a meeting this morning, and unanimously resolved to support the Nebraska bill; and to request the editors of the National Intelligencer to change their course upon that subject.

LATE FOREIGN NEWS.

By the arrival of the Canada, we have Liverpool dates to Saturday, 4th inst., at noon.

The news has a warlike look, but the British funds had fluctuated less than might be expected; Consols closed at 90 1-4 a 90 3-8. The French funds were sensitive. American securities were in good demand during the week, and an active business was done at former prices. The attention of Continental capitalists was becoming more attracted to American securities during the present war prospects.

Provisions have not changed greatly;—and breadstuffs have declined a little. The report of the Corn Market reads thus:

Market dull the first three days of the week. Wheat declined 6d a 8; Flour 1 a 2s; and corn 1s; since then the market revived, all articles being in better request and closing with 2s decline on wheat during the week, and 1s on flour. Corn had recovered its value.—W C flour 42 a 42s 6d; Ohio, Philadelphia and Baltimore 43s, extras 43s 6d; Indian Corn—white 50 a 51s, yellow 49 a 50s.

ENGLAND.—Parliament was opened on the 21st ult., in presence of an unusual crowd.—Her Majesty was much cheered, but Prince Albert was occasionally hissed on their way to the House. The Turkish Minister and several Turks who were in the crowd were cordially cheered. The House was unusually full of splendid costumes. No members of the American legation were present, the Lord Chamberlain having sent notice that all diplomats must appear in full court costume.

The Queen says in her speech:

The hopes which I expressed at the close of the last session, that a speedy settlement would be effected of the differences existing between Russia and the Ottoman Porte have not been realized, and I regret to say that a state of warfare has ensued.

I have continued to act in cordial co operation with the Emperor of the French, and my endeavors in conjunction with my allies, to preserve and restore peace between the contending parties, although hitherto unsuccessful, have been unremitting. I will not fail to persevere in these endeavors, but as the continuance of the war may deeply affect the interests of this country and of Europe, I think it requisite to make a farther augmentation of my naval and military forces, with the view of supporting my representatives, and of more effectually contributing to the restoration of peace. I have desired that the papers explanatory of the negotiations which have taken place upon this subject, be communicated to you without delay.

I recommend for your consideration a bill which I have ordered to be framed for the opening of the coasting trade of the United Kingdom to the ships of all friendly nations, and I look forward with satisfaction to the removal of the last legislative restriction for the use of foreign shipping for the benefit of my people.

The reply to the Queen's speech will, it is expected, be unanimous from both Houses.

The British army will be immediately increased by 11,000 regulars, while the addition to the navy will be 13,000 men.

The Queen's proclamation is expected to enroll for the navy; and it is said to be contemplated to appoint a special Minister of War, charged with the practical details of the army, navy and ordnance.

An order in Council continues militia training during the present year.

WAR IN THE EAST.—The answer from Great Britain and France to Russian enquiries respecting the entry of the fleet, was delivered February 1st to the Ministers in Paris and London. The terms of the reply did not transpire, but as they could not have differed from the communication already addressed verbally, by Sir Hamilton Seymour for Great Britain and M. Castlebac for France, to the Cabinet of St. Petersburg, it was considered that the Czar's instructions left his Ministers no alternative but to leave London and Paris, although it might not be for some days.

The destinies of Europe are now pending on the decision of Russia and Austria.

A rumor was current of a naval battle between the allies and the Russians in the Black Sea, with the destruction of the Russians. It is, however, not confirmed. A part of the allied fleet had returned to Constantinople to escort the Turkish supplies to Varna. A portion of the Turkish fleet had gone to Egypt to ship 12,000 well trained troops, including one regiment of heavy artillery, much wanted, one regiment of riflemen.

The Russian Vice Commander of Sebastopol has been cashiered for not preventing the English frigate Retribution from entering that port. Mr. Bell, an English engineer, is released.

FRANCE.—A Council was held at the Tuilleries on the 30th, upon the question of sending an expeditionary land force to Turkey, which was fully discussed. It is proposed to send 80,000 men in four bodies, under the command of Generals Caucobut, MacMahon, Pelissier and Boulquet. England will send only a small force, but will pay half the expenses.

Prince Napoleon has been sent to the Court of Belgium, it is reported, to impress on the King the necessity of acting firmly with the allies against Russia, as Belgium cannot maintain her neutrality without incurring the displeasure of France.

The Prince will go on a similar mission to Prussia and Germany.

SPAIN.—Great discontent prevails. Revolutionary hand bills are everywhere circulating; the popular feeling at present is in favor of the King of Portugal, or anybody but a Queen.

ITALY.—French influence is much increasing in Naples. Great uneasiness exists throughout Northern Italy. An outbreak is far from improbable. A Pontifical decree extends to April next the permission to import breadstuffs into the Roman States. Also gives enforced currency to Roman treasury bonds.

LATEST SPECIAL TELEGRAPH.—Vienna, Feb. 2.—Count Buol has drawn out a declaration of neutrality with a strong leaning towards the views of the western powers, and has given this to Count Orloff as a final answer. Orloff's mission therefore has failed. The Czar's proposals were to form a defensive league with all the German powers, and if the western powers attack any one thereof Russia would make common cause; also, would not conclude any peace without consulting the interests of the German powers.

The German Powers through Austria refuse to accede to the proposition; Russia is therefore isolated. The Western Powers are immediately to demand the evacuation of the principalities, and will compel it forthwith.

The Russian minister at London has paid a final formal visit to the foreign department.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

Machine Work and Pattern Making.
THE Portsmouth & Concord Railroad are prepared at their Machine Shop at the corner of Deer and Bridge streets in Portsmouth to do all kinds of Machine Work and Pattern making for customers.
d13 JOM R. B. BISHOP, Master Mechanic.

SPIRITUAL RAPPINGS.—The Paris correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, says M. Babinet, of the French National Institute, has recently published an interesting article on turning and tipping tables, which may be recommended as a rich lesson in natural philosophy and natural reason. He examines the phenomenon in a mechanical and phys ological point of view, and his scientific interpretation is more satisfactory than that of Professor Faraday; he utterly dispels the illusion, and happily ridicules the superstition. He says—"If people will work miracles, then all I ask is—let not the miracles be absurd."

PERIL OF A STEAM SHIP.—According to the account, the steamer Georgia, from New York for Aspinwall, with passengers and crew, numbering nearly 1000, had a narrow escape from a disaster similar to that which befel the steamer San Francisco. A sea struck her, staving in her bow down to the main deck, and she came near filling with water. Fortunately the gale soon abated and her engines held out, though the fires came very near being extinguished by the water. She worked all her pumps with the engine, to free her from water.

A MARTYR.—Mr. Henry Arcularious—Commissioner of Streets and Lamps in New York, has resigned his office. Not the mud but the prospect of having to go energetically to work in the discharge of his duty seems to have overpowered him. A resolution of the Common Council, returning his communication on the subject of street cleaning, and directing him to have the streets swept at the expense of the contractors and their sureties, was quite too large a dose of reform medicine for his constitution to bear. He "could not do justice to the su'ject."

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sick Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Linimeut, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Tobias's office, 240 Green Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

DR. CONINE'S
SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.
The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as Nature's Remedy Remedy for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

PROF. MOTT'S PILLS.

"He should be most honored who relieves the most distress."

When the head is racked with pains,
And dizziness creeps o'er the brain;

Are just the cure for all such ills.

These Pills have long held a conspicuous place in the practice of medicine, for the cure of the many ills to which females are subject. They are composed of entirely vegetable ingretients, and are a Safe & sure remedy for Female Diseases occasioned by imprudence and exposure. In every instance these Pills have proved succesful. The thousands of females who are subject to so much suffering can be permanently cured by the use of the above medicine.

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE.

THE LIQUOR LAW IN ESSEX.—WM. Case, of Gloucester, Mass., was on Tuesday, in the Court of Common Pleas, convicted on six charges of violation of the liquor law, was found guilty and fined $10 on the first, $20 on the second, and on each subsequent complaint $20 and three months in the House of Correction, making one year imprisonment at hard labor, and $110 in fines; and also to give bonds of $1000 in each case not to violate the law again for one year.

Owen Burns, of Gloucester, liquor seller, fined $10 and costs, and ordered to give a bond of $1000 not to violate the law for one year. He was committed to jail.

Stephen F. Towne, of South Danvers, on eleven counts for selling liquor, was found guilty on the whole. Exceptions were taken, and the defendant was put under bonds of $1200—in default of procuring which he was committed to jail.

Henry Newcomb, and his son Henry B. Newcomb, keepers of the famous "Our House," in Marblehead, convicted of liquor selling—the father on four counts and the son on three. The defendants were put under bonds of $600 each, and both committed to jail.

THE LIQUOR LAW IN CAMBRIDGE.—The movement which commenced with the citizens' petition to the Mayor, and his public reply, has resulted so far more favorably than was expected. Some prosecutions have taken place in which the parties have been bound over to the Common Pleas Court, and several of them have now given up the trade altogether, as well as some nine others, against whom prosecutions would have been instituted had they not done so. The enforcement of the law creates a little excitement, but no very decided opposition.—Cambridge Chronicle of Saturday.

EFFECT OF THE LAW.—The Boston police reports state that the city was very quiet during Sunday, no shops being discovered open and no drunken persons seen. On Saturday night, however, there were 21 arrests, a majority being for drunkenness.

ESSEX COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.—On Wednesday, at Salem, the case against Thos. R. Stackpole, for felonious assault upon Mrs. Ames, of Bradford, was concluded. The trial excited considerable interest, the complainant being a very worthy and respectable lady. It occurred about 5 o'clock on the afternoon of the 7th of December last, while Mrs. Ames was proceeding from the railroad depot in Bradford by the usual path across the fields to her home. When she had got about half-way home, she was suddenly assaulted from behind by a man, who threw her upon the ground and, in furtherance of his guilty purpose, attempted to choke her outcries for help, and threatened her life if she did not desist. Not succeeding in stopping her cries, and she having got hold of his neck-cloth and rather uncomfortably tightened it about his throat, he evidently became alarmed, and upon her releasing her hold, made rapid tracks in another direction. Stackpole has a wife and three young children residing at Berwick, Me. He is by occupation a boot-treer and crimper, at which he has worked in Groveland the past fifteen months with skill and industry, and secured friends there who have taken an active interest in this case. The jury, after a consultation of some three or four hours, concluded upon a verdict of guilty upon the whole charge.

TALL AND HEAVY.—In the town of Norwich, Mass., lives a family consisting of a father, mother, four sons and a daughter, which for the weight and height of its members we consider most remarkable. The father and sons average 5 feet 11 1-2 inches, are well formed, and not at all inclined to corpulency. The father is 76 years of age, and weighs 204 lbs.; the mother is 68 years old and weighs 201 lbs; the oldest son is 47 and weighs 238 lbs.; the second son is 44 and weighs 257 lbs.; the third son is 40 and weighs 236 lbs; the fourth son is 28 and weighs 225 lbs.; the daughter is 26 and weighs 203 lbs. A son who died at the age of 20 weighed 200 lbs. Including this one, the aggregate weight of the family is 1764 lbs., and the average weight is 220 1-2 lbs. We think Norwich may safely challenge the State to produce as long and as heavy a family as this.—Springfield Republican.

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRACY ON THE SLAVE QUESTION.—In the Senate of Pennsylvania, resolutions opposing Douglas's Nebraska bill, and the Missouri Compromise have been refused consideration, by a strict party vote, with two exceptions,—there being 14 Whigs and 1 Democrat in their favor, and 16 Democrats and 2 Whigs against them.—This looks very much as if the democratic party of the great free State of Pennsylvania, will be ready to throw open the territories unrestricted against slavery.

Lord Holland, in his new volume, says of the marriage of George IV that he, the king, "confessed to the duke of Bedford, who attended, that he had swallowed several glasses of brandy to enable him to go through the ceremony; and the duke observed, in relating the fact, that he had taken so many, that it had nearly disqualified him from doing so—he (the duke) could scarcely support him from falling."

The Petersburg Express chronicles the death of Hannah, a negro woman, owned by a lady in that city, at the advanced age of 123. She sank under the exhaustion incident to extreme old age.

MONDAY, FEB. 20, 1854.

THE NEBRASKA BILL IN MAINE.

The Augusta Age, the leading Democratic paper of the State of Maine, has defined its position with regard to the Nebraska bill of Senator Douglas, and it comes forward in favor of the compromises, and in opposition to the bill, as renewing slavery agitation, and as thereby doing infinite mischief to all parts of the country. The Age concludes in this wise:—

Who wants the Compromise of 1820 repealed? Not the country, for it desires repose. Not the Democratic party, for it is solemnly pledged to resist the renewed agitation of slavery under and all guises and pretexts. Not the North nor the South, for the honor of each is pledged to the other to maintain the present happy condition of affairs intact.—Why, then, should this question, which every body deprecates, be forced upon the attention of Congress and the country. No satisfactory answer can be given.

The repeal of the Missouri Compromise would, at first blush, appear to be a thing to be desired by the South. But the South has not asked it, nor can it desire it; for what it most requires is repose and exemption from slavery agitation. It sees that the destruction of the Missouri Compromise is the death blow to the Compromise of 1850, and the death-blow also to the compromise contained in the Texas annexation resolutions, which, while it reaffirms the Missouri restriction as to states formed of territory north of 36° 30′, contains a stipulation for the admission of five slave states, to be formed from territory south of that line. It sees that if good faith is violated in one instance, it may and probably will be violated in every instance. Its interest most clearly leads it to uphold the sanctity of the compromises, for the overthrow of one will prove the signal for a disregard of the whole.

We trust that the Nebraska bill will meet its death-blow in the House, for we suppose its passage in the Senate is a foregone conclusion. Every consideration of wisdom and expediency demands its defeat. The peace of the country, the honor and well-being of the Democratic party, the plighted faith of both the North and South, alike require it.

This seems to be Democracy in Maine just now. Per contra, in New Hampshire, that undoubted Democratic paper, the Dover Gazette, of Saturday says:

The magnitude of the questions involved in the Nebraska bill, led us to delay giving our views upon the subject until we had thoroughly perused and digested its provisions. Having done so, we give it our unqualified approval, and shall to the best of our ability support and urge its passage through both branches of our National Legislature. We consider it the finishing touch to the Compromise of 1850.

Every Democrat should be made aware of the fact, that the Compromise Measures of 1850, so far as they touch the subject of slavery, contains the needed principle by declaring that every community, whether state or territorial, has the full and sole right of determining whether slavery shall or shall not exist within its boundaries. This is the true doctrine, and Democratic.

THE COLORED POPULATION OF NEW YORK.—The Colonization Journal furnishes some interesting statistics in relation to the colored population of New York. The late census showed that while all other classes of population were increasing in an enormous ratio, the colored were decreasing. Thus in 1840, there were 50,000 colored people in the State of New York, and in 1850 but 47,000. In the city of New York in 1840 there were 18,000, and in 1850 but 17,000. The number of marriages among the whites was, to those of the colored, in the proportion of 140 to 1; births, 67 to 1; deaths, 42 to 1. The proportion of births among the whites is twice as great as among the colored; and in regard to deaths, the colored population actually show 165 deaths to 86 births, (during the four months ending with October last,) or seven deaths to three births, which is more than two to one. At this ratio what must become of the colored population of New York in a few years?

Put these facts by the side of the old stale and stupid plea, that the black slaves of the south, if freed, would overrun the northern States; also put with it the other well known fact that in Jamaica and the other W. I. Islands, more laborers are wanted, and the prices of labor have advanced since emancipation; and we have some data whereby to calculate the danger arising from one black bugbear, which has sometimes terribly frightened some grown up babies.

LIQUOR LAW IN PENNSYLVANIA.—The Philadelphia Register has a despatch to the effect that the eighth section of the prohibitory liquor bill had passed the Senate by a vote of 16 to 15. As this was the section most objected to, the Register predicts the final passage of the bill through that branch of the Legislature.

This puts the boot on the other leg, entirely, as our Irish friends say. In Saturday's Chronicle the despatch said the law was defeated by the same vote. We must wait now, to see whether a third despatch will not destroy the second.

☞ The Daily Evening Standard, a Free Democratic paper, published in New Bedford, has recently donned a new and beautiful dress upon the occasion of the commencement of its fifth volume. It is an ably conducted newspaper.

A correspondent of the Brattlebore' Eagle says that there are now resident in the village of St. Johnsbury, a husband and wife, who for sixty eight years have lived together in the holy bonds of matrimony.

Shakers are materially prosperous. We know of no single community of theirs, which does not possess ample abundance, and many of them are extremely opulent. Go to whatever part of the country you may, you find no Shaker village, which does not exhibit these tokens, both within doors and abroad.

There does then exist a body of seven or eight thousand persons, who achieve ample wealth, enjoy signal health, live in tranquillity, peace and order, and are surrounded with all that ministers to the needs and comforts of life in profusion, and yet use no beverage stronger than water. All these results are achieved by manual labor, never sustained or quickened by ardent spirit! Do those who find alcohol necessary or useful, either habitually or occasionally, accomplish more with it, than the Shakers do without it! Healthy, wealthy, comfortable, and at peace with all—if we can become all these without having recourse to any thing more costly and less safe than cold water—it is, to say the least, not very wise to risk the use of what may "bite like a serpent, and sting like an adder!"

No man has less favor for Shakerism as a system of faith, than we. But we may learn wisdom in many things, even from the foolish. The total abstinence, the moderate labor, and the good health of the Shakers, are worth looking at. So also is their practice of always keeping out of debt.

Some papers published a few days since a letter from ex-Senator Clemens of Alabama, to John Van Buren, containing a denunciation of the Nebraska bill. Some doubts have been expressed as to the opinion of John Van Buren on this question, but they are relieved by the publication of the letter to which that of Senator Clemens was a response. In that letter he says of Douglas' bill:

"The act is a flagrant breach of party faith, for the assured reason that the act itself is entirely unnecessary. Could anything but a desire to buy the South at the Presidential shambles, dictate such an outrage?"

SPECIFIC FOR CHOLERA.—The London New Quarterly Review prescribes cleanliness and a pure atmosphere as the best safeguards against the Asiatic cholera. It says:

"The proximate cause of cholera and other pestilences we record. It is FILTH. Where the people can be clean, cholera cannot grow, and the plague did not kill. There will be no specific but cleanliness and purity of living: these, and a well-regulated life, free from excesses, and free from want, will enable us all to wait in confidence and hope the passover of this modern destroyer."

DIMINUTIVE.—A woman living in the eastern part of Dayton, Ohio, a short time since, presented her husband with a boy who weighed just one pound. His first bed was made on a common-sized dinner plate. The event has created a great sensation in the Convention city. The Gazette of that place says, half the ladies in town have been to see it, and the rest are "getting their things ready" to go to see it.

A person named James J. Cutter has been arrested in New York, charged with the seduction, under solemn promises of marriage, of Miss Catharine M. Thomas, daughter of Captain Thomas, who was lost in the tug boat Ajax, on her passage to Boston. The testimony, it is said, discloses one of the most heartless instances of scoundrelly libertinism that ever darkened the pages of this heinous crime.

THE FRENCH CLERGY.—There are 42,000 Roman Catholic clergymen in France, besides 8,500 theological students preparing for the priesthood. The Catholic clergy are appointed by the state, at an annual expense of 32,000,000 of francs. There are 3,000 convents and 24,000 nuns in France, besides convents for different orders of monks. Of Protestant ministers there are 507 Reformed, 249 Lutheran, 40 Protestant Episcopal, and 86 of other denominations.

MISS CARROLL OF THE SAN FRANCISCO.—Captain Condry, who has taken charge of the subscriptions for Miss Carroll, informs us that he has received $182 for her use, the largest portion of which has been deposited in the Savings Bank at Newburyport to her credit. Our Frankfort friend, who has furnished his contribution for the unfortunate woman, will be pleased to learn that the amount was not confined to the contribution at the Courier office, which was $45 75.—Boston Courier.

ACCIDENT FROM CAMPHENE.—On Monday evening, a servant girl of Mr. Willis Judson, living on the corner of Wooster and Brown streets, had her arm badly burned by the overturning of a camphene lamp which she was handing to a young man. The fluid was spilled upon the carpet and took fire. In attempting to extinguish the flames, her hands and arms were shockingly burned. It is possible she may never recover their use.—New Haven Journal.

The ice commenced breaking up in the river at St. Louis, under the influence of sun, rain and a rise of water. The Republican calls it the "beginning of the end" of one of the longest embargoes which the navigation of the city has ever known. The steamboats in the city were protected, and but little damage was done to them, but the pressure against them was so great as to draw ringbolts from the levee.

RISE IN CROCKERY.—Among the many articles that have advanced in price is that of crockery ware, which, owing to the high price of coals and other materials in the Staffordshire potteries, England, they have been obliged to raise their prices from twenty to thirty per cent., and consequently the rise here must follow.

The serious illness of Mrs. E. G. Judson has been mentioned. The Madison County (N. Y.,) Journal says:—"Her brother, Mr. Chubbuck, who is now visiting her, informs us that she has been rapidly failing for the last few weeks, and that her physicians have but little hope of her recovery. Her disease, it is feared, is a seated consumption.

LOCAL.

OUR HEAD—THE OLD AND NEW.

We, (that is, the Daily Chronicle,) have a new head to-day: and We, (that is, Uncle Toby,) have a new wig, which we have worn for several days, waiting for the new head to come, so that we might tell the public of both events at one time; the delay being made to prevent too much agitation, which might have occurred on separate announcements; exactly as Congress kept the State of Maine in suspense some time, waiting for Missouri to come into the glorious Union with her, and so not upset the ticklish craft by a sudden jerk on one side.

And now about the head: the new is like the old, only that the old was worn out, and broken in pieces, and patched up with wooden letters, one of which, as some readers have observed, seemed to be upside down; but it wasn't; it was an extemporaneous letter made in a hurry and made wrong,—exactly as some off hand speeches and hasty ill-advised letters, being once spoken or written, cannot be easily altered, but stand up before the authors, an eye sore and a vexation, for a long time.

So of the wigs: the new is like the old, "only more so;" or as an old joiner hereabouts, (who could make a better sash than he could a sentence,) used to say, "more better."

The old wig, like the old head, had some sad defects about it. It was faded and shrunken, with its springs broken, and was ready to drop to pieces.

The wastes of time must be repaired if possible, and so the proprietors of the paper called on the proper mechanic in Boston (not London as was the case formerly) to make a new head: and the proprietor of the wig called on the lady artist in hair, in this city, who makes old heads look young again, to rejuvenate the outside of his thinking department. Both efforts were successful. The new head is as like the old, as one pea is like another: and the new wig! wouldn't it make the old man look young? if it were not that furrowed cheeks and wrinkled brows tell tales of sorrow and care; if some truant lock of white did not betray the frost of years; and if busy memory would not bring up the names and the stories of companions whom the world has well nigh forgotten.

We have no tears to shed over an old head, or over an old wig; but the bare mention of the memories to which it gives rise puts our pen into the moralizing strain. Well: be it so. The best wig is the most successful and agreeable cheat on the spectators' eyes; but it never cheats the wearer. He is conscious of the age and decay which it conceals. So of the thoughts and purposes and feelings which pass through the mind and heart: they are and must be, known to him who holds them, however the world may suppose him better or worse than he really is. The present day seems to be an age of wigs;—and many men's heads, in public life, and some in private, (we hope not their hearts also,) are not so fair as they seem.

APTOMMAS' CONCERT.

This gentleman, who created such a furore by his exquisite performances on the Harp on Friday evening last, will, by request of the inhabitants of Portsmouth repeat his entertainment on Tuesday evening; when we may expect a renewal of those triumphs which he won at his first appearance. The lovers of music in this city were rather taken by surprise at this Concert: for it is not in the human mind to conceive how delicious music can be produced upon the divine instrument. The many associations connected with the harp, both religious and historical, render it a most fascinating instrument; and we confess, with the editor of the Transcript of Boston, that the effect produced upon us by Mr. Aptommas' performances was "like the discovery of a new musical sense."

Mr. Camoenz acquitted himself most admirably, and his beautiful full toned voice filled the Hall. Everybody was delighted with the masterly style of his singing, though he was somewhat unwell on that evening.

With the harp and pinano duetts, the audience were ravished. They insisted upon the repetition of the "wedding march," which was played with a precision and spirit, that not only did justice to the performers as skilful artists, but proved the true appreciation of the composition.

Mrs. Aptommas rendered the characteristic music of Scotland most admirably. Altogether, we may safely say that no concert that ever was given in Portsmouth, has met with so decided a success; and we hope that all lovers of good music will avail themselves of so rich a treat on Tuesday night. *

N. H. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The Secretary of the New Hampshire State Agricultural Society, J. O. Adams, Esq., is arranging for the foundation of a museum and library for the Society. His object is to obtain a room and collect seeds, grains, agricultural books, &c. Donations of that kind, directed to him at Manchester, will be promptly acknowledged, and will further the cause of agriculture.

A BACHELOR WANTED.—We recommend the following paragraph, penned by a correspondent of the Prairie Journal, to any eligible young man who is anxious to be settled for life, and would take to himself, for better or worse, a young, square, stout-built, black eyed Indian lass:

"The Haynse Chief offers one thousand head of horses, to any respectable young white man, well recommended, who will marry his daughter, a girl of about eighteen; and settle down among them and teach them agriculture."

The horses are worth from fifty to eighty thousand dollars. I have seen this valuable squaw. She is about the medium size, with tolerably regular features, high cheek bones, sloping forehead, black eyes and dark hair.—Her form is square and stout. Her long hair fell over her shoulders profusely ornamented with shells and beads. She wore a robe made of fawn skins, most beautifully ornamented with beads and shells. Her step is light and proud, her gait easy and graceful.

CONGRESS.

FRIDAY, Feb. 17.

SENATE.—In the Senate to-day, the private calendar was taken up and acted on; after which Mr. Seward commenced his speech on the Nebraska bill.

Mr. Seward commenced by tracing the early policy of the United States relative to slavery in the original states and territories, and showing how they only permitted the evil where it had already existed, but wherever it was practicable, prevented its introduction on soil already free; but this policy encountered difficulties when it came to be applied to territories subsequently purchased. Mr. Seward then referred to the difficulties attending the admission of Missouri into the Union, which were finally limited by the compact between the slave and free states, called the Compromise. That was a great national transaction, the first of a class of transactions which have since come to be thoroughly defined, and well understood and marked by peculiar circumstances and features. He then traced the leading features of the Compromise of 1820, and referred to the pending question as one of a similar nature and transcendant importance. It involved an issue of public faith, and national morality and honor. During the agitation of the Missouri Compromise, slavery and free dom were active antagonists, seeking for ascendancy in the Union. That contest has only been protracted, not decided.—The question of adhering to or abrogating that compromise was no unmeaning issue, and no contest of mere blind opposition.

Mr. Seward here drew a parallel between the future condition of the territory as it would be developed under the institution of slavery, and that which would be its destiny if in the exclusive occupation of freemen—alluding, at the close, to the possible secession, at some future period, of the slaveholding states. This last condition was one against which a statesman, when engaged in giving a constitution so situated, must not shut his eyes. The Union was safe now, and would be safe so long as an impartial political equanimity shall constitute its basis; but if ever the slaveholding states should multiply themselves so that they could alone constitute a commercial republic, from that day they would consent to no union which they could not rule, and that rule would be hard for the non-slaveholding states to bear. But I shall not, said he in conclusion, abate one jot of heart or hope in maintaining a just equilibrium of non-slaveholding states, even if this ill-starred measure shall be adopted. The non-slaveholding states are teeming with an increase of freemen—educated, vigorous, enlightened, enterprising freemen—such freemen as neither England or Rome, not even Athens, ever reared. Half a million of freemen from Europe annually augment that increase; and ten years hence half a million, and twenty years hence a million, from Asia, will augment it still more.

You may obstruct, and so turn the direction of those peaceful armies away from Nebraska, but so long as you leave them to roam on hill or prairie, by river side, or in the mountain fastnesses, they will dispose of themselves peacefully and lawfully in the places you shall have left open for them; and there they will erect new states upon free soil, to be forever maintained and defended by free arms, and aggrandized by free labor. American slavery I know, is a large and very flowing spring, but it cannot pour forth its blackened tide in volumes like that I have described. If you are wise, these tides of freedom and of slavery will never commingle; but if, nevertheless, through your erroneous policy, their repulsive currents must be directed against each other so that they needs must meet, then it is easy to see in that case which will overcome the resistance of the other, and which of them thus overpowered, will rolt back to drown the sources which sent it forth. "Man proposes and God disposes." You may legislate and abrogate as you will, but there is a superior power that overrules all your refusals and acts—and, I firmly hope and trust, overrules them to the advancement of the greatness and glory of our country—that overrules, I know, all your actions and all your refusals to act, and will lead to the inevitable result of equal and universal liberty of all men.

Mr. Seward was listened to with profound attention, and in parts of his speech he was applauded by persons in the galleries. After he had closed, Mr. Petit got the floor, and said he would speak on Monday.

Mr. Sumner announced his intention of speaking on the subject on Tuesday.

The Senate then adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.—In the House the resolutions of the New York Legislature against the Nebraska bill were presented by Mr. Dean, and ordered to be printed.

The House went into Committee on the Homestead bill, when

Mr. Stephens of Georgia spoke in favor of the Nebraska bill, mainly in reply to Mr. Meacham of Vermont.

Mr. Campbell replied to Mr. Stephens, and was followed by Mr. Kerr in defence of the Nebraska bill, and Mr. Giddings in opposition, when the committee rose, and the House adjourned until Monday.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 17.—The House of Delegates to-day ordered the prohibitory liquor law to be engrossed for a third reading.

Thirty-six thousand barrels of flour were exported from Baltimore during the week.

CHARLESTON, Feb. 17.—A collision occurred on the Alabama river yesterday, between the steamers Magnolia and Wetumpka. The latter sunk. Two or three lives were lost.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The steamship Africa is still aground. The powerful steam tugs Leviathan and Titan made endeavors to pull her off, but without success.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

FLOUR.—The receipts of flour in Boston during the last week were 11,558 barrels, and the exports 7,885 barrels, principally to Liverpool and California. The trade, having a supply for the present, are purchasing very sparingly of Western flour. The whole receipts from January 1st to February 8th, were 59,711 barrels.

FRAUDS IN FLOUR.—The New York Express advises purchasers of flour to have every barrel weighed, many frauds in the weight having lately come to light. In some cases the weight has been found to fall some twenty pounds below the standard. Just now, when prices are so extravagantly high, this is a consideration not to be overlooked.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—As a young lad, about six years old, son of Mr. Daniel Bickford, of Barnstead, was at play with a horse, the animal kicked him, breaking his skull, which soon terminated his life.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 16.—The St. Louis and Alton packet, Kate Kearney, exploded at her wharf this morning, killing and wounding a large number of passengers. It is estimated that there were 20 killed and many drowned. Among those dangerously wounded is Major Beale of the army.

BURIAL OF PLAYERS.—H. E. Stevens, late manager of the Bowery Theatre, aged 39, and Henry B. Hunt, aged 60, were buried at New York on Sunday with military honors. Mr. Hunt was a native of England, and uncle to the famous Anna Thillon.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 1,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 76 state Street, oppo. Kilby street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered by inventors generally, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the whole original fee paid within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER.

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attention of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the homes of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

TUESDAY, FEB. 21, 1854.

FRANCIS SALES.

Few persons who have resided for any length of time at Cambridge, during the last five and twenty years, can fail to remember Francis Sales, teacher of French and Spanish at Harvard University, and a person endeared to all who knew him, by his kindness of heart and the amenity of his manners. He died on Thursday February sixteenth, in his eighty-third year. One of our friends (says the Boston Courier) who thoroughly knew and appreciated the character of the deceased, has furnished us with the subjoined remarks.

Mr. Sales was born in Roussillon, France, of respectable parents. He was sent, when quite young, to his uncle, in Spain, who kept one of the best academies in that country. After having gone through the course of studies in that institution, he became an assistant teacher. It was there that the writer first saw him, being of the same age and studying the same languages. War being declared between France and Spain at the commencement of the French Revolution, thousands of industrious Frenchmen were banished from their homes, and my young friend was one of the number. Vessels enough to transport them all by water were not to be had, and many who attempted the passage by land were assassinated on the road. I was, in 1793, about to return to Boston, and invited Mr. Sales to accompany me. We had a long passage, (75 days) and suffered much for want of water and provisions. My friend had then a good opportunity to learn English, of which he knew already the elementary parts. On his arrival, finding Mr. Craigie of Cambridge in quest of a private tutor for his nephew and his wife for the French and Spanish languages, he became an inmate of that family; and after having accomplished that task, he removed to Boston, (I believe, for I was then absent,) and taught French and Spanish, with which he was equally familiar. By great industry and the most exemplary conduct, he accumulated a little fortune, of which he was afterwards deprived by fraud; he, however, continued to maintain his family respectably with his small salary as Professor in Harvard University and by the profits of private tuition.

No man in Cambridge was more esteemed, or more deserving of esteem, than Francis Sales. In times and circumstances during the turbulent period of youth, he stood conspicuous in a society of ardent young men, for his sound morality. This little club, in the spirit of the age, had discarded the meretricious trappings of religion, and were disposed to put in their place only the moral principles of christianity.

The reader will perhaps excuse my dwelling for a moment on the remembrance of our youthful days in Spain. The spirit of the French revolution had begun to make its way in the minds of the young Spaniards, who, being taught the French language, very generally found means of reading French books, although the best of them were severely prohibited. The French newspapers were still more rigorously forbidden at that time. In this little reforming club of about a dozen youths, Sales and the writer, nicknamed "Guillermo Del Pino," were prominent members, as one could spout French democracy and the other Yankee notions. We got the French papers regularly, notwithstanding the vigilance of the police and the Familiars of the Inquisition. People who would never have thought of reading French or any other newspapers, sought them with avidity, and their high price was sure, in that smuggling country, to furnish them in abundance. We sometimes got caught. I had a fancy one day to lecture to the club, and had occasion to make some extracts from Bolingbroke, whose volumes I found on board a ship belonging to my father.

With one of these books in my pocket I was stopped at the gates of Cadiz, and marched through the city, under a guard of soldiers, to the Inquisitor's office. After waiting half an hour the Inquisitor appeared—a tall, grave, philosophical looking person ge to appearance—and such he proved to be. He took from the conducting officer the terrible book in question, examined the title-page, and then threw it on the table among thousands more. He then asked me my age, country, and place of residence, to which I gave the proper answers; then, after a pause, looking at me earnestly, and, as it seemed to me, with feelings of benevolence, or with pity for my youthful imprudence, he dismissed me and my guard, to the great astonishment of both of us. As we walked away, the officer remarked that I was a "lucky heretic," but said he with a sneer "El Reverendissimo Padre es filosofo," which of course was meant as a reproach.

There were, in fact, many liberal-minded men at that time among the high clergy in Spain. My mathematical master had the same opinion of the philosophical Inquisitor; but my guardian, when he heard that I had been over the threshold of the Inquisition, was much alarmed for the safety of his house, contaminated by the presence of a "heretic."

I learnt many years after, through some Spanish officer, that this boys' club had grown in numbers and importance so as to attract the notice of government, and that some of its members had been shot, and others had figured in the army, the navy, and the Cortes, through the bloody changes of unhappy Spain. I have a letter from an original member of the club, dated October, 1837. He had then retired to his estate in Andalusia, after an eventful life. F.

For the Morning Chronicle.

MOMENTOUS QUESTION FOR THE PUBLIC CONSIDERATION.

Would it not promote the cause of freedom, to adopt the non-intervention doctrine of the Administration, and repeal all former statutes of Congress restricting the limits of slavery, or which are alleged to be inconsistent with the great non-intervention principle (discovered in 1854) of the compromise measures of 1850? This principle is said to rest upon self government, leaving it to the people to ordain any form of government at their will and pleasure, without the guarantee of the 4th sect. 4th article Constitution United States. It precludes Congress from legislating upon the subject either of slavery or freedom, placing both upon a par, for future competition, and renders all statues inconsistent with the principle inoperative and void. Let us see what statutes and compacts the doctrine would repeal or render void.

1st in the series would be the ordinance of 1787, which prohibits slavery forever from the territory north west of the Ohio.

2d would be the act of Congress of 1790, establishing slavery in the district of Columbia. Its repeal would give freedom to all slaves there.

3d, The act of 1798, prohibiting the importation of slaves into the Mississippi territory, and several acts of 1800 and 1803 regulating slave traffic, portions of which are obsolete.

4th, The act of 1807 prohibiting the foreign slave trade, and the subsequent act in addition thereto.

5th, The act of 1820, prohibiting slavery north of the compromise line of 36 1-2 degrees, known as the Missouri Compromise.

6th, The unconstitutional joint resolution admitting Texas into the Union in 1845, the 3d section of which provides that new states, not exceeding four in number, in addition to Texas, may hereafter be formed out of the territory thereof, with the consent of said State. "And such States as may be formed out of that portion of said territory lying south of 36° 30' north latitude, commonly known as the Missouri Compromise line, shall be admitted into the Union with or without slavery, as the people of each State asking admission may desire. And in such State or States as shall be formed out of said territory north of said Missouri Compromise line, slavery or involuntary servitude (except for crimes) shall be prohibited."

7th, The act of 1848, to establish the territorial government of Oregon, the bill reported January 10, 1848, by Hon. Stephen A. Douglas, to the Senate, prohibiting slavery; finally passed August 14, 1848.

8th, Some parts of the compromise measures of 1850, particularly the part recognizing the Missouri line of 36° 30, as in force, and establishing territorial governments for Utah and New Mexico, are in conflict with the new non-intervention doctrine.

9th, The fugitive slave act is inconsistent with non-intervention by Congress. The doctrine denies the authority of Congress to legislate on the subject of freedom or slavery—they must be left upon an equality to fight out their own battles.

Should the South choose to carry out the doctrine, and repeal or render inoperative the above acts, ordinances, and compacts, (there are some minor acts to be included, which we need not specify,) would it not be sound policy for the free States to gratify their ardent desire? The result would be that the powerful arm of the federal government could then be extended over the whole Union, unrestricted and unrestrained by past compacts and compromise lines, and that arm would be wielded by the Representatives of the fourteen millions of people in the free States, against the six millions in the slave States. The South need not fear the justice of the North, although with eight millions majority. We doubt whether it would be fair or right to abolish a part of the compromise measures, without abolishing all of them.

The above question is propounded merely for reflection. The letter of two columns of Hon. John M. Botts, of Va., published in the National Intelligencer, has an important bearing upon the question. The South have had the valuable considerations of the past compacts with them, and should they now violate all faith solemnly pledged, Mr. Botts fears that, left to the mercy of the vast majority of the North, there might come a reaction prejudicial to the institution of slavery, and therefore he implores the South to oppose the Nebraska bill. T.

SENSIBLE ADVICE.—It is said that when Sir G. Murray attempted to excuse himself from taking office under the Duke of Wellington, on account of his inexperience in public speaking, "Poh, poh!" said the Duke, "do as I do; say what you think, and don't quote Latin."

PAUPERS IN WORCESTER.

The Worcester Cataract copies the following account from the State Returns of Pauperism:

WORCESTER.—Number of persons relieved or supported as paupers during the year, 900. Number of the preceding, having a legal settlement, in the town, or elsewhere in the Commonwealth, 28. Number of State Paupers, 540. Number of State paupers who are foreigners, 523. Number of foreigners from England or Ireland, 487. Number of persons relieved in alms house during the year, 124. Average number of persons in alms house during the year, 30. Number of persons aided and supported out of alms house, 690. Proportion of paupers, probably made so by intemperance in themselves or others, nearly all."

The two numbers, 690 out door paupers, and 124 indoor, do not make 900. The average number in the almshouse, 30, seems very small. And finally, the way of keeping the pauper record in Massachusetts generally, is quite different from ours.

The principal items of information which we wished to gain, are here brought out, viz. the cause of the poverty, here said to be almost wholly intemperance; and the proportion of foreigners, said to be more than one half. If we add to these items the probable fact, that the foreign immigrants from England and Ireland, now in Worcester, who have as yet no legal settlement, are at once the largest drinkers and the poorest men, we have the whole pith and marrow of the pauper question there, compressed within the compass of a nutshell. Here it is. If by any and all means, moral and legal, these poor sots could be kept away from liquors, or the liquors from them, most of the paupers of Worcester might again become comfortable and respectable people, and most of the pauper tax might be dispensed with, and the money disposed of to better advantage, either by the tax payers or the public, in making houses or school-houses, highways or gardens.

One thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight gallons of liquor, or about one hundred and thirty-five thousand doses, as appears by a report, were sold in New Bedford during three months for medicinal purposes, exclusive of ale and porter, which are not included in the above, but which bore their proportion in amount sold to the other medicines. New Bedford must be a very unhealthy place.

Let us see whether it is so, or not. New Bedford has a population of about 17,000: it was 16,443 in 1850. A common rum puncheon, such as we used to call a hogshead, contains about 112 gallons. Sixteen hogsheads, then, will hold all the medicine used for three months. Not quite one hogshead for every thousand p eople.

Take another view. 17,000 people use 1700 gallons of rum for medicine in three months: that is 1-10th of a gallon. This would be a daily allowance of 1-900th part of a gallon. According to the apothecaries' rule of measurement, a gallon contains 1024 teaspoonfuls.

So that all the inhabitants, were the liquors divided equally, might get a little more than a teaspoonful daily.

Any person having knowledge of the actual consumption of spirits, for baths, washes, and other medicinal uses, knows that a barrel per month for month for each 1000 people, is a very small allowance indeed. So that if the paragraph was designed to make the impression of a large sale, it is a failure.

But now let us say, that most temperate physicians of the present day, think that the medical uses of distilled spirits might be greatly diminished, not only without detriment, but with great postive benefit.

TARDY JUSTICE.—It is well known that much reproach has been cast upon Capt. Strout of the brig Napoleon, and also upon the commander of the Maria, for not doing something efficient in the way of saving lives from the wreck of the steamship San Francisco. At last, however, they are completely exonerated. On Saturday evening, the Merchants of Boston gave a banquet to Capt. Watkins, at the Revere House, where Capt. R. B. Forbes presided. In the course of the proceedings,

The chairman by special request of Capt Watkins, said, that gentleman had never uttered one word respecting the captains of the Napoleon and Maria coming on his lee and laying by. One of these vessels was in distress, and the other was incompetent to render any assistance. Capt. Watkins said that he entirely exonerated Captain Strout from any charge of culpable neglect whatever; and said that all that gentleman could do for him had been done. Mr. Forbes hoped it would go forth to the world that such were Capt. Watkins' sentiments on this subject—that Capt. Strout had done the best that under the circumstances he could do.

☞ In New York City, as the Independent informs us, the landlords are giving notice to tenants, at this time of the year, of what they shall charge from the first of May next; and to those who live in hired houses, as most in the city do, the notices bring much alarm and confusion. Rents are to be raised, on an average, 25 per cent. In some cases the price is doubled, and a shop under the Astor House, (the lease of which, made seven years ago, expires this year,) is marked at $3750, being an addition of $2250 over the previous rent.

LOCAL.

THE FAIR by the Christian Society in this city, at Jefferson Hall, four evenings last week, was very successful. It was deemed advisable to continue open on Friday evening, to close off the articles—the unprecedented jam on Thursday evening, preventing this being done then; and at the close of Friday evening's exhibition, H. F. Wendell, Esq. soon distributed the articles not desirable to retain, among the highest bidders. The gross receipts at the Fair were about $800, of which probably full $500 will be realized for the Society. This makes nearly $2000 contributed by the public this winter, to aid three religious societies who have alternately held Fairs at Jefferson Hall.

☞ We advise every body who loves good music—who can appreciate fine playing or first-rate singing, to attend the Concert by Mr. Aptommas and others, at the Cameneum this evening—one of the best entertainments of the kind to which we ever listened.

☞ There is to be no lyceum lecture this evening,—but as a most agreeable substitute, there is to be the fine concert of Mr. Aptommas, at the Cameneum, where the eminent Harpist, with his lady and Mr. Camoenz, will perform strains of music worthy of the best days of Amphion or David.

NEW SHERIFF IN MAINE.—We learn that Nathaniel G. Marshall, Esq., of York, has been appointed High Sheriff of York County. This is an excellent appointment. Mr. M. is a man of great business capacity, and will make an acceptable and efficient officer.

A GOOD SUBSCRIBER AND AN OLD FRIEND. Mr. Aaron Eaton, of South Hampton, N. H., called at our office, yesterday. Mr. E. is about eighty-five years old, and has been a regular and prompt paying subscriber to the Herald for more than SIXTY years.—Newburyport Herald.

PERJURY PUNISHED.—It appears that the Court of Common Pleas in Essex County, Mass., is less lenient towards the "non mi recordo" witnesses, than a similar court in Suffolk. The Newburyport Herald says, of the Court now in session:

The liquor cases still occupy the time of the court, which seems disposed to make pretty thorough work in that matter. Among the trials Friday, was the case of a colored man named Morris, of Salem, who is defended by his brother, a colored lawyer of Boston, who will be remembered as one of the Shadrach rescuers. The colored gentleman appeared well at the bar, and is said to be deeply read, and of considerable talent.

A case occurred yesterday, which was one that will tend somewhat to stiffen the witnesses, and give them to understand that in all cases the truth is required. A witness from Gloucester on an appeal case before the court, suddenly lost his memory, and knew nothing of the facts to which he had testified before a Justice. Suspicion fixed upon him, witnesses were called to show what he had before sworn to, and the Judge demanded that he should give bail in the sum of $1000, to answer to the charge of perjury at the next term, and in default of the same he was committed.

WIFE MURDERING IN LONDON.—Since the commencement of the present month, the metropolitan police courts have sat nineteen days; and during that period our reports of the proceedings of these tribunals record no fewer than sixteen cases of the same crime.—This is a startling social phenomenon. It is well worth while for the moral statistician to inquire into this enormous and abnormal growth of a single crime. History tells us of certain mental epidemics—generally of folly and fanaticism; and in the records of popular delusions, we sometimes come across strange revelations of a new sin being pursued with the avidity of a fashion or a frolic. But generally there is something, if not to excare, yet to account for, the rise and progress of a wide-spread moral malady; and we can usually connect a popular prejudice or mania with some ordinary and intelligible principle of human action, some fatally attractive individual example, or some morbid political or religious bias. All our attempts, however, to suggest a cause, fail us when we come to examine the fact of the hideous prevalence among the lower classes of the metropolis, of the crime of wife-beating, though "beating" is scarcely the word for a complex system of atrocities, in which we find the husband, almost as a matter of course, mauling, kicking, bruising, and stamping upon his wife. We have gone over these nineteen court days of Nover, and extracted from our columns the particulars of sixteen savage and murderous assaults committed by men upon women, and generally by husbands on their wives. The details are, in most instances, too revolting for recapitulation.—Morning Chronicle.

4 DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

By the arrival of steamship Baltic, at New York, we have Liverpool dates to Feb. 8, at 5 P. M.

The news is warlike. Negotiations are broken off. The Czar of Russia's last proposal has been rejected.

The Russian Ministers have left London and Paris. Instructions have been sent to the English and French Ministers to withdraw from St. Petersburg.

France and England are making preparations for war.

In France, there is the greatest activity, both in the army and navy, getting ready for service. In England, 10,000 men are soon to leave, and it is stated as a positive fact that several of the Cunard steamers are taken up by the English government to carry troops to Constantinople.

The 46th Regiment, that was under orders for Australia, leaving all the old soldiers at home whose time of service would have expired in a few years, is now directed to hold itself in readiness for foreign service, taking all the best men, and leaving all the young soldiers and recruits at home.

English Consols 9 1-2. In Liverpool, Cotton advanced one-eighth; sales 26,000 bales in three days. Flour declined 1s; Corn 1s; Wheat 2d.

The Russian fleet is understood to be concentrated at Kaffa.

A private letter says that the return of the allied fleets was in consequence of a scarcity of provisions at Sinope.

Admiral Chads is appointed to the command of one division of the Baltic fleet. The command in chief is not yet given, but the names of Admiral Seymour as chief, with Sir Charles Napier, and Lord Dundonald under him, are mentioned.

The combined fleets returned to their anchorage off Constantinople on the 22d, without having seen a single Russian sloop of war during a three weeks' cruise. The steamer Niger, which had been sent to countermand the return of the fleets, met them close to the Bosphorus. Fresh troops and amunition for the army of Asia would sail in a few days under the escort of the allies.

Orders were recently given by the French Government for three million cannon balls.

Omer Pacha has effected a most important movement, having crossed the Danube with 50,000 men, and divided the Russian army—the right wing of which is at Krajova, the left at Galatz, and the centre at Bucharest.—Omar Pacha crossed in person at Oltenitza, and at last accounts was only two days distance from Bucharest, where the Russian force is weak.

NEW-YORK, 20th. Flour, 2s. easier: sales 5000 bbls. common to strait state, 8 37 to 8 50. Corn 4 a 5 cts lower: sales 25000 bush. mixed 92c; white 95 a 96; yellow 94; round yellow 94 a 95.

☞ A very large majority of the votes thrown in New York, have been in favor of Canal Extension. Scarcely any opposition was offered to the same measure, which was by some denounced as unconstitutional, only three or four years ago. In correspondence at that time, we remarked, that if the Constitution of New York was not large enough to hold a good sized Canal, the people could easily make it so. They have now done it. A stand-still finality on paper cannot long restrain a progressive people.

WASHINGTON ITEMS.—It is stated that Mr. Gwin, Senator from California, intends to move an amendment to the Gadsden Treaty, for the purchase of Lower California and Sonora, for a certain sum. It is objected by some to the treaty that it does not cede to us a larger portion of the Mexican Territory.—The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce writes of the Nebraska bill:—"Its fate in the House is not very doubtful, for the Administration can certainty carry thirty votes among the Northern members, which, with the Southern votes, are all that will be required. The strong vote in the Senate for the bill, and the defeat of the resolutions against the bill in the Pennsylvania Senate, have made an impression in the House very favorable to the bill."

The Deficiency Bill has been reported without the Custom House and Marine Hospital appropriations.

The Tribune's correspondent says:—"The Senate listened to the speech delivered to-day by Mr. Seward with profound attention. Mr. Everett speaks highly in its praise. Messrs. Cass and Dawson admit it was one of the most able and masterly speeches ever delivered in the Senate. Douglas "shot the pit." One or more Southern Representatives will speak and vote against the Nebraska bill.—Mark this."

The Washington letter of the Express which does not quite agree with that of the Journal of Commerce, just cited, says: "The feeling in the House is undoubtedly decidedly against the Nebraska bill. Even New Hampshire will not present an unbroken front in favor of it. One member at least, from that State does not hesitate to express his indignation at the denunciation of the "Union" against all Democrats who dare to adhere to the Missouri Compromise."

ELASTIC.—New York, Feb. 18th.—In the Circuit Court to-day, Judge Betts granted an injunction in favor of Horace H. Day against the New England Car Spring Factory, sustaining the decision of Judge Palmer, made in Rhode Island Circuit Court last summer, and establishing Mr. Day the title to the Chaffee Patent, the value of which is estimated at two million dollars.

PERHAM GIFT ENTERPRISE.—Washington, Feb. 19.—The Perham Gift Committee have finished the numbering of the orders, and adjourned to meet again in New York, leaving Messrs. Shirley and Meeker to remain in Georgetown to distribuute to the ticket holders their orders.

THE LIQUOR LAW.—Baltimore, Feb. 17.—The liquor prohibition law passed the Maryland House of Delegates yesterday by a vote of 42 to 23. It contains all the Maine law restrictions including the power of search, destruction of liquor, &c., and is to go into operation in May 1855 if previously approved by the people.

Rev. Mr. Gassoway, formerly of Georgetown, D. C., was one of the passengers killed in the explosion of the Kate Kearney.

The United States District Attorney, in behalf of the Government, has applied to the Trustees of Columbia College, in the city of New York, for a lease of the College buildings for a term of years, for the accommodation of the Government officers and United States Courts. The residences of the Professors and the Grammar School are included. It is said that annual rent will be not far from $60,000.

THE NORWICH ABSQUATULATOR.—The last California mails brought a number of letters from California to Correspondents in Norwich, announcing the arrival there of Abner T. Pearce, whose financial operations with a number of our city banks, and also with creditors along street, 'caused no small stir' in the community when brought to light a few weeks ago. It seems Pearce owned a five thousand dollar interest in a steam propeller in California; and that he went on there to look after and dispose of that interest. He probably thought that he should be able to sell out, and clear out, before the news of his misdeeds reached there: and we presume he did, though we have no positive information to that effect, unless we except the report sent out by one of the writers, "that he had sailed for Asia."—Norwich Courier.

THE GREAT REPUBLIC.—Capt. L. McKay, formerly of the Great Republic, is a passenger in the ship Lightning for Liverpool. It is said he has an offer from a foreign house to rebuild his ship as a steam frigate, and is going to complete the necessary arrangements.

CINCINNATI POLICEMEN INDICTED.—Captain Lukens and Lieut. Phillips, of the Cincinnati police, have been indicted by the grand jury of Hamilton county, the former for shooting with intent to kill, and the latter for manslaughter, at the time of the Bedini disturbance in that city.

FUGITIVE DELIVERED ON DEMAND OF THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT.—Alexander Heilburn, the fugitive demanded by the British Government under the Ashburton treaty, was on Saturday delivered by the U. States Marshal into the hands of the British officials on board the steamer Pacific. He made a desperate attempt to escape while on the way, and nearly succeeded.

It is stated that about twenty passengers were killed by the explosion of the Alton packet "Kate Kearney," at St. Louis, on Thursday, and many drowned. Major Beale of the army was dangerously wounded.

Gov. Washburn was fifty-three years old on Tuesday last, February 14th—St. Valentine's day. Some regard it as typical of the "mating" of the whig birds, or their union and the putting of "bills" together all round in the State, &c.—Boston Chronicle.

The N. Y. papers state that the steamer "Africa" remains as before reported, her cargo and fuel taken out—but the steam tugs unable to get her off.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.
MR. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common Pasture Weeds a remedy that cures Every Kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple. He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases, (both thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston.
Two bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.
One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.
Two to three bottles will clear the system of biles.
Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the mouth and stomach.
Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Erysipelas.
One to two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.
Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.
Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.
One bottle will cure scaly eruption of the skin.
Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.
Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.
Three to four bottles are warranted to cure the salt rheum.
Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.
A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.
Nothing looks so improbable to those who have in vain tried all the wonderful medicines of the day, as that a common weed growing on the pasture and along old stone walls, should cure every humor in the system, yet it is now a fixed fact. If you have a humor it has to start. There is no if's and ands, hums and ha's about its suiting some cases, but not yours. I peddled over a thousand bottles of it in the vicinity of Boston. I know the effects of it in every case. It has already done some of the greatest cures ever done in Massachusetts. I gave it to children a year old; to old people of sixty. I have seen poor, puny, wormy looking children, whose flesh was soft and flabby, restored to a perfect state of health by one bottle.
To those who are subject to sick headache, one bottle will always cure it. It gives great relief in catarrh and dizziness. Some have taken it who have been costive for years, and have been regulated by it. Where the body is sound it works quite easy, but where there is any derangement of the functions of nature, it will cause very singular feelings; but you must not be alarmed; they will disappear in from four days to a week. There is never a bad result from it; on the contrary, when that feeling is gone, you will feel yourself like a new person. I heard some of the most extravagant encomiums of it that ever man listened to.
Nothing in the annals of Patent Medicines has ever been received by the public with so much favor as this simple preparation. It is now composed of nine different herbs. In May, 1852, when I commenced making a business of it, I sold about two bottles per day. In June, 1853, I sold 4320 bottles. In October, 1853, I sold 6120 bottles. I hope you will call that doing well; I do.
In my own practice, I confine it strictly to humors; but there are some who are so enthusiastic in its favor they think what cured them will cure any thing and any body; they accordingly recommend it for every variety of disease. In this way a great many virtues of it have been found that I never would suspect.
Cases of Dyspepsia, of many years standing, that withstood every known remedy, have been permanently cured.
I know one man to gain 17 lbs. by taking three bottles; another 11 lbs.; another 10 lbs.; and another 7 lbs.—the venerable master Robinson of Boston.
In diseases of the Liver it is a specific. I know several with yellow skin and yellow eyes, the body emaciated and the mind melancholy, get fat and cheerful by a few bottles.
I know several cases of Dropsy, and one particularly bad. A lady, aged 79, was unable to leave her house for the last twelve years, was so much relieved (she was reduced in circumference thirty-four inches) as to visit her friends in several neighboring towns
Another had the Dropsy in her left leg, and was unable to walk for ten years, sometimes swelling to an enormous size; at last bursted, making a bad wound which could not be healed; by taking three bottles and using two boxes of ointment, she is now quite well. Why it should make some fat and others lean, I cannot tell, but so it is.
I know of several cases of Kidney complaints cured by it. If the columns of a newspaper was a proper medium, I could tell of cases of this most distressing of all diseases that would make your heart bleed, that were permanently cured by it.
It has been lately found to be a sure cure for Panama fever. In one case the first spoonful put off the fit two hours. One bottle cured him. Another came home to die, and was induced by his brother to try it. Three bottles cured him.
It likewise gives great relief in the Asthma. A lady in Lawrence was unable to lie in bed for a number of years; she can now lie without the least inconvenience.
A lady in Weymouth lost the use of her left side by the Erysipelas. On the second bottle, she broke out in one mass of humor from head to foot. In a few days she was well.
It has lately been found to be equally good for humor outside as inside, (taking it inwardly in the meantime,) for Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Pimples on the Face, or any eruption of the skin whatever; only where the flesh is very sore you must dilute it with water.
When made weak enough it is the best eye-wash for weak and watery eyes that I ever saw.
Others use it to clease the dandruff out of the hair and strengthen its roots, which it certainly does, and to crown all, it made the hair grow on bald heads, which, if I had not seen with my own eyes, I would not believe from you or anybody else.
As regards dieting, I never came across the first person that ever got any benefit from it. On the contrary, numbers came to death's door by it, as it gives the humors the upper hand. My medicine requires the most nourishing food you can get. It will soon give you an appetite.
Do not for a moment suppose that I warrant a cure of all those diseases I mention case. I merely tell you what it has done, hoping it will do the same for you. I do not warrant a cure in any disease but humors, where it never fails. For further particulars see the circular around each bottle.
No change of diet were necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it.
I have an herb, simmered in olive oil, scatters Scrofulous swellings of the neck and under the ears. Price fifty cents per box.
DIRECTIONS FOR USE. Adults, one table spoonful per day; children of eight years, dessert spoontul; from five to eight, tea spoonfuls. As no direction can be applicable to all constitutions, take enough to operate on the bowels twice a day.

PERSONAL REFLECTIONS.

A very dignified Professor, sometime since walked into the splendid Jewelry Establishment of Jones, Ball & Poor, Boston, and admiring the display, passed along by the counters towards the upper end of the store.—When he had advanced nearly half the distance, as he supposed, up the room, he met a gentleman of dignity and politeness equal to his own. Not wishing to come into collision with him, he stepped aside to allow the other to pass; as luck would have it, the stranger stepped towards the same side. The Professor changed upon the opposite side, and at the same time the stranger changed, and still threatening to come in contact with him.—Straightening up, and assuming an extra amount of majesty, he placidly remarked, "I will stand, sir, until you pass." The shout of the clerks intimated that he had been balancing to himself before a gigantic mirror.

But that is not a whit better than an incident that occurred at the American House, in Boston, very recently. A gentleman of our acquaintance, and perhaps yours, too, reader, was seated at the table in the spacious dining hall connected with that hotel. He looked about, and thought, though he did not say it, that he never before saw so immense a dining saloon. Soon casting his eye down to the left he discovered in the distance his brother, who very closely resembled himself. He wondered that his brother should be there, and to assure himself of the fact, took another look downward. He was confident now; he caught his brother's eye, and nodded. His recognition was returned, and our friend continued his dinner, thinking he should see his brother after they had left the hall. Soon he had picked his last bone, disposed of his pudding and pastry, cracked a few nuts, and imbibed a fresh glass of water, and taken his napkin to put the finishing touch to his mouth, when lo, and behold, his brother was going through the same operation. By this time he was convinced that he had been recognizing himself in a looking-glass.

The moral to these two incidents is, "know thyself" and thou shalt escape the mortification of such personal reflections.—Muncheste Mirror.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Cramp, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

It it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 76 state Street, oppo. Kilby street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever into proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

Morning Chronicle.

MR. BODISCO'S WIFE.—We take the following from the Boston Transcript:

He had always mingled pleasantly with society at Washington, but the tie which connected him most nearly to America, originated in a singular instance of "love at first sight." He was one day walking with a friend out toward Georgetown Heights, when he passed a boarding school for young ladies, and was attracted by a fair girl of sixteen, who stood swinging her bag and talking with animation to some of her companions. 'Who is that beautiful girl? Who is she?' eargerly asked he, but his friend could not inform him. The door opened and in she went to her books and slate, all unconscious of the daguerreotype that glimpse had left on the heart of the grave Russian Minister. The next day and the day following saw him taking the same walk, which subsided to a very slow step as he approached the building, and looked earnestly at every door and window. May day was at hand, and was to be celebrated as usual in the school, by the usual festivities, and the choice of a Queen from among the number; and this year the flora royalty happened to fall on Miss Harriet Williams, the very girl who had so instantly enthroned herself in the admiration of the foreigner.

"Just before May Day the Principal was surprised to receive a note from the Russian Envoy at Washington, expressing great interest in education, and begging permission to be present at the festival of May Day, which it would give him particular pleasure, as a stranger to the customs of the country, to witness. Consent, of course, was very graciously granted, and the occasion was as charming as youth and flowers always make it. At the end of the term, Miss Harriet announced that she would not attend school any more.—What! not graduate? oh, why not? Are you going away? But she shook her head, laughed, and kept her own counsel, and in a few weeks was the wife of the Russian Minister. She has accompanied her husband once or twice to Russia, where she was very much admired, and known as the 'American Rose.' Her face had regularity of feature, but was particularly distinguished for exquisite coloring. Nothing could surpass the chestnut brown of her hair, the bright grey blue of her eye, nor the hue of the lily and the rose so delicately blended in her complexion. Perhaps her figure had too much embon point for perfect symmetry, but she moved with grace and dignity. Although there was a great disparity of years, and a great difference in appearance and character, between herself and husband, it seems to have been a very happy union."

JOKING AND REPENTING.—Not many months since a party of young gentlemen candidates for orders, as the phrase goes, were travelling per rail to the Cathedral city of—, where their examination was to take place. They were very merry, and lively, and funny as they went along, to the evident annoyance of a saturnine looking man who was a fellow-passenger. The great joke of the day was to frighten each other about the to-morrow's proceedings, when they would have to pass through the fiery ordeal of examination at the hands of the Bishop. They talked about him as a good sort of goose, promoted to a wig and palace because he was related to a Whig peer. They could manage him they fancied, but they had all heard that the Chaplain was a terrible fellow, made of divinity, Greek and Hebrew, cayenne and mustard, a very diabolus, indeed, of a chaplain, so much like the "old gentleman in black," that all expected, when introduced to him the next day, to see him with a tail.

This jest was so pointed and pungent that it even drew a grim smile from the grim looking man himself, who had previously stared at them with all the extremity of contempt marked upon his hard features. Well, both the journey and the day reached their end. The next morning arrived, and beheld the young persons elect mustered in the Bishop's study, looking as demure as so many church mice. At length the door was thrown open. Enter the Bishop's chaplain, and O! horror of horrors, it was the grim man, the fellow-passenger of the day before. He walked solemnly up to the table, looked slowly round the assembled circle of culprits, and then, with the same grim smile which they recollected so well, said, "Well, gentlemen, do you see his tail?" And then, after a slight pause, added, "But, if you please we will proceed to business." It is easier to imagine than describe the feelings of the youths. But the grim man was not revengeful. None of them were plucked.—Liverpool Albion.

BUTTON HOLES ON BOTH SIDES.—A gentleman in Charleston, who entertained a deal of company at dinner, had a blackey as an attendant, who was a native of Africa, and never could be taught to hand things invariably left hand of the guests at table. At length his master thought of an infallible expedient to direct him; as the coats were then worn in Charleston single breasted, in the present Quaker fashion, he told him always to hand to the button-hole side. Unfortunately, however, for the poor fellow, on the day after he had received this ingenious lesson, there was among the guests a foreign gentleman with a double breasted coat, and he was for a while completely at a stand. He looked first at one side of the gentleman's coat, then at the other, and, finally, quite confounded at the outlandish make of the stranger's garment, he cast a despairing look at his master, and exclaiming in a loud voice, "buttons on both sides, massa," handed the plate right over the gentleman's head.

Morning Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 22, 1854.

AN EARLY LYCEUM.

The memoir of Hon. Robert Rantoul, Jr., which is prefixed to the published volume of his speeches, &c., was written by Rev. Dr. Peabody, of this city, who gives the following account of one of the earliest lyceums, viz., that at Beverly, and of Mr. Rantoul's agency in its establishment.

In behalf of popular education, he labored equally regardless of party tactics or of personal interest. He was among the pioneers in establishing the Lyceum system, which has exerted so large an influence on the rising and just risen generation. His exertions in this cause commenced before he left college; and how zealously and usefully they were pursued immediately afterwards, the following extract from a letter from Dr. Torrey sufficiently shows.

"Twenty-four years ago, in the winter of 1828–9, Mr. Rantoul, who was then studying law with the Hon. Everett Saltonstall, of Salem, projected, and with the cooperation of a few others whom he had interested in his plans, carried into successful action in this town, (Beverly,) the first Lyceum it is believed that was established in New England. In the early days of this institution the lecture of the evening was usually preceded by a discussion upon some subject proposed at a previous meeting, in which opposite positions were assigned to specified members of the Lyceum, who were to be designated by the presiding officer. These debates were engaged in with very considerable spirit, and served to attract by their novelty and interest a larger attendance upon the rather dull lectures of those days than could otherwise have been secured. It was in this preparatory school, so to call it, that his friends first observed, with sanguine expectations for the future, that remarkable aptitude for debate, that keen logical acuteness in argument, and those ready and ample resources of wit and learning which afterwards so distinguished him in the courts of law and the halls of legislation. Here were first maintained by him, in friendly conflict with his fellow townsmen, those views in regard to great public questions, the powerful defence of which in his maturer life and on wider fields has made his name known abroad, as well as famous at home. The doctrines of free trade, the abolishment of all capital punishments, the mischiefs of excessive special legislation, and many other topics of social and political interest and importance, introduced with the lectures and debates before this Lyceum, met there the apt touches of his 'prentice hand,' to be afterward enforced and defended by him as a master and leader among his fellows, in the forum and in the councils of the State."

A NUMEROUS SECT.—In North America, the Baptists, under various names, have 797 Associations, 16,273 churches, 12,436 ordained and licensed preachers, and 1,208,761 communicants. They have 23 Colleges and 10 Theological schools, and within the last six years have raised $1,500,000 for educational purposes.

The above paragraph seemed to us rather likely to mislead many readers. We therefore applied to a friend who has the requisite data at hand, and who has given us the following reliable Statistics of regular Baptists in North America:

"There are 481 Associations, 9,659 churches, 776,370 communicants. Of these churches, there are 3,766 in the free States and Territories. The number of ordained ministers is 6,259.

Besides the regular Baptists, there are the Anti-Mission Baptists, Free Will Baptists, General Baptists, Seventh Day Baptists, Church of God, Tunkers and Disciples—between whom and the regular Baptists the bond of union is no greater than that between any two denominations who employ sprinkling for Baptism."

To these may be added the Christian Connexion. And if it is proper to call this cluster of churches the Baptist sect, because they all practice immersion; then it must be as proper to call all other churches the Pedo-Baptist sect, merely for the reason that they baptize children.

SNOW STORM.

The threatened snow storm of Monday night became a reality on Tuesday morning. We had only the tail end of it, however. The body, with its force and fury, was farther south, as the following despatches show:

New York, Feb. 20.—The California steamers have anchored at quarantine, on account of the thick snow storm which is prevailing here.

10 o'clock P. M.—The snow storm continues very violent here. The snow is being badly drifted, and the wind is blowing a gale.

Philadelphia, Feb. 20.—A heavy snow storm has been raging here since 10 o'clock, A. M., and still continues.

Baltimore, Feb. 20.—A heavy snow storm commenced here about ten o'clock this morning, and still continues. It is now a foot deep on a level, and the railroads are all locked up by the drifts. No trains have arrived and none gone out since two o'clock this afternoon.

We understand that the delay of the train from Portland to this place on Monday morning, was caused by a heavy snow storm on the eastern part of that track.

The Detroit Advocate contains the following paragraph:

THE LAW SUSTAINED.—Just as our paper is going to press, the Supreme Court has given a decision in the Hawley case, and have declared the liquor law constitutional.

NEW GLEE BOOK.

THE CONCORDIA, a New Collection of Glees, Quartettes, Trios, &c.; for Musical Societies, Quartette Associations, and Social Circles. By Prof. V. C. Taylor. Published by Daniel Burgess & Co., 60 John Street, N. Y.

We are indebted to the publishers for copies of Mr. Taylor's new work, which we have not tested as yet, but after long using the Sacred Minstrel and the Golden Lyre, by the same author, we have no hesitation in recommending any compositions of V. C. T. We regard the two sacred works named, as among the best—unexcelled in their line; and any set of choir-music as incomplete without one of these books.

The present number of the Concordia is the first of a series, to be issued as circumstances dictate. It is mostly original, to fulfil a desire that it might partake largely of the peculiarity of the author. It is believed to be adapted to supply the want of Glee Music of not too elevated a character for a promiscuous class of singers. But although simple, it will not be found devoid of character.

THE NORTH BRITISH REVIEW, for Feb. 1854, is just issued from the press of Leonard Scott & Co. New York, who republish the four British Reviews and Blackwood's Magazine.

The contents of this number of the North British Review, are:—1, The Text of Shakspeare; 2, Exegetical Study at the English Universities: Conybeare and Howson on St. Paul; 3, National Music; 4, University Representation; 5, Herodotus; 6, Struggles and Tendencies of German Protestantism; 7, Arago: his Life and Discoveries; 8, Botanical Geography; 9, The War in the East, and its Political Contingencies.

☞ The New York Herald states that the free evening schools of that city, for the last three years, have done great and constantly increasing good, being better and better attended

The Herald then adds:

We regret to find that the number of female pupils bears so small a proportion to that of the males. Between the ages of 16 and 21, for instance, the proportion is only 658 females to 2756 males, or little better than one to four. The importance of attending to the mental cultivation of their female children, cannot be too strongly impressed upon the working classes. It is one of the most powerful safeguards that they can set up against the vice and demoralization by which they are surrounded. Napoleon once said to Madame Campan: "The old system of education is good for nothing. What do young women stand in need of, to be well brought up in France?" "Of mothers," answered that lady. "You are right," replied the Emperor. "Well, Madame, let the French be indebted to you for bringing up mothers to their children." We would do well to profit by the moral of that anecdote.

THE EAST INDIA SERVICE.—Numbers are returning to England after a life spent in India, some as merchants, others, and by far the largest class, as civil and military servants of the Hon. E. India Company. Last year I came out with a hopeful band of young officials, eager for the strife for rank and wealth, nowhere so high and exciting as in India.—Now I have for my companions the few survivors of many such joyous companies. Old men are here, and those prematurely old.—They wonder how England will appear to them after an absence of twenty or thirty years. They wish to see a railroad, and to ride in the cars. The new Houses of Parliament, and the British Museum will each have a visit. In August they will 'shoot,' and at some other season go to 'the Derby.' The season for the country over, they will hasten up to London, join the 'Oriental Club,' which provides dinners of Indian dishes, and get through the wet and sleety English winter as well as they can. A short round of years spent in this way, and the scene closes on the retired pensioners of the East India Company, whose boast is that her officers are the best paid of any in the world. True, so far as the rupees are concurred. But it is with some fearful drawbacks.

PAUPERISM.—In the county of Baltimore, Md., out of 1134 paupers received in one year, 1029 were brought by intemperance. In the county of Cumberland, Penn., of 50 paupers, 48 were made by intemperance. The Superintendent of the Albany (N. Y.) alms house believes that that establishment would be tenantless but for ardent spirits. The whole number of inmates of the alms house at South Boston, in 1833, was 1273; of whom 927 are known to have been brought there by intemperance, a majority of the others being attributed to the same cause. The expense of supporting the paupers in the alms house at Philadelphia for one year was estimated at $130,000, and the Superintendent testified that he believed NINE-TENTHS of it was attributed to the use of ardent spirits.

WEIGHT OF WOOD.—The weight of dry wood is nearly as follows:

Rock Maple,	3,420 lbs. per cord.
Soft Maple,	2,745
Black Birch,	2,900
White Birch,	2,369
Red Beech,	2,636
White Beech,	2,352
Hemlock,	2,000
Basswood,	1,700

Mr. Marshall W. Parker, son of Hon. S W. Parker, member of Congress from Indiana, accidentally shot himself near Connersville, in that State, while returning with his friends from a pigeon shooting excursion. He was instantly killed.

OBITUARY.

Died, in this city, on Monday evening, Joseph E. Robinson, Esq., aged 70. Mr. Robinson has been a Selectman of the town of Portsmouth, and held other town and county offices. He was formerly one of the Drivers on the Eastern Stage Company's line; and was well known to the travelling public as the keeper of the Hotels now the Merrimac House in Newburyport, and the Franklin House and City Hotel in this city. In the last named House, he tried the first experiment made in this place, of keeping a public house on the temperance plan.

He died suddenly; being at work with his team on Monday afternoon, near the Eastern R. R. Depot, he was seized with paralysis, which terminated his life in a few hours.

☞ Died, in this city, on Tuesday, Rufus Kittredge, M. D., aged 66. Dr. Kittredge was esteemed in his profession as a skillful, cautious physician, and has been a successful practitioner of medicine in Portsmouth for the last 36 years; retaining his practice to some extent, almost to the close of life.

FIRE.—The carpenter-shop of Samuel J. Bunker, near Breakfast Hill, was consumed by fire on Saturday at noon, with all the tools belonging to the men employed there. The fire caught from the stove, while the workmen were at dinner. The building was old and of little value—the loss being chiefly in tools, probably $200 or more.

☞ Mr. Aptommas's Concert, on Tuesday evening, at the Cameneum, was attended by a numerous and genteel audience, who were finely entertained by the superior performances on the harp, with the additional attractions of a finely played piano, and rich bass voice.

The Home of the Arts and Muses was occupied and crowded with those best able to appreciate good music, of which a bountiful and delicate feast was provided and enjoyed.

FREE MASONRY.—We have received a copy of a pamphlet report of the "Celebration of the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Initiation of George Washington into the order of Free Masonry, by Altamont, Bethel, and Charity Lodges, at Peterborough, N. H., Nov. 4, A. L. 5852; with the Address, by Rev. Justin Spaulding," now of this city. It was delivered more than a year ago, but has just been issued from the press of the Peterborough Transcript. The Address of Rev. Br. Spaulding is replete with interest to members of the Order, and valuable to the general reader. It commences with a sketch of Washington's course in the fraternity, and discourses of the fundamental principles and history of the Order, in a familiar and pleasing manner, endeavoring to prove that there is much good and no evil in the institution.

REV. MR. TUCK.—The New York Herald has given us a new clergyman down east, in the person of "Rev. Amos Tuck;" a gentleman who happens, as all our readers know, to be a lawyer and not a clergyman.

A DOG STORY.—Two or three weeks ago a young man called at our office to inquire about a favorite spaniel dog that was missing. Yesterday morning the poor little animal was discovered penned up in a narrow crevice between Mr. Pinkham's apothecary store on Essex street, and a high fence adjoining, where he had been confined for three weeks, without a particle of food. He was alive, but perfectly emaciated, being almost literally nothing but skin and bones. His cries had been heard frequently during his involuntary imprisonment, but were supposed to proceed from a dog belonging to one of the neighbors. The friends of the canine race will be glad to hear that there is a fair prospect of his restoration to the honors and emoluments of healthy and happy doghood. Some of our older readers may remember that in 1823 a cow was rescued from a similar predicament near the building then occupied by the Merchant's Bank, after an imprisonment of six weeks.—She died soon after being extricated.—Salem Gazette.

What some men call plain speech, other men call impudence. What some men call business shrewdness, others call dishonesty.

If some men's courage was equal to their rascality this would be a hard world to live in.

☞ The Tremont House, in Boston, got on fire on Tuesday just before dinner time, and not only spoilt the dinner, but damaged the furniture, &c. $10,000 worth, besides burning off most of the roof.

☞ The storm of Monday night, in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, seems to have piled up great quantities of snow. At Philadelphia, the Veranda House, on Broad street, was burnt. Very few engines were able to reach it on account of the snow. The fire was the work of an incendiary.

STEAMSHIP AFRICA.—New York, Feb. 21.—The steamship Africa was got off this morning, and is now at her dock.

The schrs. A. Sawyer, from Portsmouth, and Moro, bound south, put into quarantine last night, during the storm.

GARDNER vs. GARDNER.—This was a libel for a divorce from bed and board, by Phebe L. Gardner against her husband, Dr. Johnson Gardner, heard before the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts (Mr. Justice Merrick presiding), at New Bedford, during the last week, and resulted in a decree in favor of the libellant. The complaint was ill-treatment.

KEEP TO THE RIGHT.—Judge Sprague, in the U. S. District Court at Boston, has decided, in the case of steamboat Admiral vs. steamer Eastern State, that steamboats meeting in a harbor, must both port their helms, that is, both turn out to the right.

CORN AND RYE MEAL.—One of our principal millers informs us that the city demand for rye and corn meal has become very large since the late rise in flour. At the rate of ten dollars a barrel, very many families in limited circumstances consider wheat flour too expensive. Excellent bread can be made of corn and rye, half and half—or of three-fourths corn and one-fourth wheat.—Rochester (N. Y.) American.

This seems to be a great discovery, a new thing, in Western New York. But it is nothing more than less than the old fashioned brown bread, on which nearly all the Yankees used to live and grow fat about fifty years ago; or even some years since that time, in many places.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.

SENATE.—After the transaction of unimportant business, the Senate took up the Nebraska bill, when Mr. Petit proceeded to discuss the subject.

The House went into Committee on the Homestead bill, when Mr. Noble of Indiana, spoke on the tonnage duties question, contending that the power given to the States to levy indiscriminate duties on foreign industry and domestic commerce, was unconstitutional, inexpedient and disastrous.

Mr. Ewing spoke on the Missouri Compromise, contending that if it had failed to accomplish its purpose, it was because the North obstinately opposed it, and quoting from the late Hon. Henry Clay's speeches, in support of his assertion. The line of 36 40, he maintained, never was a compromise, and was not constitutional. It was not a compromise, because there was no concession in it to the South. In conclusion, he advocated the settlement of the slavery question as declared in the Compromise of 1850, and as proposed in the Nebraska bill.

GUN SPECULATION.—It is stated that Mr. Geo. Law, of New York, is rapidly disposing of the two hundred thousand guns he some years since purchased of the government, and is getting for them quadruple the sum he paid for them. The demand from abroad for American manufactured muskets and other fire-arms is represented to be far greater than the supply.

ARMY FARMS.—The experiment of farming by the U. S. troops at the army posts on the frontiers has been abandoned by the war department. A general order from the war department directing the discontinuance of farm culture, says: "It has been ascertained, from fair experiments, that the cultivation of farms by the troops at remote stations, as a means to promote economy, has failed to answer the expectations which induced its establishment, the expenses necessarily incurred having far exceeded the profits derived from the sale of products." This experiment was instituted in 1851.

SUPPOSED SUICIDE.—We learn that Mrs. Davis, wife of Mr. Allen Davis, in South Westport, some time during Tuesday night, last week, left her house with a child about 14 months old. On discovering her absence, her friends made a search and found a writing directing her husband to follow her to the river. At the banks of the river her bonnet and cloak, and the child's bonnet and shawl, and also a hatchet, were found. The river has been searched and dragged with a seine several days, but no discovery of the bodies have been made.—N. Bedford Standard.

THE McDONOUGH WILL CASE.—It is stated that the decision in the McDonough will case, recently argued in the Supreme Court of the United States, will be pronounced by Judge Campbell in a few days, and that it will sustain the validity of the will. The property left by the testator is said to be worth from seven to ten millions of dollars—one half of the income from which is to be applied to the education of indigent children in Baltimore.

SUFFOLK CO. FLOUR MILLS.—A meeting of the Stockholders of this Company was held in Boston on Saturday the 13th inst. The business of the Company has been highly prosperous the past year. The present capital is $150,000, but more working capital is needed, and it is proposed to increase it to $250,000. At their meeting it was unanimously voted to cause to be distributed for the benefit of the poor of the city, flour to the value of $1000.

GORHAM COLLEGE at Liverpool, Nova Scotia, was destroyed by fire on the 9th inst. It broke out in the third story while the Professors and students were seated at dinner.—A fine new organ, nearly all the college apparatus, provisions, &c., were consumed by the flames. The loss is about $15,000, half of which was insured. A meeting of citizens was immediately held, at which it was voted to raise $20,000, for the erection of a new building, and a thousand dollars were subscribed on the spot.

PASSPORTS.—Of the strictness of the passport system, and the danger from new-comers which haunts the Neapolitan official mind, a good story has just been told. A lady, expecting her confinement, was at Capri with her husband. Wishing that the child might be born on the main land, they sailed across the bay; but the youthful Neapolitan having unexpectedly made his appearance during the three hours' voyage, they were not allowed to land, because the infant was not in the passport!

Young women sometimes commit suicide from disappointment in love; young men not so often. An attempt, however, was made in this city, by Henry Stevenson, a mechanic, last week. He went to the St. Nicholas Hotel, took a room, and fired a pistol at himself, but succeeded only in breaking his lower jaw, and was carried to the hospital.—N. Y. Independent.

Gen. Houston says that of the three hundred members of Congress in attendance when the Missouri Compromise was passed, thirty-three years ago, only three remain—Benton, Everett, and himself.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 20.—The steamer James Niles, with a heavy cargo, sunk at the big eddy this morning. It is feared that many lives are lost. A barge in tow also sunk.

The remains of the late Custom House at Portland, were sold at Auction on Monday. The stones, bricks and iron were purchased by John M. Wood for $2950. The Portland Company purchased the copper at 25 cents per pound. The old wrought iron went at $40 per ton, and the old cast iron at $20 per ton. Terms cash.

MATRIMONIAL.—The New York Sun's Washington correspondent states that the Hon. S. A. Douglas, Senator from Illinois, is about to marry Miss Crean, sister of the wife of Mr. Bennett of the N. Y. Herald.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.
MR. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common Pasture Weeds a remedy that cures Every Kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple. He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases, (both thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston.
Two bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.
One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.
Two to three bottles will clear the system of biles.
Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the mouth and stomach.
Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Erysipelas.
One to two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.
Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.
Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.
One bottle will cure scaly eruption of the skin.
Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.
Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.
Three to four bottles are warranted to cure the salt rheum.
Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.
A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.
Nothing looks so improbable to those who have in vain tried all the wonderful medicines of the day, as that a common weed growing on the pastures and along old stone walls, should cure every humor in the system, yet it is now a fixed fact. If you have a humor it has to start. There is no if's and ands, hums and ha's about its suiting some cases, but not yours. I peddled over a thousand bottles of it in the vicinity of Boston. I know the effects of it in every case. It has already done some of the greatest cures ever done in Massachusetts. I gave it to children a year old; to old people of sixty. I have seen poor, puny, wormy looking children, whose flesh was soft and flabby, restored to a perfect state of health by one bottle.
To those who are subject to sick headache, one bottle will always cure it. It gives great relief in catarrh and dizziness. Some have taken it who have been costive for years, and have been regulated by it. Where the body is sound it works quite easy, but where there is any derangement of the functions of nature, it will cause very singular feelings; but you must not be alarmed; they will disappear in from four days to a week. There is never a bad result from it; on the contrary, when that feeling is gone, you will find yourself like a new person. I heard some of the most extravagant encomiums of it that ever man listened to.
Nothing in the annals of Patent Medicines has ever been received by the public with so much favor as this simple preparation. It is now composed of nine different herbs. In May, 1852, when I commenced making a business of it, I sold about two bottles per day. In June, 1853. I sold 4320 bottles. In October, 1853, I sold 6120 bottles. I hope you will call that doing well; I do.
In my own practice, I confine it strictly to humors; but there are some who are so enthusiastic in its favor they think what cured them will cure any thing and any body; they accordingly recommend it for every variety of disease. In this way a great many virtues of it have been found that I never would suspect.
Cases of Dyspepsia, of many years standing, that withstood every known remedy, have been permanently cured.
I know one man to gain 17 lbs. by taking three bottles; another 11 lbs.; another 10 lbs.; and another 7 lbs —the venerable master Robinson of Boston.
In diseases of the Liver it is a specific. I know several with yellow skin and yellow eyes, the body emaciated and the mind melancholy, get fat and cheerful by a few bottles.
I know several cases of Dropsy, and one particularly bad. A lady, aged 79, was unable to leave her house for the last twelve years, was so much relieved (she was reduced in circumference thirty-four inches,) as to visit her friends in several neighboring towns
Another had the Dropsy in her left leg, and was unable to walk for ten years, sometimes swelling to an enormous size; at last bursted, making a bad wound which could not be healed; by taking three bottles and using two boxes of ointment, she is now quite well. Why it should make some fat and others lean, I cannot tell, but so it is.
I know of several cases of Kidney complaints cured by it. It the columns of a newspaper was a proper medium, I could tell of cases of this most distressing of all diseases that would make your hairs bleed, that were permanently cured by it.
It has been lately found to be a sure cure for Panama fever. In one case the first spoonful put off the fit two hours. One bottle cured him. Another came home to die, and was induced by his brother to try it. Three bottles cured him.
It likewise gives great relief in the Asthma. A lady in Lawrence was unable to lie in bed for a number of years; she can now lie without the least inconvenience.
A lady in Weymouth lost the use of her left side by the Erysipelas. On the second bottle, she broke out in one mass of humor from head to foot. In a few days she was well.
It has lately been found to be equally good for humor outside as inside, (taking it inwardly in the meantime,) for Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Pimples on the Face, or any eruption of the skin whatever; only where the flesh is very sore you must dilute it with water.
When made weak enough it is the best eye-wash for weak and watery eyes that I ever saw.
Others use it to clease the dandruff out of the hair and strengthen its roots, which it certainly does, and to crown all, it made the hair grow on bald heads, which, if I had not seen with my own eyes, I would not believe from you or anybody else.
As regards dieting, I never came across the first person that ever got any benefit from it. On the contrary numbers have come to death's door by it, as it gives the humors the upper hand. My medicine requires the most nourishing food you can get. It will soon give you an appetite.
Do not for a moment suppose that I warrant a cure of all those diseases, in every case. I merely tell you what it has done, hoping it will do the same for you. I do not warrant a cure in any disease but humors, where it never fails. For further particulars see the circular around each bottle.
No change of diet even necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it.
I have an herb, simmered in olive oil, scatters Scrofulous swellings of the neck and under the ears. Price fifty cents per box.
DIRECTIONS FOR USE. Adults, one table spoonful per day; children of eight years, dessert spoonful; from five to eight, tea spoonfuls. As no direction can be applicable to all constitutions, take enough to operate on the bowels twice a day.

"A quiet tone is observable in the Russian organs!" said Mrs. Partington, as the line in the telegraph news arrested her eye. She mused upon it a moment: "Church organs, I dare say; and we heard tother day that the Emperor of Russia, dear, pious man—was organizing his soldiers to go and give the gospel to the Turks at the point of the bayonet. Quiet toned organs! Well, I wonder if they wont get one for our church that ll play nothing but serious tunes, for the one we've got'll play Yankee Doodle jest as well as Old Hundred, and for my part I don't put no faith into it." She looked at the vane on the top of a distant spire that turned in the wind, and mixed its variableness with church organs that played many tunes, and men of the church as variable as the organs, while Ike was teasing the kitten with a bran new cap border that the old lady was just doing up.—Boston Post.

As Mrs. Partington and Ike were walking along Washington street, somewhere in the mild soldier season when men parade as the law and their own patriotic spirits direct, a man passed by arrayed in all the pride of gold lace and fancy fixings—stepping off as if the whole dignity of the M. V. M. was centered upon him. Ike was a warm admirer of the military, and already at times aspired to wear certain remainders of the ancient corporal's uniform, that time had spared. "See there," said he, catching the old lady by the shawl, and half pulling it from her back in his earnestness, "does that sodger look anything like Uncle Paul?" Such a look as she gave him! "No, dear," replied she sublimely, "he is no more like your uncle than Bogle's hyperion fluid is like a satire." Ike in his admiration for the fine clothes didn't feel so sure about it, but he didn't care so much about it that he lost his appetite for the peanuts with which he was regaling himself as he moved along.—Boston Post.

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $40 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Linimeut, but considers it unnecessary, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who resided many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity, where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

DISSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attentions of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumptions, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETISER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual Tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

LABOR IN ENGLAND.

The condition of business in England does not appear favorable for the future, and altho' there is thus far no complaint in the journals, it is difficult to believe that things can go on smoothly through the year. With the exception of the Iron manufacture and the shipping interest, the business of England has been much depressed. The profits on these two important branches of employment, have, however been so great that they have undoubtedly done much to sustain the prosperity of the country, in the depression of other interests. The iron trade gives employment to an immense amount of capital and labor, and during the past year, while the masters have in many cases been making a hundred per cent. profit, the wages of the laborers have been larger than ever before since the manufacture was commenced. England makes nearly two-thirds of the iron used in the world. In 1850, she produced 2,380,000 tons, while the United States produced only 400,000 tons, Faance, 348,000, Russia, 189,000, Austria, 160,800, Sweden, 133,500, and Prussia, 112,000. Last year the profit has been so great that the production has no doubt been much larger in Britain, where the works are on so large a scale, as to admit of rapid increase of production. Such has been the rise in Iron, that in the United States there are iron works which have paid 100 per cent. profit last year, and the English works of a similar nature must have made much larger profits than the American manufacturer.

The profit on the large capital invested in British shipping has also been very large; but the great cotton and woolen interests have suffered much and been carried on at a loss.

The high price of food must act injuriously upon England, because agriculture is but a secondary interest there, manufactures being by far the greatest, and cheap food a very important consideration to this interest. Added to this there is at the present time an actual scarcity of labor, caused by the extensive emigration of several years past. In some departments of labor it is stated that this is felt in another form than in the increased cost of labor.

The colliers are a very numerous class in England, as well as some others, and the New York Journal of Commerce, says are of such thriftless and improvident habits, that they refuse to work any longer than is sufficient to enable them to earn, at the advanced rates, the bare subsistence which required a whole week's labor when wages were considerably lower; and for two or three days in the week they remain idle. The consequence is that not only is the supply of coal short, because of the diminished number of hands employed in getting it out; but the cost of what is raised is enchanced in the proportion of nearly one third, by the advance in the wages of the colliers. It is for this reason that the Gas Company in Liverpool are obliged to ask the indulgence of their customers to be economical as possible, in the use of gas; and this it is that has operated chiefly to produce so considerable an advance in the price of iron, in the making of which coal performs so prominent a part.

A letter received by the last steamer from Liverpool, says it was in contemplation by the Gas Company, to apply to the authorities for permission to extinguish the public lamps.—Newburyport Herald.

THE PULPIT WINDOW AND CUSHION REPAIRED.—Rev. Zabdiel Adams at one time exchanged with a neighboring minister—a mild, inoffensive man—who, knowing the peculiar bluntness of his character, said to him: "You will find some panes of glass broken in the pulpit window, and possibly you may suffer from the cold. The cushion, too, is in a bad condition; but I beg you not to say anything to my people on the subject: they are poor," &c. "Oh, no! oh, no!" says Mr. Adams. But ere he left home he filled a large bag with rags and took it with him. When he had been in the pulpit a short time, feeling somewhat incommoded by the too free circulation of the air, he deliberately took from the bag a handful of the rags, and stuffed them in the windows. Towards the close of his discourse, which was more or less upon the duties of a people towards their clergymen, he became very animated and purposely brought down both fists upon the pulpit cushion with a tremendous force. The feathers flew in all directions, and the cushion was pretty much used up. He instantly checked the current of his thought, and simply exclaiming, "Why, how these feathers fly!"—proceeded. He had fulfilled his promise of not addressing the society upon the subject, but had taught them a lesson not to be misunderstood. On the next Sabbath the window and cushion were found in excellent repair.—Cyclopedia of Moral and Religious Anecdotes.

A REAL YANKEE.—One of the last stories of Yankee inquisitiveness makes the victim give his tormentor a direct cut in telling him he wished to be asked no further questions. The inquisitor fell back a moment to take breath, and change his tactics. The half suppressed smile on the faces of the other passengers soon roused him to further exertions; and summoning up more resolution, he began again: "Stranger, perhaps you are not aware how almighty hard it is for a Yankee to control his curiosity. You'll excuse me, but I really would like to know your name and the business you follow. I expect you ain't ashamed of either of 'em, so now won't you just obleedge me?" This appeal brought out the traveller, who rising up to the extremest height allowed by the coach, and throwing back his shoulders replied, "My name is General Andrew Washington. I reside in the State of Mississippi. I am a gentleman of leisure, and I am glad to be able to say, of extensive means. I have heard much of New York, and I am on my way to see it; and if I like it as well as I am led to expect, I intend to—buy it." Then was heard a shout of stentorian laughter throughout the stage coach; and this was the last of that conversation.

ONTRAGE BY A BOY.

The Boston Chronicle of Wednesday, reports a case of outrageous, indeed murderous assault, by one boy on another, which seems to as worthy of republication, and which suggests grave reflections.

The Chronicle says, that on Tuesday, great excitement was created in Dorchester by the intelligence of a startling outrage which was perpetrated Monday afternoon in the woods near Savin Hill in that town. The details of the case develope the most extraordinary degree of depravity ever evinced by a boy; they are as follows: Monday afternoon a boy about fifteen years old, named Frederick Pierce, son of John Pierce, who resides in Dorchester, called at the residence of the family of the late Daniel F. Snow, merchant, Pinckney street, and asked the servant if Mrs. Snow's son, Daniel F. Snow was at home, and on being informed that he had gone to Cambridge with a son of Mrs. Greenwood on a skating match, said he was sorry, as he was a schoolmate with Snow, and was going to propose a ride. He left the house, went to Cambridge in a buggy and found Snow, who is a bright, intelligent lad about twelve years and a half old. He appeared remarkably friendly, and invited Snow to take a ride with him; the invitation was accepted, and the boys drove to the city, chatting very pleasantly on the way. In Boston they met a boy named Phillip Wagner, whom Pierce knew, and who was to participate in the assault.—The trio went to Vinton's saloon on Washington street, where Pierce furnished refreshments for the party, and they soon after proceeded to Dorchester. In passing along a road on which there was but little travel, the Pierce boy, with the aid of Wagner, who is about 14 years old, tied Snow hand and foot, stuffed a handkerchief into his mouth to prevent him from making any outcry, and laid him down in the bottom of the carriage, enveloped in a blanket. As they passed Pierce's house in Dorchester, the young villain went in and obtained a cat-o-nine-tail, straps and a dirk knife, and with these articles again entered the carriage and drove toward Savin Hill, where they stopped, and Pierce and Wagner conveyed Snow into a thicket a short distance from the road. Having reached a spot, as they supposed, where their operations would not be seen, Pierce reminded Snow of an old grudge, arising from a difference at Baker's school a year ago, that he had not forgotten the circumstances, that he was going to whip him till the blood ran upon the ground, and that if he uttered an outcry he would whip him worse. He then exhibited a dirk knife and proceeded to lash the boy to a tree which he did with a leather strap, being aided by Wagner; they then stripped him entirely naked; paralyzed with fear and chilled by the intense cold the boy was quite powerless and could offer no resistance. Pierce exhibited his cat-o-nine tails and was about to execute his threat when the boy shrieked, and a man who was gathering brush wood ran to his assistance, and the young villains fled and secreted themselves. Pierce was arrested that night, although not without considerable resistance; the Wagner boy was arrested Tuesday morning; he turned State's evidence, and related all the circumstances, fully corroborating the statement of young Snow.

The boy Pierce has long been a terror to the neighborhood, and has several times committed similar assaults. A few months ago he was examined and required to give bonds in $200, on charge of committing a most flagrant outrage. He was captain of a boys' military company, when a lad nine years old, named Stetson, failed to perform his duty to Pierce's satisfaction, and by a system of "discipline," as Pierce termed it, he stripped the boy, tied him, put a lighted lamp under him, and actually burned his flesh in a most shocking manner. He has now forfeited his bonds, which his father had readily assumed.

Pierce was examined before Justice Draper in Dorchester. A large number of persons were present, and great indignation was felt. J. H. Bradley, Esq., appeared for the government, and S. P. Loud, Esq., for the defence. The testimony of young Snow was substantially the same as above given.

Miss Daniels testified that the Pierce boy came to the door of Mrs. Snow, No. 56 Pinckney street, and inquired for Snow, and then went off in search of him.

William P. Robinson called—I was at Savin Hill loading brush yesterday afternoon; saw the carriage standing by the road side some time; after loading, saw the Snow boy beckoning me; I went to him and found him tied with nothing but a flannel shirt on; as I approached saw Pierce and Wagner run, and I tried to head them off; saw Fred Pierce hide behind a rock; found the cat o' nine tails and strap; seized Pierce and he told me to let go of him he would walk himself; he did not deny or own the charge I made against him.

John Holland was called, and his testimony corroborated that of Robinson.

Philip Wagner called—I was riding up Washington street on a coach when I saw the boys coming in a carriage; I got off and walked along side the carriage in which they were; the Pierce boy went and put the horse in a stable in Franklin street, and took us up to Winice's to get something to eat, after dinner got the horse and drove to Dorchester, going round by Savin Hill; on the way Pierce showed us the cave," on the way we tied Snow and covered him up so he could not see, and so no one could see him; we were on the turnpike when we tied him; tied him with two straps; (the straps and cat o' nine tails were produced;) I went to Pierce's house according to Pierce's order to get the cat o' nine tails; his mother asked me what I wanted of it, and refused to let me have it; he wanted me to feel of the knots in the lashes to see if they were hard enough; Pierce told Snow he was going to whip him and Snow begged hard, but Pierce said it was no use begging and if he did not stop he would whip him the more; we tied him up on reaching the woods; Pierce gave Snow's watch to me telling me not to break it while he was whipping him; I soon ran away when I saw a man at work; coming out to Dorchester Pierce said he had a place in his house where there was a hole just large enough for Snow to crawl in at. I was afraid of getting whipped if I did not help Pierce; he once whipped me—tied me to a bed post in his own house, and beat me with his fists, and that was the reason of my fear of him; I saw Pierce have a dirk; Snow had a common jackknife; Pierce told me if Snow didn't keep still he'd show him the dirk, I took off his shoes; Pierce told me to take off all his clothes; I have made friends with Pierce within two weeks.

Mrs. Snow and Mr. Dana were called, and testified.

Mr. Loud said he did not wish to call witnesses nor to controvert the facts he was compelled to believe. There appeared to be an infatuation about the boy, and the case to him was quite interesting. He had no doubt of his guilt. It is true it was his second offence, but he hoped His Honor would impose a fine, and give the parents another opportunity to redeem the character of the boy. He said the parents were not indifferent to the case.

Mr. Bradley said he did not wise to appear malicious, but it was not the first offence, and society must be protected, even at the expense of the feelings of the boy's parents. He said the boy had nursed his hatred for a year, and had proceeded with coolness to a systematic cruelty, perhaps murder. He reviewed the case in a very able manner, and asked that the boy should be held for trial in $1000 or $2000, or should be sent to the House of Correction or State Reform School.

The Court required the prisoner to find sureties in the sum of $500 for trial in the Court of Common Pleas. The boy was immediately bailed. Before leaving the Court room he approached Mrs. Snow, saying that he "didn't know but he owed her an apology for abusing her son;" Mrs. S. said no apology was desired, and the young rascal said he wished "to clear up his character."

He is a good looking, intelligent boy, but Napoleon like, determined to exercise the strictest discipline in his neighborhood, at any rate so long as his father will bail him, and this may be for some time if he goes on as he has begun, Mrs. Pierce being quite wealthy

We have some sympathy with the rich parents; but not much. A boy of such energy and obstinacy ought to be set at work on some laborious business, under a good strict master. But the judge, who let him off on $500 bail, deserves severe censure. If his fine is to be paid in this way, it ought to have been at least $1000. But the proper way would be, rather, to take no bail, but imprison him in some reform school or penitentiary of some sort. Such atrocious crime, such hatred smothered for a year, places the boy of fifteen among the old hoary headed felons, in the very front rank and highest seat of criminals.

The New York Courier and Enquirer states, that the twenty-six Northern votes required in the House to carry the Nebraska bill, are expected from the following States:—New Hampshire 2, Pennsylvania 10, Indiana 4, Michigan 1, New York 4, Ohio 3, Illinois 4, Iowa 2, California 2.

Every similar measure, previously passed, has been put through Congress precisely in this way. Just enough northern men have been induced by some means, generally by the lead of some northern great man who wished to be president, to throw their votes in that scale supposed to be the most profitable or popular. The prospect at the present time is, that this process is to be repeated.

We expect to see it;—and if we live on a few years, we expect to see some great men who now oppose it, claiming it as their thunder; and also to see some others, who now advocate its passage, denying that it ever existed, or that they ever approved it.

☞ We have just received a copy of Miriam Alroy, a Romance of the Twelfth Century, by B. D'Israeli;—being one vol. of the complete and unabridged edition of D'Israeli's Works. Published by Peterson, Philadelphia. Sold by Federhen & Co., Boston, and by J. P. Morse, Portsmouth.

Also the New York Monthly, for February, already noticed.

☞ See advertisement of "Agents Wanted" for the sale of an exceedingly simple and useful yankee invention, called a traveller's lock. From examination of the article we are decidedlw of the opinion that it is just the thing that has long been wanted by the travelling public to secure themselves against rogues.

BEAL'S BAR, CALIFORNIA.—The Manchester Mirror says: We have before us a letter from a reliable man living at Beal's Bar, Placer County, California, dated the 4th of last month, written to a friend in this city. As that place has heretofore had the reputation of "rich diggings," we give an extract or two touching that point:

"I worked in the Fancy Dam Company, last season, and did very well. The Pinkham Company divided $500 on a share—their expenses were $700 on a share! South Fork, No. 1, after paying expenses, distributed $6 on a share. The Old Adventurers' Company came out $1500 behind. The Bay State Company paid out $1150 on a share more than received. So you can see they are all making money—over the left!" These statements are worthy of being read by those who have the gold fever."

MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.—This association has been favorably received by our citizens, and by friends in Boston.—We have before announced the receipt by them of large donations of books, and one liberal gift of money from one of our most wealthy citizens. Now we have the pleasure to announce two other munificent gifts.

Rev. Daniel Austin, a few days since, in a polite note to the Secretary of the association, enclosed the sum of $20.

On Wednesday, his Honor the Mayor, handed to the President the sum of $25, which he hoped would be received as a slight token of his regard for their welfare.

With such proofs as these, of the interest felt for the success and advancement of our young men, we doubt not they will strive to the utmost to improve themselves, and demonstrate to their friends that their kindness has not been in vain.

A QUESTION OR TWO.

In the struggle now going on in Congress, there seems to be one important point overlooked by the speech-makers, viz.: the balance of political power in the Senate of the United States. There are now 31 States in the Union, of which 16 are free and 15 are slave States—represented by 62 Senators; of course the free States now have two majority, an accidental consequence of the admission of California, whose admission as a free State the South opposed. The South have a great advantage over the North under the joint resolution admitting Texas, which authorizes the forming more slave States out of the Texan domain, but they now insist upon a further privilege of competing for more slave States in the Nebraska territory, and have the advantage as this territory is bounded by Missouri on the east, with a population of about seven hundred thousand, including slaves, and is in proximity to the large slave States, which have a strong motive to pour in a population favorable to their institution, in order to raise the price and open a new market for slaves. Should they succeed in carrying the main object in view, viz., the political ascendency in the Senate, by having a majority of slave States, the question is, could that political control ever be changed? By what means, except revolutionary means? And when? Is it the characteristic of the southern aristocracy to surrender, voluntarily, political power? Are they justly entitled to the control of the Senate? Upon what principle? Should not the majority of this nation, upon Democratic principles, rule? The free States now have a population of about fourteen millions—the slave States by the last census about six millions one hundred thousand. Suppose there should be a majority of slave States, forming a majority in the Senate, it would be clear enough that no new free State could be admitted into the Union, unless more slave States should be admitted in order that the South should still hold the balance of power in the Senate—no law could be passed against the will and pleasure of the Senate—no appointments to office could be made, unless confirmed by the majority of the Senate.

In respect to the House of Representatives, the free States have nothing to fear, except through some corruption, although the slave States now have 23 Representatives representing negro-property, commonly called the three fifths representation; because the free States increase more rapidly in population than the slave States—the former gained over the latter in the last ten years about two millions. It may, perhaps, be well enough for the free States to look to their rights as well as their interests before it be too late, without regard to the party questions which have hitherto divided the northern people. CONGRESS.

TUESDAY, Feb. 21.

SENATE.—Mr. Gwin reported a bill authorising the construction of steam frigates.

Mr. Foote made a speech in favor of the bill granting land to the states for the benefit of the indigent insane.

Mr. Douglas was appointed a regent of the Smithsonian Institute.

The Nebraska bill was then taken up, and Mr. Sumner of Massachusetts said—he approached this discussion with awe. He denied that the friends of freedom were open to any charge of aggression; they were standing on the defensive. There was no proposition before the Senate to abolish slavery, but on the contrary a proposition to abolish freedom. This proposition he arraigned on two distinct grounds. First: In the name of public faith, as an infraction of the solemn obligations assumed by the South on the admission of Missouri into the Union, as a slave state. Secondly: In the name of freedom, as an unjustifiable departure from the anti-slavery policy of our fathers.

Mr. Sumner also combated the argument that inasmuch as the territories were the common property of the whole Union, free persons could not be prevented from moving into them with their slaves, without an infringement of their rights as citizens of the United States. This argument, he said, assumed that property in slaves is recognized by the Constitution of the United States, than which nothing could be more false. He denied the suggestion of the Senator from Kentucky, Mr. Dixon, that the Nebraska measure proceeds from the North. It is one of the melancholy tokens of the power of slavery, said he, that it loses and destroys the character of Northern men, even at a distance, like the Black Mountain in the Arabian story, under whose irresistible attraction the iron bolts which held together the strong timbers of a stately ship were drawn out till the whole fell apart and became a disjointed wreck. Those principles which constitute the individuality of the Northern character—which render it so staunch, strong and seaworthy—which bind it together as with iron bands—are drawn out one by one, like the bolts of the ill fated vessel, and from the miserable loosened fragments is formed the human anomaly, "a Northern man with Southern principles." Such men cannot speak for the North.

In conclusion, Mr. Sumner called, in impassioned language, on all who were at heart opposed to slavery to unite in an effort to carry the principle of freedom into the national government, wherever its jurisdiction is acknowledged and its power can be felt; thus, without any interference with the states, which are beyond its jurisdiction, would they help to erase the blot of slavery from our national brow, tranquility would be established throughout the country, and the slavery question at last be settled.

Mr. Sumner closed his address at half past four.

The part of his speech descriptive of the Northern man with Southern principles elicited a strong applause in the galleries. Adjourned to Thursday.

HOUSE.—The House went into Committee on the Homestead bill.

Hon. James Allen of Illinois spoke in favor of the Nebraska bill.

At the conclusion of Mr. Allen's speech, Mr. Bent of Georgia and Mr. Smith of Virginia spoke in opposition to the Homestead Bill.

Adjourned to Thursday.

The Newburyport Herald gives the following items of business from the Court of Common Pleas now sitting in Salem.

John B. Stevens, for running toll over the Lawrence Bridge, was fined $5, and sent to jail for ten days.

In the liquor cases, Samuel D. Patten was convicted on one count, Thomas Entwistle, George Lee and John R. Mitchell, of two each, and John Very of six, all of Salem.—Joseph B. Morris, (colored man) of Salem, was convicted on five counts. This was the case where Robert Morris, Jr., (colored) of the Suffolk bar, appeared, of whom the Salem Register says, "He managed his case with marked ability. His examination of witnesses was most adroit and skilful, while his plea, in gentlemanly bearing, manly eloquence, good humored sarcasm, and logical and rhetorical argument, was a model that might well be observed by even more experienced barristers.

John Barry and Bridget Barry of Amesbury were defaulted, each in one count, fined $10, and ordered to give bonds in $1000 not to violate the law for one year. Several parties pleaded guilty, paid the fines, and gave the bonds.

The action of the Supreme Court in Bristol county, affirming the constitutionality of the law, and overruling exceptions, will have an important bearing upon the exceptions taken in this county. There was probably never before a term of the court, when so decided an impression was made on the liquor traffic. The fines, the destruction of the liquor, or even the bonds, would be light matters, but the Jail has a melancholy look, and the House of Correction, away from their families and homes, is not at all agreeable.

DEAD.—Thomas Guiner, the young man injured at the Irish scrimmage in Portland on Sunday week, having painfully lingered alive until half past 4 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, expired in great distress.

☞ The remonstrance against the Nebraska Bill has been signed by one hundred and fifty of the clergymen of all denominations in Worcester county, Mass.

Gilbert's Polypodium.— The following note from Rev. Mr. Bryant, pastor of the Pleasant street Church in this city, is one of the many gratifying evidences received by the inventor and proprietor of this invaluable medicine, in favor of its efficacy:

MR. GILBERT, Sir:—For several years I have been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis. During this time, I have suffered much from cough, weakness of the vocal organs and debility. For some three months I have been making use of the extract of Polypodium prepared by yourself. I have found the disease gradually yielding to this remedy. My health has gradually improved, and my system seems to be gaining its former healthy tone. I feel that I can conscientiously, earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted in a similar manner. Yours truly, CHARLES BRYANT.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

MR. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common Pasture Weeds a remedy that cures Every Kind of Humor, from the worst scrofula down to a common Pimple. He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases, (both thunder humor.) He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston.

Two bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two to three bottles will clear the system of biles.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the mouth and stomach.

Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Erysipelas.

One to two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.

One bottle will cure scaly eruption of the skin.

Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.

Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three to four bottles are warranted to cure the salt rheum.

Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.

Nothing looks so improbable to those who have in vain tried all the wonderful medicines of the day, as that a common weed growing on the pastures and along old stone walls, should cure every humor in the system, yet it is now a fixed fact. If you have a humor it has to start. There is no if's and ands, hums and ha's about its suiting some cases, but not yours. I peddled over a thousand bottles of it in the vicinity of Boston. I know the effects of it in every case. I have already done some of the greatest cures ever done in Massachusetts. I gave it to children a year old; to old people of sixty. I have seen poor, puny, wormy looking children, whose flesh was soft and flabby, restored to a perfect state of health by one bottle.

To those who are subject to sick headache, one bottle will always cure it. It gives great relief in catarrh and dizziness. Some have taken it who have been costive for years, and have been regulated by it. Where the body is sound it works quite easy, but where there is any derangement of the functions of nature, it will cause very singular feelings; but you must not be alarmed; they will disappear in from four days to a week. There is never a bad result from it; on the contrary, when that feeling is gone, you will find yourself like a new person. I heard some of the most extravagant encomiums of it that ever man listened to.

Nothing in the annals of Patent Medicines has ever been received by the public with so much favor as this simple preparation. It is now composed of nine different herbs. In May, 1852, when I commenced making a business of it, I sold about two bottles per day. In June, 1853, I sold 4320 bottles. In October, 1853, I sold 6120 bottles. I hope you will call that doing well; I do.

In my own practice, I confine it strictly to humors; but there are some who are so enthusiastic in its favor they think what cured them will cure any thing and any body; they accordingly recommend it for every variety of disease. In this way a great many virtues of it have been found that I never would suspect.

Cases of Dyspepsia, of many years standing, that withstood every known remedy, have been permanently cured.

I know one man to gain 17 lbs. by taking three bottles; another 11 lbs.; another 10 lbs.; and another 7 lbs—the venerable master Robinson of Boston.

In diseases of the Liver it is a specific. I know several with yellow skin and yellow eyes, the body emaciated and the mind melancholy, get fat and cheerful by a few bottles.

I know several cases of Dropsy, and one particularly bad. A lady, aged 79, was unable to leave her house for the last twelve years, was so much relieved (she was reduced in circumference thirty-four inches,) as to visit her friends in several neighboring towns.

Another had the Dropsy in her left leg, and was unable to walk for ten years, sometimes swelling to an enormous size; at last bursted, making a bad wound which could not be healed; by taking three bottles and using two boxes of ointment, she is now quite well. Why it should make some fat and some lean, I know not to tell, but so it is.

I know of several cases of Kidney complaints cured by it. If the columns of a newspaper was a proper medium, I could tell of cases of this most distressing of all diseases that would make your heart bleed, that were permanently cured by it.

It has been lately found to be a sure cure for Panama fever. In one case the first spoonful put off the fit two hours. One bottle cured him. Another came home to die, and was induced by his brother to try it. Three bottles cured him.

It likewise gives great relief in the Asthma. A lady in Lawrence was unable to lie in bed for a number of years; she can now lie without the least inconvenience.

A lady in Weymouth lost the use of her left side by the Erysipelas. On the second bottle, she broke out in one mass of humor from head to foot. In a few days she was well.

It has lately been found to be equally good for humor outside as inside, (taking it inwardly in the meantime,) for Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Pimples on the Face, or any eruption of the skin whatever; only where the flesh is very sore you must dilute it with water.

Where made weak enough it is the best eye-wash for weak and watery eyes that I ever saw.

Others use it to clease the dandruff out of the hair and strengthen its roots, which it certainly does, and to crown all, it makes the hair grow on bald heads, which, if I had not seen with my own eyes, I would not believe from you or anybody else.

As regards dieting, I never came across the first person that ever got any benefit from it. On the contrary, numbers have come to death's door by it, as it gives the humors the upper hand. My medicine requires the most nourishing food you can get. It will soon give you an appetite.

Do not for a moment suppose that I warrant a cure of all those diseases, in every case. I merely tell you what it has done, hoping it will do the same for you. I do not warrant a cure in any disease but humors, where it never fails. For further particulars see the circular around each bottle.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it.

I have an herb, simmered in olive oil, scatters Scrofulous swellings of the neck and under the ears. Price fifty cents per box.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE. Adults, one table spoonful per day; child ten of eight years, dessert spoonful; from five to eight, tea spoonfuls. As no direction can be applicable to all constitutions, take enough to operate on the bowels twice a day.

A LADY'S HAT.

BY ELLEN EYRIE.

O, it cost a hundred dollars,
And was just the sweetest thing;
Perched above a queen of collars,
Tied with vast expanse of string.

And the fringe weighed twenty ounces
Round her mantle short and cool;
And her silk brocade, with flounces,
Filled the pew superbly full.

Dainty gloves, and kerchief broidered,
In her psalm book kept the stops;
All the things she wore were ordered
From the first Parisian shops.

But that hundred dollar bonnet—
That's the gem I wished to paint;
Such a shower of things were on it,
Quite enough to crase a saint.

O, I could not hear a word of
What the pious pastor said,
For the shapes and shines unheard of
That were floating round her head.

Bands and plumes, and flowers and laces,
Fancies more than you could, Bruises, etc;
And they say Miss Dorsey's cases
Boast a dozen just the same.

How I wonder who will wear them—
It the pastor seeks to teach
By his texts, he well may spare them—
'Tis the milliners that preach.

All our eyes such sights are drinking,
Countin o'er their cost anew;
And we break the Sabbath, thinking,
What if we could wear them too?

Well, you have read it, and what do you discover? Not that it's a puff, we warrant; and yet it's nothing else. Literature is becoming more and more mercantile. We expect to see the day when the pulpit will be converted into an "engine of trade," and sermons written to give buoyancy to "the putty question."

Greatest Discovery of the Age.

PLANTERS, Farmers, Families and others can purchase no Remedy equal to DR. TOBIAS' VENITIAN LINIMENT, for Dysentery, Colic, Croup, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Toothache, Sea Sickness, Cuts, Burns, Swellings, Bruises, Old Sores, Headache, Musquito Bites, Pains in the Limbs, Chest, Back, etc.

If it does not give relief, the money will be refunded; all that is asked is a fair trial, and use it according to the directions.

It is an English Remedy, and was used by William IV. late King of England, and certified to by him, as a cure for Rheumatism, when everything else had failed.

Over 10,000,000 bottles have been sold in the United States, without a single failure, and many have stated that they would not be without it if it was $10 per bottle, in case of Croup, as it is as certain as it is applied.

It cures Cholera, when first taken, in a few hours; Dysentery in half an hour; Toothache in five minutes. It is perfectly innocent to take internally, and is recommended by the most eminent physicians in the United States. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Dr. Tobias could fill a dozen Newspapers with certificates and letters relating to the wonderful cures accomplished by his Liniment, but considers warranting it sufficient, as any person who does not obtain relief, need not pay for it.

Price 50 cents. Dr. Tobias's Office, 240 Green

Dr. Tobias has put up a HORSE LINIMENT in pint bottles, which is warranted cheaper and better than any other for Cholic, Scratches, Old Sores, Galls, Swellings, Cuts, Bruises, etc. wich street, New York.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 76 state Street, oppo. Kilby street,

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most faithful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

DR. CONINE'S

SYRUP OF GINSENG & MALVA.

The Great Chinese Remedy.

THIS Medicine depends more upon its own virtues and actual merit than any other ever before offered to the public.

The recipe is from Dr. CONINE, a gentleman who travelled many years in China, and in the islands of that vicinity where this compound is the potent and effectual remedy for the numerous diseases arising from a disordered or debilitated stomach, and

Affections of the Lungs.

But what will particularly attract attention is its astonishing

ABSOLVENT POWER,

By which it at once removes ALL PHLEGM or extraneous matter from the Throat, Stomach or Lungs. It is therefore

Anti-Expectorant,

And from attendance of trial here, it is now offered as NATURE'S KINDEST REMEDY for the removal of Consumption, Whooping Cough, and all Coughs, by precipitating the Phlegm, instead of creating irritation by expectoration.

It is AROMATIC, and increases the general warmth, possessing the exhilarating qualities of the Tea Plant, which is one great cause of its universal popularity in all India beyond the Ganges, where as an

APPETIZER

It probably has no equal in the Vegetable Kingdom

AS A DYSPEPTIC REMEDY, IT IS UNEQUALLED.

Its natural, genial warmth keeps the digestive powers ever in proper tone, soothing all irritation of the nerves, &c.

It will prove a more pleasant, safe and effectual tonic than any Sarsaparilla or other boasted tonic remedy, and even nutritious, as well as exceedingly palatable. It will continue to be prepared in the best manner—no expense being spared—and in quart bottles.

Besides the numberless testimonials which we are receiving daily, of the good effect of the above medicine, we are allowed to refer to several physicians, who are now using the Syrup of Ginseng and Malva with great success.

"A Splendid Remedy."

THE GREAT REMEDY is at last discovered Consumption can be cured!! and Coughs and Colds, the parents of that fell disease that so often brings woe to the home of our land, vanish, as if by magic, before this SOVEREIGN REMEDY. This is that which has so long been sought for, and is in full faith offered to the public as a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma and Consumption, and will in any case where lungs sufficient are left to sustain life, check the ulceration and raise the patient to health. This is not an idle boast, nor is this remedy sent into the market without a thorough trial, but has proved beyond a doubt that what has been asserted CAN BE DONE!

EUROPEAN RACES.

Dr. Solger is delivering in New York a valuable course of lectures on Europe. He divides the people of Europe into three races: The Romanic, Germanic, and Sclavic. Under the first, he includes the people of Italy, France, Spain, and Portugal; under the second, those of Germany, England, Norway, Sweden, and Denmark; and under the third, Russia, Turkey, part of Austria, and a small part of Russia.

Dr. S. considers that the wars and commotions in Europe since the Christian era, are due to the action and reaction between these races, or rather, perhaps, to the action and reaction of the ideas they represent and embody. The great feature of the Romanic is absolutism, both in Church and State. The people are the servants of the government. Their religion they take unquestioned from the Church, and the direction of their temporal affairs submissively from the State. But Protestantism is the feature of the Germanic race, the assertion of the rights of the individual to worship God as his conscience dictates, and to determine the form of the government under which he lives. Individuality, self-responsibility, the inherent dignity and rights of the individual are the inspiring ideas of the Germanic race. For 1700 years, these two races were contending on the Continent, till 1648, when the Romanic triumphed, but only by the cutting to pieces of Germany, and the destruction of two thirds of her people. In England the Germanic principle has been victorious; for which England is indebted to the moral energy of the Dissenters.

Dr. Solger's definition of Romanism is striking. He characterized it as the system which, whether religious or political, guarantees that no individual of the mass shall act different from the mass. Protestantism brings out the individual in his individuality. The Germanic man works for his own living in his own way, and insists on doing his own thinking, and obeying his own conscience.—Independence, in livelihood, in thought, in religion, is his foundation principle. He thinks it better to do wrong his own way than right according to another man's dictation. Protestantism, republicanism, and competition, belong to the Germanic race. Absolutism, Catholicism, Socialism, to the Romanic. Dr. S. believes in the inherent superiority of the Germanic race. According to his classification we cannot look to France for essential aid to the cause of liberty. She belongs to the Romanic. She has revolutions, to be sure, but she cannot have liberty while her people lack the essential idea of individual responsibility. To Germany we must look for the resurrection of liberty on the continent.
